The Livestock Situation

Los Angeles, April 19.—(Special to The Patagonian.)—The entire livestock industry is interested in watching the results of an experiment being conducted by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted Arctic explorer, who is attempting to subsist on a strictly fresh meat diet for six months. Physicians are keeping close watch on his physical condition, and with the experiment well under way the explorer is not only failing to show any injurious effects from his diet but is showing every sign of good health.

As a matter of fact, the effort of Stefansson to exist on a diet consisting entirely of meat is not an experiment with him, as he lived on nothing else but meat on his hazardous trips into the frozen wastes on other expeditions. But in this instance the test is being made under scientific observation in the Bellevue hospital, New York, under the auspices of the Russell Sage Institute of Pathology.

From a medical standpoint, the experiment is naturally of keen interest. For instance, scurvy is unknown among the Eskimos of the far north, and it is known that they have nothing to eat except meat for long periods of time. Disease is very infrequent among these people, according to Stefansson, who adds that in the far north, death usually comes as a result of old age or accident. Diseases common to the so-called civilized world are not known in that latitude.

The explorer's diet consists of steak, roast beef, tongue, beef broth, brain and marrow, with liver once a week. His ration consists of 13 ounces of lean meat and 5 ounces of fat.

From the standpoint of the livestock industry, such an experiment is of immense value. Due to the fact that all observations are made by scientists and doctors of wide repute, the results will prove important in offsetting much of the anti-meat propaganda which has been broadcast by fanatics and vegetarians. Well-meaning physicians no doubt have unwittingly injured the cowman's pocketbook many times by advising patients to refrain from eating meat. The success of Stefansson's meat diet will be highly satisfactory to many people who like meat but have been frightened into doing without because of the propaganda of firms advertising substitutes.

It is interesting to note that the famous boat crew of the University of California is on a meat diet. The athletes are being fed a pound and a half of porterhouse steak or rib roast at each meal. It is the contention of the trainer that meat builds brain and brawn, and both of these qualities are quite essential to the production of a winning boat crew as well as the healthfulness and success of the average individual.

There is a very decided opinion developing among those in the livestock and meat industry that more facts concerning the value of meat in the diet should be broadcast to the public. In some parts of the country, strong newspaper campaigns are proving to be of immense benefit. That this campaign is proving valuable may be realized when it is seen that the per capita consumption of both pork and lamb is rapidly increasing. Beef producers have been more backward about advertising their product in the press, but the success of the pork and lamb interests no doubt will bring about some sort of campaign to stimulate beef consumption.

VAUGHN NEWS

Mrs. W. H. Anderson and daughter are improving, following an attack of flu and are able to be out and around again.

Miss Allen, Vaughn school teacher, was a county seat visitor over the week-end.

Mrs. James Frazer is the proud owner of a new automobile.

Easter services at the Adobe Church on the Hill were well attended and a good dinner was served to all present. A fine program was given and the male quartette rendered some fine selections. Mr. and Mrs. George Sleeth will be present at the church April 22, after which they will leave for New York for the summer.

During the absence of Mr. Sleeth, the Rev. Mr. Gardner of Tucson will preside at church services and on May 6 will hold services, and each Sunday thereafter during the summer months. A Sunday school will be organized. Rev. Gardner will become a resident of Vaughn for the summer.

Frank Jolly has been confined to his home on account of sickness.

Miss Gray of Phoenix and Mrs. W. F. Nell of Elgin were Vaughn visitors last week.

William Eaton, purchaser of several Vaughn ranches, which he intends to improve and turn into a "dude" ranch, expects to have a force of men here soon preparing the grounds. The ranch expects to be ready for guests by December 1, 1928. It will be a first-class guest ranch in every particular.

Henry Wood is working on the Rail-X roundup.

Mrs. Greenwood of Phoenix is visiting the Everharts. She is Mrs. Everhart's sister-in-law.

Mrs. Harrison was a county seat visitor this week.

A DUMBAULD ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY FOR TREASURER

A. Dumbauld, clerk of the Board of Supervisors, announces in this week's Patagonian his candidacy for the office of county treasurer.

Mr. Dumbauld was born in McLean county, Ill., and moved to eastern Kansas with his parents when a small boy, where his early childhood was spent on a farm. He completed his common school education in Lyon county, after which he attended the Kansas State Normal School at Emporia, Kas.

He came to Arizona 21 years ago, working for a time in the Babbett Brothers' store at Flagstaff, from there going to the Copper Queen store at Bisbee, from which place he came to Nogales as store manager for L. B. Fleischer in the Boston Store. He was later store manager for Nathan Leoker for four years, at the termination of which time he was employed by the First National Bank of Nogales, where he remained approximately two years.

He has been a resident of Santa Cruz county for the last 20 years, and has been a taxpayer for the last 17 years. At the time the City of Nogales took over the water department, he was the first cashier and bookkeeper for the city water department. In 1914 he was appointed town marshal and served one term as marshal and tax collector of Nogales.

At present he is the clerk of the board of supervisors, which position he has held since January 1, 1923. He is recognized as one of the most efficient and most competent officials of Santa Cruz county, and his many friends feel he would make an excellent county treasurer.

MOTORCADE TO MONTANA CAMP

A motorcade has been planned for Sunday morning to Montana Camp by the Nogales Chamber of Commerce, which will be participated in by many residents of the county as well as many tourists. The start will be made from the Chamber of Commerce room, on Grand avenue, Nogales, at 9 o'clock in the morning. The motorcade is intended to acquaint the people participating with the activity now going on at Ruby at the Eagle Picher Company's mining property, which is employing approximately 200 men.

BETTER HOMES WEEK

The Home Economics students of Patagonia Union High school will observe Better Homes Week by a series of programs to be held at the schoolhouse on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. The programs are open to every one interested in the better homes campaign, which is put on each year for the promotion of the welfare of American families by helping them to discover how they may make their homes more wholesome, convenient and attractive.

The program is as follows: Thursday, 7:30 p. m.—Demonstration of planning, cooking and serving of a family luncheon, by Doris Setbold and Nellie Kearney.

Friday, 7:30 p. m.—Pantomime, "What Kind of a Mother Are You," Freshman girls; books and magazines for the home.

Saturday, 8 p. m.—"A Community Party," Sophomore girls. Every one invited to attend these programs.

PUREBRED POLLED HEREFORDS AT A-RAIL RANCH

H. B. Thurber, owner of the A-Rail ranch on the Patagonia-Nogales road, recently returned from Texas, where he had gone to purchase some purebred polled Hereford bulls to head his herd of polled Hereford cattle. The bulls are the best ever brought to this county of the polled type and Mr. Thurber hopes to build up his livestock to the highest point of excellence.

Since Mr. Thurber purchased the old Ray Sorrells ranch he has made many improvements and has leased and purchased much additional land to range his cattle on. The development of the Thurber holdings has been rapid and thorough. The ranch and its equipment is a credit to Santa Cruz county.

HORSE RACE TO FEATURE TWO-DAY CINCO DE MAYO FIESTA

Great preparations are being made in Nogales, Sonora, to celebrate Cinco de Mayo. A two-day program has been arranged, which will include all sorts of sports, including a horse race between a pinto mare owned by James A. Hathaway, deputy sheriff of Santa Cruz county, and Regalado, a horse owned by R. Valenzuela. The race will be held at 8 a. m., May 6, and has stirred up more interest than any sporting event held for many years and much money is said to have been wagered on the result of the race.

J. C. PENNEY CO. SHOWS 31.76 PER CENT GAIN FOR MARCH

Gross sales of the J. C. Penney Co. for March, 1928, were $13,134,178.89, as compared with gross sales of $9,968,057.44 for the corresponding month of last year, showing a gain in sales of $3,166,121.45, or an increase of 31.76 per cent. The total number of stores reporting for March was 950 as compared with 826 for the same period of last year.

We trust that the reorganized radio commission may assign all the state stations which broadcast punk programs.

MISSED HOLE "SHOOT": TWO MINERS BADLY INJURED

Floyd Papp and Bernard Golden, shaft men at the Homestake mine, in Soldier Basin, near Harshaw, had a miraculous escape from death yesterday morning, when a "missed hole" containing four sticks of dynamite went off several hours after the men unawares. The failure of the charge to explode in due time was interpreted by the men to mean that the fuse had gone out and they were not expecting the charge to go off. They were badly injured and were rushed to a Nogales hospital, where surgeons spent some time patching them up.

MORNING GLORY MINE MAKES IMPORTANT ORE STRIKE

A new strike of importance has been made at the Morning Glory mine at Harshaw. Word brought to Patagonia is to the effect that the ore will run around 7 per cent copper. Shipments of ore from the Morning Glory are scheduled to begin next week, according to rumor.

The mine is being developed by Pennsylvania and Tennessee capitalists under management of Mr. A. J. Hamilton.

The Morning Glory is one of the oldest mines in the district and promises to become one of the largest.

NEW COMPRESSOR FOR SOLDIER BASIN HOMESTAKE MINE

A new compressor has arrived for the Homestake mine in Soldier Basin, near Harshaw, and has been taken to the property by motor truck. The new shaft being sunk on the property is progressing satisfactorily and the ore body or vein may be tapped at any time. The mine is owned by E. D. Farley of Patagonia and is being developed by a Colorado capitalist under the management of Mr. Floyd Thompson.

FIRE DESTROYS NOGALES ICE PLANT AND BREWERY

Nogales, Ariz., April 15.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Nogales (Sonora) Brewery and ice plant, both of which were owned by J. E. Wise and associates, Mr. Wise being the principal stockholder. The loss is estimated at $250,000, with no insurance. The building was a total loss. One thousand barrels of beer stored in an adjoining building were saved.

STATE LEGION HEAD TO VISIT NOGALES SUNDAY

Paul Geary of Holbrook, state commander of the American Legion, will be the guest of honor Sunday at a luncheon being prepared by Ridge-Igo Post of Nogales, which will be held at the Aztec club, Nogales, Sonora. A party of Tucson Legionnaires, headed by Fred Dacey, district commander, will attend the function.

VAIL RANCH TO TRAP WILD CATTLE

Trapping cattle is not new, but it has not been practiced in this district for many years. The Vail Cattle Company is building traps in the Rincon mountains and near Vail station to trap their wild cattle.

The traps are made with sharp poles, and cattle are baited with water and salt. Dink Parker, foreman, is in charge of the experiment.

HERON BUYING COWPONIES

Frank Heron of Seligman, Ariz., is purchasing cowponies in Santa Cruz county, which will be shipped to the northern part of the state and sold. Mr. Heron purchased several carloads of ponies here last year and says he was very successful in disposing of them, as they are superior to horses available in other sections of the state.

NEW "DUDE" RANCH AT VAUGHN STARTS PRELIMINARY WORK

Work has been started on the new "dude" ranch of Eaton Brothers of Sheridan, Wyo., who recently purchased land at Vaughn. A well is being drilled to furnish water for the ranch and other preliminary work is being done. When completed, the ranch will be one of the best of its kind in this part of the state.

Clothilde Mirabella, 16, made her debut as a grand opera star in "The Barber of Seville" in New York.

This Year's Affair Promises to Eclipse All Former Efforts by Local People; Expect Big Crowd

COMMITTEES ARE APPOINTED

Setting for the Show is at Circle-Z Guest Ranch; Plenty of Shade and Beautiful Surroundings

The Patagonia Volunteer Firemen's annual rodeo and barbecue will again be held at the Circle-Z guest ranch on the 4th of July. Preliminary arrangements have been made and committees appointed for the event. It is expected to make this year's rodeo the biggest and best ever held in this county. Last year's affair was attended by approximately 2500 people, many of whom came from distant cities. The barbecue was handled in a very efficient manner, 1500 people being waited on within an hour and a half.

A mass meeting was held here Wednesday night in the Methodist church, which was well attended by residents from all parts of the county. Leo G. Zinsmeister of the Circle-Z ranch entertained the crowd with moving pictures of last year's rodeo.

The following committees were appointed to handle arrangements for the coming rodeo:

Finance—E. H. Evans, J. R. Collier, Val Valenzuela Jr., Woodie Gatlin, Chester Broyles, H. B. Riggs and William Feester.

Rodeo—Lee G. Zinsmeister, James G. Kane, Sid Swyers, G. L. Stevens, Charles Moad, Joe Kane, Art Echols, Bird Yoas and Bob Kane.

Advertising—E. F. Bohlinger, C. A. Pierce, Howard Keener, Lee G. Zinsmeister, W. F. Nell, Bracy Curtis, Art Peck and J. B. Bristol.

Barbecue—R. C. Blabon, O. E. Reynolds, C. J. Trask, George Edgell and "H. McCutchan.

Ground Policing—W. C. Hoskas, H. W. Rutledge, Walter Woodman, R. E. Zimmerman, H. H. Rickwalt, A. M. Valenzuela, and Ben Powell.

Concessions—R. A. Campbell.

Dance Refreshments—Bert Blabon.

Those named to assist Lee Zinsmeister in arranging for the rodeo stock and events are: Bird Yoas, Dan C. McKinney, T. E. Heady, Sid Simpson, H. D. Lee, W. T. Roath, James L. Finley, H. B. Thurber, Roy Sorrells, and Art Echols. These men will handle all details of the rodeo both before and during the big show.

The day will wind up, as last year, with a big dance at the Patagonia opera house.

MRS. J. A. SMITH DIES

Mrs. J. A. Smith, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Saxton of Nogales, died Thursday evening, April 12, following a protracted illness. She is survived by her mother, one daughter, a sister, Mrs. Pete Munch of Phoenix, and two brothers, Harry and Alfred Saxton. Funeral services were held Saturday morning.

Roundup of Rail-X Cattle Starts

This week the Rail-X outfit started its annual roundup. The Rail-X brand is owned by the Ashburn estate and Mr. Vail. The land belonging to the Ashburns was recently purchased by the Vail interests. It is said, but the cattle were not included in the sale. The cattle have been sold and will be shipped to Nebraska and other places.

Mrs. Nat Macon has spent all of her 96 years on the same farm near Floyd's Mill, Ala., and hopes to round out her century there.

WHO LIKES HIS JOB?

Several instances have come to notice recently which seem to discredit the old theory that in order to be a success one should follow a congenial line of work.

It is said that the late Joseph Conrad, the most famous of recent authors of sea stories, hated the sea and detested writing.

O. O. McIntyre tells of a leading and successful New York theatrical producer who has a deep antipathy to actors and actresses and despises the theater; also of a man who has made a fortune as a florist, but who does not care for flowers and is nauseated by their perfume.

Now comes Irving S. Cobb, one of America's most famous writers and humorists, with the statement that he utterly dislikes writing, but keeps at it because he doesn't want to be a loafer, or words to that effect.

The average newspaper man will tell you that he loathes the eternal grind, but somehow you could not drive him out of it. Many musicians suffer mental torture when before an audience—and so it goes.

These may be exceptions to the rule, but the lesson to be drawn from the instances noted is that determination to do good work will develop ability and bring success, whether one likes his job or not.

The American idea of stern justice seems to be well illustrated by the conviction of five California convicts for murdering their guards. They were all given life sentences. They were all serving life sentences for former murders before they got into this latest scrape. But possibly they will be allowed to see the prison movies only twice a week for a while.

A modern amendment to the marriage ceremony has been adopted by former Rabbi Browne of New York, who now uses this formula: "Behold you are now man and wife until the death of love do you part." He is said to be doing a flourishing business in the marrying line.

The Tarahumara Indians of Mexico are said to be the world's best runners. But they never choose to run for president.

WHY NOT "F. F. A."?

Virginia club boys and girls have formed an organization called the "Future Farmers of Virginia," calling it the "F. F. V." Why not a "Future Farmers of America" club?

Every day we read or hear of some new "movement" which has been set afloat on the stormy sea of modern agriculture, industry or society, all destined to save the future of this country for the next generation.

In agriculture, the young generation seem to be doing a good job of saving their future for themselves. The "Youth Movement in Agriculture," exemplified by the 4-H clubs and Smith-Hughes vocational high schools, seems destined to exert the most far-reaching and steady influence on agriculture and agricultural practices of any "movement" now under way.

Not content to follow the custom-bound methods and traditions of many older persons who still live and work mentally in the days of a generation ago, these Future Farmers of America are taking the solution of many of their problems in their own hands, developing a modern type of agriculture typified by the best-known farm practices that research, experimentation, and study have been able to devise.

Ton-litter clubs, dairy and beef calf clubs, corn clubs, potato clubs, canning clubs and so on through a long list—till we find that the boys and girls in many instances are beating Dad and Mother at their own game, resulting in Dad and Mother learning from Daughter and Son, with a consequent benefit and harmony in the field and farm home that will eventually revolutionize American agriculture and agricultural practices.

True, the learning is not all on one side, for Dad and Mother have a wealth of experience from which Son and Daughter can learn much of value. But through the youth of a nation must the chief changes and developments ever come.

AN APPEAL TO VANITY

Recently a score or more of Washington's social aspirants were induced to pay $100 each in order to be included in a "blue book" to contain the names of the capital's elite. For $200 additional the photograph of the subscriber was also to be inserted in the magic volume.

The promoter of this scheme for glorifying the socially ambitious was 65-year-old Joseph Rheinstrom, who lived in style at a leading hotel and called on his prospective customers in a luxurious limousine after making appointments by telephone.

Police investigated his activities, found that he had no connection with any social register, and put him in jail, charged with fraud. His dupes are naturally much embarrassed and are trying to keep their part in the affair quiet.

This is another illustration of the ease with which swindlers trap their victims through appeals to that vanity described by Browning as "an itch for the praise of fools."

AUTO OF THE FUTURE

Some startling predictions concerning the appearance of automobiles of the future were recently made by a French manufacturer, who declares that present models are ridiculous from a practical standpoint.

This manufacturer states that automobile designs are based on the idea that it is merely an improved wagon or carriage, whereas it is an entirely new instrument of transportation demanding a complete departure from old conceptions of what a vehicle should look like. He says:

"Automobiles have springs and axles because grandfather's carriage had them, but they are idiotic. The gear box is a horror."

He thinks the future automobile will have an all-metal body shaped like a submarine to reduce wind resistance, wheels enclosed, tires mounted over rolls of gum, airbrakes, no axles, no gear to shift, seats in front with electric motor behind, using storage batteries which may be purchased at any crossroads store, and so on.

Whether this manufacturer is correct as to details remains to be seen. But it is safe to say that the automobile of 1950 will be a very different machine, both in appearance and operation, from that of 1928.

MUSSOLINI'S RULE

In rescuing Italy from the chaotic condition in which it found itself immediately after the World War, Premier Mussolini performed a distinguished patriotic service. But by his increasing arrogance he may yet undo the good which resulted from his earlier efforts.

Lately he has not only ruled Italy with an iron hand, but he has shown a disposition to exert his tremendous energy in directions which seem to threaten international complications. Bitter complaints have been made concerning Italy's treatment of German residents of South Tyrol, brought under Italian jurisdiction as the result of the war.

It is charged that these people have been required to take Italian names, to dare forbidden to use their native tongue, sing their native songs or inscribe the German names of their dead on tombstones. A protest from Austria, of which these people were former citizens, was violently denounced by Mussolini.

This is only one of a series of incidents which have caused apprehension for the peace of southern Europe, where an outbreak might easily lead to a new European war.

While Mussolini has exercised absolute control over all Italian domestic and foreign policies since his rise to power in 1922, there are grave doubts that he can maintain either national or international peace if he persists in his domineering attitude.

An astronomer says that if the sun should explode we would have only 133 hours to live. But the newspapers could get up a lot of hot extras in that time.

DEAD-BEATS PLENTIFUL

Every person who has conducted a business in which the extending of credit is practiced must be impressed with the large number of people in the world who appear to be born dead-beats.

There are a few in every community who make pretensions to business and social standing, yet were never known to pay a bill when it was due and seldom pay one at all excepting as a result of hounding or legal action.

Morally, there is no difference between one who fails to pay an honest debt when he can pay it and one who robs a till or cracks a safe. In fact, if there be any decency in either it appears to be on the side of the common criminal, who at least does not abuse confidence and friendship. Credit bureaus are gradually making the path of the dead-beat a little more thorny, but he still flourishes to an extent that is a serious handicap to honest citizens.

The season's best radio story comes from Willowdale, Ont., where a sleeping baby was awakened by striking of Big Ben, the famous clock bell of London. S. A. Bridg, father of the baby, relates the incident in a letter, in which he says: "I would like to tell you how well we received the chimes of Big Ben this afternoon. We had the baby asleep and it woke her up."

A Winnipeg newspaper records some recent happenings which indicate that there is something in a name, after all. Heaven Help Us! Another Saxophone Has Been Born!

Not content with spring house cleaning, presidential campaigns, senate investigations and nine saxophones, the Fates have thrust upon us another saxophone, making ten. We just received this bad news from the Conn Music Center, Elkhart, Indiana.

That will increase the suffering of the public ten per cent, according to the reports of the country's best statisticians. The latest perpetration is a saxophone in "F." We don't know what that means but it is reported to mean "Saxophone in Finale." If it is true that this is the last saxophone, we're humbly thankful. Providing no more saxophones are made, we guess we can stand just one more. Hospital records will tell.

According to the latest United States census, the saxophone family, from smallest to largest, consists of the following: E flat soprano, C soprano, B flat soprano curved, B flat soprano straight,

Count 'Em and Weep

Count 'em, gentlemen. Count 'em and weep. Ten of 'em, now.

What makes it worse is that the new mezzo-soprano in F is to be a lead instrument. You know what that means. Remember when you used to sing in the choir? Everybody wanted to sing the solo parts. It wasn't so bad when most of the choir was set to work singing alto, baritone or bass, but when they broke forth into the lead it was terrible.

With the resourcefulness of the Spanish Inquisition, the makers of this instrument have doped out a new design which is different from all the rest. It looks the same but it sounds different. We're not interested. It can't sound any worse. Ho hum.

A doctor says insane people are happier than those who are sane. Which may account for some of the hilarity we have observed.

Well, that's the end of the Vulture.

One second she stood irresolute, doubting her own courage to open the door. But memory of Rand's deafness...

"Let's have a look." Gay had barely time to flatten herself against the wall, white face lowered into her dark collar...

"No sign of them." The voice was Ronald Ingram's. "They are late." "He'll give you the devil for taking that fellow on board," said the other voice...

"If you let him get away—" "I can't let him get away; I don't dare. He had been spying on us—God knows how long..."

"Come on in, Ingram—Cold as the Devil." said, and then ran quickly up the ladder first of all.

CHAPTER XII

No one questioned Gay's presence in the boat, no one so much as looked her way, or offered her a word. She dropped upon the bench, covering just where she was pushed in the pushing crowd...

"Remember Blakely." Was it Blakely who had come to her in the cave, with the bullet wound in his brow?

"Hanging around spying—No, it's business is one thing but murder is another. Do as you like but I can't have a hand in it." Blakely said.

"The men stood up, drew on their gloves. Gay slipped away from the curtain, back to the second one, beyond it."

"If I dared, I would. How surprised they would be. 'Rand' I'd say, 'kiss me.' I dare say they would not drop dead of astonishment..."

"Cold," he muttered. "They don't put themselves out much to give service, eh?" Gay's reply was an indistinguishable murmur...

Suddenly, in the darkness ahead, the lights of a ship showed up, lights green, red, and pale.

Gay flashed a frightened glance about the room. Beneath a shelf of books along the wall of the cabin a wide bunk was made up...

"Oh, dear heaven," gasped Gay. "It is Garman's cabin!" Her eyes swam dizzily, her head reeled.

"Bring us coffee, but—Come on in, Ingram—Cold as the devil." The voice was deep, assured, with a pleasant quality in its depth.

Two men, Ronald Ingram and the captain, stepped quickly into the room, pulled off their gloves and wraps, drew chairs up to the desk, their backs to the bunk.

"Fine. Best set he ever turned out. Perfect." (TO BE CONTINUED)

No Appeal Possible From Birds' Judgment

Most people have seen large numbers of birds gathered together in a field or on a hill. But how many know they were probably holding a court-martial on one of their fellows?

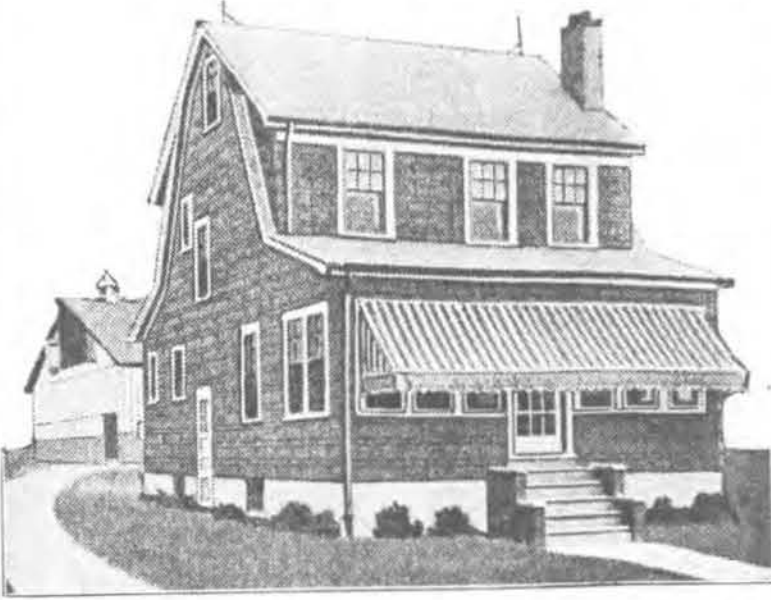

These bird courts are held periodically, chiefly by crows, ravens or sparrows. The prisoner is brought into the court and a general croaking ensues until judgment is delivered.

Should the unfortunate bird be found guilty, it is set on by the rest and pecked to death. Stealing sticks from another bird's nest is, apparently, a crime that does not call for such drastic punishment.

Should an offender in the sparrows court be guilty of a crime not serious enough to deserve the death penalty its sentence is delivered by a few sparrows who rush at it and inflict the necessary punishment.

Old Flower Favorites Some of the old-fashioned flowers are: Larkspur, iris, hollyhock, phlox, peony, columbine, spirea, poppy, evening primrose, rocket, lupine, fox glove, anemone, bluebell, pink, mignonette, bleeding heart, veronica, candy tuft, tiger lily and lily-of-the-valley.

Design for Attractive House That Will Fit Nicely on Narrow Lot

By W. A. RADFORD Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building...

The floor plan which accompanies the exterior view shows the arrangement of the six rooms and their sizes. The living room extends across the front of the house and is 21 feet long by 13 feet wide.

Shingled walls make a home attractive in exterior appearance and something out of the ordinary, as will be seen by the home design shown in the accompanying illustrations.

One of the attractive features of this farm home is the porch, 21 feet wide and 8 feet deep. While it is an open porch, it is so designed that it can be screened in for summer, or glassed in for winter.

The house is of frame construction set on a concrete foundation with a basement the same size as the house dimensions. Here is ample room for the basement heating plant and storage of fuel and of vegetables, etc.

This type of home is not usually found on farms, but is very popular among suburban home owners. However, for the farm family that wants a medium-sized home, at a reasonable cost, this design is recommended.

Gay scrambled to her feet, and hurried after the others. A hand was held out from the boat to assist her, and she was swung up in her turn, with Ronald Ingram behind her, the last man on.

"Get up, d—d it, and be careful!" His voice was low, less than a whisper. Gay scrambled to her feet, and hurried after the others.

"Oh, dear heaven," gasped Gay. "It is Garman's cabin!" Her eyes swam dizzily, her head reeled. Garman—who didn't stick at murder—poor Blakely—

Instinctively, half realizing what she was about, she started to shudder out, feet first, from beneath the bunk. But she was stayed by sudden noises, steps and voices in the corridor.

"Bring us coffee, but—Come on in, Ingram—Cold as the devil." The voice was deep, assured, with a pleasant quality in its depth.

Two men, Ronald Ingram and the captain, stepped quickly into the room, pulled off their gloves and wraps, drew chairs up to the desk, their backs to the bunk.

Gay, crouching there in her stuffy woolen garments, watched them furtively, one eye riveted to the captain between the trunk and the great door. A large figure, broad, not tall, with a massive head, and dark soft hair in great abundance.

He hustled himself with the papers until the boy came with coffee, which both men accepted in silence. As soon as he had gone, the captain took up the business in hand: "Papers all right?"

"Fine. Best set he ever turned out. Perfect." (TO BE CONTINUED)

15 Killed in Wreck Near Paris. Paris.—A crowded passenger train carrying race enthusiasts to the Engelen track crashed into another train near Gare Nord and fifteen persons, none of them American, were killed. Nearly fifty others were injured, some of them seriously. The engineer of the Engelen-bound train was arrested and charged with disregarding signals which had been set up against him.

W. W. Head to Lead Boy Scouts. San Francisco.—Walter W. Head, Omaha, Neb., was re-elected president of the Boy Scouts of America at the final session of the 18th annual meeting of the national council here. President Coolidge was re-elected honorary president and ex-President Taft, Colin H. Livingston, Daniel Carter Beard and William G. McAdoo, re-elected honorary vice presidents.

Two express money orders issued by the Adams and Company Express in San Francisco, Dec. 24, 1853, and April 10, 1854, were cashed in Cheyenne a few days ago by Mrs. Annie W. Davis, Cheyenne resident. The orders were issued to Sarah Ann Call, almost seventy-five years ago, who kept them until her death in 1897, when they became the property of Mrs. Davis, who was paid in cash for them. They were valued at $100.

Spring Cattle Movement Smaller. Washington.—The spring movement of cattle from the Southwest this year is estimated at about 14 per cent less than last spring and about 5 per cent less than in the spring of 1926, according to a report of the United States division of crop and livestock estimates. The report estimates the spring movement of cattle from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona to points outside these states at $85,000 head compared with $76,000 last spring, $16,000 in 1926 and $36,000 in 1925.

Gumwood Is Popular for Interior Trim. Gumwood is the builder's opportunity to provide the beautiful and distinctive hardwood paneling so much desired for living room, dining room or library at a cost that meets the average budget.

Utilize the soft natural coloration of gumwood, heightened by the delicate figure nature grows in this native wood. Or a finish to conform to the decorative scheme desired. Gumwood is peculiarly adaptable to fine finishing effects; its cell structure is so uniform that it does not absorb too much of any staining or enameling material, and there is no resin to come through and spoil the finish.

What are known as the sycamore grades are ideal for built-in breakfast nooks, service cabinets, cozy corners and the like, where gray, ivory or white enamel finishes are desired. For all general interior woodwork "plain" gumwood, finished natural, is recommended because of its soft color qualities. It does not show finger marks, and is easily kept in perfect condition.

Colored Tiles Useful for Decorative Touch. With the development of the stucco house there has arisen a demand for a satisfactory method of adding the decorative touch, and tiles, because of the range of colors they offer, and because of their durability, were quickly recognized as one of the best materials for this purpose.

Introducing color by use of tiles is architecturally and artistically correct, because of the basic relationship of these materials and because there are available in the wide range of tiles textures and finishes to correspond with any stucco treatment.

Varying the appearance of the stucco exterior has been accomplished with tiles in various ways. Tiled gables, arches, pediment and panels are appropriate because based on precedent; the lower story may be tiled, or a frieze or band may be used in a purely ornamental way. Whenever in this connection color is desired, tiles are proper and suitable.

1828- Presidential Campaigns-1928

HENRY CLAY

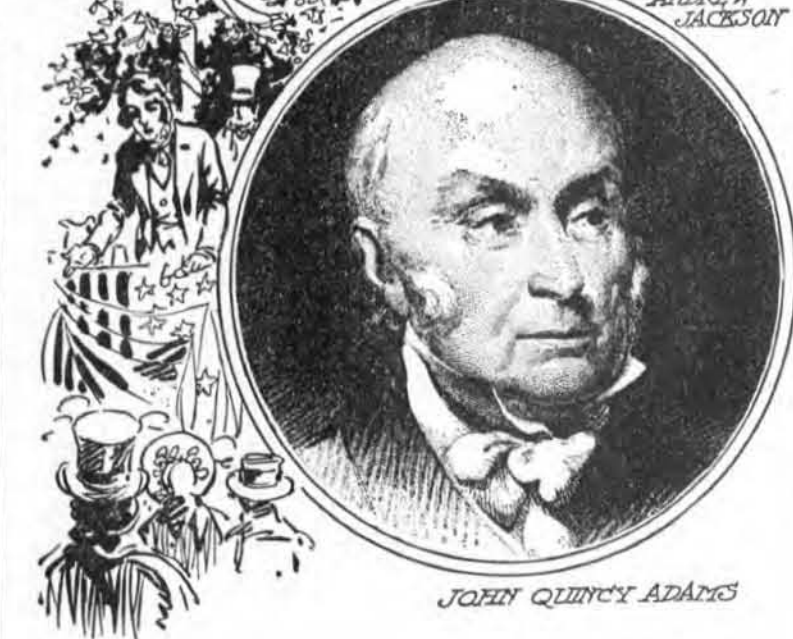

ANDREW JACKSON

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

AS THE time for the Republican national convention in Kansas City on June 12 and the Democratic meeting in Houston on June 26, draws near to warn the people of this nation that they are again about to be embroiled in the heat of another Presidential campaign, it is interesting to compare the campaign of 1828 with that of a hundred years ago. Although no one can safely prophesy what the dominant issue in this year's contest will be nor whether the potential dynamite which now seems to be concealed in some of the issues will explode into a bitterness which has been lacking in Twentieth century campaigns, it is certain that there is little chance of the discussion of candidates and policies reaching the depth of vituperation, mud-slinging, and general hatred that characterized the campaign of the year of 1828.

To understand the reason for the bitterness of this campaign, it is necessary to review briefly the previous one, that of 1824, when John Quincy Adams was elected President over Andrew Jackson. This campaign of 1824 was, in fact, the first real Presidential contest. Heretofore the Presidency had been more or less of a procession to the executive mansion by Virginia aristocrats—George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, and James Monroe, with one New England aristocrat, John Adams, slipping in for a single term. But by 1824 the West had begun to assert itself and for the first time put forward two candidates, Henry Clay of Kentucky and Andrew Jackson, "Old Hickory," the military hero of Tennessee. New England offered John Quincy Adams as the candidate of the dying Federalists. The heir apparent of the Virginia dynasty was William H. Crawford, secretary of the treasury, a Georgian, born in the Old Dominion.

At that time nominations were made by the caucus method and this was destined to be the last of the kind in the country. Despite the criticisms of the caucus method one was held and Crawford "was recommended to the people of the United States." However, he was eliminated from the race when stricken with paralysis and made speechless, almost blind, and helpless. As the campaign progressed it became apparent that Jackson, with John C. Calhoun of South Carolina as the candidate for vice president, was leading. When the returns were all in it was found that Calhoun had been elected vice president with little opposition, but that Jackson would have 39 votes in the electoral college, Adams, 84, Crawford, 41 and Clay, 37. Since none of the Presidential candidates had obtained an electoral majority, under the terms of the Constitution, the election was thrown into the house of representatives, which would choose among the three highest candidates. Clay, of course, was eliminated, Crawford could also be counted out, so that the contest narrowed down to Jackson and Adams. It soon became gossip around Washington that Clay's strength would be thrown to Adams and that Adams in return would appoint Clay as secretary of state. For weeks the capital was in a turmoil with charges and counter charges flying thick and fast. The upshot of it all was that in the final balloting Adams had received 13 votes, Jackson 7, and Crawford 4. (The balloting being done by states.) Adams was elected President and two days later he did appoint Clay secretary of state.

The next four years were years of distress for the new President. With the war cry of "Bargain and Corruption," the Democrats did everything in their power to embarrass Adams and the bitterness of the campaign of 1824, which was carried over during those four years, gave warning that the campaign of 1828 would be even worse. The campaign of 1828 opened with Adams as a candidate to succeed himself and Jackson, who with his friends were firmly convinced that he had been cheated out of the Presidency by the bargain between Clay and Adams and was determined to justify that belief, as Adams' principal opponent. No better description of this famous (or infamous) campaign a hundred years ago has been written than is the one contained in the book "Presidential Years 1787-1894," by Meade Minnerode, published recently by G. P. Putnam's Sons. In the chapter "Friends of General Jackson," he characterizes it thus:

It was a merciless, filthy, scavenging campaign in which nothing personal concerning the candidates was denied to the accumulated spoils of published privacies—from the temporary legal complication in General Jackson's matrimonial affairs to the billiard table, that piece of "gambling furniture" at the White House. The general's private record was shouted through the pamphlets; his personality, his ungodliness, his profanity, his game cocks and his horses, his duels, his brags, his feuds, and always the technical irregularity of his marriage coupled, on the one hand, with the most derisive opinions, and on the other, with the most slanderous untruths about his wife—the matter must be referred to, since it furnished the principal staple of the domestic attacks on General Jackson, and was finally responsible to a certain degree, for Mrs. Jackson's death in December, 1828. His public career was torn into shreds; his alleged dealings with Aaron Burr, his military arrests and contempt of court at New Orleans, his insubordination in the Florida, his executive atrocity at Pensacola, his "murder" of deserting militiamen at Mobile—"Some Accounts of Some of the Bloody Deeds of General Jackson," by John Binns, posters adorned with tombstones and coffins, and known as the Binns Coffin Handbills—from every quarter, and in every variety of language General Jackson was ridiculed, assailed and exposed.

And for Mr. Adams there was nothing but labels and falsehoods. He was a monarchist and a Federalist; he had fattened on the public treasury; he was a friend of duellists—an incongruous charge surely from the Jackson camp; he was corrupt and unprincipled in his distribution of patronage; he was an extravagant profligate; while minister to Russia he had, so they did not hesitate to insist, sold an American servant girl to the czar; he was a Mason—it was the time of popular animosity toward Masonry—and when he officially denied he was a Mason, it made no difference, he was still a Mason; he was plotting to announce General Jackson's death just before the election in order to prevent citizens from voting for him; and, of course, he had made a corrupt bargain with Henry Clay. It speaks conspicuously for the integrity of his conduct in thirty years of distinguished public service that the Jacksonians could find no thicker mud to fling at him.

The wreckage was dragged to the polls and General Jackson was elected. He had some hundred and thirty-nine thousand more popular votes than Mr. Adams, one hundred and seventy-eight electoral ballots from seventeen states, as against eighty-three from ten. "A movement of the people," a "revolt of democracy against aristocracy"—and yet Mr. Channing points out some curious electoral details. General Jackson was elected by the solid South, and, according to the federal ratio in 1828, each southern elector represented only 25,000 free persons while his northern colleagues each represented 35,000. And with the solid South General Jackson could not have secured a majority of the electoral votes without the reinforcement of Pennsylvania and New York.

"It would seem," Mr. Channing concludes, "that Jackson was raised to the Presidency by the overrepresentation of the South combined with the employment of the most unjustifiable methods by the partisans in Pennsylvania and in New York. On the whole possibly it was more honorable to have been defeated in 1828 than to have been elected." And Mr. McDonald, in his Jacksonian Democracy remarks that—"To personal vindication of Jackson was added emphatic popular endorsement of the social and political order with which he was identified. In the election of Jackson the people elected their backs on their early principles of statesmanship, and entrusted the conduct of the federal government to an untried, self-willed, passionate frontier soldier. That he was not of the old school was, in the eyes of his supporters, a commendation. A great democracy will never be governed for long together by its best men but by its average. To the average voter in 1828, Jackson was a popular leader because they held him to be also a typical Democrat."

It was the end of a cultivated, discriminating era; the close of the succession, whatever the idiosyncrasies, capable intellects, of meritorious achievements, such as the founders of the Republic had envisaged as destined to dignify the chief magistracy of the nation, to mature its councils and to grace its annals, Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams. The quality of that succession was not, except at rare intervals, to be attained again by the average personalities, the popular politicians, the convention compromisers who were to follow. It was, indeed, with slight future interruptions, the final triumph of democracy.

but for his present position of leadership in world industry. A short time ago in Paris I desired to make a call to Havre, about 100 miles away, and was told that the call could be put through in approximately five hours, nearly twice the time required to go from Paris to Havre by train.—Floyd W. Parsons in the Saturday Evening Post.

The first census of the Turkish people, recently taken, gave a figure of 14,000,000.

Lesson for April 22 JESUS AND THE HOME

LESSON TEXT.—Mark 10:1-16. GOLDEN TEXT.—Honor thy father and mother, which is the first commandment with promise. PRIMARY TOPIC.—Jesus Loves Little Children. JUNIOR TOPIC.—Jesus Wants Children to Come to Him. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC.—Being a Christian at Home. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC.—The Christian Family.

In this scripture we see Christ as a teacher.

1. Concerning Marriage (vv. 1-12). The question touching divorce, which the Pharisees temptingly put to Christ, brought forth teaching which exhibits marriage in its true light.

1. Marriage should not be degraded by divorce (vv. 1-5). Divorce was not instituted by God. God ordained the marriage relation and intended it to be indissoluble. Moses did not originate it or authorize it, but suffered, limited and regulated it. The reason Moses even suffered it was because of the hardness of the hearts of the people. The existence therefore and practice of divorce indicates the coarseness and perverseness of man. The real cause is sin. There is no more real evidence of the blighting effects of sin in the world than the increasing number of divorces.

2. Marriage God's primal law (vv. 6-8).

The ideal law of life for the subjects of Christ's kingdom is marriage. This is proven by the fundamental fact of sex. "God made them male and female" (v. 6). The union of the male and female natures is physical, mental and spiritual. In marriage the male and female natures are mutually complemented. "They twain shall be one flesh, so that they are no more twain, but one flesh." God's plan is that man should not be without the woman or the woman without the man (1 Cor. 11:11).

3. Marriage has God's sanction (v. 9).

When God created Eve and brought her to Adam He performed the first marriage ceremony and declared that man should leave father and mother and cleave unto his wife. "What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

4. Marriage of the divorced forbidden (v. 10-12).

The marriage relation should only be broken by death and sin. In response to the request of the disciples for further information He declared:

"Whoever shall put away his wife and marry another committeth adultery against her."

"If a woman shall put away her husband and marry another she committeth adultery."

11. Concerning Children (vv. 13-16). The union of the male and female natures, according to God's primal law of marriage, lays the foundation of family life. The normal issue of such a union is children. In connection with the divine law of marriage it is fitting that Jesus should set forth His estimate of children and show His interest in them. Christian men and women will regard children as the property of the Lord and will esteem it a high and holy privilege to train them for Him. Observe:

1. Children brought for the touch of Jesus (v. 13).

It is incumbent upon all parents to seek for their children personal contact with Jesus.

2. The parents rebuked by the disciples for bringing their children (v. 13).

They seemed to think that attention to children was beneath the dignity of Christ.

3. Jesus' reply (vv. 14, 15). He was displeased—really indignant at their words. He is displeased today over those who are hindering their children from coming to Him.

(1) "Suffer the little children to come unto Me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God" (v. 14). The kingdom belongs to the children.

(2) "Whoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall not enter therein" (v. 15). Those who count themselves morally helpless, and cast themselves upon Jesus Christ, the King, really enter the kingdom.

4. Jesus' action (v. 16). He took the children up in His arms, put His hands upon them and blessed them. Christ is the Savior of children. Where Christ's spirit rules, childhood is sacred and children have great care.

God Is at the Door
God is knocking at the door of nations today for more recognition and more spiritual power. And the fact is that He is on the outside. When nations spurn this knock from the hand of the Almighty, it is a sure thing that they will crumble into the dust.—Oscar Burkholder.

Need of Faith
Draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you. Act faith if you do not feel it.—Alexander Whyte.

NEW MANAGER OF BRAVES OLD HAND Gained Big Success as Coach at Boston College.

Although to the current generation of baseball fans Jack Slattery may be looked upon as a newcomer from the college ranks, the new manager of the Boston Braves, who recently quit his post as coach at Boston college to take up the task of giving the Hub a pennant contender, actually has had a long and varied career in baseball. For more than a quarter of a century Slattery has been associated with college and professional baseball in almost every conceivable capacity, and because of this is believed to have acquired the groundwork for a successful manager.

When he abandoned professional baseball, Slattery turned to coaching college teams. He began at Tufts and developed one of the best lines that institution ever had. He repeated this record at Harvard and three years ago went to Boston college. During his association with the colleges he developed a number of players who later found their way into professional baseball.

Despite his college coaching activities, Slattery continued to keep in touch with major league baseball by acting as scout for the Braves at the close of each college season and thereby further equipped himself with an all-around knowledge of the game. Many baseball men believe Slattery possesses every requisite for a successful manager and with his appointment as pilot of the team in his native city as an added incentive, the opinion prevails that with an even break in luck Slattery will turn in a good record.

Boy Rider Is Winner

The photograph shows John Silverter, Od Ludlow, Shropshire, taking one of the jumps on his horse, Trixie. When but ten years old John made a visit to Wales and won three races at Llandenny and two out of three at Usk. He is now twelve years old and has rode ten winners and nine seconds out of twenty-one mounts. He weighs not quite sixty pounds and has remarkable strength for a boy his age.

Benny Leonard May Get Hudkins as Opponent

Benny Leonard's threatened "comeback" has been taken seriously by Tex Rickard, who will offer the former lightweight champion a match with Ace Hudkins.

Leonard is aiming at the welterweight title but before he approaches a match with Joe Dundee the boxing commission will insist on a qualifying bout. If Benny can hurdle the Nebraska wildcat there will be no further questions asked.

The bout probably will not be held until May. Leonard needs several weeks of training to get back into fighting form after an absence of three years from the ring.

Bob Fothergill Has Bad Luck on Heaves

Bob Fothergill, Detroit's 220-pound left fielder, is credited with one of the prize freak plays of the training season.

During a practice game with Minneapolis, a batter sent a liner past Fothergill, who ran it down and then heaving the ball before he was set, threw to the unoccupied left field bleachers. Undaunted, Fothergill jumped the rail, recaptured the ball and heaved again. This time the ball struck a wire screen directly in front of him and bounded back, narrowly missing the thrower's head.

Fothergill didn't throw the ball a third time as the batter had already scored.

Harvard vs. Army

A four-year football agreement between Harvard and the Army is announced by William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard. The first game will be next fall at the Harvard stadium, where all games will be played except in 1931, when Harvard will visit West Point. Harvard will play Michigan at Ann Arbor in 1929 and at the Harvard stadium in 1930.

SOUTH-WEST NEWS NOTES

Eleven prisoners overpowered two jailers at the county jail in Albuquerque, disarmed them, locked them in cells and made their escape.

The fifth annual meeting of the Arizona State Horticultural Society was held in Phoenix with delegates from every section of the state in attendance.

Mrs. Margaret L. Woodworth of Albuquerque was elected president of the New Mexico Congress of Parents and Teachers at the close of its state convention in East Las Vegas.

Work on the twenty-five miles of Globe-Safford highway is expected to start in a few days as the result of the awarding of contracts in Phoenix by the Arizona highway commission.

Major Stephen F. Walmsey, U. S. A., and his wife were instantly killed when the car in which they were riding overturned at the foot of a hill eighteen miles north of Encino, N. M.

The postoffice at Arabeta, in Lincoln county, N. M., has been ordered discontinued, effective April 30. After that date, mail formerly handled by that office should be sent to Tinnie.

Durango.—Charles Hoiman, unconscious for three days as a result of a 60-foot fall in an elevator at the sulphating plant of the Durango smelter, died in the local hospital.

Additional buildings are being constructed in the White mountains, near Roswell, to take care of a larger enrollment at the New Mexico Military Institute Summer School for 1928.

Approximately 10,000 fingerling fish were placed in streams in the Las Vegas district by the Las Vegas-San Miguel county chamber of commerce. Fishing season will open May 30 and continue to November 25.

Electric and x-ray equipment for the University of Arizona, at Tucson, valued at more than $5,000, will be installed in the physics department as soon as it can be shipped by the General Electric Company.

The New Mexico state highway department and state engineer are "implicitly vested with the authority to employ special counsel." District Judge Reed Holloman held in an opinion given in Santa Fe.

Trail blazers from every nook and corner of the state and old timers from many adjoining states gathered in Phoenix for the Eighth Annual Pioneers Reunion and celebration staged there April 17 and 18.

A reward of $900 is offered in Deming for the arrest and conviction of the slayer of James Snare, ranchman, who was found shot to death beside his automobile at his home, thirteen miles east of Deming.

The first issue of the "Arizona Historical Review," quarterly magazine published by Major George H. Kelly, state historian, was issued last week. Volume 1, number 1, dated April, has 110 pages, and is printed on heavy book paper.

Carrying out the mandate of the New Mexico State Supreme Court, District Judge Reed Holloman ordered State Auditor Miguel Otero, Jr., to pay Representative R. L. Baca $99.90 as salary as rural school supervisor, and $306.36 for traveling expense as assistant state superintendent of public instruction.

W. T. Scoggins, "Sweet Potato King" of the Mesilla valley in New Mexico says he will materially increase his sweet potato acreage this year. Last year Mr. Scoggins harvested more than 1,000,000 pounds of sweet potatoes, curing them in his drying houses on his farm just north of Las Cruces.

Bringing together producers, manufacturers, wholesale distributors, mercantile buyers and purchasing agents of the state for their seventh annual meeting devoted to discussion of ways and means of keeping more of Arizona's business in Arizona, the 1928 "Buyers and Sellers" conference was held April 16 in Phoenix.

A verdict of unjustifiable shooting was rendered by the coroners jury in Nogales at the inquest held over the slaying of Claude Butler, colored soldier of the twenty-fifth infantry, who met his death after being riddled with buckshot from a gun alleged to have been fired by P. B. Doolittle, United States customs officer.

The town trustees of Gallup, N. M., were restrained from issuing a new franchise to the Gallup Electric Light & Power Company by an injunction handed down by District Judge Reed Holloman. George Byus, patron of the company, brought the suit, explaining that Republican officials will replace the Democratic board May 7, and he said he feared the old board might act to the detriment of the town of Gallup.

Contracts for construction of nearly $70,000 worth of new road in Arizona were awarded in Phoenix by the Arizona highway commission to the Lee Moor Construction Company of Tucson and Orr, Rawls and Wright and John Mulligan, both of El Paso.

The Senate bill to authorize the secretary of war to donate three buildings on the old aviation field at Tucson, Arizona, to that city was approved by the House Military Committee in Washington. The buildings are located on land belonging to Tucson.

World's Deepest Well

The deepest well in the world has been sunk in Orange county, California, to a depth of more than 8,000 feet, or 250 feet more than the previous record, has been reached. At 7,000 feet the temperature was found to be above 212 degrees, the melting point of the battery of the photographic machines used in making the depth surveys, and the batteries became thoroughly molten. The shaft is the only well ever drilled by electric power to a depth of more than 6,000 feet. Drilling was in progress continuously for over two years. A 5 1/2-inch bit was used with Westinghouse transformers and a variable-speed motor. The shaft drifted from the vertical up to a deviation of 560 feet at a depth of 5,985 feet, and then drifted back till at 8,000 feet the tilt was only 28 degrees.

IN BAD HEALTH FOR SIX YEARS

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Gave Her Strength

Arapahoe, Okla.—"I want to tell you just what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was in bad health for about six years. My nerves were all to pieces. I could not sleep and wasn't able to do my housework. Now I feel so much better! I sleep like a baby. I can do all my housework, washing and ironing and feel fine all the time. I help my husband some in the field, too, so you see we have something to praise the Vegetable Compound for. I will gladly answer all letters asking about the Lydia E. ## Pepper on Ice Cream

Folks often put ketchup in a soup or chowder, together with numerous other queer incidentals and relishes to this goes to one local man who puts sugar on his beans. Judging from his "sweet tooth" which makes him season beans with a "relish" of sugar I suppose he would put sugar on turkey, roast pork or other things that do not call for sugar being spread upon them. It is on a par with ice-mayor Hurley putting pepper on ice cream. He did that to prevent indigestion from the cream chilling his stomach, he told me. I tried it once and couldn't taste the pepper.—Salem News.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Two Germans and an Irishman Cross Atlantic East to West in Plane.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

EAST-WEST crossing of the north Atlantic by airplane is an accomplished fact. Two Germans and an Irishman succeeded where French and English had failed at the expense of seven lives. Baron von Huenefeld, Capt. Herman Koehl and Commandant James E. Fitzmaurice of the Irish Free State air forces, starting from Dublin in the Junkers plane Bremen, just managed to get across the ocean in safety. Encountering strong head winds and a heavy snow storm, they wandered some four hundred miles northward of their course and finally, with fuel tanks empty, landed on Greenly Island in the Strait of Belle Isle. They were only 100 miles from the open sea. The plane was slightly damaged in landing but the daring aviators were unhurt and made their way to a lighthouse, whence news of their arrival was sent out to an anxiously waiting world.

DISCOURAGED and indignant citizens of Illinois gave the Small-Thompson-Crowe machine a terrific wallop in the Republican primaries and felt that they had in a measure redeemed the state and especially the city of Chicago. Governor Small was defeated for re-nomination by Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson by a majority of more than 400,000, and State's Attorney Crowe of Chicago was beaten by John A. Swanson by nearly 195,000 votes. Frank Smith, whom the United States senate refused to seat after his election last year, went into the discard, the senatorial nomination being won by Otis F. Glenn of Murphysboro. Big Bill Thompson, mayor of Chicago, protagonist of the "American First" campaign and relentless enemy of King George of England, sought only one office, that of committeeman for his ward, and the voters denied him even that. The same fate befell President of the Board of Education Coath who carried out Thompson's orders to dismiss Superintendent of Schools McAndrew.

In congress and elsewhere great satisfaction was expressed over the renomination of the veteran Representative Martin B. Madden of Chicago, long one of the most useful and industrious members of the lower house. His constituency has become almost wholly negro, but he decisively defeated his colored rival. For congressmen-at-large the Republicans named Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of the late Mark Hanna and widow of Senator McCormick, and H. R. Rathbone, dropping Congressman Dick Yates. The voters of the state showed strong preference for Lowden as Presidential nominee and he will have at least forty-nine of the state's delegates at Kansas City.

Illinois Democrats put through a slate practically uncontested and by their preference votes determined that Al Smith will have fifty-two sure Illinois votes in the Houston convention, and he may get the entire delegation of fifty-eight.

One murder of a negro and several kidnappings and assaults marked the Chicago primaries, but the picture of a saturnalia of slaughter and other crimes presented in the press of London and Paris was scarcely justified by the activities of the gangs of thugs that worked for both the Republican factions.

REPUBLICANS of Nebraska divided their preference votes between Senator Norris and Lowden, and they renominated Senator Howell. The Democrats were solid for Gilbert M. Hitchcock for President. Vermont will send a solid delegation to the Republican convention instructed for President Coolidge. Most of Nevada's delegates will be for Hoover, and so will all of Michigan's. Despite the progress made by the Hoover campaign, there were signs of increasing opposition to the nomination of the secretary of commerce.

After a tour of Indiana and the corn belt, Representative Dickinson of Iowa, Republican and one of the agricultural leaders of the house, declared that if Hoover were the Republican nominee Indiana would go Democratic in the fall, and other states of the Midwest, normally Republican, might follow suit. Some of the party leaders in Washington are beginning to suspect that Hoover may not be the best vote getter among those seeking the Presidential nomination. Idaho's delegation to the Republican convention will be solid for Senator Borah.

WET members of the National Republican club gained a victory when the national affairs committee of the club adopted a resolution urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The resolution was to be presented to the full membership Tuesday of this week for action, and a hot fight was anticipated for the days were putting up a forceful opposition. The club, whose headquarters are in New York city, is national as its name indicates. President Coolidge is an honorary president and among the members are Vice President Dawes, Herbert Hoover and Frank O. Lowden.

BY A vote of 53 to 23 the senate passed the McNary bill for agricultural relief. Various amendments were first made, but the equalization fee and other features objectionable to the President remained untouched, and consequently his veto was expected. It was stated at the White House that Mr. Coolidge would like to help the farmers, but cannot see that any good purpose would be served by his signing the McNary measure. He is convinced the equalization fee would be declared unconstitutional by the courts. The President also made it known that he was not likely to sign the flood control bill unless it was materially modified. Elimination of local contributions, according to his judgment, means that it becomes a matter of bestowal of favors upon certain localities. When one locality is taken care of he thinks it is inevitable that other sections will demand action on the same basis. One objectionable feature in the President's standpoint is the provision under which a locality with valuable property and then proposes to pay the locality for damages.

WITH the warm approval of the President, Secretary of State Kellogg is moving forward on the way toward a multi-lateral anti-war treaty. With the co-operation of the French government he has sent notes to Great Britain, Germany, Italy and Japan asking those powers to state their reaction to the proposal for the conclusion of a treaty renouncing war as an instrument of national policy. If the responses are favorable it is hoped France will recede from her demand for the inclusion of numerous reservations.

FEDERAL Judge W. H. S. Thompson of Pittsburgh threw out of court the suit of five former members of the Ku Klux Klan to restrain the order from operating in Pennsylvania, ruling that he was without jurisdiction and that it was a matter for the state courts to handle. The opinion climaxed three days of sensational testimony, during which Klansmen were charged with burning men alive in Texas; organizing a "night riders" terrorist branch in Oklahoma and Ohio; horse whipping "offending citizens" and causing riots and other disorders.

TRIAL of Harry F. Sinclair for the alleged Teapot Dome conspiracy got under way swiftly in the District of Columbia Supreme court because Justice Bailey took the examining of witnesses out of the hands of the lawyers and qualified twelve jurors in three and one-half hours. One of the first witnesses was Mahlon T. Everhart, son-in-law of the whole story of Sinclair paying Fall more than $300,000 within a few months after the then secretary of the Interior had turned the Teapot Dome oil reserve over to a Sinclair company. The money was paid ostensibly for a one-third interest in a ranch and for improvements to the property. Everhart said Sinclair neither asked nor received receipts for the payments. Of the money paid $233,000 was in Liberty bonds.

IN A decision written by Chief Justice Taft the Supreme court ruled that congress has the power to delegate its legislative authority to the President in the administration of the flexible tariff law. Justice Taft in his opinion compared the delegation of power to that vested by congress in the Interstate Commerce commission which controls railroad rates. He held that the tariff law was designed to secure revenue and that the declaration for protection of domestic industry did not invalidate it.

Three opinions hearing directly upon current prohibition enforcement methods were handed down by the Supreme court. One, which sustained conviction of an alleged dope peddler, was accompanied by dissenting views in which Justice Brandeis scored the use of entrapment methods in law enforcement. Another opinion upheld the validity of padlock injunctions against property even after an alleged violator of the dry law has been ousted from the premises. The third sustained the conviction of John P. Donnelly, former prohibition administrator in Nevada, for failure to report an alleged violation of the Volstead act for prosecution.

FEDERAL troops in Caracas, captal of Venezuela, backed up by university students, staged a revolt last week and engaged in a battle with loyal troops at the San Carlos barracks. The mutineers were speedily defeated, several being killed and many arrested. Since early in February there have been student riots on various occasions in Caracas. In putting down these demonstrations the government placed many students under arrest, and the casualties have been reported heavy.

JUST why any Italians should desire to kill that nonentity King Victor Emmanuel is a puzzle, but they did attempt it last Thursday. A big bomb was exploded in Place Julius Cesare, Milan, while the streets were crowded with people waiting for the king to arrive for the opening of a trade fair. The monarch had not reached the scene but fourteen persons were killed and some forty injured.

HENRY Ford is visiting in England and was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the American Society of London. It was announced that the automobile manufacturer would make the first speech in his life, and he did, but it was only twenty-nine words long. Said he: "I just want to say Mrs. Ford and myself are greatly honored tonight to be present to meet so many distinguished representatives of two great nations. I thank you."

SENATOR JOHNSON'S pet Boulder Canyon dam bill, reported favorably by the irrigation committee, apparently is going to have hard sledding. Senator Ashurst of Arizona filed a minority report assailing the measure as "a reckless and relentless assault" on his state. Asserting that the bill was drawn wholly in the interest of California, the Arizona senator declared that it "proposed to sever Arizona's jugular vein," by denying it rights to irrigation and power from the Colorado river. When the measure was reported by the committee, Senator Ashurst gave notice that he would conduct a filibuster, adding that if the proponents of the bill expected to pass it at this session the senate would sit "until the idea of November."

THEATRICAL and automobile interests presented their arguments to the senate finance committee for repeal of the admission and automobile taxes. The theater group, headed by William A. Brady and Frank Gilmore, said the legitimate theater had been "handed the worst of it" and that the spoken drama had almost disappeared in many states. The automobile men promised cuts in prices equal to the tax if the latter is removed.

Improved Sires Big Dairy Need

Dairylike Majesty Now Tops List With 125 Tested Daughters.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The distinction of having more tested daughters than any other Jersey sire in the world now belongs to Dairylike Majesty, now has 125 daughters that have official production records which entitle them to entry in the Register of Merit of the American Jersey Cattle club, New York. This breeders' association has awarded him both a gold and silver medal in recognition of the outstanding records made by his daughters.

Sire of Dairylike Madcap.
Dairylike Majesty is the sire of Dairylike Madcap, the superb producer which holds the national championship for imported Jersey cows. She has two official 365-day records averaging 556.80 pounds of butter fat and 17,392 pounds of milk.

The merit of Dairylike Majesty may be judged by the fact that his 125 daughters made records which average 525.85 pounds of butter fat. The average production of all dairy cows in the United States is 180 pounds of butter fat, so the daughters of Dairylike Majesty yield about three times as much as the average cow. This is a great achievement when we consider that almost all of his daughters have been tested.

Look for Improvement.
It is to sires of the caliber of Dairylike Majesty that we must look for improvement in the average dairy cattle of the United States. This remarkable bull will exert a profound influence for the better as his blood becomes widely disseminated through his offspring.

Horses Need Toning Up for Hard Spring Work

"Get your horses and harness ready for the spring work," says A. L. Harvey of the animal husbandry division of the University of Minnesota. "Because of the high prices of feed many horses have been wintered rather poorly, and if they are to stand up under a hard spring's work they must be prepared for it."

"Horses which have been wintered on roughage should be started on a small daily grain ration, and gradually brought up to a full working ration. If possible, they should be started on light work or worked a half day at a time until they get hardened in."

"To toughen the skin and avoid shoulder galls, wash the shoulders daily with salt water after the collar has been removed. It is also well to wipe the collar with a damp cloth when it is removed from the shoulders."

"The harness should be taken apart and thoroughly washed with soap and water. After drying, it should be repaired and then oiled with neatfoot or prepared harness oil."

General Chick Feeding Demands Careful Study

Before any baby chicks are ordered from a commercial hatcheryman or before any eggs are put in the brooder incubator, the prospective flock owner should learn something about chick feeding in general, and gain some sort of an idea of what it takes to feed a baby chick and how it should be done. Poultrymen who have been in the game for a number of years also can do well to check up on their knowledge and on the new developments. Chickens of all ages consume relatively small amounts of feed and the results that can be secured from properly balanced rations are so marked that the subject deserves a most careful study.

Feed and Water Supply Needed by Ducklings

Ducklings sometimes die from too much exposure to hot sun and it is necessary to provide a shady range for them during the heat of the day. Ducklings sometimes have fits caused by digestive disorders. Plenty of green feed in the ration helps to prevent such troubles.

The ducklings do not need running water or any water in which to swim, but the drinking water should be given in dishes deep enough so they can immerse their heads and wash out their eyes. The method of feeding you are using will probably produce good results.

Fertilizers Saving Labor and Freight

Idea of Concentrated Form Developed by Chemists.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Potato growers are finding in the use of concentrated fertilizers an opportunity to save time, money, and labor, says R. E. Brown, soil chemist of the bureau of chemistry and soils, United States Department of Agriculture. By using this new form of fertilizer, one pound of which carries as much actual plant food as is carried by two pounds of the ordinary kind, they save in freight, in handling, in hauling, and in storage.

The idea of manufacturing fertilizers in the concentrated form was developed by the soil chemists of the United States Department of Agriculture. According to Mr. Brown, co-operative experiments with the Maine agricultural experiment station indicated that the concentrated mixtures on the whole were equal to the commercial kinds. In some cases they gave even greater yields. Yields of Irish cabbages produced by concentrated fertilizers were as high as 300 bushels to the acre.

There are features connected with the use of concentrated fertilizers, however, that will have to be carefully considered and which will require more study before the free use of such fertilizers can be definitely recommended, under all soil conditions, says Mr. Brown. This is particularly true of light soils.

Cleaning Seed Grain by Use of Fanning Mill

Wise farmers are making provision for cleaning seed grain. With small grains especially, it pays to plant the plump, sound, solid grains because they are most likely to have strong fermentation and to have a germ that will give the plant a good start should the weather conditions be difficult.

A fanning mill should be part of the equipment of every progressive farmer. They are not expensive, but the work they do is tremendously valuable. Practically any farmer can make one pay many times over with a single season's work.

Fanning mills not only separate the weed seeds and foreign material from seed grains, but they grade the grains, too, so that the lighter, chaffier stuff, which is likely to be of low vitality, is kept out of the seed. Experiments show that plump seeds produce bigger yields and even an increase of only a bushel or two per acre on this account will be sufficient to make the grain-cleaning process profitable. In the Northwest grain dockage has come to be a very serious problem. The dockage costs of weed seeds and other foreign materials sometimes amount to 15 per cent or 20 per cent or 25 per cent. It not only is practically valueless, but it impairs the value of marketed grain so that the money received for it is much less than what it should be.

Machine Shed Pays Big Interest to Any Farmer

A $400 implement shed pays interest at the rate of 22 per cent a year when housing $1,000 worth of machinery. The average yearly depreciation on $1,000 worth of machinery, when well housed, is $90; but it increases to $180 a year when the machinery is poorly housed. The $90 difference in depreciation is 22 per cent of $400—the cost of a satisfactory tool shed, one that is weather-tight and lasting. This estimate does not include a work shop, which is often advisable.

Well housed farm machinery depreciates at a rate of from 3 to 12 per cent a year, depending upon the kind of machine, the rate being highest with corn binders, thrashing machines, and other complicated machinery. It is safe to say that poor housing reduces the life of a machine by half.—Wisconsin Circular No. 110.

Agricultural Notes

Supply pure fresh water and salt in both summer and winter.

The most natural comparison of sweet clover is with red clover.

Red clover is a general purpose legume, especially valuable for hay.

Carrons are easily raised if the soil is good, and by sowing early and growing quickly will usually do well.

The United States is the most important poultry producing country in the world, raising more than one-third of the world's supply.

Regardless of the kind of fuel that is used, the brooder stove should be tested at least 48 hours before the chicks are placed in the brooder house.

A mixture of oats and rape for early spring hog pasture is excellent. If not pastured too closely, this mixture will furnish pasture until mid-summer.

Lambs will do a good job of picking corn; in fact, pick it cleaner than is usually done by the picker. Then, too, they will eat the husks and leaves of the corn, and nearly all of the weeds that have gone to seed.

Brazilians Have Their Own Idea of Business

That the Brazilian takes his business, and life in general, in a natural, easy-going stride, is pointed out by Rudyard Kipling, famous English author and poet, in an article (copy right, 1928, by Rudyard Kipling in the U. S. A.) in Liberty Magazine.

"The Brazilian has been used to the English trader for generations," explains Kipling, "and he old experienced mercantile firms send out the type of Englishman most likely to be accepted. For the Brazilian has not yet reached the impersonality of ideal business." If he likes you as an individual, he will do more than anything for you. If he doesn't, he will do less than nothing. If he knows little about you, but perceives that you have manners and a few trifles of that sort, he will wait and see. And he has heaps of leisure."

Bedtime Story for Kiddies

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Mr. Sun was having hard work on this day to keep it warm for the children who were picking spring flowers, particularly for one little girl who had gone in search of some violets and trailing arbutus flowers, and some ferns, and, perhaps, some star flowers. He spoke to Mr. North Wind about it.

"They have been thinking lately that they were all through with the cold weather," he said.

Now Mr. North Wind was usually called Mr. Wind. He liked that better, because it made it appear that there was only one wind—at least only one wind of any real importance.

"Well," said Mr. Wind, "it's about time they got used to me. They had me all winter, and instead of being glad when I left on a visit they should have been very sad."

"They should be happy now that I'm back."

"And I had such nice visitors last winter. I shared my visitors, too, like the gold, old, generous soul that I am. I have always stuck to my friends anyway and blown them about so others could enjoy them.

"I never could understand how creatures keep changing their friends. I like the same ones."

"That's true," said Mr. Sun, "you do like the same ones."

"What a joy it was," continued Mr. Wind, "when my friend, Prince Sleet, visited me."

"He did not stay all winter, but now and again he came to see me."

"He loved coming at the same time that the King of the Clouds and the Army of Raindrops chose for giving their big party for King Blizzard and King Snow."

FACTS ABOUT LINOLEUM

Linoleum is one of the best and most serviceable of all coverings for floors in kitchens, pantries and bathrooms, and is being more and more widely used in combination with textile rugs in all the rooms of the house. It wears well, is easily cleaned, is impervious to grease and water spots, and has a smooth resilient surface comfortable to walk and stand on.

There are three general types of linoleum on the market, according to the United States Department of Agriculture: Plain, inlaid, and printed. The plain, as the name implies, has no design and gives the floor an unobtrusive flat appearance that is restful and pleasing, and the good grades are extremely durable.

Elephant Ignores Fences

An elephant which escaped from a circus at Newtown, Australia, recently, evidently considered fences beneath his notice, for he walked through them without stopping. Pedestrians and vehicles were narrowly missed and gardens destroyed before he was captured in a nearby town.

Hot breads add much to the pleasure of breakfast, luncheon, or that coziness of meals—the Sunday supper. With a hot drink, a little jam, or marmalade, one can make a satisfying meal of hot bread.

Orange Waffles

—Cream one-half cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar and two well-beaten eggs. Sift two and one-half cupfuls of flour with one teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-half teaspoonful of ginger, add to the first mixture, alternating with one-half cupful of sour milk to which one teaspoonful of soda has been added; add one orange, juice and rind and beat well. Drop by spoonfuls on a hot waffle iron and bake until brown. Serve with butter and marmalade.

Sunday Hot Bread.—Cream together three-fourths of a cupful of sugar with two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one well-beaten egg, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and two-thirds of a cupful of milk, then add one and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat well and add two tablespoonfuls of orange juice; the grated rind of the orange mixed with sugar is sprinkled over two layers of the mixture spread in layer cake pans. Bake twenty-five minutes in a hot oven and serve hot.

Golden Gelatin.—Soften two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water, then add one pint of boiling water and when the gelatin is completely dissolved add the juice of two lemons and two oranges with sugar to taste. Pour into a mold and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Steamed Chocolate Pudding.—Beat one egg until very light, add one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of soft butter, one cupful of milk and one and one-half cupfuls of flour, sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one and one-half squares of chocolate melted over hot water and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Steam two hours. Serve with whipped cream.

Spinach is plentiful. It is sold by the pound and should be fresh and green, free from yellow or wilted leaves.

We now enjoy lettuce in some form all year; in even the smallest market it is found plentiful and reasonable in price. Lettuce is a valuable food green and should be served at least once a day throughout the good year, unless some other green food is supplied, such as spinach.

We all enjoy the crisp bleached heads of the iceberg type of lettuce, but our dietitians tell us that the green-leaved lettuce is richer in vitamins and they are the food adjuncts which we are anxious to accumulate.

In many sections where the spinach is grown on sandy soil it will be necessary to give it many washings. The fluted leaf variety is almost impossible to free from sand if grown in it.

New cabbage is now plentiful and tomatoes are coming in well. The price in the northern markets is high, but an occasional indulgence is not extravagant, for a tomato or two will add much to the appearance and vitamin content of a salad.

How to Make Strawberry Sun Preserves

Finest Strawberry Preserves Are Those in Which Sirup is Thickened by Sun's Rays.

(Prepared by the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many people think that the finest strawberry preserves are those in which the sirup is thickened by the sun's rays instead of by cooking over a fire. The flavor is more like that of the fresh berries, and the color is unusually fine. The bureau of home economics tells how to make these sun preserves:

- 3 cups small berries (about 1 pound)
- 2 pounds selected berries
- 2 pounds sugar (granulated)

Select large ripe solid fruit, wash well, and cap. Crush and cook three cupfuls of the smaller berries for three minutes, stirring all the time. Then strain. This amount of fruit should yield about one cupful of juice. To this juice add the sugar and heat slowly, until it is entirely dissolved. Drop the large berries into this sirup and allow the mixture to boil for one minute. Remove any scum, drain the fruit from the sirup, and place it carefully with the berries about one inch apart, on shallow pans.

Boil the sirup to a temperature of 105 degrees C, which requires about ten minutes, or until it is fairly thick. Pour this over the berries in a thin layer. Cover with window glass, allowing an air space on all sides. Place the pans in the sun and turn the berries over before the next day's sunning. Repeat this for three days, or until the sirup has formed a jelly. This amount yields a little over one pint of fruit. The success of this method of preparing strawberries depends upon the heat of the sun as well as the firm ripe condition of the fruit used. They should be taken to the house before the dew falls. In case there is rain before the jelly state is reached, the pans may be placed in a warm oven. This, however, darkens the fruit somewhat and is only done to prevent loss. One tablespoonful of lemon juice to each cupful of concentrated sirup improves the color, and to some persons the flavor of the preserves.

A washable crepe de chine blouse is every ready on demand. When all is said and done, there is no money more wisely spent than that invested in a quality-kind black satin ensemble. ©, 1923, Western Newspaper Union.
