FAVORS PURCHASING AGENT

Gov. Sweet Urges Abolition of State Auditing Board at Budget Meeting

Denver.—The state of Colorado should have a purchasing agent and comptroller to obtain supplies for the state, thereby doing away with the State Auditing Board, composed of the five state executive officers, Gov. William E. Sweet told representatives of every state educational, penal and eleemosynary institution at a meeting called by the chief executive and Harry Cassaday, state budget and efficiency commissioner, to formulate budgets for the biennial period beginning Jan. 1, 1924.

The governor believes, he said, that the present system of passing vouchers through the state auditing board was antiquated and permitted individual members of the board to play politics if occasion arose. Moreover, such a system was wasteful and unbusinesslike, according to the governor. All supplies purchased by the state should be procured through the purchasing agent appointed by the governor, subject to the supervision of the comptroller, thereby co-ordinating the effort now wastefully expended by the various boards, departments and commissions, the governor declared.

The governor intends to formulate a bill containing these provisions for presentation to the next legislature he declared.

The representatives of the various state institutions discussed their appropriations for the next biennial term with the governor. Commissioner Cassaday and State Auditor Arthur M. Stone. In almost every instance it was agreed that the next appropriation should be increased to permit proper and healthy expansion.

It was suggested that the mill levy for the various state educational institutions might be raised as one means out of the difficulty, thereby increasing the amount of revenue derived from this source.

At a later meeting it was proposed to consider a bill providing for the increased mill levy, if it were deemed necessary.

Commissioner Cassaday announced he intended to devise a uniform report blank for all institutions so that they might specify their needs for the next biennial period.

Upon return of the blanks to the office of the state budget and efficiency commissioner work on devising budgets for the various institutions will proceed so that it may be finished by the time the next legislature convenes, Commissioner Cassaday said.

Loell. Unless Japanese farmers can be induced to work for wages, it is probable that many will leave California after this year and settle in neighboring states, where the alien land laws are less exacting. It was announced by S. Takahashi, secretary of the local Japanese association. Japanese do not favor working as day laborers, he stated, but that will be made this year. A plan to establish as many Japanese as possible in commerce is being worked out, according to Takahashi.

A DAY OF PRACTICAL SERVICE

We have many dates on our national calendar which are filled with patriotic meaning of one sort or another. Outstanding, of course, is Independence Day, which we are prone to celebrate with much noise and numerous fatal accidents, and call it the "Glorious Fourth." Then there are other occasions, fraught with various shades of patriotic meaning, Memorial Day and Armistice Day commemorates the sacrifices of those who gave their lives to preserve this nation, days of sacred memory. And the birthdays of our greatest presidents, Washington and Lincoln, also afford occasion for inspiring national feeling.

But until this year there has been no day of practical patriotic service, no day on which every American citizen could show his sincere and whole-hearted devotion to his country by doing something for her. That lack is to be supplied through observance on September 12 of what will be known as Defense Day, a day on which there will be an assembly of all citizens under the National Defense Act. It will not be a mobilization for war, but it will be a demonstration of the plans for a mobilization in case such a contingency should arise.

There is not a city or town of consequence in this country that would think of waiting until a fire broke out before organizing a fire department. The larger the city the more thoroughly trained and efficient is the force which is thus held in reserve for the dread contingency of a conflagration. A good fire department is the best insurance that no such catastrophe will occur.

Defense Day will witness the rallying of the second and third lines of defense in our national fire department to the first line, which is the regular army. The National Guard is the second line, and the organized reserves constitute the third. To the latter we all belong, and we can make the day one of inspiring patriotism and of real practical service, if we will.
Let's make it that kind of a day.

GOOD ROADS PAY DIVIDENDS

A clever statistician has estimated that the state highways of Oregon, which represent a total state investment of about $70,000,000, besides the county roads that feed and serve them, actually return the state a fair interest on $300,000,000. This return comes in the way of tourist revenues, that without the comprehensive system of state roads would never reach the state. Investments that pay a profit four times their normal capitalization ought to be safe anywhere. A good roads policy that is beyond the reach of the stampeder makes such returns possible.

Oregon in the past has built paved roads of a quality comparable to city streets. By recognizing the advantage and necessity of shock absorbing qualities in a pavement it has not only held down first costs but it has reduced maintenance costs to a minimum. This latter item has wrecked many a good roads program due to the useless drain it entails on tax funds.

BUSINESS VERSUS PLEASURE

Among our pleasures and excitements as American people is what is called "Politics." There are elements of sport, gambling, speculation and all the chances and ups and downs of a lottery or horse race. Politics for this reason has a fascination that amounts almost to a passion in the minds of thousands of good citizens. The conclusion of an exciting race at the primaries, nominating conventions and elections always sees a great deal of money change hands although betting on elections is strictly forbidden by law. The interests of a great nation of 110,000,000 people, with commerce running into hundreds of millions and billions, when we add manufacturing, transportation, agriculture, mining and public improvements, must in the final correct solution of problems become more and more a matter of business. The most serious question before Our Country is the relation of our government to foreign affairs, especially the restoration of fairly normal conditions in the late war-stricken nations of Europe. Morally, politically and economically, and above all to ourselves, we owe it to the world to aid in bringing this about as soon as possible. To keep American industries and payrolls on a steady foundation, to see that our farmers and producers have open access for their surplus products to the markets of the world, will take something more than the trickery of politics. It will take the application of the best brains and the soundest business principles, which is statesmanship, far beyond party line. We must forego the pleasure and excitement of old-fashioned politics and save Our Country and the interests of all humanity.

ANOTHER SEES THE LIGHT

All large employers do not believe in low wage scales. Those who do often make so much noise about their erroneous belief that the public is sometimes led to think that so-called "captains of industry" are unanimous in favoring low wage rates.

As a matter of fact, thinking employers know that highly paid labor is the most efficient and productive and the payment of high wages is good business policy. They also realize that high wages mean prosperity for industry and the nation.

Gerard Swope, president of the great General Electric Company, recently declared in an interview that wages are the measure of a nation's civilization and that high wages do not necessarily mean high costs.

This is a truth that organized labor has been preaching for many years, with the result that even large employers are coming around to its viewpoint. Evidently Mr. Swope is in full accord with Labor on this point, as he went on to say:

"There is no reason why high earning power should not be combined with low manufacturing costs on the part of the employer. It seems to me that very often there is far too much attention given to methods of production. The so-called labor problem is an intensely human one and it must be solved on a human basis or not at all."

Mr. Swope's remarks indicate that the truths taught by Labor are penetrating the ranks of those who have believed that self-interest dictated opposition to the payment of high wages. Other large employers have voiced similar sentiments in recent months. Thus organized labor is seeing its educational work bear fruit not only in the ranks of the workers, but also in the ranks of those who too often regard themselves as opponents of labor.

A SURPRISE TO TAXPAYERS

The city of Knoxville has a happy surprise to offer the people of Tennessee and other American cities generally by a splendid showing of the working of its city manager government which proposes to offer a comfortable rebate of $280,000 or 10 per cent of 1924 taxes paid and unpaid.

This is probably the first time that any city in the United States has returned dividends to its taxpayers—i. e., really its stockholders.

In addition the tax levy will be reduced from $2.44 to $2.19½, including a tax for payment of interest on $5,850,000.

NOT THE TIME TO QUIT

Disinclination of able men of affairs to accept public office is one of the outstanding misfortunes of present-day politics. More strong men are needed, yet every day one or more, is found putting aside opportunities when he could bring his experience and his talents into play for the public service. It is no less regrettable to find men retiring from office where they have rendered honest service because they consider the times hopeless for the work that needs to be done for the good of the country.

An outstanding instance of the latter situation is the refusal of Representative Jost, of the Kansas City district of Missouri, to stand for reelection. In a letter to political friends he says he cannot afford to take time from his business for the hopeless task of trying to break the grip that blocs and groups of selfish interests hold on Congress. He denounces the radical, socialistic and plain partisan alliances in the late session of Congress. He says:

"The present public distemper of the country must run its course. People will finally realize that prosperity depends upon something else than a legislative fiat, and that nothing but harm can come from any law passed to favor a certain and special class. The sound principles on which the fathers grounded this republic are out of fashion now, but ultimately will again be in favor."

Representative Jost's constituency should reply to his letter in the words of the dying Lawrence, "Don't give up the ship!"—Cincinnati Inquirer.

ARIZONA BUSINESS CONDITIONS ENDING JULY 31

Arizona business in July was characteristic of the season, with the usual summer dullness in many localities. The general level compared favorably with the same month of last year, notwithstanding slight decreases reported in some lines.

The agricultural season has made excellent progress. Cotton is doing well, and with a fair market should bring value of the state's farm production to $40,000,000 this year. Grain and hay harvests have been satisfactory, and the cantaloupe season was unusually successful from the production standpoint, although returns were not good.

The livestock industry is in the dull season between spring and fall movements. Cattle shipments were below normal the first half of the year, and fall movement will depend to a considerable extent on whether the drought in California is broken before winter. Sheep men have had a good lamb market, but the wool market continues slow despite favorable underlying conditions.

The copper market turned upward in July, advancing from 12 1/2 to 13 1/2 cents a pound. No changes are apparent in production. The state's 1924 mine output is expected to be about the same as last year, but its value probably will be lower. Copper, gold, silver and lead produced in Arizona last year had an aggregate value of $104,000,000.

Basic soundness of conditions in Arizona was reflected in bank reports made to the state banking department under call of June 30, showing a gain of $1,000,000, in deposits, and a decrease of nearly $2,000,000 in loans, from a year ago, which in turn had shown decided improvement over the previous year. Checking transactions in principal cities of the state as reported to the Arizona Industrial Congress compared well with June, and with July of last year.

Both Babson and "The Nation's Business" map of the nation's business indicate that Arizona is in a particularly favorable position as compared with other states, and future progress may be gauged from the many projects which are assured during the next few years, including the new Southern Pacific main line to be built at a cost of $15,000,000, the $4,400,000 Horse Mesa power dam of the Salt River Valley Water Users' association; the San Carlos project to reclaim 100,000 acres in the Florence-Casa Grande Valley, completion of the Santa Fe's $5,000,000 double-tracking program and others.

Agriculture
 Generally favorable weather conditions, with the large cotton acreage doing well, have sent the agricultural season into late summer with prospects of a good cotton market, total value of Arizona's farm crops this year may well exceed $40,000,000 from a cultivated acreage of under 600,000.

Small grain harvests have been finished through the south, decreased acreage and production being noted in wheat, corn and grain sorghums, and increases in oats and barley. Hay production will be lower than last year, due both to a small decline in acreage, and to an increased amount of alfalfa being given over to seed production. Seed is now being shipped, with good prices.

Livestock
 July is usually a dull month in livestock, and proved no exception this year. Some cattle were shipped from Yavapai county on late spring sales, with more to follow in August, but otherwise there was little activity.

Movement of range cattle to points outside the state during the first half of the year was below normal, shipments amounting to but 58,000 head during the first five months. Another 44,000 head were shipped to points inside the state. Drought conditions in California, coupled with the fact that northwestern buyers are still restricted by credit facilities, were the main factors, and the outlook for fall shipments hinges to a great extent on whether California receives early fall rains. Continued drought on the coast will cut sales to that market, which ordinarily takes the greater part of Arizona's range stock for feeding.

Sales of fat cattle also have been hampered by the drought, California packers buying stock in their own state in an effort to relieve conditions. However, the middle of fall should see Arizona beef cattle again in demand on the coast, and feeders are holding firm with that end in view.

Although summer showers began early, rains thus far have been generally light and decidedly spotted, with the result that additional precipitation is needed to assure good range conditions, as feed is becoming short and water low in some sections. Stock has held up very well, however.

MINING
 The upward turn of the copper market, the price advancing nearly a cent a pound to finish the period of 1924. A number of factors were responsible; heavier buying from Europe, a decrease in surplus stocks, improvement in orders from brass and wire manufacturers, a small decline in production showing the effects of the slight curtailment inaugurated by a number of producers.

Shipments of copper by North and South American producers are placed at 1,390,000,000 pounds for the first half of the year, or a monthly average of 233,000,000, said to be the highest six months average in the history of the industry. June deliveries exceeded production by 3,000,000 pounds, reducing stocks on hand to 222,000,000, barely one month's supply.

A Department of the Interior report shows that no increase in production was made the first half of the year as compared to 1923, and that some small curtailments were made in copper output. Production for the year, however, probably will be in the neighborhood of that last year, but value is more likely to be somewhat less, owing to the low copper market. Arizona's copper, gold, silver and lead production in 1923 was valued at $104,000,000, of which copper represented around $90,000,000.

Development work in the industry in this state is going ahead steadily. The Inspiration Consolidated Copper company has called for bids for the excavation work for its new leaching plant, a $6,000,000 project, and has contracted with the Salt River Valley Water Users' association for the power output of the $1,400,000 Horse Mesa dam just authorized. The United Verde Copper company has arranged for test work at the Humbolt smelter in connection with consideration of construction of a new 1,000-ton floatation plant.

Among other developments, the Tom Reed Gold Mines company has begun work on the Katherine mine, moving machinery for it from the Tom Reed

THE AMERICAN LEGION (Copy for this Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service) NAMED ADJUTANT FOR CALIFORNIA

From keeping records for the University of California, James K. Fisk has graduated to keeping records for the California department of the American Legion. Fisk was appointed department adjutant on July 1 by Department Commander James E. Collins, upon the resignation of Morton Keaton, who had been department adjutant for three years.

James K. Fisk.

For 17 years Fisk was connected with the university. During ten of those years he had been assistant recorder. As assistant chairman of music and drama, he assisted in bringing to the Greek theater at the university many of the world's noted dramatic stars. From the time of its organization Fisk has been active in the work of Berkeley post of the Legion. He is a past commander of the post. He is now, for the second year, holding the chairmanship of the department Americanization committee, where his work has attracted national attention. He has taken a leading part in civic affairs. When the war came Fisk was made a first lieutenant in the signal corps and was assigned to the personnel branch of the aviation service at Washington for about a year. He entered active flying at Bolling field and in March, 1918, He qualified as a pilot and was ready to go overseas when the armistice was signed.

ACTION TO CHECK RADICAL ELEMENT Steps of national dimensions to curb the activities of radical elements who use un-American methods in public speeches were taken by members of the American Legion at Buffalo, N. Y., recently as the outcome of a clash between members of the Legion and Proletarian party orators. As the climax of a series of un-American speeches of radicals in Lafayette square, Legion men on the eve of Flag day put to rout a Proletarian speaker, who, standing in the shadow of a monument in memory of the nation's dead defenders, was hurling philippic against the nation, the flag and all "milk-fed patriots." The speaker, a Chicago man, took to his heels and sought refuge at the Proletarian headquarters. He attempted to obtain a warrant against the Legionnaire who pushed him from his soap box, but the judge refused to issue one, stating that the man did his duty. The Legion men then made an insistent demand to city officials that an end be brought to all public speeches, "such as are being vomited by Reds in Lafayette square, and such as would incite a riot by any group of patriotic men exposed to the spleen." Both Mayor Schwab and Commissioner Mehl agreed to revoke permits of all radical parties that have been allowed to speak in public places, such as Lafayette square. In commenting upon the action of the Legionnaires of Buffalo in dispersing the radical meeting, Garland W. Powell, national director, Americanism commission of the American Legion, said: "The action taken by patriots in Buffalo was not an official act of the American Legion. However, I am proud to state that no red-blooded American will allow any man to slander those men who sacrificed their all in defense of their country." In this regard, the Americanism commission of the Legion has taken steps to preclude the unpatriotic activities of organizations advocating the repeal of all seditious and criminal syndicalist laws throughout the United States. These people are also advocating "free speech," speech of the kind that allows the advocacy of the overthrow of our government by force of arms, which means the overthrow of the government which guarantees free speech. Police Chief Zimmerman of Buffalo stated the case of "free speech" when, in a reaction to the Lafayette square affair, he said: "It is all very well to talk about free speech but when speakers overstep the bounds they have got to be muzzled, with an iron and if necessary."

Don't chuckle if you put over a substitute when an advertised product is called for. Maybe your customer will never come back. Ben Mulford, Jr. Not Enthusiastic A young man in a northern city believes that he possesses one of the meanest and most unnatural parents in the world. Recently the old man took a holiday, and in his absence his son secured a contract worth thousands of dollars to the firm. He scribbled a triumphant note to his father, but waited in vain for a congratulatory telegram. The next day the old man returned and took up his accustomed place without a word. "I thought my letter would give you a bit of a shock," the young man observed, after bearing the silence as long as he could. "It did that," was the reply. "Ye forgot to stamp it, ye loon and I'd excess to pay on it."

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best—Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale." According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the acid which causes rheumatism. You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Danger Pointed Out A gilded youth went into a doctor's office for a nasal treatment, the office boasting one of those machines which spray pine balsam and other soothing medicaments. The doctor pointed out that he was very busy, but that the nurse in attendance could administer the treatment quite as well. To this the youth assented with a supercilious smile. And as the nurse was making things ready he heard the physician say to her in a loud whisper: "Now, be careful or you'll blow his brains out."

Something Worth Living For There is scarce any lot so low but there is something in it to satisfy the man whom it has benefited. Providence having so ordered things that in every man's cup, how bitter soever, there are some cordial drops—some good circumstances, which, if wisely extracted, are sufficient for the purpose he wants them—that is, to make him contented, and, if not happy, at least resigned.—Laurence Sterne.

Davis and Coolidge Deliver Acceptance Speeches—Deadlock in London.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD JOHN W. DAVIS and Calvin Coolidge were formally told last week that they were the Presidential nominees of the Democrats and the Republicans, respectively. It has not been necessary to tell Senator LaFollette that he is an independent candidate, for he really nominated himself. Mr. Davis got the word first, at his home in Clarksburg, W. Va., where some 50,000 people gathered for the ceremony and sat through a driving rainstorm while the candidate delivered his speech of acceptance. The address was broadcast by radio so that all the country had a chance to hear it. For that reason any extended summary of it would be superfluous. Having given the Democratic platform his "hearty approval," Mr. Davis declared the supreme need of the hour "is to bring back to the people confidence in their government," and in this connection he referred caustically to the relations between the President and congress and said the Republican party was "leaderless and incoherent mob." He then proceeded to indict the Republican party "in its organized capacity for having shaken public confidence to its very foundations. I charge it with having exhibited deeper and more widespread corruption than any that this generation of Americans has been called upon to witness." To the farmers he promised to remove tariff discrimination, enlarge their foreign markets and assist them in marketing plans. Labor, he said, should not suffer impairment of its rights by injunction or any other device. The eighteenth amendment, he declared, being the law, he would no more think of ignoring its enforcement than he would ignore the Ten Commandments. His declaration in favor of religious freedom was strong, but he did not mention the Ku Klux Klan by name. As for foreign entanglements, he said he would sincerely favor the world court and did not regard the League of Nations as a dead incident, but he did not believe the entrance of America into the league can, will or should occur until the common judgment of the American people is ready for the step. Mr. Davis announced that he had just severed his connection with the New York law firm, but declared he had no apology to offer for his career and conduct as a lawyer. Leaders of both parties professed to be highly pleased with Mr. Davis' address. The Democrats called it frank, courageous and unequivocally progressive. The Republicans said it drew definite campaign lines which are just what they wish as issues. THURSDAY evening Calvin Coolidge stood before a throng that filled Continental Memorial hall in Washington and delivered his address accepting the Republican nomination. Much of it was devoted to an exposition of the country's progress in the last four years, under Republican rule. He told of the resumption of friendly relations with foreign governments, the liquidating of more than 40 per cent of the foreign debt due us, providing funds for great reduction of our national debt; of the revival of industry, which is spreading to agriculture, the decrease of unemployment and the increase of wages. He defended the immigration law and protective tariff, and cited the economies worked in national government expenditures. He did not claim for the Republican administration too much credit for the recent upturn of prices for agricultural products, but did assert that the government had rendered much assistance to the farmer, and promised more. He warmly commended the proposed child labor amendment, and said of prohibition that he would do his best to enforce the dry law. Like Mr. Davis, he declared in favor of membership in the world court, but reaffirmed his opposition to entrance into the League of Nations. He had a good deal to say about the probable success of the plan to settle Europe's tangled affairs laid down by the commission headed by his running mate, General Daves. When the Daves plan is in operation, he promised, he will approach the great powers on the subject of holding another conference for further liquidation of armaments and for the codification of international law. It was noted that neither Mr. Davis nor Mr. Coolidge alluded directly to the candidacy of LaFollette. The former merely said the people must choose between "the delusive panaceas of the dreamy radical and the smug complacency of the conservative," and the latter said: "We are likely to hear a great deal of discussion about liberal thought and progressive action. It is well for the country to have liberality in thought and progress in action, but its greatest asset is common sense."

the American flyers planned to make the jump from Reykjavik, Iceland, on Thursday. Then came a wireless report that the ice had again closed in, and the flight was postponed. The Danish steamer Gertrud Rask finally forced her way into the harbor with supplies for the aviators. Lieutenant Locatelli of Italy, who is flying in the wake of the Americans, was prevented by fogs from making the jump from the Orkneys to Iceland. Major Zanni, Argentinian round-the-world flyer, has reached Hongkong. FOR several weeks vague reports of severe floods in China have reached the western world. More definite stories are now coming, and these say the devastation is terrible. It is estimated that between 13,000 and 14,000 persons have been drowned and that nearly 15,000,000 are in peril of death from famine. The torrential floods were general throughout the country but the provinces of Chihli and Hunan were the worst sufferers. The American Red Cross chapters in the Far East already are doing what relief work is possible. The American legation at Peking says $10,000,000 will be needed. OUTBREAKS in the Sudan which culminated in a fight at Athra between Egyptian troops and British Sudanese soldiers are looked on in London as serious precursors of trouble and the government has sent warships to Egypt and reinforcements to Khartoum. The disturbances are said to have been stirred up by an Egyptian propagandist society with headquarters in Cairo, which aims to restore the former khedive, Abbas Hilm. Control of the part of the Sudan affected is in dispute between Egypt and Great Britain. THERE is grave trouble, too, in Spain, though the censorship keeps the details rather dark. The Moroccan army has demanded that the king dismiss Dictator Prisma de Rivera and abolish the dictatorship, and wishes General Weyler to be the head of a new government. Since King Alfonso supported the revolution that overthrew the constitutional government and placed De Rivera in power, it is considered possible that he will abdicate. In both the Spanish and the French protectorates of Morocco there has been sanguinary fighting and in the latter the Moors were temporarily successful. "CONSTITUTION day," the fifth anniversary of the foundation of the German republic, was celebrated in Berlin and elsewhere last week, but with such a monarchist flavor that observers were led to remark that Germany was a republic largely without republicans, especially in the capital. ENGLAND, France and Italy are determined that there shall not be a Balkan war, and have suggested to Greece, Yugoslavia and Rumania that they lay their grievances against Bulgaria before the council of ambassadors in Paris. Russia is said to have been fomenting the disputes between those smaller nations, but just now she is expecting credits from England, and so may be counted on to behave for the time being. None of the great powers will finance a war movement. WHITE haired, feeble veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, in national encampment in Boston, paraded bravely through a driving rain last Tuesday, and the throngs who watched them cheered and wept as the old soldiers passed. Not many of the boys of '61 are left, and it may be they will never have another annual parade. On Thursday the veterans elected Dr. Louis E. Arensberg of Uniontown, Pa., commander in chief for the ensuing year and chose Grand Rapids, Mich., as the place for their next encampment. Among the resolutions adopted was one calling for increased pensions. DR. OTTO WEIDELDT, German ambassador to the United States, has been relieved at his own request and will return to private life. It is expected that Dr. William Cuno, former chancellor, will succeed him.

Honest George

AN EMPLOYEE who is disloyal to his employer never has much influence even with the employer.

It frequently happens that some subordinate is discharged from some Federal, State or County office and immediately seeks the enemies of his former chief to unload his story about the crookedness of the department to which the discharged official was a member.

During political campaigns these complaints usually find willing ears, in fact they have no trouble in finding those who are anxiously awaiting the opportunity to swart the opponent with newspaper scandal in an endeavor to besmirch character and integrity. But, as no one admires a disloyal person or traitor or such acts usually react to the benefit of those whom it was intended to injure.

A parallel or similar case is now being exploited by the Republican press regarding Hon. Geo. W. P. Hunt. It seems that they have contracted on the administration of the Reform School.

Now, it would be superfluous to dilate on this matter or even take notice of it were it not for the fact that there are many newcomers in the State who may not be familiar with the fact that there is one man in Arizona who has been almost continuously in public office for the past 35 years, and upon whom there has never been cast the least suspicion of lack of integrity. His honesty of purpose has never been questioned, and that man is our present governor, who has earned the appellation of HONEST GEORGE.

Now, regarding his ability, the manner in which he has handled his personal affairs and slowly accumulated a competency, is sufficient to require no argument on the score of ability. He did not suddenly become wealthy after entering politics, but his entering the political arena was prompted largely by an evident desire to be of service to his fellowman.

Note how he announced his retirement some three years ago, then by reason of an attack on one of his pet policies, the primary law, he was forced against his inclination to again become a candidate. The present campaign, by reason of the immense combination formed for the purpose of stealing the water and power of the Colorado River, to which the few among whom are Americans with large land holdings in Lower California, Mexico, caused him to again become a candidate for the purpose of protecting Arizona's inherited rights in the matter.

If you want Integrity, Honesty of Purpose and Business Ability, vote for Honest George W. P. Hunt for Governor.
