ARMISTICE DAY SEES BIG CROWD IN NOGALES

The fifth anniversary of the ending of the world war was celebrated in Nogales by a three-day celebration under the auspices of Ridge Lea Post, American Legion. The third day, Monday, a big parade was held in the morning and the day's festivities wound up at the high school athletic ground with a football game between Nogales Hi and Tombstone Hi, which resulted in a victory for the Nogales team, 48 to 0.

Following the parade, speaking had been arranged for opposite the city hall, but the speaker of the day failed to put in an appearance, the crowd being entertained by the 25th Infantry band. An unexpected outpour of entertainment was furnished by Art Cook and Hank Myers, who gave a dancing number that brought forth much applause.

Altogether the celebration was pronounced a huge success by members of the American Legion.

HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS MAY NOT SELL WILD DUCKS

In response to inquiries as to whether it is lawful for hotels and restaurants to serve wild ducks and geese, the United States department of agriculture states that the provisions of the migratory bird treaty act and regulations make it unlawful to buy or sell wild ducks or other migratory birds or parts thereof, except under proper permits for scientific or propagating purposes.

Migratory waterfowl raised in captivity under proper federal and state permits may be bought or sold and served in hotels or restaurants, but this does not apply to any wild birds, including those that have been captured under permit for propagating purposes, as birds thus captured may not be killed or sold for food purposes at any time.

In serving of the flesh of wild bird with meals in hotels, restaurants, or other places is unlawful if a price is charged for the meal, and the statute can not be avoided under a pretense that no charge is being made for the flesh of wild birds.

ARIZONA CATTLE IN DEMAND ON PACIFIC COAST

PHOENIX—With good range cattle and prices ranging as high as $12 were the demand for steers in the California market is excellent. So brisk has been the movement of cattle recently that many of the California cowboys are experiencing difficulty in finding order for cars.

While the average price of good steers is something less than the price quoted above, according to estimates, there has been a continued demand for this class of stock during the entire shipping season and the prices have been good compared with former years.

PHOENIX—Arizona's greatest state fair, an exposition inaugurated in part of the west, was opened in Phoenix Monday by a record-breaking throng of more than 24,000 persons.

Long before the last of the myriad had passed through the gates, the seating stands at the grounds were full. Crowds lined around the race-track and within the oval during the day, opening a six-day exposition of the master of exhibits of much of Arizona's art and industry.

The opening, inaugurating a 24-day winter racing season, was a big attraction for visitors.

Group of Local Business Men to Erect a Demonstration Plant in This District; Company Has Been Organized; Preliminary Work Will Commence Within a Short Time; Inventions Are Patented in Ten Countries; Has Unlimited Possibilities

Patagonia's mining interests soon will be in better position to operate at a profit. Hundreds of mines in this district have been forced to close down because the cost of shipping ore to the smelters has been prohibitive.

Last Sunday night a company was organized to exploit the Kuenzel smelter and hydrogen-oxygen gas generating patents, which will permit mine owners to install smelter units on their own properties and extract the metals therefrom, eliminating the high cost of shipping concentrates and ore—bullion will be shipped to metal buyers and the smelters that have been making enormous profits at the expense of the mine operators will have to look elsewhere for their profits.

The Patagonia mining district has enormous quantities of ore running under $40 per ton that cannot be shipped at a profit. The Kuenzel patent process of extracting metal from the ore will permit these properties to mine ore running around $1 per ton in value on which a nice profit can be realized.

The Kuenzel patents are not new, untried things, but have been used in this country and Mexico at different times for several years, and have been reported on by well known mining engineers. A smelter operating under the Kuenzel patents was erected at Brema Vista, Colo., several years ago for about three years. The property was closed down only after the patentee had had difficulty with a well-known smelting company in a deal whereby the patentee lost control of the smelter through a "business" deal whereby the smelting company is said to have purchased a controlling interest in the stock of the company after a "gentleman's agreement" had been entered into by Mr. Kuenzel and his associates to reimburse him in stock with a controlling interest in a re-incorporation after he had allowed the controlling interest in the old company to slip away from him under a promise of having his control restored when a new company with increased capitalization was effected. The promise was never kept, according to the son of the patentee, and an injunction was granted the inventor restraining the new company from using his patents, compelling the smelter to close.

After Mr. Kuenzel's bitter experience, he endeavored to start anew, and went to Mexico, erecting a small unit in Sinaloa, but before he could get the proper amount of advertising he was stricken with a fatal illness and died at the Blackwood hotel, Nogales, leaving his son, Fred W. Kuenzel as sole heir to the valuable patents. The son immediately took steps to have the Kuenzel smelter patents exploited, with the result that a company has been formed in Patagonia with the exclusive right to exploit them in Arizona, Texas, and the United States of Mexico with the exception of Sinaloa, where a California company has the concession to operate.

The new company has adopted the name Arizona-Kuenzel Smelting Company and will incorporate immediately under the laws of Arizona. It is planned to erect a demonstration smelter in or near Patagonia, which, when completed, will serve to advertise the Kuenzel patents to the mining world. It is believed that in the near future Patagonia will have realized its dream to become one of the leading mining districts in the world.

It is the desire of Mr. Kuenzel, through the formation of the Arizona-Kuenzel Smelting Company, to exploit the Kuenzel patents in Arizona, Texas, and the United States of Mexico with the exception of Sinaloa, where a California company has the concession to operate. The Kuenzel patents are not new, untried things, but have been used in this country and Mexico at different times for several years, and have been reported on by well known mining engineers. A smelter operating under the Kuenzel patents was erected at Brema Vista, Colo., several years ago for about three years. The property was closed down only after the patentee had had difficulty with a well-known smelting company in a deal whereby the patentee lost control of the smelter through a "business" deal whereby the smelting company is said to have purchased a controlling interest in the stock of the company after a "gentleman's agreement" had been entered into by Mr. Kuenzel and his associates to reimburse him in stock with a controlling interest in a re-incorporation after he had allowed the controlling interest in the old company to slip away from him under a promise of having his control restored when a new company with increased capitalization was effected. The promise was never kept, according to the son of the patentee, and an injunction was granted the inventor restraining the new company from using his patents, compelling the smelter to close.

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true.—Mrs. M. Lodic, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

Veteran Refuses Prize Car.

John Dumphry, a big, red-headed, Irish sergeant in "A" battery of the one Hundred Fifty-first field artillery during the World war, recently tossed away a ticket which entitled him to receive a $200 automobile, because he said some other person was more deserving of it. A merchant's contest held in connection with a "Tim festival" of a St. Paul post of the American Legion was enhanced by the award of a car to a certain lucky person, and Dumphry's name was the first drawn. The former soldier, busy at work "hoisting" the festival, had tickets, but because he was so closely connected with the event, he refused the car when his number was selected, saying that he preferred that it go to some citizen who supported the Legion's show.

Many American Legion posts in western Kansas participated in a baseball tournament, held under auspices of the Legion post at South Center. A purse of $750 was offered to the winner of the tournament and the winning team was sent to compete for the state championship.

TAX REDUCTION FOR NEXT YEAR

SECRETARY MELLON WILL PRESENT PROPOSALS FOR ASSESSMENT CUT OF $323,003,000

LOWER INCOME TAXES

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE FOR A 25 PER CENT REDUCTION ON EARNINGS

Washington—Revision of federal taxes, estimated to reduce the total assessment by $323,000,000 next year, is proposed in the program approved by Secretary Mellon for submission to Congress.

Recommendations are made for a 25 per cent reduction in the taxes on earned income; reduction of the normal taxes on incomes from 4 per cent and 8 per cent to 3 per cent and 6 per cent respectively. Application of the surtax at $10,000 instead of $5,000 and scaling progressively upwards to 25 per cent on incomes of $100,000 and repeal of the taxes on admissions and on telegrams, telephone messages and leased wires.

Against these reductions the program provides taxation increases by limitation of the deduction of capital losses to 12 1/2 per cent of the loss and limitation of the deduction from gross income for interest paid during the year and for losses not of a business character to the amount the sum of these items exceeds tax-exempt income of the taxpayer. It is proposed also to tax community property income of the taxpayer having control of the income.

Mr. Mellon suggests that the changes be made effective next June 1. Mr. Mellon's program is outlined in a letter sent by him to Acting Chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee and made public recently at the treasury.

Mr. Mellon expressed confidence that the ordinary expenses of the government would be reduced during the current fiscal year to a total of not more than $2,500,000,000, of which about $600,000,000 will be fixed charges on account of the sinking fund and other retirements of the debt.

Declaring it appeared that for this year and for the next four or five years there would be a surplus of something more than $200,000,000 a year over and above expenditures chargeable to the ordinary budget, including the fixed debt charges payable out of current revenues, the treasury head asserted that "this gives a reasonable margin not merely for tax revision, but also for tax reduction."

"To show the effect of the proposed changes on the income of a typical salaried taxpayer, married and having two children, I call your attention to the following comparative figures:

Table with 4 columns: Income, Present Tax, Proposed Tax, Sparing to taxpayer. Rows show income levels from $4,000 to $10,000.

A roulette outfit and sack full of silver dollars, which the police say were used instead of chips; dice, other gambling devices and cards of elaborate prizes were taken as evidence, according to police.

Chicago—Harry Hayden, alias David B. Erik, an alleged confidence game man, who was arrested in Chicago after a lively chase from a hotel and down Michigan avenue, is wanted in New York, Jacksonville, Fla., Denver, Houston and other cities, the police announced they had learned recently. Hayden was arrested on a charge of participating in an alleged swindle that the police said may be worth $100,000.

Indian Summer Not Fixed Season

Washington—"Indian summer" is not a definitely fixed season in the calendar, officials of the weather bureau declare, but varies in date and duration and is not, strictly speaking, a season at all, but merely a type of mild, calm, haze weather likely to prevail at any time in the autumn or early winter. The popular belief that "Indian summer" is a period occurring more or less regularly every autumn is not based on accurate meteorological observations.

American Farm Bureau

The legislative committee of the American Farm Bureau federation, O. E. Bradfute, president; Executive Committeemen E. H. Wood, Kentucky; Howard Leonard, Illinois; Frank App, New Jersey. Gray Silver, Washington representative of the farm bureau is secretary of this committee. It is Mr. Silver's department in Washington that is entrusted with the task of putting over the program adopted.

Members of the legislative committee of the American Farm Bureau federation recently lunched with President Coolidge and discussed in detail with the President the farm bureau's legislative program for the next session of congress. Representing the farm bureau were O. E. Bradfute, president; General E. H. Wood, Kentucky; Frank App, New Jersey; W. G. Jamison, Colorado, and Edward B. Reid, as assistant Washington representative.

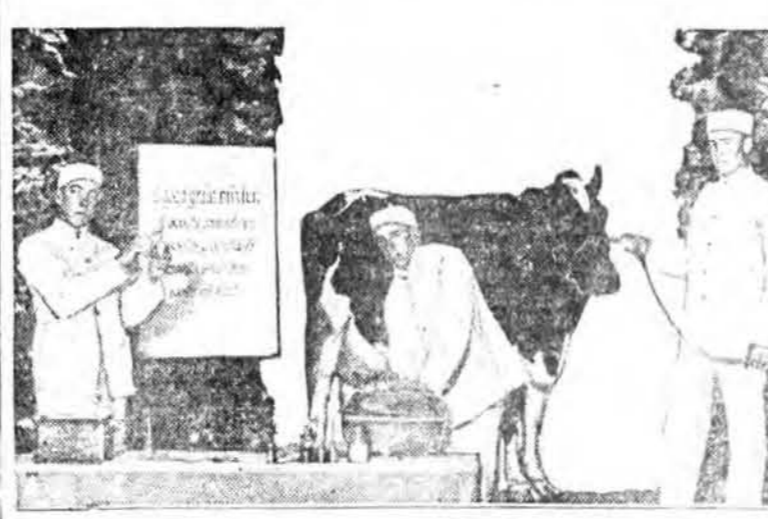

The legislative program, as outlined to President Coolidge, restricted itself to eight general points, the farm bureau representatives assuring the President that it was not the purpose of the federation to develop a long involved program, or to interest itself in things not directly affecting farm interests.

On certain points the committee held open their opinion and indicated that a referendum would be taken of the entire farm bureau membership so that the farm bureau legislative program should accurately reflect the true wish of the membership.

Immigration Discussed. The question of immigration was discussed at some length, the thought of the farmers being that there should be a selective immigration as at present, but that the passports should be issued at the ports of embarkation and that the quota should be based upon the number of foreign born in this country as reported in 1890 instead of 1910. This would lessen materially the number of immigrants that would come in, but should tend to open the doors to a better class.

The opposition of the farm bureau to governmental price fixing was plainly stated, the legislative committee telling the President they did not believe that congress could in this way assist the farmers. It was indicated that the price fixing position would be further established by referendum.

In discussing taxation, the present program of the farm bureau was gone over carefully and the President was reminded that the farmers would insist upon an excess profit tax if more money had to be raised, and that the federation would continue its fight against a general sales tax. The farm bureau committee expressed a desire to make a further study of the matter of the limitation of the tax free securities before starting a definite plan.

NATION FAVORED SAYS PRESIDENT

DEATH OF HARDING IS HELD TEST TO REFINE MEN BY COOLIDGE

PROCLAMATION ISSUED

FIRST THANKSGIVING DAY ORDER DWELLS ON THE TRAGIC EVENTS OF PAST YEAR

Washington—President Coolidge's Thanksgiving day proclamation calls to mind that the year has brought to the American people two tragic experiences, the death of President Harding and the Japanese earthquake. But says that such experiences serve to hasten refinement and nation.

The proclamation follows in part: "By the President of the United States of America: 'A PROCLAMATION: "The American people, from their earliest days, have observed the year's custom of acknowledging with grateful hearts the bounty with which divine Providence has favored them. In the beginnings of this acknowledgment was a voluntary offering of thanks by the community for the fruitfulness of the harvest. Though our mode of life has greatly changed, this custom has always survived. It has made Thanksgiving day not only one of the oldest, but one of the most characteristic observances of our country. On that day, in home, in church, in family and in public gatherings the whole nation has for generations paid the tribute due from grateful hearts for blessings bestowed. "The year has brought to our people two tragic experiences which have deeply affected them. One was the death of our beloved President Harding, which has been mourned wherever there is a realization of the worth of high ideals, noble purpose and unselfish service carried even to the end of supreme sacrifice. His loss recalled the nation to a less capricious and more charitable attitude. It sobered the whole thought of the country. A little later came the unparalleled disaster to the friendly people of Japan. This called forth from the people of the United States a demonstration of deep and humane feeling. It was wrought in the substance of good works. It created new evidences of our international friendship which is a guarantee of world peace. It rekindled the charitable impulse of the country. "By experiences such as these, men and nations are tested and refined. We have been blessed with much of material prosperity. We shall be better able to appreciate it if we remember the privations others have suffered, and we shall be more worthy of it if we use it for their relief. "We will do well then to render thanks for the good that has come to us, and show by our actions that we have become stronger, wiser and truer by the chastenings which have been imposed upon us. "To center our thought in this way upon the favor which we have been given has been altogether wise and desirable. It has given opportunity justly to lighten the load and the evil which we have experienced in that we have never failed to find reasons for being grateful to God for a general prosperity proportionate to the need. Even in the most prosperous times our friend contemplation of our wide position has never failed to disclose overwhelming reasons for thanksgiving. Thus viewing our situation we have found warrant for a more hopeful and confident attitude toward the future. "Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby fix and designate Thursday, the twenty-ninth day of November, as Thanksgiving day, and recommend the general observance throughout the land. It is urged that the people show in their homes and their usual places of worship, give expression to their gratitude for the benefits and blessings that a gracious Providence has bestowed upon them, and seek the guidance of Almighty God that they may deserve a continuance of His favor. "No witness wanted. I have directed to set out here and posted in the fixed (has great) seal of the United States. "Done at the City of Washington, this fifth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, and of the independence of the United States the eighty-eighth and forty-eighth." THE WORLD A MINE

Every one you meet 's a prospector, Wherever you may go.

Every man and woman prospects As they travel to and fro; And all day long, through starry night, Where sun and moon doth shine, The people are prospecting And the world 's a busy mine.

Merchants, tradesmen, soapmen, doctors, All are pocket-hunting found; Fashion men run a ground sluice In the best of paying ground. Life lawyer cleans up bedrock From the day a case begins, And when the verdict's rendered The gold is in his pan.

The mechanic is a drifter In pay streaks near and far, The pick-and-shovel labor man Must take the shallow bar, The preacher man's the air pump And, strangely to relate, He, last it has the stamp on When it passes to the pate.

Farmers, sailors use hydraulics; They work the surface ground; The scholar blasts the deep hard rock In a knowledge mine profound. The statesman tends the tramway gear From the valley to the crest, And when the pinnacle is reached Look, down upon the rest.

Every one you meet 's a prospector, No matter what they say; But in the art of cleaning up Each has a different way. But at the final cleanup The neighbors gather 'round And sink a shaft just 4 by 6 And lay you in the ground. —Fred W. Schaeffer.

OLDEST HIGHWAY IN N. MEXICO

The most ancient highway in North America is said to be the New Mexico section of the National Old Trails road. According to Judge J. M. Lowe, president of the National Old Trails Road Association, this section of the great highway is the oldest road established on the North American continent. It extends from Socorro to Santa Fe, about 150 miles. Don Juan Onate, a Spanish, who was governor of New Spain (which comprised all of Mexico) in the fifteenth century, was the first man to establish a road in America.

Long years before the Pilgrim Fathers landed at Plymouth Rock, Onate had marked out and established this road, which started at Santa Barbara, now Jimenez, Mexico, and ended in the vicinity of what is now Santa Fe, New Mexico. This territory had been claimed by the King of Spain in 1598, and in 1696 Santa Fe was founded as the capital of New Spain. This route was used later as a highway over which goods were freighted from the Gulf of Mexico via Vera Cruz via the City of Mexico and Santa Barbara, until the Santa Fe Trail was opened under the act of congress of 1824.

This old road was then known as the "Camino Real" (the King's Highway) and it traversed the Rio Grande valley from the Gulf to Santa Fe.

MANY RANGE CATTLE DIE FROM EATING POISON WEED

A poison weed is believed to be the cause of the death of more than 150 head of cattle on the ranges about Elgin, according to Dr. S. E. Douglas, state veterinarian, who recently returned to Phoenix from a trip of inspection of the dead animals. Dr. Douglas stated that a re-examination of the animals failed to disclose that their death was due to a disease.

A pathological examination has been ordered of the vital organs of a number of the dead animals, and this should show the cause of death. The cattle, Dr. Douglas said, do not appear to be ill from any disease, but drop suddenly on the range and are dead in a few minutes.

This would indicate, he said, that the cattle had died from eating a poisonous weed on the range. This can be determined by a pathological examination only.

ARIZONA LAND AVAILABLE FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

TUCSON.—Irrigated farm tracts purchased by the state of Arizona are now available for ex-service men, according to Preman E. Stewart, state commander of the Disabled American Veterans, who has just received a number of application blanks and full information as to the means of applying for a farm.

With the land goes a home and other improvements that will help the former soldiers to get a start. The buying of land by the state for ex-service men is only an experiment, Commander Stewart stated. If the venture proves successful, other tracts will be made available and the project will continue on a large scale.

SNOW IN CATALINA MOUNTAINS

TUCSON.—The first snow of the season in Pima county was reported at the forest service headquarters in Tucson November 9 by rangers stationed in the Catalina mountains.

Snow has been falling for several days on the north side of the range, it was said, but has melted rapidly. Forest service men do not expect heavy snows for three or four weeks.

PHOENIX.—A versatile aerial attack, combined with costly fumbles by their opponents, enabled the California Aggies to defeat the University of Arizona football eleven, 9 to 7, before a crowd of 20,000 here Monday afternoon. The game was played at the state fair grounds in conjunction with the opening of the state fair and the winter racing season.

The Arizona team, which had been favored to win, scored its only touchdown in the third period, when Brookshire carried the ball over after Brown took the ball more than 35 yards toward the Aggies' goal. Clark kicked goal.

FEDERAL LAND BANK SAYS DRR FARMS NOT GOOD SECURITY

The following very interesting letter was received by Hon. Frank J. Duffy, secretary-treasurer of the Tabac National Farm Loan Association from A. M. Morton, secretary of the Federal Land Bank of Berkeley, Calif., and seems to indicate that some of our "prominent citizens" threw a wrench into the machinery—for what purpose. Read the communication and judge for yourself:

The Federal Land Bank of Berkeley, District No. 11—California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Berkeley, California, October 19, 1923.

Mr. Frank J. Duffy, Secy. Treas., Tabac N. F. L. A., Nogales, Arizona. Dear Sir: Your note of October 12, 1923, requesting a supply of blank application forms was received in due course and has been held awaiting decision of the bank officers as to their attitude towards the acceptance of further business from the Tabac Association territory.

As you probably know, the bank assigned an appraiser to make an exhaustive study of the history of agricultural effort under dry farm conditions of your section. His report has now been received and the same has been carefully considered by the executive committee of the bank and a decision reached, to the effect that no more loans should be granted through your association for the time being, or until such time as the settlers' efforts have proven conclusively the worth of that territory from an agricultural standpoint to merit the continuance of placing loans there.

We regret exceedingly that conditions are not more favorable and that it is necessary to withdraw. In brief, the information points out that a large number of settlers in the past have found it necessary to seek a more favorable location, that they were unable to successfully conduct unfavorable natural conditions, that probably lenders and merchants have lost considerable money on the many farmers who have failed, that organizations composed of such citizens of your community cannot successfully endorse the prospective agricultural outlook at this time. In fact, good authorities who heretofore were quite hopeful for the district are now quite frank in stating that they cannot see that the territory is an agricultural district in the ordinary sense of the word.

It is reported the personal factor is quite satisfactory in most cases and this fact makes it most unpleasant to have to decline the loans that have been asked for. Generally, where a short term loan is being considered the personal element is of prime importance, however, where long time loans are under consideration the largest factor that insures safety is the pledged security, it being well understood that the present owner may not remain committed until the final payment of the obligation.

Demand and supply for a good part of lands in your territory indicate that under present soil conditions there would be difficulty in realizing more than a fair grazing land value. Sales would depend largely upon the tract being adjacent to property where the neighbor wished to increase his holding, and was able to do so; in other words, the marketability of these lands is not well established. The owner of lands in this section, it is believed, will have difficulty in making progress unless he has livestock in addition to land. Many of the applicants are not provided with livestock, or resources that will permit of their acquiring a sufficient number of animals that will insure their being successful.

If loans were based upon the worth of the land for grazing purposes alone, the average applicant could not secure funds sufficient to place him in a position where his success would be assured. So far as we are able to learn, there is no present prospect that any social development, or eventually, may be expected in the near future.

The bank officers must uphold the integrity of the funds they issue, if the system is to succeed and continue prosperous. If business is placed where there is an element of chance or risk, that fact soon becomes well known to the user of an issue when we depend on fund funds for loan purposes, and this fact is an additional reason for the conservative attitude.

The several applications now pending will be considered, and we are hopeful that no serious inconvenience will result to the applicants. Yours very truly, The Federal Land Bank of Berkeley, by A. M. Morton, secretary.

The Seven Sleepers

Seven noble youths of Ephesus, who, according to early Christian legend first related by Gregory of Tours, fled from the city, during a persecution under the Emperor Diocletian (284-305 A. D.), and took refuge in a cave on Mount Olympos. These boys were discovered by their pursuers, who waited up the entrance in order to slay them to death; but, owing to a remarkable interposition in their behalf they were caused to fall into a deep sleep, and were thus miraculously preserved for nearly two hundred years. They did soon after awakening, and their bodies were transferred to Marseilles, France, in a stone sarcophagus, which is still shown to visitors to the church of St. Victor, in that city. According to Gregory, the names of the "seven sleepers" were Constantine, Diocletian, Jona, Maximilian, Melchior, Marcellian and Marcellin and Serapion. A festival in their honor is celebrated in the Roman Catholic church July 27. The legend of the "seven sleepers" is widely current in the East. It is of Syrian origin, and occurs in the Koran.

New Kind of Plow

Despite the development of most farm machinery, the plow has changed little in more than 3,000 years. In primitive times plows were drawn by man power or oxen, today they are efficiently operated by tractor. But the actual shape of the plow and the method of turning the furrows in the soil is much the same as in primitive times.

A unique farming tool has been invented in France which attracts the attention in a new way. The plow is replaced by a number of metal fingers which dig deep into the earth, break it up and prepare it for planting, all in one operation. The labor of plowing and cultivating is thus done quickly and efficiently. The new device seems to work equally well in hard, dry or soft ground and promises an important saving of labor for the farmer, according to its inventors.

Reason Why a Top Spins

Every one who has ever whirled a string to which a stone is fastened, have noticed the strong "pull" as the stone tried to get away. Every part of a spinning top is trying to fly away from the center. As each part of the top has an equal pull, none of them can upset the balance of the others. So long as this force is strong enough—that is, so long as the spin lasts—it counteracts the ordinary power of gravity, which has to fight itself to the top of the top, the only point actually touching the earth. When the top slows down the centrifugal force relaxes, gravity comes into its own again, and the top falls over. Scientific American.

THE STORY THUS FAR

SYNOPSIS.—On the isolated Meager ranch on the southern border, Deborah Meredith, trained nurse, is in attendance on Mrs. Meager, whose husband has recently been killed. Immediately after the death of Bob Meager, Mrs. Meager's stepson, arrives and takes possession of the house. Deborah and she resolve to leave, but there seems no possibility of her getting away. Meager ghosts over Deborah's plight. He tells her he has sent for a justice of the peace, who will marry them tomorrow. Horrified, the girl seizes a revolver. The justice, Cornelius Garrity, surrounded and hauled friend of Meager, arrives with a party, among them the "Frisco Kid," notorious desperado. Despite Deborah's protests, the justice performs the marriage ceremony, she escapes and reaches her room. There she stuns Meager with the revolver and rushes to the stables, hunting to secure a horse and escape. There she meets the "Frisco Kid." Somehow he inspires her with confidence and she explains the situation. The "Kid" tells her his name is Daniel Kelleen, that he is no friend of Meager. They ride off together into the desert. Presently she realizes that Kelleen is the "Frisco Kid" but doesn't fear him. Deborah hears the story of the "Frisco Kid." Kelleen disappears and Deborah is seized by a man who carries her to what is apparently a cave. She finds a dead man takes revolver from body, exclaims shots with guard and escapes. Deborah overhears quarrel between Meager and Kelleen.

"There is no use playing the hog, Bob," the latter went on coolly. "I've got the cards, and I'm no girl you can play the brute with, like you did last night. What time does this outfit come in?"

"You are such a dirty, low-down brute," he said coldly.

the animal's head toward the opposite bank, but still twisted in the saddle so as to confront Meager. He had drawn his revolver, and held it carelessly in his hand.

"You are such a dirty, low-down brute," he said coldly. "It would really be a pleasure to put you out of the world. I sometimes wonder why I don't. The Mex tells me you got married last night. Was it the real thing this time?"

It seemed to Deborah as though that dimly outlined figure standing at the edge of the bank would never move. His actions, and certain muttered words, aroused her interest, and held her in concentrated watching his every movement.

times. To Deborah's imagination the shelter must be bending above the office in the rack. There was a pause, the desert silence profound, and then again the same signal impatiently given. Apparently there was no response of any nature from below, and Meager lost control of his caution, for he burst forth in a string of oaths, ending this tirade by calling down into the hole, his voice muffled as though he had inserted his head as far as possible within the narrow opening. The words came back indistinct, occasionally lost.

She Heitated; Then Courage Returned.

before he could return, yet waited another instant, breathless, poised for flight.

"I'm not a doctor, but I can tell you you're in a bad way," he said. "If you don't get better soon, you'll be in a bad way."

do you retain hold of that reef?"

"To possess any attempt on your part to ride away," he acknowledged, a slight coldness in his tone, "at best until we understand each other better, I had up to this minute supposed you were endeavoring to escape from that fellow back yonder; now I learn you were running away from me also. Is that the truth?"

TALES OF THE OLD FRONTIER

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IN CONTRAST to the complicated court procedure of modern communities, administration of justice on the frontier of the Middle West was refreshingly simple and direct.

Another judge, who had the disagreeable duty of sentencing a man named Green to be hanged, called the man before him and said "Now, Mr. Green, I want you and all of your friends down on Indian creek to know that it's not me who condemns you, but the jury and the law. The law allows you time for preparation and the court wants to know what day you would like to be hanged."

When Mr. Green seemed a bit shy about naming a date that would be convenient, His Honor said severely: "Mr. Green, it is a very serious matter to be hanged. It can't happen to a man more than once in his life and you had better take all the time you can. The court will give you until this day four weeks. Mr. Clerk, look at the almanac and see if that comes on Sunday."

PAUL BUNYAN, THE ONLY AMERICAN MYTH HERO

ALL AMERICAN pioneer types few were harder or more picturesque than the lumberjack. His was a frontier of pine forests instead of barren plains or rugged mountains, but his struggles with nature in this domain were no less heroic.

Paul Bunyan was the super-lumberjack whose exploits have been told in every bunk-study in the United States. When an old-time lumberjack began, "Now, the warden I worked for, Paul Bunyan on the 1 1/2 ton — Hagen Malmanson might prepare to sit of envy."

Paul was not only the original lumberman, but he was a great inventor. The grindstone upon which his men sharpened their axes was so big that every time it turned around once it was pay-day. His dinner bowl, with which he carried his crows to their nests, was so big that the first time it was used it fell down on ground of one. Next he turned it straight up in the air but this caused no more excitement and steam at sea that he had to put the bowl. He played it fast and it is now said to be used in the tin roof for one of the largest utility depots in the country.

Wreck survivors tell how tobacco kept them going

When food and water gave out on third day, they smoked until rescued

Perhaps they were only pirates of the sea, and doomed to a great charity from the hand of Fate. In whatever way they were very much human beings when they found themselves adrift on a sea drift in an open boat.

With two days' supply of food and water, they evidently expected to be rescued in plenty of time. But when the third day passed and no friendly sail appeared on the horizon, it began to look like a case for the long June's locker.

One of the victims, a very old, thin, and shaggy man, who had a bottle of Edgeworth's Ready-Rubbed in his pocket, suggested that they smoke it.

The only thing that kept us going at all was tobacco," one of the survivors admitted when he was safely deposited on dry land again. "We smoked and chewed, and that sort of kept us up."

Pipes filled with Edgeworth's Ready-Rubbed have no more soothing effect than pipes filled with other tobacco, but most Edgeworth smokers somehow feel that they need Edgeworth to get complete satisfaction.

Edgeworth is sold in various sizes to suit the needs and means of all purchasers. Both Edgeworth Plug Slice and Ready-Rubbed are packed in small, pocket-size packages, in handsome humidor holding a pound, and also in several handy in-between sizes.

For the free samples, kindly address Larus & Brother Company, 75 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va. If you will also include on your postcard the name and address of your regular tobacco dealer, your courtesy will be appreciated.

Tree on Church Won't Be Killed

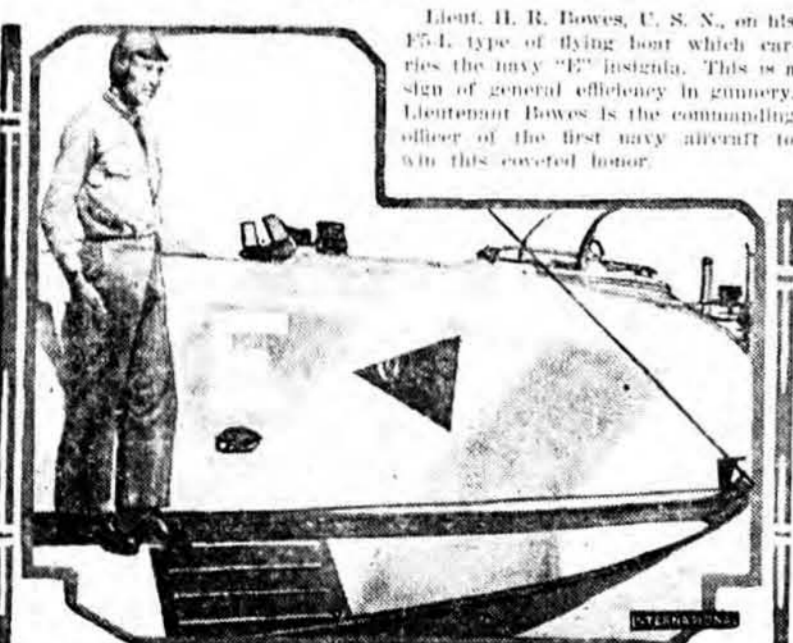

For three years efforts have been made to destroy this tree, growing in the tower of Trinity Episcopal church in Washington, but the tree has come back to life. The latest attempt to destroy it was made by boring holes in the tower and filling them with acid, but the limbs soon sprouted out as before. Now the members of the church have come to believe that there is some significance to the persistent growth of the tree and that it perhaps means new life and spiritual growth in their little church.

"DRY" MACHINERY TO BE ENLARGED

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT PLANNING BIG CAMPAIGN ON LIQUOR SMUGGLING AND BEER.

WILL COST MANY MILLIONS

By EDWARD D. CLARK

Washington.—Following the conference between the President and the governors of the states on the subject of the law enforcement, but it is said to be a direct result of it, there is to be an enlargement of the federal government's law enforcing machinery in a strenuous attempt to put an end to liquor smuggling and to stop the making of beer too high in percentage of alcohol.

There is direct denial from official quarters that the proposed increased enforcing activities are due to the charges of past lack of conscientious endeavor, charges which freely have been made. It is denied also that the conference between the President and the governors and the publicity resulting therefrom has had anything to do with the plan to increase the number of prohibition agents and to press the prohibition campaign to a finish under federal direction.

In letters from Washington prior to this time it has been said that the federal agents engaged in the work of enforcing the liquor laws were not numerous enough to do the work satisfactorily. This has been true and nobody has seen fit to deny it, official, engaging itself only with the statements that the force as it has existed has not done all that it could do.

Would Require Much Money. In previous letters also it has been said that if the federal agents were to be increased numerically sufficiently to cope with the situation, the increase would cost the government a lot of money and that congress must appropriate it, an act which congress in these days of pressure for economy probably might not be willing to do.

Now, however, the federal government is to make renewed attempts to put an end to the illegal liquor traffic and is going to spend the money necessary and to depend on congress to meet the charges. There is still a possibility that the government will not carry out its plans because there is a chance that the secretary of the treasury may declare that it is unwise to prejudice the disposition of congress to pay bills.

One of the plans is to double the coast guard service of the country by the addition of twenty deep-sea-going cutters and about fifty fast power boats, to be used in running down the hard-drink smugglers off the coast of the country. It is proposed also to add largely to the personnel of the coast guard.

For this additional coast guard service the cost probably will be $20,000,000. It is urged that more than $200,000,000 worth of damage is being done to human life and property each week by the illicit rum which gets into the country and that therefore the expenditure by the government will be amply justified.

Another plan which has been proposed is to put an agent of the treasury in every large brewery of the country in order that daily tests may be made of its products. Recently in Chicago and some other cities it is declared proof has been obtained that the breweries were turning out high power beer, that the law violation was escaping the notice of the prohibition officials, and that the beer was being sold openly in hundreds of places.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. It is said he has become convinced that the high power beer charges are true and that therefore there should be a return to the old method of supervising the breweries through the agency of the Treasury department.

Grain alcohol furnishes one of the profits for the prohibition law enforcers. Of course attempts are made to prevent the sale of this pure alcohol, but the understanding is that it is easier for persons who want a drink to obtain alcohol than it is to get one of the make-believe brands of whisky which have a basis of something worse than alcohol made from grain.

Alcohol is used largely in the tropics. Most of it is supposed to be so treated as to make it unfit for human consumption, but chemical means have been found to take from treated alcohol the element which made it more than unpalatable, in fact dangerous to life. The alcohol situation is to be watched more closely than ever before.

If one may judge from what he hears in Washington, and if conditions are in other cities as they are here, it is probable that grain alcohol plus water, plus sugar, plus some flavoring extract, enters more largely into the making of intoxicating liquor for people who decline to drink the make-believe whiskies than any other agency of drink making.

Drunkards and others who need pure grain alcohol for use in their professions claim that their allowance from the government is too small to meet their needs.

One thing seems to be assured: The government, if it can get the aid of congress, will try to set a pace in prohibition law enforcement and it hopes that the states will keep along neck and neck.

Bonus Bill Might Not Pass. It is possible that the adjusted com-ensation bill, popular or unpopular by name as the bonus bill, is to fall of passage in the next congress?

The success of this measure appears to have been accepted as certain. No one in Washington has thought that there was enough doubt about it to give attention to suggestion that something might arise to keep congress from giving the bill sanction. Men, some of the house in the past, were struggling with one another to get precedence in discussion of the measure. Of course, a new measure is to come up, but a part of the members has assumed to show that the bonus bill will be as popular with the new members as it was with the old. Notwithstanding, something has arisen to cause a doubt as to the passage of the bill, but it is very grave doubt, it is true, but still a doubt.

The various veteran organizations of the country have sponsored the measure and in fact have given much time and energy in securing for it the good will of congress. The bonus bill would be a law today if President Harding had not been opposed to allowing it a place on the statute books without companion legislation which would furnish the means for raising the money to pay the bill.

"Anti-Bonus Bunch" Organized. Recently there has been organized a body of veterans of the World war known as the "Anti-Bonus Bunch." This "bunch" it now seems has much more strength than anybody supposed. The veterans organization opposed to the bonus was organized in New York city. It had one or two poorly attended meetings, but then something seemed to give it the stimulus of growth and today it is exercising considerable influence in the ranks of veterans, especially among those men who heretofore have been heart-broken because of lack of organization.

It may be that a majority of the veterans of the World war favor the bonus. It is certain that members of congress have thought that a majority of the ex-soldiers favor it. It may be inevitable to say so, but it would seem that if congress had thought the majority feeling was the other way, it would not have been so overwhelmingly strong in its advocacy of the passage of the measure.

It has been proposed seriously by the anti-bonus advocates, men who nevertheless are in good standing in the American Legion or in other organizations, that a national poll should be taken of the discharged soldiers to find out conclusively just what the feeling is on the legislation.

Nobody seems to know exactly how the poll can be put through in a way to have official civil sanction as a companion to a regular election. If, however, the measure could be submitted in some way to the veterans through the regular election machinery of the states, a much-voiced question would be settled for all time.

Only Way Is Through Election. It is, of course, possible for the veteran organizations to make a canvass of the sentiment among the ex-soldiers and to arrive at some conclusion, but it would be difficult to make the "conclusion" conclusive. Many men, no matter how much they apparently are interested in a subject, will not take the trouble to engage in correspondence concerning it. It is said that a post-war campaign probably would not bring answers enough to determine the question. Therefore, it is said that the only way to settle the matter as to whether or not the United States should be called upon to pay the veterans bonus money, is to get the sentiment of the ex-soldiers by means of an actual vote on the question conducted as a companion to a federal election.

Frankly, the writer of this, who is an ex-soldier man, believes that the bonus bill will pass congress at its next session by a perhaps considerable majority. It is easy enough to understand the human side of the bonus supporters' appeal. They fought for $25 a month while alcoholical brethren were receiving for $20 a day. The bonus advocates believe that an injustice was done the ex-soldier and they want remedy.

However, there is another side to the question. A man is supposed to be willing to serve his country when it is in need, without pay and without promise of pay. The strongest opponents of the bonus are those who hold that it is impatience to demand the money.

It is known definitely that many congressmen who voted for the bonus bill last year were not at heart in favor of its passage. A majority of large house men stood out against the bill, but the vote was overwhelmingly against them.

Growth of Nails. An estimate of the growth of the nails is one third of an inch per week of over an inch and a half per year. Growth is affected by sickness and also by climate; the summer growth being greater than that of winter. It is also greater for some fingers than others, the middle finger having the most rapid and the thumb and little finger the slowest growth, according to some authorities. It takes about 12 months for the nail to reach its full length.

Internal cleanliness protects against disease

IT is but a step from those immediate results of constipation—headache, heaviness, loss of appetite—to serious disease. Such minor ailments are a warning that poisons from food waste are flooding your body. Keep clean internally.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in Lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is not a laxative and cannot gripe. Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

Don't give disease a start. Adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. Nujol is not a medicine. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

Your bath goes only skin-deep.

Mr. Duffy, together with J. E. Wise, as sureties on the bond of the above publishing and printing company for the faithful fulfillment of said contract, advised the Board of Supervisors that as such sureties for the fulfillment of the above mentioned contract they would carry out the stipulations of such contract by making an arrangement with some other publishing concern of Santa Cruz County to do the contracted publishing and printing of the county at the contract price of 14 cents per inch, set in newspaper type, or some satisfactory arrangement whereby the county would not be liable for any charge in excess of the amount bid in the contract of the Border Publishing and Printing Company, any excess in such charges to be born by the sureties of the bond given by the above mentioned publishing company.

MOLESKIN EXHIBIT USED TO STIMULATE RAPPING

In the state of Washington an unusual way has been found to stimulate mole trapping in order to reduce the number of the mole where it is a pest. Under the direction of the district representative of the biological survey of the U. S. department of agriculture, an extensive display of moleskins was shown recently in the window of a leading manufacturing furrier in Seattle.

The exhibit included mounted moles of two species, 200 raw skins, 50 dressed skins, an arrangement of skins to the white months in which they were prime, two efficient mole traps, a demonstration piece of 50 skins cut and sewed as in making a garment, and a mole-skin wrap on a wax model. A check of the crowds at the window showed that a total of about 50,000 people viewed the exhibit.

It is hoped through this display to create a desire for the western mole-skins and to interest furriers in placing the Townsend, or native, mole in a class separate from the imported Scotch mole. Demand for the native mole-skins serves to arouse interest in trapping, which in turn helps to get rid of moles where they are numerous. The skins are usually assembled and sold through the county farm bureau.

SCAR TELLS WOMAN'S AGE

Size of Vaccination Mark, Bared by Sleeveless Gowns, Shows Period of Inoculation.

Twenty years ago when the popular wave of similitop vaccination swept the land, and when every school girl bared her arm for the medical process that necessitated a permanent scar, it is probable that neither mothers nor doctors foresaw the coming of the present-day fashions in sleeveless gowns.

These were the days of trailing skirts, bustles, long sleeves and high feminine collars, and when the doctor inquired of the sedulous mother as to where he should put the mark upon the little girl the mother felt quite safe in choosing a position so well concealed as the upper arm.

Few mothers of those days could believe that a scar upon the arm would find its way into the light of public attention, but the passing of years, with the consequent changing of styles, has brought about circumstances that were unexpected, and the marks are at last out in the open, exposed to the gaze of whoever cares to look.

Observing persons assert they have little difficulty in telling the age of a young woman merely by noting the kind and size of vaccination scar. The doctors at one time thought it necessary to make marks the size of a half dollar, but with the passing of years they became smaller and smaller until now a scratch that is almost invisible is all the process requires. The girl whose vaccination mark corresponds to the size of a dime belongs to a different period from the girl with the nickel mark, the quarter mark or the half dollar mark, and with the doming of the sleeveless gown the facts that her age is stamped indelibly upon her. The modern physician's system marks an advance in surgical science that will be appreciated by the debilitate a decade or so hence.

BOYS OF 1,400 YEARS AGO

Field Museum at Chicago Has Beautiful Chinese Painting Which Shows Youngsters at Play.

In a room of Chinese art relics in the Field Museum of Natural History at Chicago hangs a curious, beautiful painting on silk, called "A Hundred Boys at Play." It is a panel, many yards long, which was made during the Sung period of Chinese history, about 1,400 years ago, by an artist named Su Hanchen.

There you may see a hundred Chinese boys busily occupied with indoor and outdoor pastimes. And from the expressions on their little painted faces it seems that they are about as busily occupied with their play as boys of the present day. The interesting part is to see that the games they played in China so long ago were the same sort that boys play now.

Those boys even seemed to know a form of football, for you see lines scrambling for a kicked ball. Others are wrestling, shooting at targets, playing war and amusing themselves with fighting crickets. Still others are engaged in less active sports, such as playing chess, riding hobby horses, flying kites, dancing and playing the organ and lute.

On one bank sits a boy with a fishing pole. Across from him a Chinese friend has set up a store and is a merchant.

More than nine thousand foreign seamen deserted their ships in New York during the first six months this year. So many desertions are a serious hindrance to foreign vessels; one 14-foot liner was delayed in port more than five hours while his officers rounded up enough men to replace forty missing employees. There is little that can be done to deter the condition. If the seaman's act sailors, except Orientals, may have shore leave without restriction, and if the men fail to return it is very difficult to get track of them again. Youth's Companion.
