ABOUT NON-ADVERTISERS

We noticed a squib from one of the best sources the other day that 84 per cent of the business failures last year were concerns that did not advertise. What better proof would anybody want to be convinced that it pays to advertise—Longview (Texas) Times.

No better proof necessary, but let's not call it a "squib" from which you obtained the above information. A squib seems like a trifling sputtery little thing, whereas the statistical report concerning the heavy mortality in non-advertised business is a large and important factor to be remembered. A business that isn't worth advertising may be expected to fail eventually, because even the proprietor of such a business can't take much interest in it, let alone outsiders. A business that can't stand the expense of reasonable advertising is already in a failing condition.

Too many of our modern young people go after success and expect to grab it over night. When they fail they become one of those impossible people who insist that the world has taken a particular grudge against them. Once in awhile we do find some one who has found success in an incredibly short time. But many times the fruits of that success would not be enjoyable to an honest man. As a rule true success comes only after a hard fought battle. Sometimes to the onlooker it may seem to come suddenly, but only the one most concerned knows of the weary months and years of steady preparation. That which comes without preparation is, as a rule, false success, and short lived.

Pleasure is a good thing and may not with safety be slighted. But when given first place it is debasing and elusive. Business is good and demands the best powers of most of us. But whatever be the reward, we cannot afford to be its slaves. Fortunately, indeed, is the man who can master his desires and strike a happy medium between business and pleasure.

Every week the mail bring to the Patagonian office scores of letters containing matter whose free publication is asked for. Each of these letters, if published, would make from a third of a column to two columns. As a rule these letters are more interesting to the writers than any one else, and all of them are seeking something for nothing.

Abraham Lincoln once said: "I do the best I know. The very best I can; and I mean to keep right on doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

Personally we have not done much toward helping Mr. Harding select a Cabinet, but it is all his fault.

Often we have been promised our money back in various get-rich quick schemes, but we have never got it back without working for it.

The reason we like to see women dressed to suit themselves is because they never have dresses to suit everybody.

The ex-Kaiser is now described as "a poor, shrunken, bedraggled figure." Lots of master minds come down to that.

Mrs. Harding's new clothes are reported to be plain but elegant. And, come to think about it, we didn't expect her to spangle herself like a shown girl.

President Wilson has called a special session of the Senate to begin March 4, but he will not have to mess with it.

Don't be a knocker. Hide your little hammer and try to speak well of others no matter how small you may know yourself to be.

Probably it isn't important, but we do hate to see a girl chew her gum so hard it jars her hair down.

Another thing that is worrying the pessimists is that the public health in Arizona never was as good as it is now.

That Canadian lady who expresses the conviction that the United States will have a woman

President before long probably imagines the fair sex has not got us entirely buffaloed.

With Lloyd George saying he pay, Briand saying she must pay, and Germany saying she won't pay, where do they go from there?

One reason why we don't accept the law of gravitation is because when the bottom drops out we hit the ceiling.

Our idea of a feeble joke is to report a fictitious robbery when there are plenty of real ones a block or two away.

The Texas sheep men who are demanding a high tariff on wool ought to remember how rich they didn't get under the Dingley law.

A missionary in New York says that only a funny man can save that city. Fortunately, they have a lot of funny-looking people there already.

Senator Johnson of California now seems as alarmed over the Japanese question as he used to be over the standpatters.

IT SURE DOES PAY

Advertising seems to be an art yet to be discovered by some people—at least the practical part of it. A constant stream of water from one or more fire engines will soon extinguish or get under control, a very large fire, while a few buckets of water, dashed on here and there, have little or no effect. The modern fire department is practical and has outgrown the bucket system. So it is with modern advertising—plenty of it, used in a practical, common sense manner, pays.

FOR BETTER ROADS

The question of better roads for this county is one that should gain the attention of every citizen. The best method of road construction is not an easy matter to decide. Automobile traffic is growing annually. The time to drag roads is after each rain, but no matter whether the dragsman gets busy immediately after a rain or waits until the roads get dry, his task of creating a smooth surface is difficult. The automobile driver is becoming less and less in fear of mud and often while it is still raining a road is cut up far beyond any repair that a drag could make in it. A hard surface is the only successful solution to the road problem. And while people are considering good roads, there should be some consideration of the roads at railroad grade crossings. In as many cases as possible, such crossings should be avoided for the number of deaths and severe accidents caused by treacherous crossing is appalling. Where they cannot be avoided, they should be made safe for the automobile driver who uses ordinary care.

HORSE IS HURT

A young man was leading a horse through town Tuesday and at a point between the depot and the drug store the horse refused to go any further and he was choked down several times and in rearing and plunging the horse hurt himself in such a manner that he could not stand when lifted to his feet. It was thought his back was broken, and he was hauled away in a wagon.

KEEP THE PAYROLLS GOING

We urge upon all employers, the importance of keeping their employes on the pay roll. If you can't give them steady work, give them as much as you can. It is better to score a loss than to allow disorganization of forces, the bread line, and the suffering that goes with it. Farmers and manufacturers are responding patriotically to the law of supply and demand and labor must do the same thing in due course of time.

We are drifting toward a new level, which, no doubt, will be a little higher than the old normal, but there is no occasion for alarm. Our country is the richest on earth and there are no really bad financial situations to combat, beyond the tax situation, which must be remedied in both states and nation.

Bear Brand hostery "or boys and girls. Washing"on Trading Co.—Adv.

Henry Hunter and Wm. R. Campbell from near Sonoita, were here Monday offering for sale a beef which they had butchered on Mr. Campbell's ranch. To sell or attempt to sell beef without a license in a town where there is a licensed butcher is a violation of the laws of Arizona, and it became the duty of Lou Stevens, local cattle inspector, to file a complaint against these gentlemen. The went immediately before Judge Hayden Pendergrass and entered a plea of guilty and each was fined $20.00, which they paid. It appears that these young men had no intention of violating the law, being unaware of the fact that such a law was in existence. To prohibit a rancher or farmer from peddling out a beef which he has raised on his ranch or farm seems a little unjust, and while our sympathies are with him, yet the laws, just or unjust, must be enforced so long as they remain on our statute books. Our only reason for making mention of this little incident at all is to put others who are in ignorance of the law, on their guard.

Interned German
Sailors Cross
Border at Nogales

After having been aboard interned German ships at Santa Rosalia, Guaymas and Mazatlan, since the inauguration of the late war, 43 German sailors were manifested through the port of Nogales today, enroute to Ellis Island, New York, from where they will be deported to Germany.

The party arrived at the border last night in two Pullman cars, were breakfasted here this morning and left on the afternoon train for the north. Captain George Oetker and W. R. Zahler of the Swiss Legation and Captain C. E. Beatty of the Nogales immigration station are in charge of the party.

Cameron Returns
From Visit
To City of Mexico

PHOENIX, Feb. 11—United States Senator-elect Ralph H. Cameron of Arizona arrived here today on his return from Mexico City. He said he went to the Mexican capital to obtain information to present to congress when the question of the recognition of the Mexican government arises. He added that he obtained a mass of such information.

He was advised, he said, it would be highly desirable for Americans to be more strongly represented in industries in Mexico in view of the strong position of nationals of several European countries in various Mexican industries.

Traveling westward from San Antonio, Texas, Senator-elect Cameron said he rode several hundred miles with Major General Dickman, commanding the 8th corps area; that he impressed on General Dickman the need for a permanent army post at Douglas, Ariz., to replace Camp Harry J. Jones, and that the commander said he both recognized the need and would recommend the establishment of such a permanent post.

Funds For Paving
North of Nogales in Sight

PHOENIX, Feb. 16—Senate committee as a whole at 3:45 yesterday afternoon recommended the Omnibus Road Bill to pass with the following amendments: $75,000 appropriation for Douglas-Rodeo highway to be stricken from the bill and substitute an appropriation of $75,000 for the Apache trail, contingent on the appropriation $250,000 for same road from other sources. Bill as passed also carries $50,000 for paving north of Nogales.

Home Building
Measure
Up in Senate

PHOENIX, Feb. 16—Senator Eddy introduced Senate bill 112 providing for the encouragement of home building through exemption of taxation on homes for five years built within the next two years. The House passed the Bush bill transferring a $30,000 appropriation made for the Parker bridge over the Colorado river to the improvement of the Wickburg-Parker road. California failed to match the appropriation for the construction of the bridge and the fund lays idle. Also the House passed a bill permitting the organization of county mutual fire insurance companies. The House also passed a bill providing for bond elections in towns of less than 2000 population. These bills now go to the Senate.

WHO'S LOONEY NOW?

PHOENIX, Feb. 16—Senator Claypool introduced Senate bill 111 providing for a divorce where the spouse is hopelessly insane.

TO THE PUBLIC

We take this method of notifying the public that beginning March the first we will discontinue the credit business. We believe this method will prove mutually beneficial to both buyer and seller. In fact it has long been demonstrated that the man who pays cash as he goes comes out at the end of the year in better financial condition than the one who runs a large check account. This change from credit to a cash business may inconvenience a few of our customers for a short time, but the new conditions will speedily adjust themselves and you will be glad that we adapted the cash system.

However, all of our customers who have usually been prompt in meeting their obligations will be given thirty days time on all purchases, provided their accounts are settled promptly not later than the 10th of each month. PATAGONIA COMMER The Commercial Co.

Geo. W. Sanders purchased a perfectly good pumpkin this week for which he paid fifty cents. He carried it home and made eight splendid pies out of it. The Patagonian editor was permitted to sample one of the pies and we would say it was fine. The pumpkin was grown last year near Patagonia and kept perfectly sound and sweet all winter. They are a splendid substitute for sweet potatoes and many kinds of fruit, and any person with a small plot of ground can raise enough of them to last an ordinary family a whole year. If you try it you will thank the Patagonian for calling your attention to it.

Vernon, Tex.—"For three years I suffered untold agony each month with pains in my sides. I found only temporary relief in doctor's medicine or anything else I took until my husband saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I mentioned it to a neighbor and she told me she had taken it with good results and advised me to try it. CHOICE RECIPES.

Chickens Considered very choice in some families are not at all appreciated in others, so in every list of recipes there may be some not liked, but one is indeed hard to suit if none can be found.

Chicken Warmer.—Take one chicken cooked until tender with two sweetbreads or a piece of veal to help out in the bulk. Cut the chicken as for salad and place in a double boiler to keep hot; see that it is well seasoned while cooking, then it will need no further seasoning. Cook three bunches of celery cut in dice with one onion in some of the chicken stock. Make noodles and cook them in the stock left from cooking the celery; drain both noodles and celery. Serve the noodles on a hot plate, over them the celery, then on top the chicken and cover with small croutons of bread as a garnish. Serve very hot.

Chicken With Oysters.—Prepare and disjoint a nice fat chicken, put it into a saucepan, cover with water, season highly with salt and pepper and stew until it begins to get tender. Line the sides of a deep baking dish with a crust. Remove the bones from the largest pieces and place the meat in pieces of butter; repeat with another layer of chicken. Pour in half the broth from the chicken and some oyster liquor. Cover with a top crust and bake.

Chicken Baked in Milk.—Cut up a year-old hen in pieces as for frying, season well, and brown in a little hot butter or fat; roll in flour and lay in a baking dish; cover with milk and bake in a moderate oven until the chicken is tender and the milk cooked down thick enough for a gravy to serve poured over the chicken.

French Onions.—Prepare and cook green onions in the desired quantity. Toast rounds of bread, butter liberally, cover with onions which have been salted and sprinkled with paprika. Grate over them some smappy cheese, set in the oven to melt the cheese and just before sending to the table pour a tablespoonful of hot cream over each.

Seasonable Good Things. A cake which will keep and is always good for any occasion is the pound cake. Those who have been forehanded and packed eggs for use during the season of scarcity will not find this cake too extravagant.

Pound Cake.—To make cream one and one-half cupsful of butter, two cupsful of sugar, until well mixed and creamy. If the butter is allowed to stand in the warm kitchen until soft, but not melted, it creams very quickly.

Persian Cake.—Cut a large, round sponge cake into five round slices, like layer cakes. Spread the first slice with strawberry, the second with plum and the third with raspberry jam—or any jam will serve. Lay four of the slices together in the original form and press lightly together. Now cut the center from the cake, leaving two or three inches in the border. Put the center of the cake in a bowl and add fruit sirup from the jams or preserve jars, to thoroughly soak the cake. Replace in the cavity and place the last slice over all. Cover the cake with any good cake icing, tinted pink or yellow, and decorate with blanched almonds, candied rose leaves, citron and angelica.

Crullers.—This is a dainty cake, nice to serve with tea: Take three eggs well beaten, add one-third of a cupful of powdered sugar and three teaspoonfuls of melted fat. Sift one cupful of pastry flour with one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon. Add to the first mixture; roll out, adding more flour. Cut in sifted oblongs and fry in deep fat. Roll in powdered sugar when cold.

Chicken Custard.—Scald together one cupful of strong chicken stock and one cupful of cream. Pour it over the well-beaten yolks of three eggs and cook in a double boiler until thick. Salt to taste and serve in custard cups. This is especially good for an invalid's dish.

"You're Not in Politics for Your Health."

It's a good car. I imagine it will please Mrs. P. immensely and grant you some measure of peace. Of course, I will not give it to you. I'll sell it to you—five hundred down upon the signing of the agreement, and in lieu of the cash, I will take over that jitney Mrs. P. Poundstone finds so distasteful. Then I will employ your son, Henry, as the attorney for the Laguna Grande Lumber company and give him a retainer of twenty-five hundred dollars for one year. I will leave it to you to get this twenty-five hundred dollars from Henry and pay my nice cash for the car. Doesn't that strike you as a perfectly safe and sane proposition?"

VISIONS NOT ALL REALIZED

But Even So, There is Something Fine in the Dreaming of Beautiful Dreams.

There seem to be a great many disappointed people in the world today; the explanation apparently is that many of us do not find our dreams and hopes realized in quite the way and at the time we expected. How many times have there been conjured up before us a kind of magic day in which all fine and splendid things would be easily possible, and life would, of necessity, lose very much that was sorrowful and unideal? We had beautiful visions that seemed so easy of realization. But in the cold light of the day into which we have now come there are many hard and unyielding unideal facts, and what we fondly pictured fails to shape itself in actual life. Of course, we are disillusioned and disappointed. But ought we to be? Was there, after all, anything the matter with the vision that we cherished? Is it possible that the trouble with us is that we have not the faith and the wisdom to see the vision being realized, though in ways and fashions of which we had not dreamed? Columbus did not discover what he looked for, but were his faith and dreaming not justified nevertheless? And would he ever have discovered anything but—or the faith and the dreaming?—Montreal Herald.

Timid Old Soul.

My aunt was a timid old soul and was quite afraid of holdups. For safe-keeping she always put her money in her stocking. One day when she was going to do some Christmas shopping she thought she would play a joke on the holdups. She put the money in her pocket and carried her purse. In the purse she put newspaper crumpled up. She kept her hand in the pocket that had the purse and walked along merrily. But to her surprise when she had purchased her needs she reached for the money, but it was missing. Then, forgetting, she reached for her pocketbook and pulled out the paper. She had to give back all the articles and walk home empty-handed.—Chicago Tribune.

His Girl.

During a visit to a girl friend of mine in another city I was kind to a little witted fellow there, and he immediately conceived a great liking for me. Several months later while visiting there again I attended a dance, when this fellow came up to me during a dance and in a loud voice, easily heard all over the place, said, "O, I know who you are; you're my girl," and proceeded to follow me around the rest of the evening.—Exchange.

cost of safety appliances. He was warned that the logging cable was weak at that old splice and liable to pull out of the bucket—and sure enough it did. The free end of the cable snapped back like a whip, and— "I hold to the opinion," Mrs. Poundstone interrupted, "that if one wishes for a thing hard enough and just keeps on wishing, one is bound to get it."

Lace Tree. This lace-bark tree provides the women of Jamaica with ready-made lace, from which caps, bonnets, and nets are made. The inner bark of the tree is soaked in water and divided into separate layers. Each layer is stretched and spread in the sunshine. The application of water bleaches the lace. A tree that flourishes in the South Sea Islands produces fruit which, as a food, resembles very closely a newly baked loaf. On account of this it is known as the bread tree.

SCIENCE SEEKS FOR VITAMINES

Elusive Substance Gives Zest and Real Value to the Food We Eat.

FLEES THE TABLE D'HOTES

Scientists Concentrate on Separating It From Vians, but Without Success—Differ as to What a Vitamine Really Is.

New York.—Food values are of especial interest these days of high prices.

One dines at, say, a restaurant in New York city's "Latin Quarter," famed for its atmosphere but uncertain as to cooking. The food is mentioned casually on the menu in several languages—but the chicken is tasteless, the potatoes boring and the salad disappointing. However, one is hungry and eats largely. An hour later, the pangs of hunger again make themselves felt. One finally resorts to the home icebox and partakes of some humble bread and butter and milk, and that indefinable lack is satisfied.

The reason for this state of affairs is not far to seek. Vitamines! At such places the food is deficient in these intangible and microscopic substances, which scientists have proved are essential to nutrition and which are to be found in a large number of properly prepared foods but are destroyed by excessive heat, drying or other methods of preservation often employed for economy or convenience. The mystery of the vitamines is, therefore, of vital interest, as its name implies, to the world at large.

What is a vitamine? This question is still perplexing chemists, according to a recent article by D. Atherton Sedell of the public health service. In the current number of the Journal of Industrial and Engineering

Chemistry. These elusive substances have been found necessary not only as dietary factors but even for the prolongation of life. Their exact nature, however, still remains a mystery, though much has been discovered concerning their effect on the human system and the general benefits conferred by them. For instance, experiments have proved that animals can live indefinitely on a diet of milk alone. But supply all the constituents of milk separately—proteins, carbohydrates, fats and salts, in fact, all the known food elements—and the animal wastes away and finally dies.

Several theories are held in regard to this problem. Some scientists incline to classify vitamines as structural compounds of living tissues, which function along the same lines as the other tissues. Others relegate them to the "catalysts," those strange substances which have been aptly defined as "chemical poisons," as they accomplish the chemical union of various substances without being themselves affected. Many think that they are derived originally from plants, and one well-known scientist states that they are always present in natural foodstuffs instinctively consumed by men and animals.

At the present time, three types of vitamines are known to exist: The water-soluble variety, found in milk, yeast, and other substances; the fat-soluble ones, which are present in butter and egg yolks; and a third class, designated as "antiscorbutic," which is found in a number of fresh vegetables and fruits and also in the outside husk of rice. Lack of these necessary food constituents results in various ills—scurvy, beri-beri, and other diseases.

In fact, the importance of the antiscorbutic factor was discovered purely accidentally, as a result of an epidemic of beri-beri among the rice-eating Eastern nations after modern milling methods obtained in these countries and the surface layer of the rice was removed. When an extract of this husk was eventually supplied, the disease was prevented.

Lack of both the other types of vitamines result in a gradual wasting away. This, in the case of the fat-soluble vitamines, is accompanied by blindness and often by lung trouble, but the wasting process is more gradual, as the system subsists for a while on its reserve store of fat.

MUST PAY HIGH FOR PASSPORTS

European Countries Tax Americans Equivalent of $10, the Rate Here.

President Mitchell of the Red Star Line Suggests Action by the United States Chamber of Commerce—Peasants Go Back to Land.

New York.—According to Percy V. G. Mitchell, president of the Red Star Line and general manager of the International Mercantile Marine company in Belgium, the charge of $10 for an American visa on passports is not only a tax upon immigrants who have to pay the high rate of exchange, but also upon American business men abroad.

"Since the charge for a visa has been raised from $2 to $10," said Mr. Mitchell, "the countries in Europe have retaliated by making Americans pay the same amount. They have arranged to base their charges for a visa on a sliding scale. For example, I have to pay 175 francs for my visa at the Belgian consulate because I am an American, while an Englishman has only to pay 10 francs, which is a big difference when a man is accompanied by members of his family.

"Since the war Europe has been split up into a number of small countries, and each of them is charging Americans the equivalent of $10 in United States currency. A business man has to pass from one country to another to get anywhere, and in each case he has to pay heavily because the State de-

NATION IN DANGER

Farm Abandonment Has Created Most Serious Situation.

Food Supply Threatened Through the Drift of the Population to the Cities—Now is Great Opportunity to Take Up Land.

The question, "How is the country to be fed if the population continues to drift to the cities?" is one that should create an agitation that will bring about a reply that will mean a solution. The census, recently completed, reveals a situation truly alarming, one that has never been known in the United States before. The urban population is now greater than that of the rural districts by about 4,000,000. Cities and towns, each with more than 2,500 inhabitants, contain 54,318,032 persons, or 51.4 per cent of the total population, while the farms and smaller towns together claim only 51,390,789 persons, or 48.6 per cent of the total.

As is pointed out by an influential Chicago daily, "the drift to the cities is thus proved and, reduced to figures, showing a top-heavy condition of the industrial life."

Farming is and must remain the basic industry of the world, and certainly should remain the basic industry of a nation with a continental area like ours. It is small profit to gain the markets of the world with manufactured goods if agriculture has decayed so badly as to furnish an uncertain subsistence for our people, and fluctuating crops are reflected in price changes that upset the economic life of the country. Yet we are within measurable distance of that condition, if the present or recent drift toward the cities continues.

Most writers on this topic take it for granted that young folks go from farms to cities merely to make more money. Doubtless that is something of a motive at all times and was a very strong one in the period immediately after the war, when city industries paid wages totally impossible for farmers to rival.

It is hoped that this drifting has reached its apex. Unless it has, and there still remains a possibility of its continuance, the effect cannot be foretold. The great wave of manufactures for war purposes has ceased, and with it the number of those employed in factories is diminishing by thousands daily. It is therefore hoped that there will again be heard the slogan, "Forward to the Land." If prices to which farm land has reached are prices prohibitive to many, the opportunity is still open elsewhere. There are states possessing large areas of good land that may still be had at prices within the reach of many, and it is doubtless true that in self-preservation it will be necessary to bring these lands under cultivation. The prices are not high, considering their value. Then, too, there are the lands of Western Canada, that hold out an inviting prospect. Reports from there show that the prosperity of the farmers there is not mythical. Farming there is conducted on scientific principles, and the climate is such as appeals. The production amply repays all the expenditure that may be made. The social conditions are of a character that make farm life a pleasure, and tends to keep the young man and young woman from pining for urban life with so many drawbacks. If conditions as above mentioned, showing such a large percentage of population in the cities and towns, continue, they will require food. The opportunity to supply it is by the farm, become independent, and become a factor in supplying the world's needs in cattle, sheep, grain and such other commodities as the farm will produce and the resident of the city requires.—Advertisement.

Nature gives her warnings in various unmistakable ways, so that when the appetite fails, and you become weak and listless, and a general run-down condition seems to take possession of the whole body, it is an unfailing sign that impurities will steadily accumulate until your general health will be seriously affected. You should recognize the importance, therefore, of very promptly cleansing out the system, and keeping the blood supply pure and robust.

MONEY IN BREEDING MUSSELS

United States Fisheries Bureau Reports That a Profit May Confidently Be Looked For. The business of breeding pearly mussels artificially has been carried so far by the United States fisheries bureau that a money profit is confidently promised. To produce in this way 1,000 baby mussels costs about 20 cents. When they are full grown 13,000 of them will weigh a ton. Thus the cost of producing a ton of pearly mussels of market size (if all survived) would be, as exactly reckoned, $2.08. Assuming a loss of 50 per cent, the cost would be $5.30.

Pearly mussels occasionally yield valuable pearls, but commercially it is the shells, utilizable for mother-of-pearl, that are importantly to be considered. The fisheries bureau has devoted its attention wholly to the propagation of superior varieties of mussels, the shells of which have at present time a market value of $35 a ton.

Adopt Plan For Pooling of 5,000 Bales of Cotton

PHOENIX, Feb. 16—Moved: That plan presented by George Freestone for pooling the cotton consigned from Salt River valley to People's National bank through Calder and Richmond in the hands of a committee of four, to be selected by the chair, of such a person as will be acceptable to both the People's National bank and Calder and Richmond, said cotton to be sold by this committee under individual authorization and the returns from such sales to be pro-rated among the consignors on the basis of grade; receipts from sales of such cotton to remain deposited in People's National bank, at Boston, and settlement made through them with individual consignors as cotton is sold on basis determined by committee; the committee so appointed to serve without compensation and receive endorsement of this body of consignors of cotton above described.

This motion, unanimously adopted at a meeting of more than 500 cotton growers at the high school building last night, resulted in the formation of an organization to pool 5000 bales of cotton consigned to the People's National bank of Boston through Calder and Richmond, agents.

Mr. Freestone concisely outlined to the cotton growers present the necessity for organizing to market cotton in response to the demand. His recommendations for a method whereby the cotton grower could to some extent regulate the supply and demand of the long staple product was condensed into the adopted resolution.

Those appointed on the committee to have complete charge of the movement of all cotton consigned to the pool were: C. G. Jones of Tempe, chairman; George L. Freestone, K. B. Myers, to represent the People's bank of Boston, and Dr. Buggy of Tolleson.

There are 750 cotton growers of the Salt River valley who have consigned the 5,000 bales to the People's bank of Boston. It was tentatively agreed at the meeting last night that from the proceeds of the cotton obligations to the bank should be met first and that the grower would receive pro-rated prices after the entire consignment had been sold, the grower to be paid upon a basis of segregated grades.

Milton P. Smith presided over the meeting.
