

LEADERS OF IRISH RACE ROAM ABOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Donald O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork who came to the United States as a stowaway, and awaiting chance to reship from some American port has dropped out of sight. His last public appearance was Tuesday when he addressed the executive American committee for the relief of Ireland. At the hotel where he has been staying it was reported he left "several days ago." Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader whose arrival in Ireland from the United States was announced December 31 has been found "somewhere in France" by a correspondent of the newspaper Oeuvre. There has been persistent rumors that De Valera was in Paris, but inquiry failed to elicit any information except in Irish circles where it was asserted he was believed to be in Ireland.

ELGIN Extracts

Eva Barnett entertained the Elgin Woman's club one day last week at an afternoon tea. There were about a dozen ladies present.

Mrs. A. C. Dalton entertained about twenty-five friends last Saturday, it being Mr. Dalton's birthday. The guests played various games and other wise enjoyed themselves. A splendid supper was served. The birthday cake was very pretty, being a large white cake with blue and white candles. All departed wishing Mr. Dalton many more birthdays.

Mrs. Hanson entertained about 75 guests Tuesday evening in honor of her daughter, Mrs. R. C. Lake and son, from Salt Lake City. Games, music and dancing were enjoyed, after which a fine supper was served and all had a grand time. The departing guests all wished Mrs. Hanson much happiness and success.

Mrs. Titus came out Tuesday from Texas on a visit to her son and family, T. B. Titus.

A party of Elginites motored over to the Post Sunday where they spent the day very pleasantly.

A daughter of Mrs. Rathrack is out from California visiting her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Beatty motored over to Nogales Wednesday.

The weather hereabout continues warm and spring-like, but a good rain is needed and expected soon.

Cattle are going through the winter in fine shape and cattlemen are feeling jubilant.

MOTTO: ADVERTISE
Here is a little inside information sent out to the trade by a wholesale paper house of Los Angeles:

"Encouraging indeed is the outlook for the printing business. Even though revisions of Income and Excess Profit Tax laws are predicted, advertisers have increased their appropriations for 1921. Instead of direct-mail publicity for the creation of good will, merchants will conduct intensive selling campaigns through the medium of the 'printed word.' Advertising and printing will go far toward placing the commercial world on a sound basis, thus putting an end to the pessimistic walls of the mal-contented. Paper mills and jobbers are optimistic for the future."

HAS FINE FLOCK
J. W. Miller, manager of the Patagonia Lumber company, owns a fine flock of thoroughbred White Leghorn hens which he feeds, houses and otherwise provides for in a scientific manner, and he states that there has not been a time this winter that he has not been getting a supply of eggs. Mr. Miller keeps poultry not only for the profit there is in it, but because it affords him pleasure and pastime. He buys all of his poultry feed, gives them a balance ration, kills or sells the light layers, and manages to keep the flock in a continued healthy condition. What Santa Cruz county needs is more thoroughbred chickens, more good milch cows, more gardens and orchards. After all, the "simple life" is the best and most satisfactory, and wildcatism finds no lodgment in the hearts and minds of those who live close to nature.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Young were in from their San Rafael ranch Saturday.

Ex-Minister Held On Robbery Charge

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Jan. 26.—A federal warrant was filed charging Guy Kyle, former rector of the Free Methodist church of Mt. Vernon, with the theft of $189,000 from the mails January 14, last. Kyle confessed complicity in the robbery.

13 BILLION IN TREASURY OF AMERICA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Acting Treasurer Allen announced that a total of $13,883,619,826 in cash and securities were found in the treasury as the result of the count necessitated by the resignation of John Burke, treasurer. This sum is about ten billion greater than usually accounted for. Approximately that amount of notes were deposited by foreign governments for war loans.

VALUE OF SHADE TREES

(Contributed)
He that planteth a tree is the servant of God;
He provideth a kindness for many generations,
And faces that he hath not seen shall bless him.

—Henry Van Dyke.
The value of a shade tree is difficult to determine, but often hundreds of dollars more is paid for a real estate lot with, than for an adjacent lot without trees.

All observing, intelligent persons have, though they cannot express it in dollars and cents, an abstract conception of the value of a shade tree. The tree is not only a thing of beauty, but it is of great value, and from both the standpoint of beauty and intrinsic value increases rapidly with the years.

They represent wood and lumber—both of which are very scarce in this part of Arizona; they represent more than that; they are our servant in beauty and loveliness, in refreshing shade and delicious fruit. There is something wonderfully impressive about a great tree. It is silent; but as it sways with the wind and its leaves shine forth a cheery welcome to the sun, it is wonderfully expressive. Its dignity is supreme and its silent evidence of power is kindly. He is dull, indeed, who does not love a tree.

"A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts its leafy arms to pray."
Tree planting time is now, and the opportunity is ours. Let us co-operate with and encourage those who have so generously set an example in this great work which will be a blessing, not only to this generation, but to generations yet unborn.

Sir Walter Scott, in "The Heart of Midlothian," quotes the dying old Highland laird as saying to his son, with almost his last breath:

"Jock, when ye hae naethin' else to do ye may be aye stickin' in a tree; it will be growin', Jock, when ye 'er a sleepin'." That was good advice for "Jock," and it is as good today for every citizen who has access to a bit of ground, and it is as good for the Nation, the State, the county, the city, the small town or the school district, as it is for the citizen, or even was for "Jock."

SUDAN GRASS AS A DRY FARM CROP

Sudan grass has proven to be one of the most reliable hay crops for the dry farming sections of Arizona. During the season of 1920, one of the best on the Prescott Dry Farm, Sudan grass produced two cuttings of hay. The first cutting in the test plot yielded 1500 pounds of cured hay to the acre. The second cutting yielded 2960 pounds to the acre.

The ground was plowed deeply in the fall and left rough until April, when it was harrowed and cross-harrowed. Planting was made on May 11, in rows three and one-half feet apart. The grass was cultivated twice and all the weeds hoed out before the first cutting. After the first cutting the grass was cross-harrowed with a drag harrow. After the second cutting the grass produced excellent fall pasture.—Tucson Citizen.

VISITS BROTHER

T. A. Keaton of Phoenix arrived in Patagonia Tuesday and will spend a week or two with his brother, R. N. Keaton of San Rafael valley. Young Mr. Keaton is out here on a short vacation and appears to be enjoying his visit in a most hearty manner.

B. Lewis, the Parker Canon stockman, was here on business Wednesday.

FINANCIERS WIFE HELD BY BANDITS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Gladys Witherill, wife of the president of an investment company who disappeared from her home, Tuesday night was kidnapped and is being held for ransom according to communications received by relatives and by the police.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—While the police are reticent, it is said the husband of the woman received communications from alleged kidnapers demanding several thousand dollars and threatening to kill Mrs. Witherill unless the money was paid. It is said an appeal was also received directly from her, begging for help. Communications from the alleged kidnapers are said to contain a threat against Mrs. Witherill's life should ransom and alternative death to the woman be made public. She disappeared Tuesday night when she received a telephone call from a man who told her of an automobile accident nearby and the victims were calling her.

LOCAL NEWS SCARCE

Local news has been very scarce in the Patagonia district this week. There have been no holdups, no storms, but little if any serious sickness, but one marriage, no births or deaths, no business failures, no fights, no accidents, but few visitors, no church services, no weekly prayer meetings, in fact, very little of anything to write about. But we should be very thankful that we are all at peace with each other, having no strife, troubles and calamities which have been so prevalent in many other parts of the country. But some people seem to thrive on sensations, and peace troubles their minds. It is a privilege to dwell in a community where everything is quiet and serene and where one is not expecting to be sand bagged and robbed every time he steps out of his home after dark.

We are expecting some good mining news in the near future, and it is reported that the assembling of road material will begin here in a few days and that a large camp will be established either in Patagonia or at some point near here, and that several hundred men will be employed at a good living wage.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

The fourteenth of February is a day sacred to St. Valentine. It was a very odd notion, alluded to by Shakespeare that on this day the birds begin to couple; hence, perhaps, arose the custom of sending on this day letters containing professions of love and affection. In England, Scotland, France and some other parts of the continent it was formerly the custom of the young people to meet, write each other's or some of their acquaintances' names on a slip of paper, which was thrown into a box from which they were drawn, the men taking the girl's names and vice versa. The person thus drawing became one's valentine and for a whole year was bound to devote himself to the one who drew him. Sometimes, of course, this led to real engagements between the parties, and often tricks were played in such a way that the slips of paper fell into the hands they were meant for. During the fifteenth century married people could be chosen as well as those who were not married, and often very valuable presents were exchanged.

It being just about two weeks until St. Valentine's day we expect some Valentine parties will be staged by the young people in this community. For the benefit of the children we will give a brief sketch of how Valentine day originated, in next week's Patagonian.

ABOUT POVERTY

The editor of the Patagonian has been requested to give the name of the author of the following proverb: "O, Poverty, thou art a worthless, thankless gift."
We do not know who the author is but we are quite familiar with the subject he seems to have had in mind at the time he coined this proverb. If any of our readers know any more about it than we do we shall be glad to hear from them.

The weather this week has been ideal, par-excellent, splendid and all the other good things one can conceive up about it. If everything were taken from the Patagonia country but its climate we would still be millionaires.

C. A. Pierce, Patagonia's popular civil engineer and mining man, has been down in Mexico the most of this week, but is expected home today or tomorrow.

Santa Cruz Co. Legislator Seeks "Blue Law"

PHOENIX, Jan. 27.—What was considered by some members as a kind of "blue law" was placed before the lower house of the Arizona legislature today when Representative I. P. Fraizer, Santa Cruz county, introduced a bill making compulsory the observance of one day each week as a day of rest. It provided also for punishment of persons engaging in secular business or work other than of necessity or for public welfare, mercy or charity. For violations, fines ranging from $5 to $100 and imprisonment for 30 days were designated.

TANK CAR EXPLODES; 25 PEOPLE ARE KILLED

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 24.—At least 25 persons most of whom were negroes were killed, according to estimates and 50 or more injured in the explosion of a tank car of gasoline set off presumably by a spark from a workman's chisel which tore to splinters a row of frame dwellings and shattered windows within a radius of 15 blocks. The shock was felt throughout the entire north end of the city. A fire which for a time threatened to destroy a glass plant and manufacturing concern was checked before the blaze gained headway.

MEMPHIS, Jan. 24.—A block of tenement houses, all frame structures, were leveled by the force of explosion, killing and maiming the occupants. The bodies were torn beyond recognition and were removed within a few minutes. Every ambulance in the city was summoned to remove the injured to the hospitals. Fatalities may be larger than 25 when a complete check is made of occupants in dwellings and exploration of the ruins.

Scheme to Halt Immigration Blocked in Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The senate immigration committee today concluded its hearing on the Johnson bill to practically suspend immigration for one year after hearing the views of Anthony Caminetti, commissioner-general of immigration. Committee members indicated that the measure would not be reported to the senate in the form in which it was passed by the house and Chairman Colt predicted new features probably would be incorporated.

Chairman Colt expressed the opinion that the committee would look with favor on provisions of a bill introduced by Senator Dillingham, Republican, Vermont, which would restrict immigration on a percentage system, based on the number of aliens from various countries already admitted.

Members of the committee also were said to favor features of the Sterling bill restricting immigration and providing for appointment of a board to study immigration problems.

Today's sessions were marked by clashes between Commissioner Caminetti and committee members. The senators attempted to ascertain whether the commissioner favored suspension of immigration but he refused to commit himself.

Unless steps are taken to restrict admission of aliens, Mr. Caminetti asserted, the influx will break previous records before July 1.

FLAMES SWEEP MAIN SECTION OF ATHENS, GA.

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 25.—A large part of the Athens downtown business district is a mass of smoldering ruins and it was estimated that the fire which early this morning swept clean three entire city blocks and damaged adjoining buildings destroyed property valued at least $4,000,000. No loss of life is reported and the fire which is of undetermined origin broke out shortly before midnight and it was 5 hours later before the combined efforts of the firemen of several cities succeeded in getting the blaze under control.

Building Industry In New York Plans New Organization

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Representatives of interests engaged in the building and construction industry met today and launched a movement to establish a permanent conference in the New York district to promote co-operation and study problems that affect the industry.

The organization of the local group, which was placed in the hands of the committee, is part of a national movement for a general survey of building needs and resources launched at Atlantic City last August.

The plan is to establish a permanent organization to be known as the National Congress of the Building and Construction Industry. Contractors, sub-contractors, manufacturers of and dealers in materials, labor, architects and engineers are represented in the plan.

The Nogales-Patagonia stage broke down at the Santa Cruz river, four miles this side of Nogales last Friday, and had to return for repairs. The driver phoned down here and the American Garage soon had a car filled with passengers and on its way to the border city.

Mrs. R. C. McIntyre of Parker Canon has been spending the week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Paul McIntyre of this place.

Pete Hanson, the well known mining man, was circulating among his Patagonia friends a day or two this week.

J. Kent Fryor, manager of the Commercial hotel, spent last Saturday and Sunday in Nogales.

Frank Edgell, a ranchman living a few miles northwest of Old Baldy, arrived in Patagonia Thursday afternoon on a visit to his father, R. B. Edgell. From here he will go to Elgin where he will visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Beatty a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Rinehart were here from their ranch near Mowry Wednesday, enroute to Sonita.

C. L. Northercraft and H. B. Riggs were out viewing some roads yesterday where it is said work will soon be begun.

Thomas F. Gardner made a business trip to Nogales last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Keaton were here Monday enroute home from Nogales where Mr. Keaton had been loading a car load of grain for shipment.

Howard Keener was in from his San Rafael ranch Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Sisk were in Patagonia for a short time Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Bond of Kansas City has been spending a few days in Patagonia the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. A. Pierce, but left for California points the first of the week where she will visit for a short time before returning home.

The foregoing taken from the Tucson Citizen will no doubt be of interest to some of the dry farmers in the Patagonia district, especially to the new comers. Quite a number of our farmers plant Sudan grass every year, and many more might do so with profit, if what the Tucson Citizen says about it is true.

Jesse Gatlin spent Tuesday in the city from his ranch near Patagonia. Jesse is a friend of Charley Fowler, official dipper of bovines from the south country.—Border Vidette.

Immigration From Europe Alarming

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The flow of immigrants from Europe will break all previous records before July 1 unless steps are taken to check it. Anthony Caminetti, commissioner general of immigration, declared before the senate immigration committee.

"I hesitate to estimate what will be the rate of immigration when Germany, Austria and nearby states open up," he added.

STORM KING REIGNS OVER EASTERN ARIZ.

DENVER, Jan. 24.—A blanket of snow, 8 inches deep, today covered Denver and a large portion of Colorado, resulting almost in a complete paralysis of telegraph and telephone communication east, south and north for several hours. The weather bureau officials declared it to be the severest snow storm of the season. The precipitation it is reported continued in parts of New Mexico, Utah, Oklahoma, Eastern Arizona, Colorado, Kansas and Wyoming.

HOME PRIDE

There is not a citizen of Patagonia who is not proud of the enviable reputation of the place as one of the cleanest and prettiest little towns in the entire state. Every man and woman who lives here is glad to say with pride "this is my home town." But it can be made prettier. There is still time enough to plant many more trees. And everyone should begin at once to clean up their back and front yards and to make ready for planting vegetable and flower gardens—the more the better. When a man lives in a nice town and is not proud of his place of residence he owes it to the townspeople to clear out and settle down in some community more to his liking. This is not saying that all citizens should be satisfied with all towns as they are. Far from so. The way to be proud of one's home town is not to close one's eyes to its bad features, but to open the eyes to them and procure their betterment. It is as much a good citizen's duty to help other citizens keep the town clean and wholesome as to help his wife keep the children decent and respectful. A disorganized, quarrelsome town is like that kind of a family, and that kind of a family is the kind with which hades is freer. If every prosperous citizen of a small town would resolve to lend his talent and means to the improvement of his home community, instead of moving to the city for the enjoyment of the advantages he craves, it would go very far toward staying the "drift from the country." Do you know why Southern California is so captivating to the tourist? It is, for one thing, because the small towns there are beautiful. They are not overrun with weeds and wild grass nor dotted with rotting outhouses, nor marked with barb wire fences, nor distressed with unkempt lawns and careless back yards. Pride of home is a ruffing passion in rural California therefore even the cheapest shack in the farm country looks like it had affectionate care. Yet it is not because all Californians are rich, but it is the basic wish of those who make California their home to make as nice homes as they can. It is no secret or patented process. Any town or any person may practice it. Let us all work together to the end that we may have a little bit of California of our own right here in Patagonia.

Miss Bond of Kansas City has been spending a few days in Patagonia the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. A. Pierce, but left for California points the first of the week where she will visit for a short time before returning home.

5 DAY WEEK FOR MEN ON U. P. SYSTEM

OMAHA, Jan. 26.—The Union Pacific system inaugurated a 5-day week for shophmen and trackmen effective immediately, it was announced by W. E. Guild, assistant to Vice President Calvin in charge of operations. He explained this step was taken as a matter of economy and to avoid the necessity of laying off more men.

SONOITA Sayings

There was a large crowd of farmers from the surrounding country met at the Sonoita school house Sunday afternoon to discuss the possibilities of a co-operative store. Lawyer Hummel and Mr. Donnelly of Tucson were present. Mr. Donnelly explaining the ins and outs of the cooperative plan which was very highly appreciated by all who heard him.

Dr. Kleene also gave a short talk on what the Farm Bureau did at their meeting in Tucson, he being present at the meeting which was held the latter part of last week.

Harry Rickwalt has just filled his second silage; he is sure a firm believer in the silage problem.

The families of E. S. Black and P. A. Honnas and Mrs. Fannie Barney spent Tuesday, the 25th, at the home of M. N. Rouse the occasion being Mrs. Rouse's 70th birthday. All partook of a lovely dinner and departed in the late afternoon wishing Mrs. Rouse many more birthdays.

G. P. Woodward and wife made a trip to Patagonia Tuesday going down for supplies.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Bryant were the guests of Henry Hunter and wife Sunday evening.

It is understood Mark Manning has leased his place to a family who have recently come from Oklahoma.

H. C. Branton has been away for about two weeks; it is stated he went to New Mexico to look up a location where he will move his family later. He farmed the G. S. Bryant place last season.

Francis Passow spent last Sunday at Crittendon with the section foreman, Mr. Parker and wife.

MAIL IS LOST

News letters from Parker Canon and San Rafael valley, together with a batch of Patagonia local news, got lost in the mails last Wednesday going the short distance from Patagonia to Nogales. It was a circumstance over which the management of the Patagonian had no control, but we deeply regret the occurrence and trust that it will not occur again.

ELWONGER-BENJAMIN

A wedding party from up the country passed through Patagonia at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning enroute to Nogales where Mr. A. M. Benjamin and Mrs. S. C. Elwonger were united in marriage. The happy couple were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Beatty of Elgin.

Mr. Benjamin has been employed on Mr. Beatty's Papago ranch for the past six years, and is a most worthy and dependable gentleman who has many friends throughout that section of the county. Mrs. Elwonger is the owner of a fine farm about two miles from Sonoita, and she, too, has a host of warm friends in the neighborhood where she has resided for a number of years. The Patagonian joins with the many friends of the bride and groom in wishing them long life, prosperity and happiness.

FROM $60.00 TO INDEPENDENCE

Perry J. Wilson returned from California Monday morning where he has been for the past several months. Mr. Wilson owns a fine farm out in San Rafael valley where he has resided for the past ten years. His farm is one among the best improved places in the country, and he claims that the land and all of the improvements have been paid for out of the fruits of the soil. In other words he began ten years ago with only sixty dollars in money and today he is independent, and this independence has been brought about entirely through the "dry farming" system. Mr. Wilson says that dry farming in this part of Santa Cruz county is a success, and he ought to know for he has tried it out in a most satisfactory way. What Mr. Wilson has done many others are doing.

TIME RIPE FOR DISARMAMENT

AMERICAN PEACE COMMISSIONER BELIEVES AMERICA SHOULD LEAD MOVEMENT.

WANTS NAVY REDUCED

WORLD IS "CRYING FOR SOME AGREEMENT" TO LIMIT ARMAMENT TO CUT TAXES.

General Pershing's Views Will Be Sought Shortly.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Another of the American commissioners who helped draft the treaty of Versailles—Henry White, ambassador to France under President Roosevelt—told the House naval committee that the time was ripe for world disarmament and that the United States should initiate the movement.

The committee already has heard Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, former American representative on the Supreme War Council and a member of the peace delegation; Secretary Daniels and Acting Secretary Davis of the State Department.

Mr. White gave as his opinion that the great burden of taxation resulting from the war made the peoples of all nations anxious to cut down on expenditures for armaments.

Discussing the proposed "naval holiday," the former commissioner said he did not think the United States should stop the naval construction it now has under way.

He added that questions raised at the conference might show "the right of some nations—Great Britain for instance—to a larger navy than others."

Because of the threatened spread of Bolshevism, the witness said, France might object to disarmament on land. In this connection, he said, that "the state of chaos" in which Germany had been kept over reparations was doing more to open the way to Bolshevism than any other single factor.

As to the time of calling a conference, Mr. White said that should be left to President-elect Harding. He did not think President Wilson should call it as the fact that he would retire March 4 might lead other nations not to take the invitation seriously.

While the hearings were in progress before the House committee, Senator France, Republican, Maryland, presented to the Senate a proposal that the United States, Great Britain and Japan agree to a reduction by 1935 of one-fourth of their relative naval strength on next July 1.

Senator France embodied his proposal in an amendment to the pending resolution of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, directing the President to call a conference of the three principal powers for reduction of their naval building program.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Organized Fight of Capital on the Closed Shop Becomes More Imminent.

ACTION BY MANUFACTURERS

Machinists Accuse the Railroad Companies—Plan to Stop Immigration Probably Killed—Harding Inauguration to Be Simple—Affairs in Europe.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

American industries and American business generally are beginning to "speed up" and the more optimistic. Like Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, declares there is nothing unfavorable to prosperity on the horizon. Prices of many commodities, including some lines of building materials, are coming down steadily, and in many plants wages are being reduced, in some instances the reduction being made by the employers and accepted by the men and in others being suggested by the workers themselves in order that the plants may be enabled to continue in operation.

All this is quite satisfactory to the ordinary citizen, but there is one dark cloud, despite the assertions of the optimists. This is the coming fight between organized labor and capital over the open shop. There are many signs that the issue will be joined soon. Last Wednesday the representatives of twenty-two state manufacturers' associations, in conference in Chicago, adopted resolutions pledging support for the open shop movement. In the discussion many speakers declared they would not employ union labor in their factories and mills, but when the vote was taken it was made clear that the resolution did not propose any discrimination against the holder of a union card. In substance the resolution was:

"It is recognized as fundamental in this country that all law-abiding citizens or residents have the right to work when they please, for whom they please, and on whatever terms are mutually agreed upon between employer and employee and without interference or discrimination upon the part of others.

"We hereby express our purpose to support these fundamental principles of American plan of employment by the maintenance of the open shop.

"We urge upon our members to secure by discussion and education the active support of workers, merchants, bankers and professional men and all other elements of their prospective communities in favor of American ideals and the open shop."

Only a few days previously an attorney for the International Association of Machinists presented to the interstate commerce commission a petition charging that the larger railroad companies have united in an open shop movement designed to disrupt unionism, and that they are this year "milking the United States treasury to the tune of $750,000,000 through their car repair manipulation." The companies, it is asserted, are closing their repair shops and giving the work to outside concerns which charge exorbitant rates, and in this way more than 30,000 workers have been thrown out of employment. According to the machinists, this drive on railroad shop workers is only one phase of a capitalistic "open shop" movement developing throughout the country, which has for "its real object" disruption of "all legitimate labor organizations and trade union agreements."

Closely connected with the question of labor is that of immigration and its restriction. The forces of organized labor have been in favor of the Johnson bill, which would stop all immigration for one year, and so have many other elements of the population, but late dispatches from Washington indicate that the bill is to be sidetracked by the senate committee and nothing done until the senators can formulate a permanent policy on immigration. In this they are yielding to the opinion of representatives of certain classes of employers, including the railroad, steel and coal people, who told the committee that the threatened "flood of immigrants from Europe" is a myth, and that there is no emergency warranting the passage of the Johnson measure.

Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor told the committee that the federation's demand was for straight-out protection from alien labor for a period of two years. He said that reports just received from labor officials in 141 cities showed the total number of unemployed in these places to be 1,519,372, and said he would not "dare estimate what the total of all cities would show."

Figures were submitted by Mr. Morrison showing the unemployed in Greater New York to be 300,000; Detroit, 150,000; Philadelphia, 235,000; Chicago, 200,000; Cleveland, 118,000; St. Louis, 40,000; Boston, 50,000; Milwaukee, 40,000; San Francisco, 15,000; Seattle, 9,000, and Pittsburgh, 20,000. In contrast to this, he showed, the net immigration, at present rates, would be 784,000 a year.

Avowedly in order to set an example of economy and democratic simplicity, Mr. Harding last week caused to be canceled all the arrangements for an elaborate ceremony on the occasion of his inauguration March 4. At his request the citizens' committee called off the celebration it had planned and also the ball, and the joint congressional committee agreed that there shall be nothing doing except the administration of the oath to the President-elect and the delivery of his address, probably from the east porch of the capitol. This course naturally has peeved the business men and hotel keepers of Washington, but everyone else in the country heartily commends it.

Mr. Harding's conferences with prominent men are about over. Very soon he will leave Marion for Florida, where he will write his inaugural and presumably finish making up his mind as to his cabinet. Concerning the latter, it was interesting if not pleasant to read last week that the hyphenated German-Americans, newly organized into a league, were virtually to ask Mr. Harding to give a place in the cabinet to a German-American. A committee was selected to carry to Marion a list of men from which the President-elect might make a choice. The avowed desire of the new league to create an era of good feeling at home and abroad would meet with greater sympathy if it did not insist on the "German," and if it were not for the fact that one of its leaders is George Sylvester Viereck, editor of a magazine that was formerly the Fatherland and notorious for his pro-German activities during the war.

General Crowder is helping Cuba to get out of her political and financial tangle and the prospect is now that he will succeed. First he has taken up the matter of the recent presidential elections, recommending that the thousands of charges of fraud be cleared up speedily by grouping them and deciding representative cases. Then he will undertake to arrange the island's money troubles. The Cuban senate already has passed a measure for the extension of the moratorium for four months on a modified basis, a plan approved by President Menocal and probably by General Crowder. The Cubans are strongly opposed to the plan of the American bankers for taking over their financial institutions, which were collapsing. They said the bankers asked too high a rate of interest and too long a period for the loan offered. It is said the situation is unpleasantly complicated by the activity of our acting secretary of state, Norman H. Davis, who is reputed to have made a fortune in Havana under the regime of Gomez, one of the claimants to the presidency.

Discord between the British and French over the question of German reparations is further revealed by the downfall of the Legues ministry in Paris. A large majority of the chamber of deputies fell in with the popular belief that Premier Legues and his colleagues were too much under the influence of the British cabinet, which wishes that a reparations total be named far below what the French people have been led to expect. Because Legues refused to outline his foreign policy before the meeting with Lloyd George, which was set for this week, the chamber declined to give him a vote of confidence and he and his fellows resigned. It was said in Paris the adverse vote was due partly to the action of the American government in withdrawing from the council of ambassadors, many deputies regarding this as showing America's lack of confidence in the French government.

Tehitcherin, foreign minister of soviet Russia, has defied the League of Nations to send an international army to the plebiscite region of Lithuania, and in a note to the Polish government has warned the allies that the soviet armies will attack any such force. He asserts the Vlna affair is not of concern to Poland and Lithuania alone, but that Russia also is vitally interested.

The Germans are tremendously excited concerning another proposed plebiscite, that in the coal region of Silesia, for they have convinced themselves that Poland is planning to seize that territory before the vote is held. It is said in Berlin that an army of 175,000 Poles has been concentrated near the Silesian border and at Posen for this purpose. The Poles certainly are getting ready for action, and are reorganizing their armies along French lines, but ostensibly they are preparing to meet the expected offensive of the Reds.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha has administered a severe blow to the Greeks in Asia Minor. Concentrating heavy forces secretly, he made a surprise attack on the Smyrna front, breaking through the Greek lines in three places and so threatening an encirclement that the Greeks were forced to retire toward the coast. The Turks captured several towns as well as many prisoners, and it looks as if they might bottle the Greeks up in Smyrna.

King Constantine thinks the French are carrying on a campaign to force the revision of the treaty of Sevres and to compel the Greeks to get out of the Smyrna region—and it is likely he is correct in his belief. He announced last week that he would not abdicate even if the allied nations should refuse to recognize him as the ruler of Greece.

Austria's distressful condition is growing worse daily, if that is possible. A few days ago it was reported that the government had notified the allied nations that it was ready to quit and turn over the country to the League of Nations to manage. The economic and political situation there seems hopeless. Nearly everyone has quit work, and a general strike has been ordered to begin Thursday of this week. Workmen declare they will remain idle until profiteering ceases, and demand that the deduction of the income tax from their pay envelopes stop until the capital levy law is put in force. The government has made drastic regulations against profiteering, but these often are disregarded and extortionate prices are asked for all commodities not under government control. The communists, of course, are ready to take advantage of the situation and start more trouble.

The treaty of Chicago, the pact which brings peace to the warring factions in baseball, was adopted and signed last week, and Judge Landis is now the supreme ruler of the national game. The magnates of the various leagues agreed to give him full power when they incorporated in the document a clause reading thus: "In case conduct detrimental to baseball is charged, alleged or suspected, the commissioner (Landis) shall have jurisdiction to investigate and determine the facts; upon such determination he may take such preventive, remedial or punitive action as he deems appropriate, against any party hereto, any minor league club connected with the National association, or any individual, as the case may be."

moves movements of troops possible. Leon Troitzky, people's commissar for war, announced it is the intention of the soviet to make the Russian army "smaller but stronger." All possible units will be restored to private life, but the men who are kept under arms will be subject to intensive training and stern discipline. The plan of the soviet is to maintain one of the finest standing armies in Europe, an army comparable in strength and discipline to Germany's before the war.

Whisky Raids Are Bloodless

Eight Stills Are Destroyed in the Mountains of Kentucky Without a Casualty.

MAKES INTERESTING STORY

Although Numerous Shots Were Fired by Revenue Men and Mountaineers, Not a Death Is Reported—Chase Leads to Stills.

Lexington, Ky.—Raids upon moonshine stills in the mountains of Kentucky have become bloodless, according to government agents who recently conducted one of the most important raids made in years. Whether the "shooting eye" of the mountaineer or the secret service agent has become dimmed or whether the desire for less killing has reached into the far mountain recesses is a disputed point, but the fact remains that 12 revenue agents raided and destroyed eight large stills in Whitley county, fired numerous shots and were fired at numerous times, but so far as is known, not a casualty was recorded.

Standing in clumps of sparse shrubbery on the top of knobs along Laurel Fork, in Whitley county, sentries posted apparently by moonshiners watched the operations of federal prohibition officers during the recent sensational raid in the "South America" section of Whitley county, according to members of the party. The raiders from the office of Chief Field Deputy U. G. McFarland were reticent about the battle reported to have raged about the stills. "There wasn't a thing in it," they were unanimous in saying. "We just went in there and destroyed eight stills. There were a lot of shots fired, but how many of them were fired at us we don't know. That was all there was to it."

Number of Shots Fired. The raiders from the local office were Steven Cornet and Charles Winfrey, who were the leaders of the raid; J. H. Reynolds and Joe Cavanaugh. They were accompanied by Sheriff Renfro of Whitley county and seven deputies.

Steve Cornet, after some persuasion, told of the raid. "We left Williamsburg on the morning of December 3 and went via Holden, Tenn., the nearest railroad point, into the section of Whitley county, known to the natives as 'South America,'" he said. "We hunted there for stills in the hollows of Laurel Fork and Olean Fork, sources of the Cumberland river. We destroyed eight stills in all."

"The first still destroyed was one owned by DeWitt Gibson. We arrested the three Gibson boys without any trouble. They were at their home. The next still we believe belonged to a man named Williams. The next two destroyed were owned by persons whose names we could not ascertain. We had no trouble the first day, although a number of shots were fired in the distance. I could not say positively that the shots were fired at us, but think that possibly they were signals to warn the countryside that raiders were about. We could see men standing on the top of the knobs, where they could see the road winding around the banks of Laurel Fork, which, I believe, is the crookedest stream in the world. Sometimes it is hard to tell which way it runs."

"The second day we continued the search along Laurel Fork. It was at this time that the nearest to any real trouble occurred. We left an old man named Parsons and another man to guard the mouth of a hollow while we searched it. Just after we left the guards a mountaineer popped out from behind a tree, fired several shots at the guards with a pistol and ran.

Chase Leads to Stills. "We gave chase, firing as we ran. The man fell, but when we searched we could find no trace of him. This led to one of the amusing incidents of the trip. During the chase we found two stills of which we had had no inkling. The man led my party directly to an 89-gallon still, which we destroyed. Another section of the party (we had become divided during the chase) found the second still on the opposite side of the hill from that down which the fugitive ran. We did not find out who owned either still.

"We then went up a hollow, where we found another still. This was a rough hollow, and we had to climb over bowlders and hang on to trees to get to the still. We then started in the opposite direction. Two miles down another rough hollow we found the last still destroyed.

"A lot of shots were fired on the second day by both natives and ourselves, but nobody was hurt."

MEXICAN OIL TRADE DOUBLES

Shipments for Year 1920 Expected to Exceed 125,000,000 Barrels.

Mexico City.—Figures showing that oil shipments from Mexico doubled since the first of last year have been published by the department of industry and commerce, which records October shipments of 17,301,000 barrels, as against 18,951,289 barrels in January.

These figures are striking in view of the fact that in 1901 Mexico shipped out 10,345 barrels and in 1910, 3,634,000 barrels.

Shipments in 1919 totaled 87,072,354 barrels and there is reason to believe

Baltimore, Md.—The discovery of a stone "apartment" building 45 stories high and containing 1,000 rooms, believed to have been the home of a now extinct tribe of American Indians, was announced at a meeting of the Archaeological Institute of America at Johns Hopkins university. The "apartment" was uncovered with a group of towns representing an ancient civilization in the midst of the southwestern desert.

Costs More to Guard Whisky

Louisville, Ky.—An authorized increase in the number of warehouse guards from 200 to 300 means that $510,000 will be required to police whisky stored in Kentucky during the coming year. The large expense involved will result in plans to centralize liquor. Withdrawal of 300,000 gallons of whisky from Kentucky warehouses during the first 20 days of December indicated preparations for Yuletide. Internal revenue records show that 1,210,918 gallons of whisky were withdrawn between October 1 and Christmas.

BRITAIN ADOPTS POISON GAS

Its Use as Supreme Weapon of the Next War Is Seen in Dye-stuffs Act.

Washington.—By the passage of the dye-stuffs import regulations act Great Britain has definitely accepted the theory that poison gas will be the supreme weapon of the next war, and at the same time has opened the way for the entry of German dyes into this country, according to views expressed by chemical experts of the government.

The British act, which became a law recently, prohibiting the importation of dye-stuffs into Great Britain for ten years, enables England to build up her dye industry to a point of complete independence from the outside world.

Poison gas and dye-stuffs both come from coal tar. By insuring the development of the dye industry, chemical experts say, Great Britain has laid the groundwork for possible widespread use of gas in warfare, as chemical factories can turn from the manufacture of dye-stuffs to the production of poison gas practically at will.

Direct competition in this country between German and American made dyes also is seen by officials here as a result of the British dye-stuffs act.

CUBA'S DISTRESS
 Strange as it may seem, the loudest hardtime cry of all the world is now coming from Cuba. The cause of this cry is that sugar has gone down. For three years Cuba robbed the whole world with her high sugar prices, but it appears that the Cubans know no more of the art of saving than the people of our own country, and now they are in a bad way. Another cause of the depression in Cuba is that the people of the United States are a little short on ready cash and are not flocking to the island to drink whisky. A year ago it looked like Cuba had everything. She was selling sugar at unheard-of prices. She was selling Havana cigars so high that economical consumers tried to chew the smoke. She was entertaining American profiteers, speculators and thirsty sports by thousands, all assembled there for the purpose of lapping up the booze provided for them by booze merchants wise in the way of their game. Prosperity was so thick in Cuba you could cut it with a knife. All of a sudden the castle of cards came toppling down. The prices of sugar and booze collapsed.

The following item is taken from a California newspaper: "Carl Rosenberg almost brought 'em to their feet at the Ad Club the other day, when he had this to say: "During the late war, if a man made a negative statement in regard to the present or future welfare of our country, he was put behind a stockade, and rightly so. Today, anybody can go around and tell every soul he meets, that our country is going to the dogs and he thinks that he is looked upon as a wise prophet. Let's build another stockade—we need it."

Chicago has 2,500 criminal cases on docket, with many of the criminals out on bond and plying their callings in other cities. Criminals in all parts of the country have been doing a pretty good business during the past few months, but we trust that swift retribution will come upon them and that they will all get what is justly coming to them.

According to reports just announced, the Bible was the best seller in 1920. This book has stood the test of time, and has never been defeated for first place in all the years of history. This of itself should recommend it to those who have not read it carefully.

The illicit drug store and the outlaw saloon are responsible for most of Chicago's crime, says an official authority. In other words they are still up to their old tricks.

Politics and religion are two subjects not intended for social usage.

Phoenix Police In Drive to Rid City of Thugs

PHOENIX, Jan. 24—The police of Phoenix have started a campaign against crooks and concealed weapons. In the Salt River valley within three weeks three deaths by violence, 13 cases of highway or street robbery, 20 house robberies and four purse snatchings have been reported. A Glendale suburban trolley car was stopped and the conductor robbed of $150. Two young Americans appear to have been guilty. Later crimes, including the shooting of a negro janitor, have been charged against an American. Several arrests have been made in connection with this case, in which a reward of $700 has been offered for apprehension of the murderer. A few of the highway robberies are charged against Mexicans, but most of them are believed to be the work of criminals lately arrived. Sheriff Montgomery on his chase after the Mexicans who killed Sprangler and Hintze at Tempe found several hundred men in hobo camps along the Southern Pacific railroad near Maricopa. As a partial help in the present emergency the city of Phoenix will provide a chain gang.

Brutal Murder of Japanese Occurs At Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 26—Deputies of the sheriff's office were searching tonight for two Mexicans following the discovery today that S. Nakamine, Japanese farmer, had been murdered at the farm he leased near here. The Mexicans had been chopping wood for Nakamine and were missing today. Two bloody axes were found close to Nakamine's body which lay on a hotbed for plants near the house. Nine deep axe gashes were found on the body, the post-mortem examination disclosed. Officials said indications were that Nakamine's assailants had felled him with a blow and had hacked him with the axes as he lay on the ground. From the preliminary investigation, robbery was believed to have been the motive of the murder. A neighbor, S. Eyema, also a Japanese, said Nakamine had about $275 at the farm. The money was not found when search was made. Nakamine had come to the United States from Kobe and had been registered in California for the draft during the war.

APPROPRIATION GIVEN TO UNIVERSITY BY STATE LEGISLATURE

PHOENIX, Jan. 26—The state legislature has been asked for $1,381,384 by the University of Arizona at Tucson. This amount is expected to cover operation, maintenance and various activities such as extension work. The appropriation is now being considered by both houses. The money is for the biennial period ending June 30, 1923. The estimate shows that $200,000 is needed for improvements, repairs and replacements. The estimated cost of operating expenses is $693,808. Bureau of mines operating expenses are put at $78,800. A total of $9,000 is asked for to carry on dry farming work. The extension work operating expenses are put at $67,000. For agricultural research work $17,500 is asked. The grand total of the general appropriation bill this year is $5,061,371.40 for the biennial period. This is about $1,000,000 in excess of the general appropriation bill passed by the last session of the legislature. ARIZONA LEGISLATORS MAY BAR ORIENTALS

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 25—Resolutions opposing the granting of citizenship right to Orientals will be submitted to the Arizona legislature when they are received from California it became known today through the medium of a telegram from Governor Thomas E. Campbell to Governor W. D. Stephens, of California. Governor Stephens wired the Arizona governor urging the adoption of such resolutions and the forwarding of them to congress, stating that resolutions of the California legislature already had been transmitted. Governor Campbell telegraphed in reply that he would be pleased to transmit the resolutions to the legislature for reference to the proper committee as soon as they were received. JAPANESE STATESMEN DISCUSS SITUATION REGARDING SIBERIA

TOKIO, Jan. 25—If Japan had withdrawn her troops from Siberia when the United States did, she would not have been open to a charge that her ambitions were militaristic declared Viscount Kato, leader of the opposition, in a speech attacking the government's Siberian policy. He declared all indications are now that the maintenance of Japanese troops in Siberia had no bearing upon political conditions, when Premier Hara in reply declared the maintenance of troops in Siberia was necessary to Japan's national defense. J. R. McIntyre was in from Parker Canon one day this week with a load of seed corn, raised by his brother, R. C. McIntyre. The corn was sold to the Tucson Feed company, for seven cents per pound.

PHOENIX, Jan. 24—Secretary of State Ernest Hall has called attention of motorists throughout the state to the fact that motor license plates up to 27,500 had been available for the past ten days and said there was no excuse for owners whose car numbers were below that mark not obtaining plates at once. He asserted owners in outside counties were applying more rapidly than those of Maricopa county and that he would have to take steps under the license law unless owners responded promptly.

EDUCATION

Governor Campbell in his recent message to the members of the state legislature has the following to say upon the subject of education:

"I believe that the highest duty the State has to perform is to educate the citizens. I believe that education is a national question, and should be so directed, but, in the absence of national legislation, feel it the duty of the State to direct and support the education of every school child within its borders, providing, whenever and wherever possible, the same educational opportunities. I further believe that the end can be accomplished with less expenditure of public funds than at present, and I will earnestly request that your honorable body give earnest consideration and positive action upon the necessary legislation to come before you on this most vital matter."

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

CHAPTER XI.

When Bryce Cardigan walked down the gangplank at the steamship dock in San Francisco...

"Why don't you remember me?" Ogilvy demanded. "I'm Buck Ogilvy."

"No I wasn't being shadowed, Buck, but my principal enemy was coming down the gangplank right behind me..."

"Build twelve miles of logging railroad and parallel the line of the old wolf I spoke of a moment ago."

"Listen carefully to my story, analyze my plan for possible weak spots, and then get busy..."

When Bryce Cardigan returned to Sequoia, his labors, in so far as the building of the road were concerned, had been completed.

Col. Seth Pennington was among those who, skeptical at first and inclined to ridicule the project into an early grave...

The vital aspects of his predicament dawned on the Colonel one night at dinner, midway between the soup and the fish...

"I have never heard of you, Mr. Ogilvy."

build the road had been deposited in bank; and Buck Ogilvy was already speeding it like a drunken sailor.

On the next steamer a surveying party with complete camping equipment arrived in Sequoia...

He had been in town less than an hour when the editor of the Sequoia Sentinel sent up his card.

lentum. Mr. Ogilvy was expecting the visit—in fact, impatiently awaiting it; and since the easiest thing he did was to speak for publication...

When Colonel Seth Pennington read this outburst he smiled. "That's a bright scheme on the part of that Trinidad Redwood Timber company..."

When Bryce Cardigan read it, he laughed. The interview was so like Buck Ogilvy: "In the morning the latter's automobile was brought up from the steamship dock..."

Bryce felt himself afire from heels to hair one instant, and cold and clammy the next, for Shirley spoke to him.

"I might have been dead, for all the interest you took in me," she replied sharply. "As matters stand, I'm exceedingly well—thank you."

He bowed. "Then I'll go wherever you are—and bring you back." And with a mocking little grin, he lifted his hat and passed on.

Col. Seth Pennington was among those who, skeptical at first and inclined to ridicule the project into an early grave...

Five minutes of serious reflection, followed by the Colonel to the verge of panic, notwithstanding the fact that he was ashamed of himself...

"Confound them!" the Colonel murmured distinctly. "I must look into this immediately."

"Look into what, uncle dear?" Shirley asked innocently.

"This new railroad that man Ogilvy talks of building—which means, Shirley, that with Sequoia as his starting point, he is going to build a hundred and fifty miles north to connect with the main line of the Southern Pacific in Oregon."

Carefully he dissected a sand-dab and removed the backbone. "I'd give a ripe peach to learn the identity of the scheming butchsky who bought old Cardigan's Valley of the Giants," he said presently.

to be punished for it, my dear; so don't rouse me any more. By the way, that speckled hot-rod fellow Ogilvy, who is promoting the Northern California and Oregon railroad, is back in town again. I think I'll wire the San Francisco office to look him up in Dun's and Bradstreet's. I'd sleep a whole lot more soundly to-night if I knew the answer to two very important questions.

"What are they, Uncle Seth?" "Well, I'd like to know whether the N. C. O. is genuine or a screen to hide the operations of the Trinidad Redwood Timber company."

"Hum-m-m!" Bryce granted. "That nifty fellow Ogilvy, eh?" "His clothes are simply wonderful—and so is his voice. He's very refined. But he's carryed red and has freckled hands, Mr. Bryce."

"Thank you so much, sir." He followed Bryce to the latter's private office, closed the door carefully behind him, and stood with his broad back against it.

"I'll not be here a year from now," she warned him.

the operations of Bryce Cardigan. Now that he knows you aren't going to renew his hauling contract, he may have decided to build his own logging railroad."

"I wonder if he'll fight to the last, Uncle Seth."

"Do tell me how," she pleaded eagerly.

"By making the mayor and the city council see things my way," he answered dryly. "Furthermore, in order to enter Sequoia, the N. C. O. will have to cross the tracks of the Laguna Grande Lumber company's line on Water street—make a jump-crossing—and I'll own them and hold them up in the courts till the cows come home."

"Well, at least I'm no slouch at looking after my own interests—and yours, Shirley. In the midst of peace we should be prepared for war. You've met Mayor Poundstone and his lady, haven't you?"

"I had tea at her house last week."

CHAPTER XII To return to Bryce Cardigan: Having completed his preliminary plans to build the N. C. O., Bryce had returned to Sequoia, prepared to sit quietly on the side lines and watch his peppery henchman Ogilvy go into action

Ogilvy's return to Sequoia following his three-week tour in search of rights of way for the N. C. O. was heralded by a visit from him to Bryce Cardigan at the latter's office. As he breasted the counter in the general office, Moira McTavish left her desk and came over to see what the visitor desired.

"I should like to see Mr. Bryce Cardigan," Buck began in crisp businesslike accents. He was fumbling in his card-case and did not look up until about to hand his card to Moira—when his mouth drew half open, and the while he stared at her with consummate frankness. The girl's glance met his momentarily, then was lowered modestly; she took the card and carried it to Bryce.

"Mr. Bryce Cardigan?" Buck queried. "At your service, Mr. Ogilvy. Please come in."

"Thank you so much, sir." He followed Bryce to the latter's private office, closed the door carefully behind him, and stood with his broad back against it.

"I don't know what it is, but it's nice. Who is she?" "She's Moira McTavish, and you're not to make love to her. Understand? I can't have you snooping around this office after to-day."

"No, you idiot." "Then I'll match you for her—or rather for the chance to propose first."

"I wouldn't care two hoots if her dad was old Nick himself. I'm going to marry her—if she'll have me. Ah, the glorious creature!" He waved his long arms despairingly. "O Lord, send me a cure for freckles. Bryce, you'll speak a kind word for me, won't you—sort of boom my stock, eh? Be a good fellow."

"Certainly. Now come down to earth and render a report on your stewardship."

"I'll try. To begin, I've secured rights of way, at a total cost of twelve thousand, one hundred and three dollars and nine cents, from the city limits of Sequoia to the southern boundary of your timber in Township nine, I've got my line surveyed, and so far as the building of the road is concerned, I know exactly what I'm going to do, and how and when I'm going to do it, once I get my material on the ground."

"I have an option of a rattling good second-hand locomotive down at the Santa Fe shops, and the Hawkins & Barnes Construction company has offered me a steam shovel, half a dozen flat-cars, and a lot of freenos and scrapers at ruinous prices. We can buy or rent teams from local citizens and get half of our labor locally. And as soon as you tell me how I'm to get my material ashore and out on the job, I'll order it and get busy."

"That's exactly where the shoe begins to pinch. Pennington's main-line tracks enter the city along Water street, with one spur into his log-dump and another out on his mill-dock. From the main-line tracks we also have built a spur through our drying yard out to our log-dump and a switch-line out to our mill-dock. We can unload our locomotive, steam shovel, and flat-cars on our own wharf, but unless Pennington gives us permission to use his main-line tracks out to a point beyond the city limits—where a Y will lead off to where the point of construction begins—we're up a stump."

"Suppose he refuses, Bryce. What then?" "Why, we'll simply have to enter the city down Front street, paralleling Pennington's tracks on Water street, turning down B street, make a jump-crossing of Pennington's line on Water street, and connecting with the spur into our yard."

"I thought so; otherwise you wouldn't talk so confidently of running your line over city streets and making jump-crossings on your competitor's road. If your competitor regards you as a menace to his pocket-book, he can give you a nice little run for your money and delay you indefinitely."

"I realize that, Buck. That's why I'm not appearing in this railroad deal at all. If Pennington suspected I was back of it, he'd fight me before the city council and move heaven and earth to keep me out of a franchise to use the city streets and cross his line. Of course, since his main line runs on city property, under a franchise granted by the city, the city has a perfect right to grant me the privilege of making a jump-crossing of his line."

"Will they do it? That's the problem. If they will not, you're licked, my son, and I'm out of a job."

"I've been too cocksure," he muttered presently. "I shouldn't have spent that twelve thousand for rights of way until I had settled the matter of the franchise."

"Oh, I didn't buy any rights of way—yet," Ogilvy hastened to assure him. "I've only signed the land-owners up on an agreement to give or sell me a right of way at the stipulated figures any time within one year from date. Will the city council grant you a franchise to enter the city and jump Pennington's tracks?"

"I'm sure I don't know, Buck. You'll have to ask them—sound them out. The council meets Saturday morning."

"They'll meet this evening—in the private dining room of the Hotel Sequoia, if I can arrange it," Buck Ogilvy declared emphatically. "I'm going to have them all up for dinner and talk the matter over. I know the breed from cover to cover. Following a preliminary conference, I'll let you know whether you're going to get that franchise without difficulty or whether somebody's itchy palm will have to be crossed with silver first. By the way, what do you know about your blighted old city council, anyway?"

HOLY WELLS SPREAD DISEASE Italian Pilgrims Resent Attempts to Prevent Their Using Polluted Pools They Hold Sacred.

Benares, the city of holy wells, is also the city of holy wells. A pilgrim in Benares can put in a busy day making the round of these landmarks and complying with the ceremonies prescribed for those who would drink from them.

Only the devout Indian pilgrim would care to drink of the sacred wells, for custom says that fowers must be flung into them as peace offerings, and these decayed floral offerings tend to make the water unfit for drinking. The British government did clean up some of the most holy and popular of the wells in the interests of sanitation. But the Hindus were not pleased. They come hundreds of miles to enjoy the benefits of the holy water, taste, scent and all they do not care to have it tampered with.

The most holy of the wells is the Well of Knowledge which stands near Benares' most ancient shrine, the Golden Temple, and is said to be the dwelling place of a very important god. The most mysterious of the wells is the Well of Fate. Any one who looks into the Well of Fate exactly at noon and falls to see his shadow in said to be doomed to die within six months. Of course, if the silent prophecy is unfavorable, the spirits can usually be bought off by offerings at the temple, conveniently well by.

In another well a snake god lives, and still another is dedicated to the spirit of healing. Pilgrims not only drink of the water of this well, but also bathe in it to make sure of the water's power being transferred to them. Half a million pilgrims tour the holy wells of Benares every year and drink enough of the water to stock up their systems with the germs of every disease known to India.

TIME TO PURCHASE FEEDERS

No Hard and Fast Rule for Farmer to Go By—Cattle Are Higher in Spring Than in Fall.

Sim Baxter's right leg was in temporary retirement under a layer of arnica-soaked bandages. He regarded the injured member with a glint of rueful humor and spoke thus to a neighbor who had dropped in for a chat with the cheerful invalid.

"Bert, tell me something. How can a feller tell when a mean white mule named Anarchy is going to kick? I mean, how can he tell in time to do him any good?"

"Human knowledge goes no further than to say that a white mule is always going to kick. Is that the answer? Then let me ask you a question: How do you know whether to buy your 'feeder' steers in the fall or in the spring? Do you make anything by feeding them in the winter, and will you make more if you let the other feller feed 'em through? They cost more in the spring than in the fall. Is there any way to be certain?"

Sim admitted that the thing was past his comprehension and confessed that he sometimes did the thing one way and sometimes the other, but that he never knew just how he was coming out.

In reality, as to the time to buy stockers or feeders, there is no hard and fast rule. The usual time is in the fall when they must leave the grazing areas and go where feeds have been harvested or stored for feeding. However, with a falling market, which no one can foretell with any degree of certainty, the cattle may not be worth enough more in the spring to pay for the winter feeding. Yet they have been kept largely on feed for which there is no other market.

Consequently, what Sim and his neighbor should know is how much it costs to keep stockers through the winter on various rations, how they lose or gain weight, and how they gain through the summer as a result of the way they have been wintered. Being in a better position to carry on feeding experiments to answer these questions than the cattlemen, the bureau of animal industry, co-operating with the West Virginia experiment station, conducted a series of feeding tests in Greenbrier county, West Virginia. The experiments began December 22, 1914, and covered a period of four years, the results being now published in department bulletin 870. In brief, 30 yearling steers were selected each year and divided into three lots of ten steers each. When the lots were carefully equalized, the average weight of the animals was 663 pounds each. The steers were on winter rations an average of 130 days, and on pasture an average of 158 days each year.

The tests proved that an average daily ration of 19.8 pounds of silage, five pounds of mixed hay, and 2.5 pounds of wheat straw during the winter would maintain these steers without loss of weight.

An average daily ration of 23.1 pounds of corn silage, 4.9 pounds of wheat straw and one pound of cottonseed meal would give each steer an average gain of 62 pounds.

A daily ration of 11.9 pounds of mixed hay and 4.1 pounds of wheat straw fed throughout the winter will not keep the animal in good condition. This ration was responsible for a loss of 35 pounds per steer. Corn silage gave better results than dry roughage alone, and the steers that had silage as a part of their winter ration made greater total gains than those fed on hay and straw.

The cost of feed averaged throughout the four years was as follows: Corn silage ..... $4.00 Mixed hay ..... 18.00 Hay ..... 15.00 Soy-bean hay ..... 17.00 Wheat straw ..... 7.00 Cottonseed meal ..... 50.00

The bulletin records feeding tests that will be extremely valuable to the farmers of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee and the adjacent states, and for them it does much to answer the question that puzzled Sim and his friends. The bulletin may be had on application to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

Feel All Worn Out?

Has a cold, grip, or other infectious disease sapped your strength? Do you suffer backache, lack ambition, feel dull and depressed? Look to your kidneys! Physicians agree that kidney trouble often results from infectious disease. Too often the kidneys are neglected because the sufferer doesn't realize they have broken down under the strain of filtering disease-created poisons from the blood. If your back is bad, your kidneys act irregularly, and you feel all run down, use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. Ask your neighbor!

Bad Stomach Sends Her to Bed for 10 Months

Eaton's Gets Her Up!

"Over a year ago," says Mrs. Dora Williams, "I took to bed and for 10 months did not think I would live. Eaton's helped me so much I am now up and able to work. I recommend it highly for stomach trouble."

Eaton's helps people to get well by taking up and carrying out the excess acidity and gases that put the stomach out of order. If you have indigestion, sourness, heartburn, belching, food repeating, or other stomach distress, take an Eaton's after each meal. Big box costs only a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

Dry Docks and Vessels Burn at New Orleans

The breaking of an electric wire which short-circuited in the oil-covered waters under the Jahncke dry docks at New Orleans, is believed to have caused the fire which spread with incredible swiftness, enveloping the docks and ships, where 800 men were working. Estimates placed the damage at about $10,000,000, nine ships being included in this.

Lend Farmers Two Billions

Governor Harding Says Reserve Banks Increased Instead of Restricting Loans.

FIGURES REFUTE CHARGES

More Than Two-and-a-Half Times as Much Paper Was Discounted in Eleven Months of 1920 as in the Year 1919—Report to Gronna.

Washington.—More than two and one-half times as much agricultural paper was rediscounted by Federal Reserve banks in the 11 months down to December 1, 1920, as was rediscounted during the entire year of 1919, according to estimates furnished by Governor Harding of the federal reserve board to Senator A. J. Gronna, chairman of the senate committee on agriculture.

E. A. Ammons, former governor of Colorado, introduced an amendment to the packer legislation resolution providing that regulation of the packers should be "by law" instead of by a commission, as contemplated under the Gronna bill, and providing that such legislation cover all branches of the industry, including transportation, marketing, manufacturing and distribution.

After each side had debated for thirty minutes, Ammons withdrew his amendment, as he said he understood Dr. J. M. Wilson of McKinley, Wyo., wanted to present a minority report from the resolutions committee. After the Ammons amendment had been withdrawn, a vote was called for on the original resolution and it was declared carried by an aye and nay vote. Dr. Wilson then announced that he would not present a minority report.

Gompers Waves Peace Wand.

The outstanding fact in the Congress of the Pan-American Federation of Labor has been the evident desire on the part of Spanish-speaking delegates to receive official assurances from American delegates that the American Federation of Labor does not contemplate exercising dominance over actions of smaller labor bodies belonging to the Pan-American body.

All fears apparently have been put to rest, however, by a statement from Mr. Gompers, who announced from the chair that "the American Federation will do everything possible to guarantee to even the smaller Pan-American nation rights of self-expression."

American Captain Held by Reds.

Washington.—Capt. Emmett Kilpatrick, American Red Cross worker, who was reported last November to have been killed by the Bolsheviks, is in jail at Moscow, advices to the State Department said. It was added that he was captured last Oct. 29 while engaged in relief work along the front occupied by the Wrangel forces in the Crimea.

Frame Bonus Bill.

A bonus of $15 for each month of service rendered by Colorado men and women during the World war, is proposed in a bill before the Colorado Legislature. Under this plan $3,000,000 will be given to Colorado veterans.

The measure declares that it is not the intention that it shall be construed as a bonus or special privilege, but rather as a testimonial to meritorious service, and an indication that those who go to the defense of their country will be liberally rewarded.

Rivals Ponzis' Famous Coup.

A rigid investigation into the million-dollar German mark swindle, in which thousands of credulous investors throughout the country have been robbed, has been ordered by Assistant Attorney General Hurwitz of Massachusetts. This latest get-rich-quick scheme, which promises to affect far more investors and involve much more money than the famous Ponzis scheme, was brought to light by the arrest of three Massachusetts men connected with the firm of Rothschild-Campbell Company.

the proceeds of such loans have been applied by the borrowing banks for agricultural purposes, but it is impossible to state the amount.

Conditions Similar in Other Banks.

"The same is true with respect to loans made by member banks in Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, New Orleans and other financial centers throughout the country. Non-member State banks lend large sums in the aggregate for agricultural purposes. But as they have no dealings with the Federal Reserve banks their loans to farmers are not reflected in the figures furnished by the Federal Reserve banks, although it is a fact that all Federal Reserve banks have been lending a large amount to member banks, which have in turn rediscounted paper for nonmember banks.

"It should be borne in mind also that the total amount of farmers' notes rediscounted by Federal Reserve banks gives no indication of the amount advanced by the Federal Reserve banks to finance the production and sale of farm products, since large amounts advanced to member banks in other districts on commercial and industrial paper are used by these banks for loans to agricultural interests. Only the Federal Reserve banks of Richmond, Atlanta, St. Louis and Minneapolis have taken account of loans of this character by increasing proportionately the amounts formally classed as farmers' paper.

"In view of these facts, it is evident that the compilation transmitted herewith is valuable merely as indicating the increased amount of agricultural paper rediscounted by the Federal Reserve banks for member banks during the year 1920 over the year 1919.

More Loans Than Are Tabulated.

In his letter to Senator Gronna, Governor Harding intimates that while his figures are merely estimates based on the production and sales of farm products, undoubtedly much more money than is tabulated was actually loaned to the farmers. He writes: "In compliance with the request made in your letter of December 14 for information regarding the amount of actual agricultural paper rediscounted during the years 1919 and 1920 (to date), based on agricultural production and sales of the respective years, I have the honor to submit herewith copy of a tabular statement compiled from telegraphic data received from all Federal Reserve banks.

"Section 13 of the federal reserve act provides that notes, drafts and bills drawn or issued for agricultural purposes or based on live stock having a maturity of not longer than six months, are eligible for rediscount by a Federal Reserve bank, the limit of maturity in all other cases being 90 days. The Federal Reserve banks rediscount large amounts of agricultural paper which has a maturity not exceeding 90 days, but such paper is classified with other paper of like maturity.

"Therefore, agricultural and live stock paper, as shown by the Federal Reserve banks, applies only to paper having a maturity of longer than 90 days. The board receives this information from day to day and the amount of agricultural discount at each Federal Reserve bank, that is, paper having a maturity of from ninety days to six months, is published each month in the Federal Reserve Bulletin.

"The special figures furnished by the Federal Reserve banks in accordance with your request are in all cases estimates, no exact figures of the total volume of loans for agricultural purposes being available at the Federal Reserve banks. In the first place, most of the borrowings at Federal Reserve banks by member banks during the year 1919 and a considerable proportion of those borrowings during the current year have been in the form of the borrowing banks' own notes, secured by government obligations or by commercial, industrial and agricultural paper. It is known that member banks in New York city have made large loans to their correspondent banks throughout the country, and it is reasonable to suppose that part of of nonagricultural paper, the proceeds of which may have been used by the member banks to finance production and sales of agricultural staples.

Governor Harding's estimate of the paper rediscounted with the Federal Reserve banks, based on the production and sale of farm products, follows: In each case the 1919 figures are given first, and the 1920 figures second. The figures, as applied to the Federal Reserve banks in each of 12 cities, are:

Table with columns: City, 1919, 1920. Includes Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas, San Francisco. Total for 12 banks: $725,265,000 in 1919 and $1,986,062,000 in 1920.

The second table alluded to by Governor Harding, showing the total amount of live stock and agricultural paper held by each Federal Reserve bank on the last Friday of every month during the last two years reveals that the 12 banks began with $39,001,000 of this paper in January, 1919, going to $68,250,000 in June of that year and decreasing to $15,068,000 in December last year. From $50,905,000 in January, 1920, the amount rose steadily until no less than $245,500,000 was in the banks in November of last year.

3,000 GERMANS TO BRAZIL

Wait in Fatherland to Embark for South America—One Province Wants 1,000.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.—Three thousand Germans, some unaccompanied, others with their families, are waiting in Germany to embark for Brazil, where they wish to settle, according to advices received by the Brazilian ministry of agriculture from the German emigration department.

Governors of all Brazilian states have been asked by the head of the Brazilian immigration service whether they wish to accept German colonists and bear expense of transportation. Espirito Santo state has replied that it is prepared to accept 1,000. Other states have not yet responded.

The Kitchen Cabinet

(By 1321, Western Newspaper Union.) Dr. Johnson was as constitutionally prone to melancholy as any man who ever lived, yet he said: "Man's being in good or bad humor depends very much upon his own will. The habit of looking on the bright side of things," he added, "is worth more than a thousand pounds a year."

MEALS FOR THE CHILDREN.

There is much on the grownup's tables which should never be given to children and the custom of having them served away from the temptation of such food is followed in most families. The mother who takes time to study her child will in her general reading and conversation with other mothers learn many attractive ways of serving the common foods that are included in her children's diet.

Any ripe fruit or dried stewed fruit, mashed until fine and stirred through cereal such as oatmeal, cream of wheat rice or corn meal well cooked will make a pleasant change from the ordinary serving of cereal.

A different arrangement of the food, a new dish, a garnish of some well-liked food will often be an appetizer for a flagging appetite. Our stockmen tell us that the young animal should never stop growing and they see to it that they don't, for it means an increase in profits. How much more important is it that the little human animal be fed so that there may be no weak places in the body structure to appear in later life!

Some day our states will look after the feeding of our children who are to do the world's work, with as much expenditure of funds and energy as they do now on the stock, valuable as that is. Bread and butter grows monotonous but when sprinkled with a bit of grated maple sugar or a layer of bright jelly, it is seldom refused. Baked apples, baked pears, baked bananas, as well as baked potatoes, are all good food.

Other suggestions are—eggs carefully scrambled with milk or baked with cream and bread crumbs until just set. Plain bread and butter cut in fancy shapes with cookie cutters and garnished in various ways. Baked custards, flavored with caramel, tapioca with apple, rice with dates.

The yield of a hard cooked egg, mashed and mixed with plenty of butter, spread on a slice of buttered bread, makes a most nourishing sandwich. Plenty of good fresh apples, scraped for a young child, and for the older ones well masticated, will keep them in good health.

The budget plan is a sort of blue print of what one proposes to do with the funds at command. The builder can do his work properly only with suitable plans before him. The difference between the structure erected with a plan and that erected without one is great. The difference between the results of an income administered according to system and those spent at random is one of just about the same degree. To attempt to work without a well-formulated plan, means a haphazard and unsatisfactory result.

GOOD THINGS IN SEASON.

Sour cream is so delicious in cakes, biscuits, muffins and cookies, that not one bit should ever go to waste. Sour Cream Cake.—Sift together two and one-fourth cups of flour with two teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and nutmeg. Add one and one-fourth cups of sugar, one-half cup of nuts, and one cup of chopped and floured raisins. Stir into one cupful of thick sour cream one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in one table-spoonful of water. Add to this one-fourth of a cupful of softened butter and stir well mixed. Combine the flour and other dry ingredients with the cream and butter; beat together and bake in a paper-lined loaf tin. One or two eggs may be added if eggs are plentiful, making the cake richer. A cake using milk may be made with sour cream, using the cream as a substitute for the milk and counting the cream as equal to one-third cupful of shortening.

Scotch Soup With Prunes.—Cut into bits one pound and a half of veal and three ounces of bacon. Put into a soup kettle with one large onion, three ounces of butter, one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt and one of pepper. Cook until the veal is browned, add three pints of water and one and one-half dozen prunes and cook slowly for one hour. Strain, thicken with flour and serve with whipped cream.

Potatoes in Bacon.—Peel good sized potatoes and cook in boiling water for fifteen minutes. Remove from the oven and wrap each potato in a slice of bacon, fastening with a toothpick. Place in the oven and cook until the bacon is well cooked.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT. Pigeons in Cabbage.—Cut two pigeon in quarters, put them into a saucepan with three strips of bacon and six sausages. Add a little water and cook slowly until the birds are tender. Cut the heart from a large cabbage, leave a shell to hold the shape. Fill the cavity with the pigeons, bacon, sausage with seasonings of onion, onion, chopped celery salt and pepper. Tie in a cheesecloth and steam until the cabbage is tender.

Bird's Nuptial Plumage.

Many birds have a plumage which is peculiar to the breeding season, and which is therefore called the nuptial plumage. The egret, or white heron, acquires during the period of courtship the exquisite plumes which have very nearly led to their extermination by man. Among other species, such as the scarlet tanager and the bobolink, the striking plumage of the male bird is replaced after the nesting season by a suit of feathers much resembling that of the inconspicuous female.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Gentle Reminder.

"The storm burst upon us so suddenly we had no warning of its approach," related the tornado victim. "In an instant the house was demolished and scattered to the four winds. How I escaped being torn to pieces I do not know. . . ."

"Good Lord!" ejaculated little Mr. Meek. "That reminds me. I almost forgot to do an errand for my wife."—American Legion Weekly.

Cuticura Soothes Itching Scalp

On retiring gently rub spots of dandruff and itching with Cuticura Ointment. Next morning shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Make them your every-day toilet preparations and have a clear skin and soft, white hands.—Adv.

Acute Suffering.

"I wish you'd ask somebody else to collect this bill from Mr. Wadleigh," said the new collector. "What's the matter?"

"I've had some experience in cutting on Mr. Wadleigh for another firm. He pays, but his groans are so heart-rending I'm unfit for work the rest of the day."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Look Out for Rheumatism As Winter Approaches. So many cases of Rheumatism come from a tiny disease germ that infests the blood, that physicians are beginning to realize that this source of the disease is becoming quite prevalent. Of course a disease that has its source in the blood cannot be reached by local remedies applied to the surface. One remedy that has given splendid results in the treatment of Rheumatism is S.S.S., the fine oil blood remedy that has been sold by druggists for more than fifty years. S.S.S. acts by driving out of the blood the disease germ that causes Rheumatism, thus affording real relief. Begin taking S.S.S. today and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical director will give you expert advice, without charge. # Establishing A New Price Basis

The Reconstruction Period Is On

Every article in our store bears its proper reduction. You can shop here with confidence that prices are RIGHT

WE BELIEVE the era of high prices is rapidly passing. Production has overtaken demand and prevailing replacement costs are forcing prices downward. To meet this new condition it is our desire and intention to strike bottom in our first revision of prices.

This means a tremendous loss to us which is your gain. Those who know us know we are not special sale folks and we do not want you to confuse this price revision with the ordinary special ten day sale commonly employed by other merchants. Prices quoted in our stores will prevail until the goods now in stock are sold and will continue to prevail unless market conditions demand further revision. Many odd lots of lines to be closed out or discontinued are priced far below replacement cost. We invite you to participate in these money saving values and suggest you do not delay else you may be too late.

Note carefully every price quoted, make accurate comparison and you will be convinced of our superiority in the merchandising field and the tremendous advantage to be gained by placing your confidence in an institution doing each year approximately a fifty million dollar ($50,000,000.00) business whose savings in quantity buying are passed on to its patrons.

You need now many items of dry goods, furnishings, shoes, clothing and ready-to-wear apparel. BUY THEM—you can be sure our prices are right.
