BILL RESTRICTS IMMIGRATION

MEASURE TO CURB INFUX OF FOREIGNERS PASSED BY HOUSE.

LIMIT ENTRY OF ALIENS

AMENDMENTS TO ADMIT POLITICAL REFUGEES IS VOTED DOWN.

Washington, April 23.—After rejecting an amendment seeking to admit to the United States foreign political refugees, the House passed the immigration bill substantially the same as it went through the last session, only to be given a pocket veto.

The measure is designed to be operative for fourteen months and would limit the entry of aliens to 3 per cent of nationals of any country in the United States at the time of the 1919 census.

One would permit admission in excess of the 3 per cent limit of all aliens clearly proving they had been subjected to religious persecution in their native land and were seeking refuge here solely to avert such hardships.

The second would admit children of American citizens under 18 years of age, independent of the percentage of limitation, and the third would give preference to the families and relatives of American citizens and former service men honorably discharged from the army or navy.

Under the amendment offered, he said, "not only could William, the damned, come here, but Charles, late emperor of Austria, and all the kings and princes who have been spurned by the people of Europe would come."

"That is what this amendment would do. Of course, we all care for America first, but the only way we can prove it is not by words, but by votes."

PROMINENT NEW YORK MAN PRAISES TANLAC

John F. Hyatt, of Albany, N. Y., Is Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism of Many Years' Standing.

JOHN F. HYATT 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y.

"I am now seventy-two years old and am just getting rid of a fifteen-year case of rheumatism that had me so crippled up I could not walk," said John F. Hyatt, 227 Pearl St., Albany, N. Y., in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac.

"I don't believe," he continued, "anybody could have rheumatism any worse than I did, and my case was of such long standing I didn't expect to ever get over it. I was unable to walk except for a short distance, supported with a cane, and even then the pains struck me every time I took a step.

"My appetite was gone and the sight of food nauseated me. My stomach was out of order, and I had a sluggish, heavy feeling all the time. I was weak, off in weight and discouraged so that it looked like I might as well quit trying to ever get well."

"I had no idea Tanlac would relieve my rheumatism when I began taking it last Spring. I took it because I saw where it would give a fellow an appetite. Well, sir, I was the most surprised I ever was in my life when the rheumatic pains began to ease up. I took seven bottles in all and, it's a fact, I didn't have an ache about me, was eating fine and simply felt like I had been made over again."

"I have been in the best of health ever since, with only a slight twinge of rheumatism at intervals. I do not need my cane now, but as I had been unable to walk without it for several years, I got into the habit of carrying it and so still take it along. I am enjoying life and health once more and can conscientiously recommend Tanlac as the greatest medicine I have ever run across in all my experience."

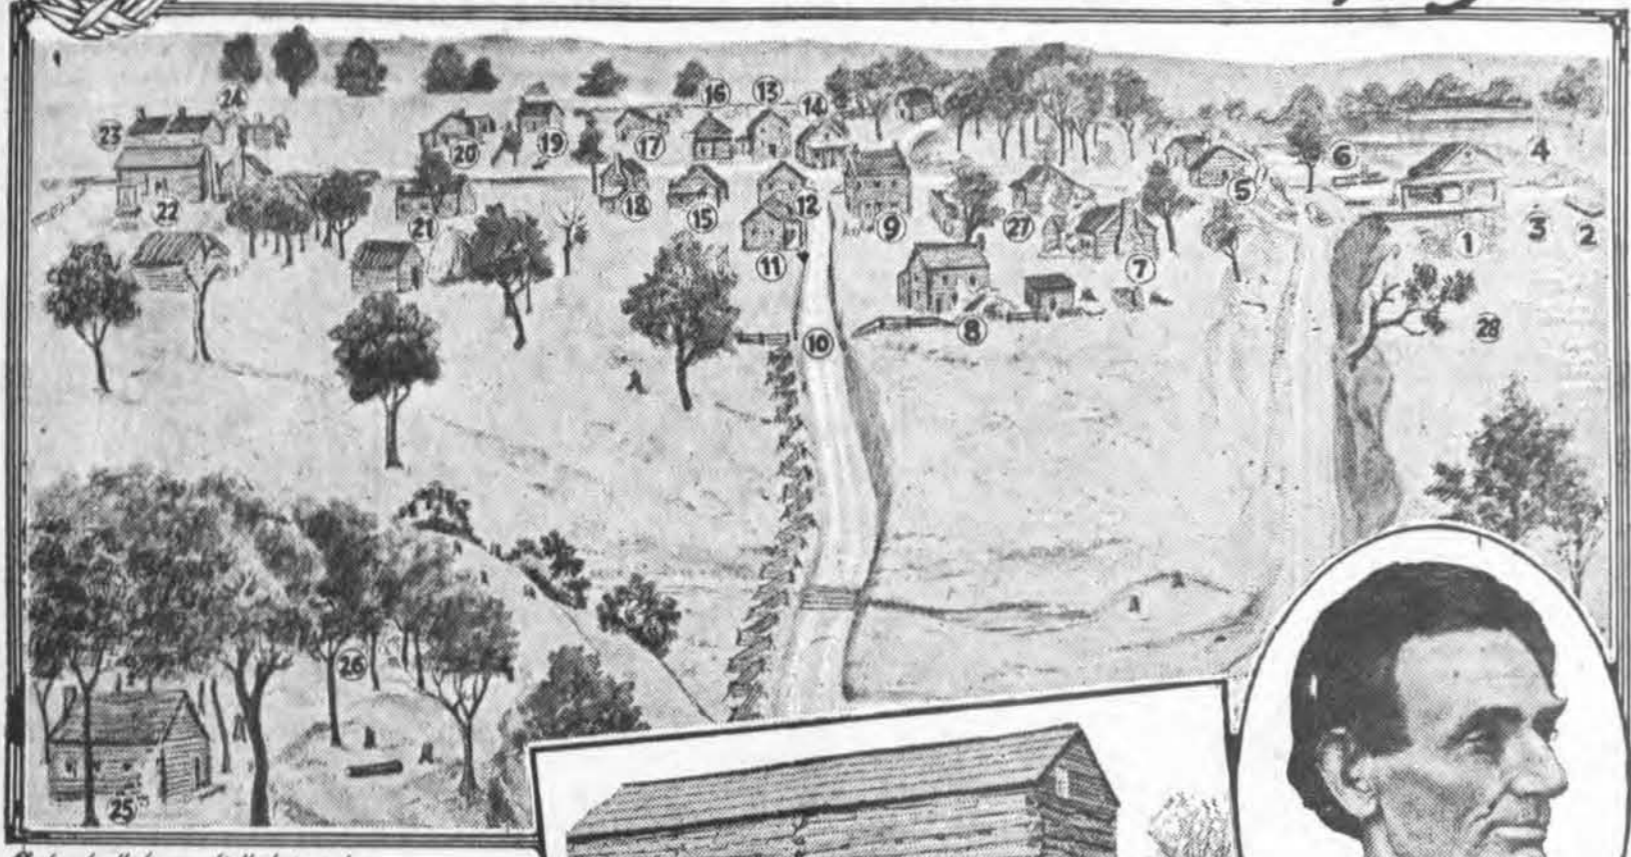

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN.

A blend of mirth and sadness, smiles and tears; A quaint knight-errant of the pioneers; A homely hero, born of star and soil; A peasant prince, a masterpiece of God.

THOSE who know their Lincoln and every good American should read and reread this Bible of Americana—the name of New Salem, Ill., calls up a chapter in his life that no man can read without smiles and tears—and wonder.

For New Salem was Abraham Lincoln's town during the six years which marked the first stage of his development from "a quaint knight-errant of the pioneers" to "a masterpiece of God."

He arrived at New Salem in 1831 "a stranger, friendless, uneducated, penniless boy, working on a flatboat for $10 a month," as he himself put it. In 1837 he left New Salem to take up his law practice in Springfield.

In those momentous six years he had transformed himself from an ignorant and uncouth youth of twenty-two to a man of acknowledged promise and ability, with more than a local popularity and an ambition that spurred him to travel far.

Those six years were crowded years. It was at New Salem that Lincoln earned his nickname of "Honest Abe"—and incidentally fastened upon himself a burden of debt which he never able fully to wipe out until his fortieth year, after his election to congress in 1849.

It was at New Salem that he was clerk and storekeeper; that he studied grammar and Blackstone; that he was a captain in the Black Hawk war, that he was deputy surveyor, that he was postmaster, that he was defeated and then elected for the legislature. And it was at New Salem that he loved and wooed and lost Ann Rutledge, over whose death he nearly lost his reason from grief.

New Salem was founded in 1828. Soon after Lincoln went to Springfield the little town began to decline. Its people left for more accessible places. By 1845 New Salem had been abandoned.

Today, under the auspices of the Old Salem Lincoln League, an organization formed in 1917, "Honest Abe's" town is being restored in facsimile. It will be in every possible detail like the New Salem which he knew. Old maps, old prints, old deeds—every record obtainable—have been consulted to make the new village an exact reproduction of the old. The only new building is the Lincoln museum. William Randolph Hearst gave the property. The cost of rebuilding is being met by popular subscription. The work will be done some time this summer, it is expected.

Old Salem State Park will be New Salem's new name. Its purpose is to preserve for posterity the environment and atmosphere that helped make Lincoln, the man.

As to the photographs here reproduced: The portrait of "Honest Abe" is one of the earliest photographs he had taken and gives the best idea of his appearance as a young man. The numbered plan is from the architect's working model.

New Salem, first called Cameron's Mill, was on the Sangamon river (then spelled Sangamo and pronounced Sangamaw), 20 miles northwest of Springfield. In those days New Salem was in Sangamon county, with Springfield as the county seat. Springfield itself was still a mere village, having a population of 1,000, or perhaps 1,100. The capital of the state was yet at Vandalia, and waiting for the parliamentary tact of Abraham Lincoln and the "long nine" to take it to Springfield.

The historian of the restoration project says that the first settlers of New Salem were John M. Cameron and his uncle, James Rutledge, who entered their claims on July 29, 1828. Here they erected their grist and saw mills, both housed in one structure built out into the Sangamon river, that fringed the town site. New Salem grew up around this mill.

Settlements existed already at Clary's Grove, at a place now called Athens, at Sugar Grove and at Indian Point, all within ten or twelve miles of New Salem. With a mill to attract these settlers, the opportunity for business at the new settlement

Blazing New Poetic Paths

Homely Themes and Use of "American Language" Are Strong Points in Vers Libre.

"Why does a horse-hoarse snicker, hauling a lawyer's bones?" asks Carl Sandburg, Chicago poet, in a verse entitled "Too Many Lawyers."

The question is important not in itself, but in its implications; and Mr.

Sandburg holds that "the quality of implication resides in anything that is authentic art." The implication we choose to take is that the ultra-modern school of poets, of which this writer is one of the exponents, has conquered new territory in the field of ideas and won new liberties of expression.

The thing the "free verse" practitioners insist upon, however, that they have achieved a new form of poetry, and in the use of what Mr. Sandburg calls the "American" language as distinguished from book English, that the new poets, if they be such, have raised real milestones.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Everyone Wants Bergdoll Home Again

WASHINGTON.—"We are going to get Bergdoll if it is possible to get him," Secretary Weeks declared in discussing the case of the Philadelphia draft evader now in Germany. "I don't believe we will recognize any status of limitation in his case if one should exist."

to discuss the possibility of his extradition by Great Britain for violation of British passport laws, but did say that he assumed that if the state of war between the United States and Germany were declared at an end extradition of the draft evader would be possible.

It was said that the state department had made no request of the British government that it assist in bringing Bergdoll to justice. Bergdoll escaped into Germany by obtaining a passport in Canada. Under the British law, falsification of a passport is a felony punishable by imprisonment, and in diplomatic circles the opinion was advanced that the British government could demand that the German government surrender Bergdoll for trial. Doubt was expressed whether he could be returned to the United States by British authorities.

Ask for Changes in Water-Power Rules

QUOTING President Harding's declaration for "more business in government and less government in business," a committee of electric power executives has asked the federal water power commission to revise certain portions of the regulations for development of power under the new water power laws which were promulgated by the old commission just before it went out of office March 4.

It was the second meeting of the new commission composed of Secretaries Weeks, Fall and Wallace. Just before the close of the last administration, the outgoing commission promulgated regulations which the power men today acknowledged to be about 70 per cent workable, but containing provisions, which they said, undeniably would prevent the development of water power projects which the bill was intended to stimulate.

By amended regulations, the power executives maintained, the government could do the work with a small personnel and at a moderate expenditure by utilizing the services of the army engineers. Present regulations, it was argued, were contrary to intent of the law.

The regulations, as drawn by the outgoing commission, the power executives told the secretaries, seek to constitute the federal commission a regulatory body with expensive machinery, involving duplicate systems of accounts and thousands of employees. Congress, they argued, it was shown by the terms of the bill and the record of its passage, intended the commission to be a supervisory body, and, they argued, congress showed its intent when it limited the appropriations for the commission's work to $100,000 a year.

Capitol Decorated by Italian Artists

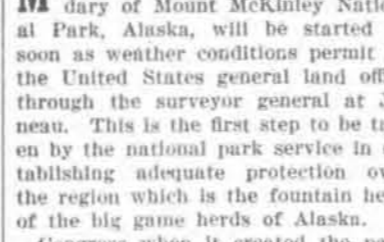

Statuary hall was begun by Carlo Franzoni and completed by Francesco Brudelli.

As the capitol neared completion in 1823, Enrico Casati and Antonio Capellano, pupils of Canova, arrived. The sculptured portraits of Columbus, Raleigh, Cabot and La Salle, and the groups representing the landing of the Pilgrims, Pocahontas rescuing Capt. John Smith, and some others are by them.

In 1820, Luigi Persico arrived in Washington. The large allegorical group in the portico of the rotunda is his, and also the statues of War and Peace on either side of the doorway. At the foot of the west staircase there is a bronze bust of a Chipewia chief by Vincent. There are also many frescoes by Constantino Brumidi, and some by Castiglioni, the two having been employed together on the large fresco on the rotunda, illustrating in pseudo-relief the periods in the history of the continent.

WIFE TAKES HUSBANDS ADVICE

And Is Made Well Again by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Springfield, Mass.—"The doctor told my husband that I had to have an operation, otherwise I would be a sickly woman and could not have any more children on account of my weakened condition. I refused to have the operation. My husband asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it would not help me. For the first four months I could do but little work, had to lie down most of the time, was nervous and could eat hardly anything, but my husband was always reminding me to take the Vegetable Compound, which I did. Of my eight children this last one was the easiest birth of all and I am thankful for your Vegetable Compound. I recommend it to my friends when I hear them complaining about their ills."—Mrs. M. NATALE, 72 Fremont St., Springfield, Mass.

Sickly, ailing women make unhappy homes, and after reading Mrs. Natale's letter one can imagine how her home was transformed by her restoration to health. Every woman who suffers from such ailments should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. It is surely worth while.

Radical conditions need radical remedies. If a law was passed making it the duty of every peace officer in the United States to search a certain number of persons every day at random it would prove a great deterrent to the carrying of concealed weapons. No law-abiding man should object to being searched; on the contrary, he would heartily welcome it, or any other necessary method of putting an end to the present crime wave.

The business revival is due to bust loose in July we are told. Let her come, we are all waiting and ready to plunge in.

In 2,000 years humanity will revert to the monkeys, from which it sprung, says A. Linckewicz, a noted professor of Vienna. Looking around at the foibles of present-day human beings and noting some of the "monkey shins" in which they indulge, one is prone to ask why the learned teacher sets the date for the reversion so far ahead.

There is at the present time considerable rivalry between Ft. Worth and Dallas, Texas, as husband killing centers. The way the business is now progressing it is difficult to tell which one of the cities is going to be winner.

Another good thing about the old fashioned family was that the children helped raise each other.

Our observation is that the more suddenly a man makes a big fortune the more his divorce costs.

Sometimes a man becomes so hard-boiled he doesn't allow his daughter to dress like a chorus girl.

Inasmuch as President Harding has reappointed the chief of the weather bureau, we are in doubt whether we are going to have Democratic or Republican weather hereafter.

There's a good deal being said about the necessity for a tariff on hides, but somehow we hear very little about protection for the consumer's hide.

There are actually men who can't hear anything in the building boom but another dull thud.

It is stated that the radical meeting planned for May Day in Chicago has already blown up.

Owing to the lack of the usual amount of moisture in the ground at this season of the year, the dry farmers of Santa Cruz county are going to be late about getting in their crops. Millet would be a good crop to plant about the time the rainy season begins. Millet will mature much quicker than any other grain or feed crop that has ever been tried in this country, yields heavily and is a splendid feed for all kinds of live stock and poultry. Why not try a few acres?

There doesn't seem to be any signs of rivalry existing among the people in the matter of cleaning up the town. It's true that a few spasmodic efforts have been made by some of our citizens to place the town in a more sanitary condition, but a great deal of work remains to be done. Let's all of us make new resolutions and begin next Monday morning to put our premises in a cleaner and better looking condition.

A Missouri cow, not just an ordinary cow, but still just a cow, has demonstrated to the state university her ability to produce in a single season enough feed to equal the carcasses of four fat 1,250-pound steers and at the end of the season the cow was still there, plump and healthy, ready to duplicate the feat or improve upon it. If that cow had lived in Arizona her cost for feed and upkeep would have been one-fourth less than in Missouri, where winter lasts longer and the grazing period is shorter. We need more of this kind of cows in Santa Cruz county.

Even a pessimist should lose at least two-thirds of his troubles—those that are past and those that anticipate—and by a full appreciation of his blessings many present troubles would vanish. The greatest troubles we have are those we do not have. We should be careful lest we destroy the joys of today by the fear for tomorrow.

SEN. CAMERON'S ENEMIES STILL BUSY

PHOENIX, Apr. 27—Is the United States grand jury now sitting at Phoenix really on the trail of Senator Ralph Cameron?

Although there have been insistent rumors that such is the case ever since the grand jury began its work over a week ago, the request or the jury for special instructions from Judge Sawtelle this afternoon has crystallized these rumors to the extent that it is now a question of merely waiting for a formal announcement of the findings of the jury when it rises to report.

The sensational development came when the jury appeared in the court room where Judge Sawtelle is conducting cases. A written request from the jury was read, asking that the judge instruct the jury as to its power to proceed with the investigation of a certain matter in the face of an instruction from the district United States attorney at the instance of the attorney general in Washington, to drop the proposed investigation. Judge Sawtelle informed the jury that while they were under the jurisdiction of the attorney general at Washington yet, if they believed that their sense of duty and their conscience directed them to proceed with the investigation proposed they would do so notwithstanding instructions to the contrary from the attorney general.

The charge to the grand jury, given by the judge at the opening of its deliberations, upon which the attorney general had issued his instruction not to proceed concerns investigations under the federal court practices act, of conduct of federal officials in political campaigns. It is under this act that any prosecution of Sen. Cameron would have to be taken on the charge of winning his senatorial seat through alleged corrupt expenditures of money in the political campaigns.

Upon being informed of their powers to proceed with any investigation in the face of instructions from Washington, the jury then asked how, in the face of the fact that the district attorney is bound by instructions from the attorney general, could they proceed with such an investigation should the attorney general insist that the district attorney at Phoenix refrain from cooperating with the grand jury.

Judge Sawtelle informed them that if they should decide to proceed with any investigation governed by his charges to them, but found that they were handicapped in any respect in their work that when they reported such fact to him formally he would then handle the situation insofar as it was within his power so to do. Upon receiving such instruction the jury returned to its deliberations.

Now what does all this mean? What is the significance of it? Those who have been hovering about the fountain of rumors and have been attending the school of dopsters, declare that it spells a rough voyage for Senator Cameron. It is a well known fact that Sen. Cameron has diligent enemies both within his own and in the democratic ranks. It is also known that federal officers have been investigating campaign expenditures of Sen. Cameron from every angle. Add this to the fact that the door was thrown open to investigations of federal political campaign expenditures and that Attorney General Daugherty instructed the local federal attorney to drop any proposed investigation under the corrupt practices act, and it begins to look as though those who have been aching for

PUSHING ROAD WORK

The editor of the Patagonian motored up to Elgin a few days since and was both surprised and gratified to note the rapidity with which the contractors are pushing the road work between Sonoita and Elgin. There are good sized forces of men, teams and tractors strung out between these two towns, and the work that is being done is of a most permanent nature. There is a large camp a few miles east of Sonoita and we understand a camp is to be established near Patagonia within the next few days.

MAY FIRST IS DESIGNATED AMERICA DAY

PHOENIX, Apr. 26—Upon the request of the American Defense Society, Governor Campbell has designated Sunday, May 1, as America Day. It proposed that on that day special meetings given over to the thought of perpetuating American constitutional government.

While no very definite information is given out, it is stated in the course of the governor's proclamation that a conspiracy is on foot to overthrow the government of the United States as well as other governments. The official proclamation is as follows:
Executive Department
State of Arizona
A PROCLAMATION
Designating May first, 1921, as AMERICA DAY.

Vast as America is, there is room in it for but one flag, the American flag.—One language, the language of the Declaration of Independence—one loyalty, loyalty to the American people.

Americans are too prone to look far abroad for enemies of the Republic. The great war was won for humanity throughout the world and served to protect our own people from extraneous attack. But there yet remaining a war against enemies of the system of government given us by noble forefathers. In almost every community are individuals of traitorous sort, whose distorted minds ever are seeking to encompass the downfall of our Republic, to erect in its stead some visionary political structure in which they, themselves, are to have the guiding hand and in which the calm reign of justice within law is to be succeeded by a system of communism such as that which has proven disruptive of the material strength and moral basis of what was one of the greatest of European nations.

Insidious propaganda now is rife everywhere and has made some progress among the unthinking and those who lack in due consideration of the rights of their neighbors. It must be appreciated that the constitutional right of discussion of political questions shall not extend to the point of treasonable utterances and treasonable acts. Conspiracy has been started not only against our Nation, but against all others wherein stability of government has been established. It, truly, has been called a deep-seated conspiracy against civilization.

There must be action against this disloyal propaganda and against those from whom it issues. To this end has been founded the American Defense Society, which, in perpetuity, carries in the place of first honorary president, the name of that great American, Theodore Roosevelt. This society has asked that May first be established as America Day in every State in the Union, that there may be mobilization of patriotic Americans to the end, as was said by Lincoln at Gettysburg, "that government of the people, for the people and by the people may not perish from the earth."

NOW THEREFORE, being in full accord with this movement, I, Thomas E. Campbell, Governor of Arizona, do hereby designate Sunday, May 1, 1921 as America Day and do hereby ask that upon that date there be special meetings with consideration of advancement of efforts toward the perpetuation of American constitutional government, on the basis of the teachings and patriotic thought of the founders of the Republic. It is also my request that observance of the day be reflected by the various churches, through services especially devoted to the spirit of American institutions, and inculcation of American ideals.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Arizona to be affixed. Done at Phoenix, the capital, this 25th day of April, 1921.
(GREAT SEAL)

THOS. E. CAMPBELL, Governor.
Attest: ERNEST R. HALL, Secretary of State.

Colorado Being Robbed of Prehistoric Relics

DENVER, Colo., Apr. 27—The State of Colorado is being robbed of thousands of dollars worth of prehistoric relics every year by tourists according to several speakers before the Denver Civic and Commercial association the other day.

This charge was made and the necessity of preventing the taking of relics in the future by J. A. Fynn and Dr. William N. Beggs, both of whom have been interested for years in the work of the State Historical and State Natural History societies.

The relics are not of the criminal variety, the speakers explained, as much as they are of the kind that includes taking spoons from hotels and watermelons wherever they may lie. The old prehistoric ruins are being ruined if ruins can be ruined, by visitors who take souvenirs.

Other speakers urged legislative appropriations for preserving state ruins from destruction and removal.

"Two Hundred Pounds of Radium"

Name Earned by Herbsman, Dynamic Lecturer, Who Comes to Chautauqua on the Third Night

The expression, "Two Hundred Pounds of Radium," was first used in connection with Herbsman after a wonderfully stirring address made before a big Chamber of Commerce gathering in the Northwest. The name was so apt that it has stayed with him for years. For Herbsman is a veritable dynamo of energy and he simply radiates pep, punch and purpose. He is a two-fisted fighter too and he deals sledge hammer blows against some of the current tendencies of the day in his lecture on "America's Needs" at the Chautauqua on the third evening.

Crows S'jour In Oklahoma Cost Farmers Money

(By Associated Press)
STILL WATER, Okla., Apr. 28.—Oklahoma's board bill for crows from its sister states—north, east, south and west—is $1,200,000 annually. This pest of the air, who migrates to Oklahoma for the winter holidays, is one of the most costly visitors to which the state pays host.

According to a report made here today by C. E. Sandborn, professor of entomology at the Oklahoma A. & M. college, crows cause a loss of more than this sum to farmers each year, chiefly through their consumption of grain. The figure was arrived at on an estimate of 110,000,000 crows consuming $10,000 worth of grain per day for 120 days, the average period of their sojourn in the winter.

"Oklahoma boards the crow during the winter and thus raises a heavy burden from the northern and eastern states," the report says, "where it appears to be more of a summer resident than a winter pest. They have acquired the habit of deceiving others and returning here until it appears the annual crop of crows from adjoining states winter here."

BY GRAND JURY ON LIQUOR CHARGE

PHOENIX, Apr. 28.—Ray Fridley, former prohibition enforcement agent in Arizona, was indicted by the grand jury this morning. The charge is conspiracy against the law in transporting approximately 300 bottles of intoxicating liquor into the state. When arraigned before Judge W. H. Bayliffe, the defendant pleaded not guilty.

This is the second time that the federal government has laid its hand on Fridley on the same charge. When out on a bond pending the hearing on the first charge he jumped his bond and was re-arrested in Oklahoma. He is held on the present indictment, no bond being permitted.

Dave Driscoll, former deputy sheriff of Maricopa county, was also indicted by the grand jury this morning on a charge of stealing government property. The alleged stolen property consisted of 25 cases of intoxicating liquor, each case containing 24 pint bottles. The liquor was said to have been stolen from the custody of Joe Dillon, United States marshal, who had stored it in a private garage to be held as evidence in another case.

ASSESSORS OFFICE BUSY PLACE THESE DAYS

County Assessor Vic Wager and Deputy, Mrs. Anna Ackley, are busily engaged in preparing the tax rolls of the county. The work of the assessor and his deputy is exceedingly tedious, this year, as the slump in business has caused a number of "tax dodgers," owners of property in the county. County Assessor Wager, owing to his connection with "who-who" in the county, is going to cause many headaches for those who were of the idea that they were "getting by" to use the phrase of the street.

THE ELISON-WHITE CHAUTAUQUA WHICH OPENS IN PATAGONIA NEXT THURSDAY, MAY 5TH, HAS A MUCH BETTER PROGRAM THAN LAST YEAR.

Rev. E. D. Raley held religious services at the Patagonia school house last Sunday morning and evening. Sunday was a very disagreeable day and the attendance was small but some of those who were present state that the sermons were very scholarly and eloquent. We understand that Mr. Raley will from this time on preach here twice a month.

While several of our young people were out riding last Sunday evening their car turned over and threw all of the occupants out upon the ground. One young lady was severely bruised and scalded about the face and arms, but with less exception no serious injuries were sustained.

We have been having cool nights and warm days this week, and on Monday night ice formed on water on the outside.

Some of the more thrifty gardeners around here are enjoying an occasional "mess of home grown vegetables, which will be long be quite plentiful.

Don't forget that the Ellison-White Chautauqua begins in Patagonia Thursday, May 5th, and continues four days.

Travel is beginning to pick up in this part of the county and this probably means that it is better all over the country it was a few weeks ago.

"I contend," continued Miss Jarvis, "that Mother's Day should be the greatest of all holidays, because you cannot perpetuate anything without mothers."

MOTHER'S DAY

Sunday, May the 8th, will be the first Mother's Day in the State of Arizona. That it will be appropriately celebrated in nearly all of the towns and villages of the State can hardly be doubted. We trust that the ladies of Patagonia will make a united effort to celebrate this day in a manner commensurate with the importance thereof.

To those who can read "the handwriting on the wall," it looks as if the long-neglected mothers of this country are going to receive a little more attention than heretofore. We have long erected public monuments to our great men but have seldom dropped even a flower on the resting place of the noble mothers who raised the gifted men to whom most of the credit for these belongs. In many states dependent mothers with children are given a pension, and the inauguration of "Mother's Day" has set all to thinking more of the debt we owe the noble mothers of our land.

To Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia, Pa., we are indebted for this day which is set apart for the purpose of at least thinking of our mothers.

A reporter recently called on Miss Jarvis to get a history of her life and what she said will certainly interest the readers of this paper.

"Please," she urged, smiling an apology, "I had much rather talk about mother's day than about myself."

The flush of innate shyness rose to the lines of her pale hair and her trusting eyes turned to a portrait above the hearth.

"That is my mother," said Miss Jarvis simply.

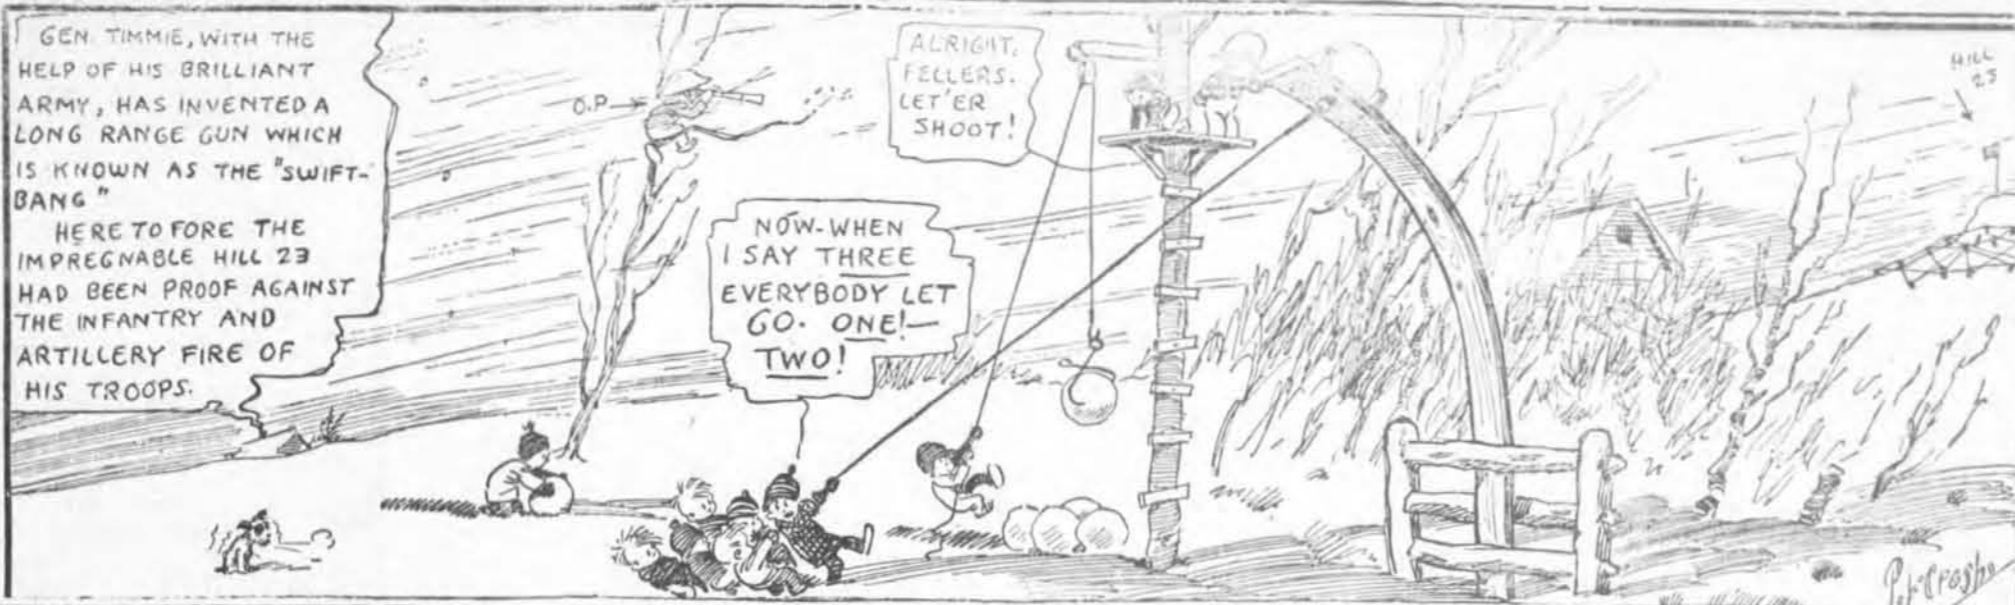

"She was mother to eleven children. I was her baby. It is seven years since we last her. This was her sitting room; these are her things."

"People think that the loss of a mother falls heaviest on children," said Miss Jarvis gently, "but, really, it is only the grown daughters and sons who understand."

"This Mother's Day movement making the second Sunday in May an owed to mothers—has nothing behind it but my belief of men and women as sons and daughters. Eventually it will create an all-nations' brotherhood that will stand for the protection of the mother and children—the unmarried mother, the mother who works, the mother who is widowed—far, indeed, for the preservation of the home itself."

"The white carnation was chosen as memory flower because it grows every where and its whiteness symbolizes the
