

POULTRY FACTS

RAISE POULTRY FEED BY HAVING TWO LOTS

When open range is not available and hens must be confined, we recommend the division of the hen yard into two lots, so that green food can be grown on one side while the other patch is being grazed.

There are times when the poultry do some harm to some of the crops at or soon after planting time, but after they have a good start this is not very often the case.

The green crops to be grown should be suited to local conditions as well as to the proper time to plant in order to have a succession of green crops throughout the year.

There are times when these lots should not be grazed too closely, but allowed to get a fresh start, so here is where the other yard comes in play.

Thickly sown crops furnish succulent feed and summer shade.

From April 1 to July 1 on growing yard 1—Oats, chard or lettuce, clover or vetch, sunflowers, cowpeas, rape.

From July 1 to October 1 the oats, chard and lettuce, clover and vetch, cowpeas and rape on yard 1 may be fed, while buckwheat, dwarf Essex rape and flat turnips are grown on yard 2.

From October 1 to April 1 the growing crops on yard 1 should consist of oats, winter rye, winter vetch, sweet clover and crimson clover, while at the same time yard 2 could be growing buckwheat, dwarf Essex rape, flat turnips and soy beans.

We, in this state, are blessed with a climate that makes it possible to have some green pasturage crop growing at all seasons.

Allen G. Oliver, in Charge, Office of Poultry Extension, North Carolina State Agricultural College.

Proper Plan of Packing Will Prevent Breakage

Careful packing prevents breakage in market eggs. The poultry department of the New Jersey experiment station recommends this plan of packing.

Pullets in Quarters

The reason some pullets are late in laying in the fall is because they got started wrong in their winter quarters.

Separate Late Molters

Late molting hens should be separated from the pullets about ready to lay. These hens have performed well and now need plenty of fattening feed to build them up ready for early spring laying.

Sell Old Hens Early

Pullets make the most profitable layers. Hens are always a good price if sold just before the breeding season is over, but they drop fast when farmers are selling their stock after they drop down in production.

MAKING GOOD IN A SMALL TOWN

Real Stories About Real Girls

By MRS. HARLAND H. ALLEN

BULB BUSINESS MEANS BETTER BANK BALANCES

CHRISTMAS time and Easter time are the seasons supreme for bulbs. But the woman who raises them for sale can't wait till holiday time to start thinking of them.

This girl bulb raiser is evidence that even a novice can make good at the business.

The first step the bulb-raiser-to-be should take is to try to get orders for her bulbs. In raising them for Christmas gifts, she should start her campaign by newspaper advertising and personal letters early in August.

All bulbs must be allowed not less than eight weeks for rooting; some of them, such as Dutch hyacinths, require twelve.

The prospective bulb-raiser should carefully select the pots that are to hold her plants. Her small flowers, such as anemones, crocuses and snowdrops, look more attractive and thrive better in small earthen bulb pans.

When the rooting time is up, the bulb grower should dig her plants out and carry them to some place equally dark, and slightly warmer than the trench.

In shipping the plants, the bulb raiser should slip them into waterproof proof pots, encased in corrugated paper, and pack carefully to prevent their moving about in the box.

THE "PAINLESS BRIDGE" TEACHER

THE "trump card" for any bridge teacher is an even temper; and her "longest suit" is science.

So says a young woman who is reaping riches in a small way, teaching the people of her own town how to play "painless bridge."

"Bridge is a scientific game," she told me one day when I dropped in at her home with a friend, who is one of her "bridge guests"; "and the only certain way four people who may be strangers can play harmoniously is for each of them to observe the conventions."

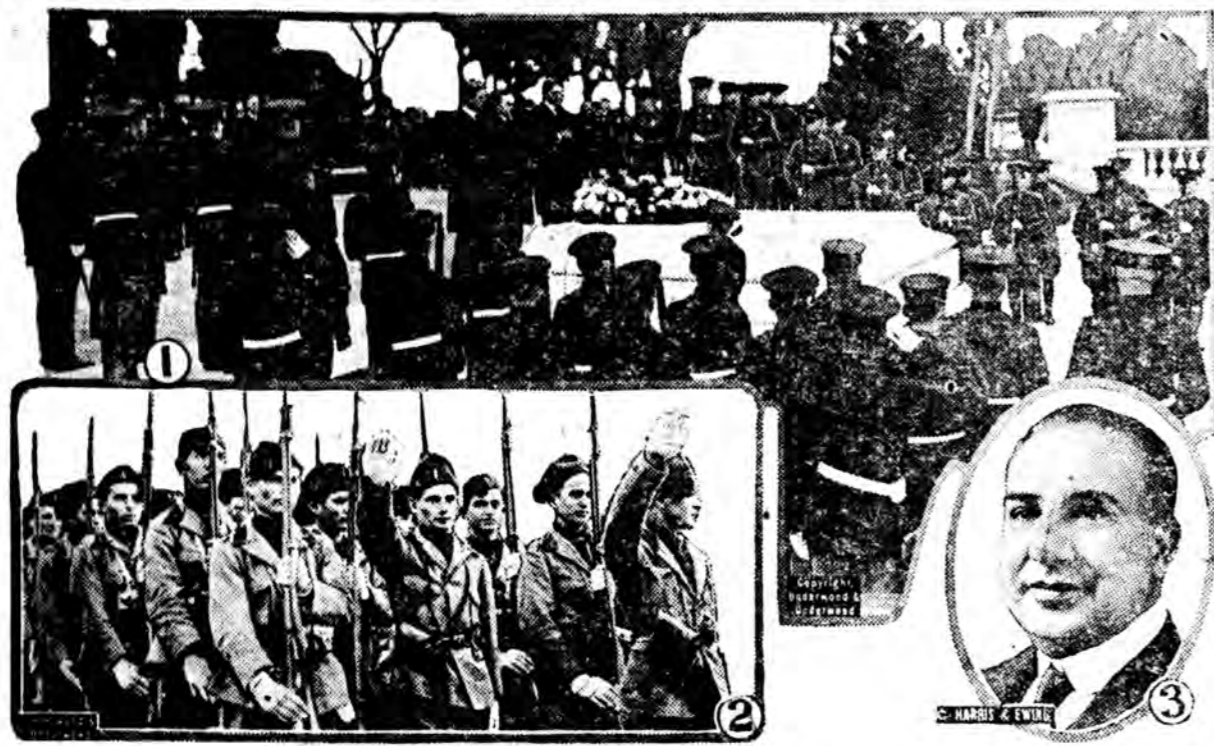

This means that the teacher must, above all, insist on scientific plays. She went on to explain, if her pupils are to hold their own outside of "Main Street." She must NOT let them "play by ear."

The small-town girl who decides that she is qualified for this rather unique work, will, if successful, have a well-paying business, because bridge-playing is a definite, and seemingly permanent social asset.

The girl who selects this work will probably have played cards most of her life, and be known as a "shark." The reputation will help her business, and it is true that she must be an expert on the technicalities of the points of the game.

These girls will be the especially difficult ones for whom the amateur teacher must be on the lookout; the man who wants to play a partner's game instead of a scientist's game!

Insistence on science, coupled with social training and diplomacy are the virtues of the teacher which will make her students' losses and victories bridge payers.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Armistice Day Is Observed Impressively—W. M. Butler Given Lodge's Seat.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

MORE impressively and more generally than ever before, Armistice day was observed throughout the United States, in all parts of the British empire, in France, Italy, and in the smaller allied countries, and wherever a number of veterans of the Great War could gather together, America's chief ceremony was of course at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery.

With King George and his sons leading at the great cenotaph in London, the people of the metropolis piled flowers six feet high about the shaft, and solemn services were held at the tomb of the Unknown British Hero in Westminster.

Another ceremony of the day in Washington was held at the peace cross where Woodrow Wilson is buried. Huston Thompson, chairman of the federal trade commission, was the chief speaker, and he described the war President as another Saramora who had seen a great vision and found the way of salvation for mankind.

At a church service of flags in a New York church, held in connection with the Armistice anniversary, Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske warned America that "our probable enemies are becoming stronger to attack and we weaker to resist."

PREDICTIONS that, having been elected to the Presidency, Mr. Coolidge would soon get rid of some of the cabinet members selected by President Harding and would also discard some of the Harding policies seem to have been premature if not baseless.

JOHN PHILIP HILL of Baltimore, congressman and foe of the Volstead law, has had his test in court and came out with flying colors.

EMMA GOLDMAN, veteran anarchist, who was deported from the United States and went back to Russia, is in England telling the truth about bolshevism as she saw it.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, analyzing the results of the election, says 320 of the 432 candidates for the house of representatives endorsed by the drys were successful, and the wets elected 82 of the 174 candidates they endorsed. He adds: "Of the 23 senators elected 17 who were re-elected are listed as dry, one is outspokenly wet and two vote for most enforcement legislation, while all but two of the 13 newly elected senators are favorable to prohibition enforcement. Most of these were fought by the wets."

FOR several days it was feared that the strike of railway employees in Austria for higher wages would have serious international results.

MUSSOLINI, declaring recently that he would continue to rule Italy and if necessary would recommend the dissolution of parliament and the proclamation of a dictatorship, is making good so far, and seems to have his enemies cowed.

WHILE the mortal remains of Henry Cabot Lodge were being laid away in Cambridge, Mass., after a simple ceremony attended by many distinguished men and women, the national capital was spending as for his successors as senator, as four leaders of the senate and as chairman of the foreign relations committee.

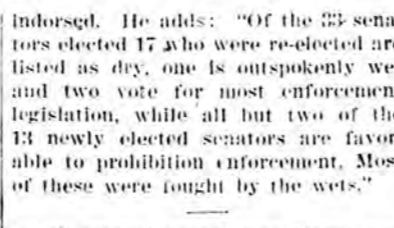

IF YOU have any Liberty bonds or Federal savings stamps it might be well to investigate their genuineness, for the government secret service in the Middle West has uncovered a ring that has been flooding the country with forged, counterfeited and altered securities of those kinds.

TREASURY and customs agents announced in Washington that they had broken up another huge conspiracy, this time of jewelry smugglers who have brought much stuff into the country. At least two numbers have been directly connected with the smuggling ring. Both were in Los Angeles. The first was that of Mrs. Theresa Mors, jeweler and antique dealer, for whose death "Kid" McCoy is being held; the other was that of Harry L. Katz, who was shot down a few days ago. The treasury was informed that a man named Medianski, now in flight to a foreign country, was the person who actually had brought the jewelry in.

MARSHAL CHANG TSO-LIN of Manchuria is now taking steps to set himself up as the real ruler of China, and will go to Peking as soon as military discipline has been established. Already he has made some important changes in officials and promises more, and it seems likely General Feng will have to take a back seat. Chang has expressed a willingness to confer with Tuan Chi-Jui, Anfu leader, whose intervention has caused to be restored to the former emperor the summer palace and all his personal effects. The leaders will meet in Tientsin. General Wu Pei Fu has not given up the fight and ten provinces are counted on to support him. Most of these are in the Yangtze region so the scene of the civil warfare may be shifted in that direction.

EMMA GOLDMAN, veteran anarchist, who was deported from the United States and went back to Russia, is in England telling the truth about bolshevism as she saw it. She says the bolshevik leaders have given the country tyranny instead of liberty and are the arch-enemy-revolutionists of the world today. "Let me warn all people that bolshevism is an international disease," said Miss Goldman to a gathering of London intellectuals. "You may think that it will not come here because you have only a few communists. It doesn't take many to build, but it does take many to build. The whole world must be warned to protect itself against this evil thing."

Postponing this expert testimony and lots more like it, Senator Borah advocates recognition of the soviet government of Russia by the United States "as a necessary step toward the economic rehabilitation of Europe."

TAXATION MEASURES SUCCESS OF GOVERNMENT

"Taxation is the process of taking a dollar from somebody to whom it belongs rightfully and using it for the benefit of the people collectively," says Paul Shoup, Vice-President, Southern Pacific Company. "The wisdom that governs the taking of this money from its owners and its expenditure on behalf of his fellow men, who individually have no claim to it whatsoever, in a large way measures the success of government. There would not have been an American Republic except for problems relating to taxation which resulted in severing the political ties that bound the old world and the new."

"The question of taxation never pressed upon the life of the individual more than at this present time. In large degree he is unquestionably unaware of how much of his daily burden arises from taxation. But history shows that this sleep and forgetting is not to be accepted as a finality. In the end when the burden becomes too great, or the sense of injustice too strong, he seeks the source and then comes the upheaval.

"Only the most shallow of thinkers believe that taxation rests where it is initially placed. Every man strives to pass it on in the sale of his services or his production, just as he strives to pass on other expenses. So, taxation is an element roof that shelters, of travel and entertainment, and the end, in the cost of death itself."

TRUST COMPANIES GROWING IN FAVOR WITH PUBLIC

Trust Company resources in Arizona, for the year ending June 30, were $10,741,069, according to "Trust Companies of the United States," just published by the United States Mortgage & Trust Company of New York. The Southwest States reported total assets of $173,909,000, an increase of $1,288,000, over 1923.

The total for the Country were $16,025,580,000, a gain of $1,584,042,000, or nearly 11 per cent over 1923, and deposits increased from $11,828,983,000 to $13,289,148,000, or more than 12 per cent.

In commenting on the figures for the year, John W. Platten, President of the United States Mortgage & Trust Company, says:

"It is significant that Trust Company resources in the United States, have more than doubled in eight years, and have practically tripled in twelve years. These tremendous increases, together with the rapidly mounting volume of corporate and personal trust business, give evidence of the deep rooted and commanding position of Trust Companies, and furnish the best evidence of their ever growing usefulness."

COMMON SENSE AT GRADE CROSSINGS

"Not least among the problems encountered in the effort to reduce automobile accidents is that of the railroad grade crossing with its annual toll of approximately 2,000 lives and some 6,000 non-fatal casualties," says Insurance Field.

Common sense would counsel that a man stop and look before crossing a railroad track. As automobile drivers will not do this voluntarily, why not make it unlawful to cross a track without coming to a dead stop. This would, certainly be a humanitarian piece of legislation and would be no expense to the taxpayers. As a matter of fact it would be a money maker for public treasuries due to fines collected for failure to obey the law. Most of all, the lives of many persons would be saved who would otherwise carelessly cross the track.

INSURANCE MONOPOLY DEFEATED

The initiative measure to establish a compulsory monopolistic state working men's compensation insurance system was defeated by a large majority in Oregon.

It was a vicious measure as it made it impossible for employers to have any benefits of competition in casualty insurance, such as they have at present in nearly every state in the union.

This demand for increased power in the hands of three men did not come from the legislature, from the employers, from employees, or from the people. It was an autocratic demand by a handful of office holders and so-called labor leaders to extend the powers of the existing State Workmen's compensation commission to give it unrestrained power subject to no competition, no regulation by the legislature and no review in the courts — its only check being another vote of the people.

Oregon knew better than to enact such a law.

WIDE ROADS WILL PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Pennsylvania will not start on general highway widening program until the whole state is provided with travelable roads, says the state highway secretary. However, 40-foot paving is favored on important trunk highways with all rights of way from 50 feet to 120 feet wide.

Western states have already started on a widening process for roads but instead of building 40-foot pavements they are putting about a 2-foot shoulder on each side of existing 18-foot pavements and covering the old pavement or macadam road, with a water proof covering of asphaltic concrete to absorb the jar of rapidly moving vehicles and thus prevent chertization or destruction of non-elastic road surfaces or pavements.

In addition, however possible, they are widening the road grade from fence to fence with a gentle slope for drainage like a city street. This relieves traffic congestion on a narrow paved strip as it permits six to eight vehicles to stand side by side if necessary. Eliminating side ditches and widening roads in this manner is the greatest step yet taken to eliminate automobile accidents.

What the World Is Doing

Shortly after launching the Giant Submarine "V-1" with its Gay Pennants Is Welcomed to the Sea and Preparations Are Made to Complete It for Voyage across Atlantic

Sub Able to Cross Atlantic with Crew of Eighty-Seven

The fighting efficiency of Uncle Sam's navy will be greatly increased, officials believe, by the "V-1," the giant submarine, nearly twice as large as any previously built here. It is said to be capable of sailing as fast and as far as the battle fleet in any kind of weather and will not need the services of a "mother ship." The huge boat, the first of a fleet of nine similar fighters to be built, can cross the Atlantic and return without replenishing its supplies of fuel. With a displacement of 2,104 tons, it develops a speed of twenty-one knots at the surface and nine knots an hour submerged. It is 341 feet six inches long, has a maximum breadth of twenty-seven feet eight and five-eighths inches and will carry a crew of seven officers and eighty men.

Over Thousand Accidents an Hour Cause Heavy Loss in U. S.

An average of twenty-one accidents occur every minute in the United States. According to figures compiled by the government, those caused by automobiles leading in number. Baseball is said to head the list of mishaps in athletics and sports, while polo has the lowest figure, in a similar report made up by an insurance body. This record does not include accidents to campers or persons on hiking trips or pleasure tours. One insurance company reports that fifty-six policy holders were accidentally killed in the past ten years while engaged in recreation.

An Artistic Storm Door for the Home

There seems to be no happy medium between the expensive glassed-in porch and the ugly, drab storm doors used on the more modest houses. One home owner could not afford the glass porch, but he could see no reason why he could not make the storm door as artistic as possible.

Almost every storm door on the street was painted a dull gray, regardless of the color of the house or its trimmings. His house had rich brown shingles, trimmed with cream, so he made the storm door of tongued and grooved cypress, which has a pretty grain put in a generous window, and stained the door with a dark oak oil stain, then finished it with spar varnish. The door was hung with iron T-hinges painted with gold bronze paint, which gave a pretty effect against the dark-brown stain.

The result was a sturdy storm door which harmonized with the quiet tone of the house, and was not an eyesore. This hint may be useful to other householders who are dissatisfied with the appearance of the front of the house in storm-door time.

Logging Radio Stations

Neatness and compactness are the outstanding features of a new device for logging radio stations. The call letters and other data concerning the various stations are printed on a strip of paper, which is held on two rolls and turned forward or backward by means of two small knobs. When a station is received as loudly and distinctly as possible, one of the knobs is turned until the call letters of that station are found, and the dial readings are jotted down so that the same station can be tuned in later without delay. There is plenty of blank space on the paper so that call letters, etc., of new broadcasting stations can be added.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN THE TWELFTH FEDERAL RESERVE DISTRICT

A pause in the forward movement of business which began last June was apparent during September, for although the total volume of September trade was larger than in the two previous months, the gains were smaller in many cases than the normal increase at this season of the year. Debts to individual accounts at banks in the principal centers of the district, an accurate index of general business conditions, when corrected for seasonal variation showed a decline for September as compared with July and August and were near the low point of the year reached in June.

Credit demands of the autumn crop moving period have been met by member banks of the district without difficulty, and interest rates have remained at relatively low levels. Commercial loans of 66 reporting member banks in nine cities increased $5,550,000 (1.9 per cent) during the past month and their investment holdings by $37,000,000 (10.2 per cent). Total loans and investments of the banks, $4,422,000,000 on October 8th, were at the highest point on record. During this period borrowings of member banks from the Reserve Bank were declining, and the discounts of the latter, at $13,000,000 on October 15th, were smaller than at any time since 1917.

Increased productive activity, partly of seasonal character, was reported during September. Building permit values did not decline by the usual seasonal amount from August to September (the number of permits issued showed an increase), and for the first time since February, 1924, the number and value of building permits issued in 20 principal cities were larger than in the corresponding month a year ago. Cumulative totals of number and value of building permits issued during the first nine months of this year are less than 4.0 per cent below the record figures reported for the same period in 1923, when building cost averaged 9.3 per cent higher. Production of lumber increased during September, but the buying activity of the previous month was not maintained and stocks held at mills increased while the volume of their unfilled orders declined. Producing schedules at the mines of the district continued heavy, the silver mines, in particular, increasing their output as the market price of silver rose (from 68 3/4 cents per ounce on August 29th to 71 1/4 cents per ounce on October 20, 1924).

Flour millers are proceeding cautiously, and their output has recently been below normal. The scarcity of good local milling wheat and the high prices which must be paid for desirable varieties have not encouraged production in excess of current demand which is reported to be only moderately active. Canned and dry fruit packs are being completed and the products are moving into consumption on a steady market. Changes in volume of employment during September were largely seasonal and did not greatly alter the labor situation. The total number of men employed in the district is still estimated to be smaller than one year

The Dutch have taken Holland and La Follette has carried Wisconsin. FAIRM FLOCK SUGGESTIONS

Raising Poultry For Winter Egg Production

About 75 per cent of the cases of roup in Arizona is caused from faulty poultry house construction, and a larger percentage of that is overcrowding the birds on the roosts. In this wonderful mild winter climate of ours, too many people are prone to think that a hen does not need very much in the way of a house for shelter. In fact there are some who let their birds roost in the trees the year round. As a rule those people do not believe a hen is supposed to lay in the winter, at least, they seldom catch their hens doing it. It would not be so bad for hens to roost in the trees if the nights were always warm and there were never any danger of storms. One bad storm will cause such exposed birds to take cold and will throw them off production for a month or more. We must house poultry to meet the extremes of weather, not the average.

Most poultrymen see the necessity of having a house for their hens to roost in but a great many of them do not have the right idea as to how large the house should be nor how it should be ventilated. The most damage is done to birds on the roosts at night by overcrowding them with too small amount of overhead and space to take care of the heat given off by the wool's body. For birds of the small type, like Leghorns, allow at least 3 inches per bird on the roost poles and 10 inches per bird of the medium weight type, like the Rhode Island Reds. The roost poles should be at least two feet from the roof and the roof of sufficient pitch to allow proper circulation of air above the birds or have a small ventilator cut in the back of the house at the eaves. In a low flat roofed house where the roosts are too close to the roof, the warm stale air from the birds, banks in about which condition they are very susceptible to roup.

A great many Southwest poultrymen are complaining of roup in their young stock at this time of year. They and causes them to sweat in Figure out just how much space on the roosts you are allowing each bird. Many flocks in Arizona have been relieved by lowering the roosts and putting a ventilator at the eaves above them. (By L. C. Boggs, Extension Poultryman)
