Events in the Lives of Little Men

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS A. CLARK, Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

CHANGING CUSTOMS I HAVE seen a good many statements within the last few months to the effect that our young people are degenerating...

It is simply that girls are more frank than they were a generation ago; they are more open, they conceal less...

In our grandmothers' day the mysteries of life were never discussed; they were not nice. The privacies of the feminine toilet were inviolate and beyond the knowledge and the experience of man.

The male member of the combination, true to type, addressed himself pretty completely to his bacon and the morning paper.

From a bag of tools, which all careful young women now carry with them wherever they go, she got out the paraphernalia for putting her nails into condition.

THE ROLLING STONE

WHEN Erwin was twenty-four he married and his father settled him on a little farm, reasonably well-stocked, and started him out in what seemed to be a prosperous career.

The boy had a good mind and a strong, healthy body; he was somewhat better educated than the fellows of his acquaintance, he was not afraid of work and he was absolutely honest and dependable.

But Erwin was not satisfied. He wanted a bigger place, so he sold his farm shortly for less than it was worth and moved to Texas.

He decided to give up farming and bought a little store in the village near which he had lived.

That was twenty years ago, when he was past fifty. He has tried a dozen ventures since then—always working hard, always hopeful, always chagrined at a loss with the expectation that the next move would put him on his feet and make his fortune.

PERFUMES THAT ARE MENACE TO HEALTH

Even Deadly, Sinister Scents Not Uncommon.

The tremendous craze for perfume at the present time is, in a way, an echo of the age of King Solomon; but it is well to remember that not all scents are sweet-smelling savors.

Foreign countries abound in sinister scents of many and deadly kinds. There are trees in some of them which breathe out poison, and woe betide the traveler who is ignorant enough to rest beneath their shade!

On the hill slopes of Chili, for example, is a tree which the natives look upon as being possessed of an evil spirit. Many cases have occurred where innocent travelers have crept under its branches during the heat of the day, and paid for its shade with their lives.

Many visitors in the vicinity of Valparaiso have succumbed to the influence of this poisonous tree. The trumpet flower, or datura, found in most tropical countries, although not deadly in the open air, is highly dangerous in a room.

Innocent people, fascinated by its coloring and scent, take it indoors, and soon fall into a trance-like slumber, developing a deadly stupor, from which they may possibly never awake.

If the trumpet flower were brought into a sick room and left there for the night it would mean certain death for the patient. Recently, in South America, an accusation of murder was brought against a family who were said to have profited financially by the death, in their house, of a wealthy relative.

Upon investigation, it was found that some trumpet flowers had got mixed with a bunch of others in a vase, which was allowed to stay in the house all night, and had actually caused the death of the relative.

Some orchids, through their strange and powerful perfume, are capable of drugging the senses and causing faintness. There are some people, too, who cannot stand the scent of roses, while others are prejudiced against the innocent-looking violet.

It is well to make quite certain that any perfume we use, or have in the house, is suited to our temperament.

If the least irritation is caused by any scent it should at once be dispensed with, however beautiful it may seem to others.

There are few people who do not like the scent of clove; yet, not long ago, there was a case in Zanzibar where the scent of clove was responsible for a British official's contracting an ulcerated throat, with consequent loss of voice.

His Unknown Friend

In his book, 'My Cricket Memories' (Helmemann), London Tit-Bits says, Jack Hobbs mentions that he once received a letter from Begwal, on the Gold coast, in which the writer stated: 'I am sending you a nice monkey skin by next mail. Because there is plenty monkey skins in Begwal. And also try and send me one hat or anything which you will get. Here is one ostrich feather as my first trial. I hope it will please you that you have received a first trial from your unknown friend. Try and send that quick. So that I may forward you the monkey skin. I was about to send you the monkey skin. But I want you to know, And I want you to send me that hat before, I am your unknown friend, Es-sandoh.'

Peculiarly American

The big circus is an American development essentially. There is nothing like it elsewhere in the world. The American business man has a genius for organization and it requires a supergenius to organize and conduct a big circus successfully.

Game Birds Increase

As a result of continued activities on coyote control in the North Park country, Colorado, the number of sage hens was greatly increased during the summer of 1923, according to a report received by the biological survey, United States Department of Agriculture.

Status of Fox Trot

Pavlova, the famous Russian dancer, says that the fox trot, now so universally popular in all parts of the world, and of modern dances the one that has remained popular the longest, is dying rapidly.

THE LUNA MOTHS

Oh, she was beautiful. Her beauty had come upon her quite suddenly, and suddenly, too, she was the belle of the party, as it were, with every young handsome moth begging her to be his partner, not only for the dance, but for life.

Her name was Miss Luna Moth and she was truly exquisite. She wore a wonderful dress of the most perfect shade of green with touches of deep violet and black for decorations.

Several young moths had asked her if she would dance off with them and would fly away on a wonderful moth honeymoon with them.

But she had refused them all, and had seemed to be waiting all the time for one particular moth.

Something had seemed to whisper to her heart and say: 'Moth, love is the most beautiful thing in all the world. Do not fly off with the first one who asks you just because he is handsome or because he offers you riches.'

'Wait until one comes and your own moth heart tells you that you cannot be happy without this moth companion.'

'Your heart will tell you.' Yes, something had seemed to whisper to Miss Moth. For no one around had told her what she must do. No one had said she should marry this one or that one.

She was alone to choose as she wished. Oh, how thankful she was that she had refused them all, for when Mr. Luna Moth came along in his glorious Moth suit, and his wings trembling with happiness and with love, Miss Moth felt just a little nervous—she might have been persuaded by one of the others.

But all she had not been. She was safe! She could accept the affection which Mr. Luna Moth now offered her. 'Lady of the beautiful green gown, come with me,' he said. 'Fly off with me into the beautiful night of the world.'

'Let us not notice others. Let us go by ourselves. We shall adventure and love and be happy. Come, Miss Luna Moth, I beg of you.'

Oh, it was wonderful to think of such happiness. Only a little while ago she had not been a beautiful moth, but merely a crawling caterpillar. She had slept a great deal, too.

But it had truly been beauty sleep in her case. And she was thankful as she flew along that Mr. Luna Moth could be proud of her. She was thankful her dress looked so lovely. She would not have liked being shabby for her wedding.

'Beautiful, beautiful Moth,' said Mr. Moth, 'how different you are from some moths, ordinary, ugly creatures.'

'But you are so different from any others, too,' she said. 'You are really beautiful.'

'And what a beautiful night it is, too,' she said. 'How wonderful it is to fly, to be happy and to love.'

'It is perfect,' said Mr. Moth. 'There is nothing in the world like this.'

'There can be nothing like this! Oh no, I know there can be nothing like this.'

'To be the chosen one of the loveliest of all creatures—to love and to be loved—it is real happiness.'

'And so do I feel, Mr. Moth,' she said: 'Truly some may care for wealth and some may care for glory, but they are not letting their hearts be filled with the only thing that can really, really fill the heart to the brim. I am thankful I am beautiful for your sake. But it is the happiness in my heart that is so glorious.'

And as they flew, close beside one another, they sang: 'Love is a wonderful, wonderful thing. How many to come this world will sing, And many before us have sung it too. For the sweetest old words are I love you.'

A man was walking along the street one day and he threw off his coat and drew off his shoes. What was his name? Andrew.

Moth, love is the most beautiful thing in all the world. Do not fly off with the first one who asks you just because he is handsome or because he offers you riches.

To Whom It May Concern

It will be the earnest endeavor of The Santa Cruz Patagonian never intentionally to wound the feelings of any one. Should an erroneous statement appear in the columns of this paper, call our attention to it, and if an error, due correction will be made and ample justice cheerfully accorded.

SHAPING THE LIFE AND CHARACTER OF OUR CHILDREN

Who knows best the proper molding of the lives of the youthful throughout the land of these United States? That they will become respectable and responsible citizens and a credit to themselves, their parents and their country? It is the parents, or is it our Congress who knows best how to assume and take up this great responsibility?

There is a proposed child labor amendment to the United States Constitution which has already been passed and will now go to the states for ratification, giving Congress the power to prohibit all labor by persons under 18 years of age. If this amendment is ratified we shall as parents or guardians have no control over the labor of our children.

First we will have to admit that from the factories in the big cities come tales of distressing incidents of child labor that should be corrected, but when our Congress presumes to take hold the reins of parental government and make labor under 18 years of age a crime, we believe that some of the soundest stones in the very foundation of our government are being removed.

Nothing should be allowed to interfere with the proper education of the child; it's education should be compulsory. But a reasonable amount of labor is but a part—and a very important part—of the child's education that properly molds him into useful and desirable citizenship.

We have living lessons all around us today from which to draw these conclusions. We have the idle children, and they are usually idle from both work and education. Our police records and reform schools are crowded with their history. Then we have the "idle rich" children who get the school education minus the important factor of any real manual labor.

The Loeb-Leopold case in Chicago is only one of the many that is the inevitable outcome from that angle. Congressmen could render a real blessing should they enact a law that all children, rich or poor, should perform a reasonable amount of physical labor until their majority in age had been attained. In after years the children would "rise up and call them blessed."

FODDER FOR THE NEWSPAPER GOAT

The money to be expended this campaign by the three party tickets in the field is forecasted to overreach the sum of fifteen million dollars. The major portion of this huge sum will go to the railroads for traveling expenses and to the expense of radio broadcasting. In the proposed budget of expense we failed to find newspaper publicity listed as an item. In the flood of political propaganda that is already streaming into the newspaper offices there isn't even the odor of a bankable check discernable. Get your goat managers ready, boys, and make good use of them. Why should newspapers be expected to carry free political propaganda than railroads political propagandists?

THRIFT AND EDUCATION GO HAND IN HAND

The teaching of children to save and become proud possessors of bank accounts during their school days is a commendable movement that is making rapid progress and growth in the schools of the United States. A recent survey brought forth the facts that three million children have put twelve million dollars in these school banks, and that the depositors and deposits are increasing at the rate of 25 per cent. The work of school banks has only begun, there being between 7,000 and 8,000 school banks operating successfully in some 500 towns. It is estimated that if all available children were enrolled in the school bank system of the country, the number of depositors would be in the neighborhood of 25,000,000, and the amount of deposits would be $100,000,000. Thrift is a mighty fine and handy companion to education, and the fact that our children can become intimately acquainted with both in our public schools is something to feel proud of.

EQUALIZE THE COMMUNITY LOAD

Are you pulling your share of the community load. Somehow it seems the community double-tree is ever out of adjustment and it's the willing fellows on the short end that are doing the most work, overpowered by the larger number on the long end who seem to be endowed with the spirit of "letting George do it." If you are unwilling to pull your share of the load, for the sake of the community don't add your strength to the class that knocks and kicks and whines about every project that is brought up to push the community forward. No more effort is required to pull forward than backward, and you will feel a whole lot happier headed in the right direction! If you don't dare to travel in the same direction the wheels of progress are going, at least be manly enough to step aside and keep still!

PRINTING Good Printing Is the Dress of Business. That's the Kind We Do. Let Us Show You

Let us work together for Arizona. -Dwight B. Heard. HEARD SAYS: "State officers should be filled by men and women of efficiency—not by political ward-healers..."

It's the extra pound of flesh on the fowl that cheapens production costs and commands a premium price for the poultryman. According to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation the extra pound can be put on for from 5 to 7 cents, which increases the value of each pound to the consumer by making the entire carcass more plump and attractive, so it commands a fancy price over lighter birds. Heavy hens sell from 5 to 11 cents more than light hens. It's true all down the line—turkeys, ducks, capons, hens and young fry—the extra pound brings the extra dollar.

Over a period of three years the New York market shows heavy fresh-killed milk-fowl or hens weighing 5 pounds or over to average from 4 to 11 cents higher per pound than the light fowls weighing 3 pounds. The five-year average for the month of September shows the heavy fowls to average 9 cents over the light weight, the margin broadening during October and November, reaching its height in December, when the heavy fowls range to 11 cents a pound over the light weights. The average weight of the ordinary fowl as it comes from the farm is 3 1/4 to 4 pounds. The poultryman with the eye for business will sell an extra pound or so and receive the top prices. The farmer who takes thin, underfed poultry to market is beating himself.

So rapidly is the poultry industry expanding that within a short time over production may cut the farmer's poultry dollar unless production can be maintained at a lower cost, according to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

A recent survey shows that more than 5,000,000 farms in this country produce poultry and eggs. It is estimated that there were 461,000,000 chickens in farms before the hatching season started. This is an increase of over 50,000,000, or nearly 12 per cent over figures of a year ago and 121,000,000, or over 52 per cent increase since January 1, 1920.

Production of eggs increased 33.3 per cent between 1920 and 1923 while the population increased only 5.3 per cent. In the past five years the estimates of egg production have shown a close correlation with the estimated number of chickens on hand at the beginning of the year, the ratio being 4 1/2 dozens per fowl. If the same ratio holds good, egg production in 1924 will gain 10 to 12 per cent over 1923 when it showed a gain of 33 per cent over four years ago. Profitable poultry production at the present stage of expansion is dependent upon the present high level of demand. Up to date consumption has kept pace with production. In 1923 enough eggs were produced to furnish 20 dozen for every man, woman and child in the United States. This would mean 100 dozen for the average family of five.

PERSONAL LIABILITY—WHY NOT?

A Greensburg, La., paper reports that in an endeavor to burn the carcass of a deer which they had shot illegally, two hunters started a brush fire in a national forest last fall which escaped their control. It was necessary for the Government to call out a large crew of men in order to extinguish the fire. At it was, 2,000 acres of forest land was thickened before the fire was put out.

The two hunters were subsequently haled into court and ordered to pay the United States Federal Government the sum of $2,500—the cost of controlling the fire which had been started by their own negligence.

This is a significant decision and adds strength to the legal precedent for personal liability for fire carelessness started. It will undoubtedly stimulate a wholesome public respect for forest protection and the scope of the decision should be extended to include fire damage caused by carelessness to other classes of property.

The practice of team-work, cooperation, concerted effort, or whatever it may be aptly called, cannot be emphasized too vigorously in fire prevention. At the same time, individual responsibility and the sinister shadow of personal liability will do much to "stay the careless hand."

MORE LIBERAL USE OF SILVER

A high authority in international political economy holds that our standard monetary system is unstable and says the world currency system does not resist inflation and deflation. Gold has not been a stable standard of value, and the purchasing power of our dollar should be stabilized to prevent the evils of inflation or deflation. Prof. Irving Fisher, economist and member of the faculty of Yale University, told business men in the final session of the eleventh annual business conference at Wellesley Hills. "We are already stabilizing the dollar, in effect," Prof. Fisher said, "through the operations of the Federal Reserve Board; we should recognize what is being done and see that our dollar be made a standard dollar for the whole world."

A more liberal use of the silver dollar at home and helping other nations to a larger use of silver coinage in place of deflated paper currency will help.

I Am Unalterably Opposed to the Ku Klux Klan

I am for Davis and Bryan. In them resides the hope of progressive democracy—effective justice to the worker, a square deal for the farmer, prosperity for honest business. My loyalty to these standard-bearers of democracy's cause is unequivocal, without mental reservation, untainted by double-dealing.

I hold that Colorado river development is the outstanding economic need. I deplore destructive obstruction without practical suggestion. I favor definite settlement of the Colorado river compact issue by submission to the people; and whatever the decision, immediate inauguration of a constructive, progressive program to stop waste and create wealth.

I condemn the prostitution of state departments to the pernicious purposes of a personal machine. I shall select state appointees on merit and require efficient service. I shall exact loyalty, but to the state's interest, not servile adherence to my political ambitions.

I condemn unwarranted perpetuation in high office. It is un-Democratic and un-American. It breeds undue power, unholy ambition, autoocracy, arrogance, and indifference to the public weal. I am absolutely opposed to more than two terms in the governor's chair for any man.

I favor a progressive, scientific road-building policy, with particular attention to the maintenance of the roads that are built.

OSBORN CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE GIVES CANDIDATE'S VIEWS

The following was sent out by the Osborn-for-governor Club of Phoenix: The Ku Klux Klan and the Colorado River issues form the principal planks in the platform of Sidney P. Osborn in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor. And on each, this candidate has taken a definite, firm stand, with no attempt to sidestep the questions which he holds are uppermost in the minds of Arizona democracy at this time.

Mr. Osborn is unalterably and unequivocally opposed to the Klan or any similar organization, holding that it is contrary to the Jeffersonian principles of democracy, guaranteeing religious freedom to all. The organization he declares has no place or part in the affairs of state or nation and is vigorously prosecuting this contention in all of his campaign addresses.

Regarding the Colorado River, the candidate is pledged to action, to initiate steps that will bring about the reduction and an economic administration; he is unequivocally behind the ticket as represented by John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan and his plan for operation of the state highway department has been acclaimed by leaders as one of the best feasibility and economic value.

Mr. Osborn is a native son of Arizona. He was born in Phoenix a little over 40 years ago of good old pioneer stock. His father, Neri Osborn, S., located in Prescott in 1864, driving across the plains in a prairie schooner. The candidate was educated in the public schools of Maricopa County during part of which time he sold papers on the streets of Phoenix. His first insight into public affairs came when he went to Washington as private secretary to J. F. Wilson, territorial delegate to Congress.

Later he was elected to the constitutional convention from Maricopa County and was a champion of the referendum and recall clause. He was elected the first secretary of state after statehood, being the youngest man ever to hold such an important office in the nation. He was re-elected in 1914, carrying every voting precinct in Arizona.

He retired from public life in 1918 and has been engaged in farming in the Salt River Valley and in the real estate business in Phoenix. Contrast between America's former policy of indifference and neglect and the present policy of maintaining an efficient education organization for the National Defense will be strikingly afforded on September 12th, the day set for the general observance of the day throughout Arizona are being made by the Governor's Committee of 15, with mayors and local authorities cooperating.

U. S. ESTABLISHES STATION FOR LIVESTOCK EXPERIMENTS
A tract of 57,000 acres, comprising most of the old Fort Keogh Military Reservation at Miles City, Mont., has been transferred to the United States Department of Agriculture by Congress, and is being transformed into an experiment station for the study of range livestock and forage crops. Experiments at the station will be conducted jointly by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Montana Agricultural Experiment Station, the former being responsible for the management and operation of the station. Livestock interests have been seeking for years for an opportunity to study some of the difficulties of western stockmen on a scale large enough to make the results reliable. The new station is well suited to the purpose, and is situated on land for growing forage, and typical western grazing lands. It has an annual average rainfall of 15 inches, and its winters are severe. The two railroads and the Yellowstone Trail which cross it will make it easily accessible to visitors.

Northwest particularly is enthusiastic over this splendid opportunity for research, but those who are doing the work to be done at the ranch recognize it as a distinct gain for American agriculture as a whole. Problems in the breeding, feeding, and care of livestock, and the growing of crops for them, are to be studied. The results obtained will be immediately applicable to the range country, but their influence will not stop there, because cheaper and better western feeder steers make possible success in corn-belt feed lots, and cheaper, juicier steaks on the consumers' platters.

Appropriate programs being arranged for defense day
Phoenix—Patriotic parades in which

National Guard Units, War Veterans' Organizations, Patriotic Societies and school children will take part. It is planned as a part of Arizona's observance of Defense Day September 12th. Programs appropriate to the occasion will follow the parades in each locality, according to plans being made by the State committee of 15 appointed by Governor Hunt to cooperate with officers in the field. Curious to make the State's advantage of the day a success, every point.

Designed to bring clearly to the understanding of the people the meaning of the words National Defense, and the obligations and duties of American Citizens when the question of National Defense arises, the day is expected to do much toward enabling the United States to exert its strength promptly should war again fall upon the nation. Incidentally, it is believed that the contrast which will be afforded thru this rallying of the second and third lines of defense in America to the latest standing armies of Europe will further serve to demonstrate the soundness of America's defensive policy, in which every man-citizen between the age of 18 and 47 is made available for duty in time of war.

America's citizen army will have an opportunity on September 12th to show the world that the lessons of the great war have not been forgotten by this nation, and that when it comes to preparation for the national defense, America can be counted on, to the last man.
