A. NEW JOB AT 71

Recent dispatches announced the resignation of Frank White as treasurer of the United States. Those who happen to know that Mr. White is 71 years old might reasonably infer that he intended to retire from active participation in business and financial affairs.

But this is not the case. Upon being relieved of his present duties he will become president of the Southern Mortgage Guaranty Corporation in Chattanooga, a position for which he is well fitted by reason of his long and varied experience, in financial matters.

Mr. White has had an exceptional career, the high spots of which include service in both house and senate of the North Dakota legislature and as governor of that state; participation in two wars, as major in the Philippine insurrection and as colonel in France during the World War; treasurer of the United States since 1921, besides extensive engineering and banking experience.

Southern newspapers have of late paraphrased Horace Greeley's alleged advice, "Go west, young man." They say, "Go south, young man"—and don't let a little matter of 71 years stop you.

ADVANCE OF MEDICINE

Dr. Charles H. Mayo, world-renowned surgeon of Rochester, Minn., is quoted as saying that medical knowledge of the underlying causes of disease has advanced more during the last 25 years than in the preceding 25 centuries.

This is a strong statement, but if the doctor had gone back a few years farther to include the discoveries of Walter Reed and others in connection with infectious diseases it might be accepted as literally true.

Recent advances in surgery have been even more remarkable than those in medicine, and have been tremendously aided by the X-ray, improved anesthetics and more effective means for the prevention of infection.

There are still many diseases which have so far baffled all efforts to control them, but in the light of the accomplishments of the recent past it is reasonable to expect that these, too, may ultimately yield to human science and skill.

PARIS PRAISES RUTH ELDER

In a popular ballot taken in Paris, Ruth Elder was chosen as one of the first 10 "most illustrious women," a rather remarkable tribute to the girl whose plucky, though unsuccessful, attempt to fly across the Atlantic has brought her world-wide fame.

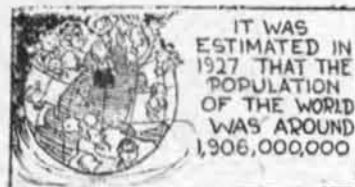

Among the selected 10, Madame Curie, co-discoverer of radium, was ranked first; Sarah Bernhardt, actress, second; Edith Cavell, executed English war nurse, third; Evangelina Booth, Salvation Army leader, fourth. Inasmuch as the list evidently included both the living and dead, it may be questioned whether the selections were altogether appropriate, although each of those mentioned has high claim to distinction.

Anyway, it is pleasing to note that the Parliament was more chivalrous toward Ruth than the authorities of a Georgia town who tried to put her in jail on an old charge of taking a clandestine buggy ride with a preacher.

Why Men Leave Home

One reason why men leave home is set forth by a resident of Saugerties, N. Y., who advertises in the Post of that town: "This is to certify that I was told that I had to leave my bed and board, which was followed by a hawmbone which caught me on the right ear; furthermore, I'll not be responsible for any bill that my wife, Lillian, contracts."

GERMANS WIN FAVOR

Germany appears to have made particularly happy choices of recent ambassadors to the United States, according to information from Washington.

The late Baron Ago von Maltzen, who was killed in an airplane accident while on a visit to his home in Germany a few months ago, was one of the most popular among the high diplomats accredited to this country, and his charming wife was a prime favorite in official social circles.

The new ambassador, von Prittwitz, is apparently winning equal favor, and his accomplished wife is likewise acclaimed as a most delightful woman, of aristocratic birth, but of democratic tendencies.

She was Countess von Strachwitz, of a formerly wealthy German family impoverished by the World War. She opened a hat shop in Berlin, which she managed with much success, and being without a suitable home for her wedding she had the ceremony performed in her shop, to which her customers, as well as her distinguished friends, were invited. The wedding breakfast was served in the work room.

Her husband now having risen to the rank of ambassador, she doesn't trim hats for customers any more, but she relates many amusing anecdotes concerning her business experience. She is fond of athletics and is a famous skater, having won several prizes in Berlin for her proficiency in that sport.

The favorable impression created by these German representatives has already exerted an important influence in restoring good will between the two countries.

Woman Sheriff of De Kalb Co., Ill. Mrs. Helen Dolder of De Kalb county, Illinois, after serving the unexpired term of her dead husband, was elected sheriff over three men opponents. She maintains excellent discipline among her prisoners. Once, when they mutinied and refused to eat, she had the fire hose turned on them until their appetites returned.

"Not a Coffin in a Carload"

No county is so poor that it may not have some outstanding product of which to boast. One citizen voice his local pride, recently, according to the Columbus, Miss., Commercial-Dispatch, by praising the moonshine liquor made in his neighborhood, declaring that it was good stuff, with "not a coffin in a carload."

It won't be long now until a lot of future soda-jerkers will graduate with high honors.

In spite of many crashes, the dauntless Prince of Wales persists in riding without a parachute.

Home runs are again listed among the items for which the demand is greater than the supply.

MRS. J. W. LARIMORE ENTERS RACE FOR SCHOOL SUPT.

Mrs. John W. Larimore, who announces her candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the office of County School Superintendent in today's issue of The Patagonian, is one of the best-known residents of Santa Cruz county. Before her marriage to Mr. Larimore she was known as Lulu Reddoch Wood. She is a sister of Arcus Reddoch, who was in Santa Cruz politics for many years and is now located in South America.

Mrs. Larimore is a life-long Democrat and has always supported the party's candidates. She holds a life certificate to teach school in Arizona. For several terms Mrs. Larimore was the efficient clerk of the County Board of Supervisors, which position she filled with credit both to herself and the people of the county as a whole. She was a most accommodating public official and was ever ready to assist those who came to her office on official business.

At present she is teaching at the Potrero school, near Nogales. Mrs. Larimore has a host of friends in the county who are working for her nomination and who feel that she will make an efficient county school superintendent.

ROLLS-ROYCE ADOPTS BUICK-STYLE MOTOR

Flint, Mich., May 3.—More than a million Buick owners in America will feel a glow of satisfaction at the announcement that England's most expensive motor car, Rolls-Royce, has recently adopted the valve-in-head engine.

Besides confirming the judgment of the Buick Motor Company, which pioneered that type of power plant and now offers it at its finest in the Buick models, the announcement is a tribute to the discrimination of every Buick owner.

This British car's similarity to the Buick does not end with the engine, but includes also cellular radiator, worm and split-nut steering gear, torque tube drive, floating rear axle, and cantilever springs. Comparison of specifications tend to support the already overwhelming evidence—collected by 2,000,000 Buick owners—in favor of these advanced details of engineering.

A point of more than passing interest, in the opinion of Buick officials, is the fact that this British prototype of Buick sells at a much higher price than Buick. The explanation is twofold. The Rolls-Royce is, of course, a much larger and heavier car, and naturally costs more to manufacture. That accounts for a large part of the difference. In the second place, each of the features listed is more costly than the corresponding part in cars of conventional design. In the aggregate represented by the completed car, the difference becomes very great.

Rolls-Royce builds for limited consumption. Hence, even were the specifications of the two cars identical, Buick's volume production would make Buick's price relatively low. Volume manufacture alone makes it possible to sell such a combination of expensive features at a figure within popular reach.

The British manufacturer's announcement, it is pointed out here, also shows the European trend toward American ideas in automotive engineering. That Buick's signal success abroad played its part in bringing about this latest adoption of the valve-in-head engine is regarded as certain.

Reason Lindy Has No Hat

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is generally photographed bareheaded, unless he happens to have an aviator's helmet securely anchored to his head. It is said the reason is that he seldom possesses a hat. The moment he lays one down a souvenir hunter steals it. Even his linen has to be sent to the laundry under an assumed name if it is ever to come back.

Warden N. L. Speer of the Texas state penitentiary resigned a few days ago, declaring that he does not believe in capital punishment. He came to the conclusion after executing 27 men.

What is a used car bargain? Is it a used car of uncertain age and mechanical condition, sold at a so-called "marked down" price?

Or is it a good car, sold by a reliable dealer, for a price that he knows is fair?

We know automobiles. That's our business! And we know what they're worth when we take them in trade on new Buicks.

We always give our used car customers a square deal—both in the price and in the condition of the car.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S
TRAFFIC TALKS

MICHIGAN'S "NO SPEED LIMIT" POPULAR

Reports from Detroit are to the effect that Michigan's so-called "no speed limit" regulations have neither increased nor decreased accidents, and arrests for reckless driving have been average.

Congestion on the highways, it is said, has been very materially decreased, time between cities has been lessened greatly and traffic is moving considerably faster. It is claimed that the state troopers are especially enthusiastic over the way in which the new law has worked out.

Michigan's speed laws are consequently receiving a great deal of attention from officials of other states as well as from motorists themselves. The present regulations for highway driving demand that the motorists must drive at a "careful and prudent" speed, not greater than nor less than is reasonable and proper with due regard to traffic, surface and width of the highway and such other conditions as may exist.

For the motorist, the most gratifying part of it all is that he can "step on it" as long as his car is in control and can be stopped within an assured distance.

According to the state troopers, the reckless driving provisions of the law are so plainly set forth that they experience much less difficulty in establishing their case in court than they had under the old regulations.

When long stretches of clear highway lie ahead, speed is limited only by the desire of the driver and many of them admit that they are now driving with a feeling of utmost security at a rate that would have formerly been a law breaking speed. Also, the inevitable traffic officer astride his motorcycle lying in wait for a speed violator has been practically eliminated, it is said.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Ohio and Bay State Primaries Boost Stock of Hoover and Smith.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
REPRESENTATIVE MARTIN B. Madden of Chicago, for years one of the most active and useful members of Congress, collapsed Friday in his office in Washington and within a few minutes was dead. For a long time Mr. Madden had been in poor health, and his recent hard work as chairman of the appropriations committee and in trying to bring the house around to the President's views on the flood control legislation were held responsible for the heart attack that ended fatally. Mr. Madden was seventy-three years old and was a native of England. He had represented the First Illinois district in the house since 1905.

LAST week's primaries, especially in Ohio and Massachusetts, provided base for the claims that the Republican and Democratic national conventions will nominate Herbert Hoover and Al Smith, respectively, early in the fall. In the case of Hoover the result in Ohio was considered especially convincing, for though the Lowden and Dawes forces made desperate efforts to defeat him, the secretary of commerce won all seven of the delegates at large and at least 24 of the district delegates. This was more than his most enthusiastic supporters had expected, and the anti-Hooverites were correspondingly depressed. One most notable feature of the voting was the defeat of Senator Fess, selected as temporary chairman of the Republican convention, for delegate at large. He will not decline the honor of presiding, but must do without credentials as either delegate or alternate. Hoover ran away with the Ohio preferential vote in Ohio, and also in Massachusetts, and his managers claim 30 of the Bay state delegates, who are unopposed. They hope, too, that the 73 unopposed delegates chosen last week by Pennsylvania will be led into the Hoover camp by Secretary Mellon when the strength of the Hoover vote is demonstrated in the early ballots. Michigan's state convention instructed that state's 33 delegates to vote for Hoover "as long as he is a candidate for the Presidency," and five of Nevada's nine have declared their preference for Hoover. The line-up of the delegates so far chosen shows: Hoover, 333; Lowden, 183; Curtis, 24; Norris, 63; Borah, 11; unclassified, 203.

Gov. Al Smith captured the Massachusetts leading aviators and Commander Byrd's plot on the flight to the North pole, flew to Canada in a relief plane for the German-Irish transatlantic fliers, was stricken with pneumonia and died last week in a Quebec hospital. Believing that Quebec lacked the serum that might save Bennett's life, the Rockefeller Institute appealed to Colonel Lindbergh and that ever-ready young man made a swift flight through a fierce storm to the Canadian city carrying the remedy. His feat was in vain, however, for Bennett died before Lindbergh took off for the return trip. Canada provided a military escort for the aviator's body, and it was interred in Arlington National cemetery near the grave of Admiral Peary. Bennett was to have been Byrd's second in command on the protracted South pole flight.

THE crew of the Bremen left their plane on Greenly Island and resumed their flight to New York on the Ford relief plane piloted by Bernt Balchen. They reached Mitchell field, Long Island, Friday afternoon.

CAPT. GEORGE H. WILKINS, with Carl Elson as pilot, successfully completed his extraordinary flight across the polar regions from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen. Their flying time was 20½ hours, but they were forced by bad weather to stop on the island of Dead Man's Point for five days. Their route did not take them over the pole, but across the great "blind spot" hitherto never seen by man. In the region where Peary, Stefansson and McMillan saw indications of land in the vicinity, Wilkins and Elson found nothing but ice fields with occasional leads of open water.

AQUITTAL of Henry Sinclair by the jury that heard the testimony in the Teapot Dome oil conspiracy case was a sad blow to the government law forces. The verdict, it was said in Washington, made it improbable that Albert B. Fall, named in the same indictment but granted a severance because of illness, will ever be brought to trial. It may be, too, that the government will drop the bribery charges pending against Fall and Edward Doherty.

CONFIDENCE in President Coolidge's Nicaragua policy was shown by the senate when that body passed the $264,000,000 naval appropriation bill after decisively defeating three amendments, offered by radical Republicans, that would force the withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua. A few Democrats voted with the radicals, but they were deserted by Borah, although he opposed the sending of the marines to the Central American country. The measure as passed raises the anti-riot strength of the navy to 82,000, carries $22,000,000 for aviation, including funds for the construction of two giant dirigibles, and provides approximately $50,000,000 for new ship construction.

COMBINED forces of the Chinese Nationalists and the army of Feng Yu-siang, Christian general are making their way toward Peking through Shantung province. They captured Tsainan, capital of the province and an important key position, and took large stocks of war material. Previously Feng's troops had occupied Tsining and word has come that soldiers killed Dr. Walter F. Seymour, American Presbyterian missionary there. Both the Nationalist and the Peking governments have protested against the action of Japan in sending troops into Shantung province.

SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG's plan for a multi-lateral treaty to end war, has the adherence of at least one power, though it is not one of the "great" ones. The Polish government instructed its minister to Washington to accept the American proposal with a few minor exceptions which it was believed could be adjusted easily. Premier Briand of France made public his proposals for a similar treaty, and our State department officials did not like them a little bit. There is small chance of their being approved by the government. The plan offered by Briand is described in Washington as more of a treaty to justify war than a pact to outlaw it.

FRANK LOCKHART, one of the most famous of automobile racers met death at Daytona Beach Fla. In an attempt to establish a new speed record. A tire of the Stutz special built on his design blew out while he was traveling at a speed of about 200 miles an hour and the car was catapulted many feet, hurtling along the sands. Lockhart was almost instantly killed.

Other deaths of the week included those of Archbishop Mora y del Rio, exiled primate of Mexico; Baron Okura, millionaire Japanese merchant; C. W. Folds, leader in finance and civic work in Chicago, and Baron Peter Wrangel, erstwhile leader of the "White" Russians.

Buck Paid Board Bill With Set of Antlers

Superintendent J. R. Kakin of Glacier National park is authority for one of the most striking instances of wild animal gratitude recorded in natural history. He relates:

"A buck deer with especially fine antlers has been a great favorite at headquarters this winter, and several people expressed a desire for his horns when they were shed, which invariably happens around January.

"One morning while feeding this buck on her back porch, a woman residing at administrative headquarters was astonished to see him rub his horns on the wall until they fell to the floor. As she fed him more often than any other person, she believes it was his way of showing gratitude."

Race Mingling

In Hawaii, according to the Honolulu Nippon-Jiji, intermarriage between its many races is becoming more and more prevalent. American men in the islands showed the highest percentage of intermarriage in the year ending June 30, 1927, only 152 out of a total of 383 being with women of their own people. Hawaiian women also intermarry frequently, for out of 271 marriages recorded, 134 were with members of other races. The Chinese, in spite of a popular belief that they are inclined toward intermarriage, showed a total of but 42 such weddings out of 175 men who were married. Only 29 out of 758 Japanese men married women of another race, and intermarriages among Japanese women totaled 41 out of 810.

Largest Rose Garden Owned by King Boris

King Boris, the bachelor king of Bulgaria, who has just paid a private visit to King George at Balmora, has royal rights over the biggest rose garden in the world. It is about 40 miles long and 10 broad. The peasants of nearly 200 villages cultivate it. Their women folk get up before dawn to strip it. When a gentle breeze blows they say that its scent penetrates far beyond the Thracian plain in which it is situated.

It is this garden which yields the world-famous attar of roses, that luscious perfume which, in olden times, Persian slaves commanded should be used exclusively in their harems. It is said that this even today in India is offered to wedding guests on a little twisted cotton at the end of a short stick.

Attar of roses has long been the costliest perfume put on the market. During the war it ran up to $50 per ounce, and at present is around about $15.

The Bulgarian rose grower who does his own distilling does not get anything like such prices.

MILADY'S HATS

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

one, and also after the style of the one shown on the brimmed hat to the right below, are playing a cunning part toward "feminizing" the new millinery modes of the day.

The three brimmed types shown here bespeak the trend of current millinery styles. That is a very smart brim silhouette achieved by the natural colored hand-sewed straw shape to the left, due to the fact that it is widened at the sides, and narrowed at the back.

The hat with the velvet bow and veiled so prettily as shown to the right, also confirms the fact that becomingness is assured by the newer models.

Note the flower-trimmed bangkok which concludes this group. Is it not charming? And what a "far cry" it is from the smug felts we have been wearing these many seasons past.

Household Hints

A little sugar improves the flavor of most vegetable salads.

"Do" is a more effective word in guiding children than is "don't."

The newest dresses this spring indicate that skirts are coming down and waistlines up.

Bright, figured materials make attractive curtains for a room with plain floors and walls.

Wearing old misshapen shoes for housework is an uncertain economy, for it may cause backache and tired feet, with a consequent lack of efficiency.

its outstanding claims to distinction lies in the fact of its being made of the very new and voguish shiny black straw, for highly lacquered straws, you must know, are a favorite theme with the milliner this season. A cunning veil, too! Of course you took note of it at first glance. Veils like this FREE, at last, from the tyranny of millinery sameness! This season marks the dawn of a new era in hatology. Once again, after so long a period of watchful waiting and hoping, women are to be allowed to choose hats suited to their individuality. One evidence of this is the return of brims. Yes, brims, not camouflaged brims, but actual definite brims widening more and more with the approach of summer, are "in" again. This is the supremacy of the little model-to-the-head types now challenged.

Not that the advent of brims means that "hats" has been written across the pages of the cap-fitting variety of chaperaux. On the contrary, very charming tight hats, especially skull-cap types, continue to grace the millinery picture. For instance, there is the exceedingly smart model shown at the top of this group. It is a "last-word" creation from Paris. One of

BAKED LENTILS

Lentils come chiefly from Europe, where they are greatly enjoyed in many ways. They are often simply soaked and boiled until tender, and then served as a vegetable, or they may be made into soup, somewhat as pea soup is made. The following recipe for baked lentils, to be served as a main dish at luncheon or supper or as a side dish with other foods, is from the bureau of home economics.

$\frac{3}{4}$  lb. salt pork  $\frac{2}{3}$  lbs. molasses
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cups lentils  $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. mustard
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cups pork broth  $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt

1 onion
 Soak the lentils overnight in four cups of water, and drain. Cut the pork into slices and cook it in one pint of water for fifteen minutes. To the pork broth add the molasses, salt, and mustard. Place a slice of pork and the onion in the bottom of the bean pot, cover with the lentils and then another piece of onion and pork. Continue until all of the lentils are used, saving a piece of pork for the top. Pour the seasoned liquid over the lentils. Cover and cook slowly until the lentils are tender, about 1 $\frac{1}{2}$  hours. If the lentils become too dry, add a small quantity of boiling water from time to time.

: Food for the Family :

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Don't let us work all our life to make a living, but let us work to live all our life.

Man is mighty only when he works in harmony with the forces of the Unseen.—Jack Miner.

A dainty cruller or cake to serve with a cup of coffee or tea is:

Sour Cream Crullers.—Take one cupful each of sour cream and sugar, one egg, one-fourth teaspoonful of baking powder, mix and add enough flour to make a soft dough. Chill well, then roll in a sheet and cut into oblongs and score, or into rings or strips and twist. Fry in deep fat, drain on paper and roll when cool in sugar or sprinkle powdered sugar over the cakes.

Spring Pudding.—Beat the whites of three egg yolks and one-half cupful of sugar. When well mixed add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and one pint of milk (hot scalded milk) soak over hot water until the custard coats the spoon, remove and add one and one-half table-spoonfuls of gelatin which has been well soaked in one-third of a cupful of cold water, stir until dissolved. Place six pieces of cake or six lady fingers in a dish in which the pudding is to be served, pour over the custard and cover with a meringue, using the whites beaten stiff; add one-half cupful of powdered sugar, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and one cupful of canned pineapple, peaches, apricots or a mixture of them. Poach the meringue and top the pudding after placing the fruit. Serve well chilled.

Dried Apricot Brown Betty.—For this, steam the fruit after washing and soaking. Blend one cupful of brown sugar with two cupfuls of crumbs and a tablespoonful of melted butter. To one cupful of fruit sprinkle over one cupful of the sugared crumbs; repeat until all is used. Pour over the sirup or liquor in which the fruit was soaked—enough to moisten—and bake in a slow oven about 40 minutes.

The hot cooked cereal with plenty of good top milk (that is the milk with the cream stirred in) is a fine breakfast for the growing child. The prepared cereals may be used occasionally to avoid monotony, then with whole wheat bread, a baked apple and a glass of milk, the breakfast is disposed of satisfactorily.

Favorite Fish Foods.
 We are constantly told to eat more fish, to cut down food expenses, to add variety and easily digested food more freely to our menus. Where the fresh fish are not obtainable, the canned fish may be found in the markets. Salt and smoked fish are so palatable that they should often appear on our tables.

Salt Fish Souffle.—Soak one-half pound of boneless codfish overnight. Cover with fresh water, bring to a boil, and drain and simmer gently for ten minutes. Drain and flake, then chop fine. Add a pint of smoothly mashed potatoes, one beaten egg, two table-spoonfuls of melted butter, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, one-half teaspoonful of salt and three-fourths of a cupful of rich milk. Mix well and spread lightly on a shallow baking dish; bake in a moderate oven ten minutes. Beat the yolk and white of an egg separately and lightly mix the two with a few grains of salt. Spread the mixture over the top and brown. Serve from the baking dish with a drawn butter sauce or a good tomato sauce.

Built-In Ironing Board

Important Convenience in Farm Home.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Several good points are illustrated by this built-in ironing board in a farm home, which was installed at the suggestion of the home demonstration agent. The board is placed sufficiently high for a worker of tall or medium build, and there is also a high stool, homemade, on which she can sit for a good part of the work. The hinged prop is placed in such a way as to leave the greater part of the board free so that dresses and skirts may be slipped over it. Extension workers, who are under the co-operative direction of the United States Department of Agriculture and the various state agricultural colleges, have been emphasizing for some time the importance of such conveniences in the farm home.

The board is well padded and the padding is tacked on snugly. An outer washable cover may be used with a board padded in this way. Farmers' Bulletin 1497-F, "Methods and Equipment for Home Laundering," says: "A firmly padded flat surface covered with clean white cloth is necessary for good results in ironing. If space permits, it is more convenient to have a table for sheets and other flat pieces, a board for skirts and such garments, and a sleeve board. If one board must serve all purposes, it should be fairly long and wide, with one narrow end. For padding the ironing-board the double-faced cotton flannel used for silence cloths on dining tables or an old blanket is good. Enough thickness of such material should be used to give the surface spring, without making it cushiony. Old sheets may be used for the cover, but new unbleached sheeting is better and not expensive, as the width of the sheeting will make the length of the cover. The cover may be hemmed and four pieces of tape firmly sewed to each side so that it can be easily put on and taken off. Ready-made covers faced together through eyelets are also convenient. A sheet of asbestos placed under the iron rest and paper or cloth for cleaning the iron should protect the muslin cover from scorching. Some boards have a piece of tin or other sheet metal about eight inches wide tacked across the end on which the iron is to stand."

creatures to fight or scold, so I thought we'd still talk our usual foolish goose talk."

"A good idea," agreed Mrs. Goose. So they continued to walk until they reached the pond and they screamed and cackled and talked and said how much they disliked the rest of the world and every creature too sensible to be a goose.

For to be sensible is something the Goose family cannot understand. Nor would they want to be able to understand it.

They are well pleased just being geese.

Treat Seed Oats to Avoid Losses

Large Annual Injury by Smut Can Be Prevented by Using Solution.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The large annual losses in oat fields due to smut disease can be almost wholly prevented simply by dipping, spraying or sprinkling the seed with a formaldehyde solution a short time before sowing, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The importance of smut in oats is quite generally overlooked because its effect is inconspicuous at harvest time and the market value of the threshed grain is usually not impacted. During the past ten years for which records are available oat smuts have taken estimated annual tolls ranging from 29,000,000 to 111,000,000 bushels and an estimated average annual loss amounting to 48,391,700 bushels.

Use of Formaldehyde.

One pint of formaldehyde, which may be readily obtained at any drug store, is sufficient to treat 50 bushels of seed oats. Several methods of applying the solution are effective, and the one to use is only a matter of preference. For the spray method, mix 1 pint of formaldehyde with 1 pint of water and pour into a quart sprayer. If fewer than 50 bushels are to be treated, use a correspondingly smaller quantity of the solution. Shovel the oats from one pile to another spraying each shovelful. A scoop-shovelful of seed requires about four strokes of the piston of the spray gun. After the oats are sprayed, shovel them into a pile and cover with blankets or sacks that have been thoroughly sprayed to kill smut spores. The pile should remain covered at least five hours, and may be left covered overnight. Treatment may be given at any time previous to sowing, but when seedling is delayed the oats should be spread out and aired for a day before storing.

To treat 50 bushels by the "sprinkle method" add one pint of formaldehyde to 40 gallons of water and apply with a sprinkling can while the oats are being shoveled from one pile to another. Cover in the same way and leave at least two hours or overnight. On removing the cover sow immediately, making allowance for the swollen condition of the seed when setting the drill. If sowing is delayed, the treated seed should be spread out and thoroughly dried.

Another method consists in putting the seed into loosely woven hurlap or gunny sacks and dipping the sacked grain into a solution of one pint of formaldehyde in 40 gallons of water. Dip the sacks of grain into the solution two or three times, or until the grain is thoroughly wet. Remove from the solution and let drain at least two hours or overnight. Then sow immediately or spread out to dry.

Vapor is Irritating.

Formaldehyde vapor irritates the eyes, nose and throat. These effects may be reduced by holding the sprayer close to the oats, by working from the windward side of the treated pile, and by doing the work in a well-ventilated place. After using the sprinkle and dip methods, care should be taken to avoid freezing or heating of wet seed. In all methods, avoid contaminating the treated seed. All bags, sacks, blankets, and even the drill, should be wet with the solution to kill any spores present.

Surplus seed treated with formaldehyde may be fed to live stock without injury, provided the grain has been spread out first and thoroughly dried for several days.

Plan to Remove Grubs From Backs of Cattle

The best way to remove grubs from the backs of cattle is to apply pressure with the thumb and forefinger to the lumps or swellings where the grubs are growing. They may be more easily removed by inserting a sharp pen knife into the opening where the grub is about to escape.

Care must be taken that all the grubs are killed as soon as they are forced out. These grubs change into flies later in the season which lay eggs from which the next year's crop of grubs develop.

Cattle should be examined every two weeks to destroy all grubs as fast as they develop to maturity.

Sunlight in Brooder

It is essential for successful brooding to arrange the windows so they open in such a way as to permit direct sunlight on the chicks. To accomplish this, the upper sash is hung at the top to open up and the lower sash can either swing open to the side or be set in place and held with buttons. Direct sunlight prevents rickets, or leg weakness. The outside of the windows should be covered with one-inch mesh poultry netting.

Shelter for Geese

Geese do not need much of a house. A dry shelter in stormy weather to sleep in is all that is necessary. Even then it will probably be difficult to make them use this house unless their feed is given there. Geese may be fed very cheaply during the off-breeding season; a little whole corn and mashes of waste vegetables, potatoes, turnips, cooked with a little bran and corn meal. This is a cheap feed, and is highly relished.

Great Yearly Loss by Soils Washing

Value of Plant Food Wasted Placed at $2,000,000,000.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The value of plant food wasted in the erosion or washing away of soils on the farms of the United States is estimated most conservatively by scientists in the United States Department of Agriculture as in excess of $2,000,000,000 a year. This estimate is based on the value of the principal chemical constituents, nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, as they are purchasable in the cheapest kinds of commercial fertilizers and does not take into account the value of the soil as an agency for making use of these plant foods.

This sum is about twenty times the value of all the plant food removed by growing crops. The real "soil miner" is not the one who grows crop after crop of the same kind without replacing plant food, but rather the one who allows his precious soil to be washed away, his land to be gullied and destroyed, or the top soil to be removed by sheet erosion. Some of the practices responsible for this tremendous annual loss, immediate and to posterity, are unwise clearing of areas which should remain in forest, unwise breaking for cultivation or sloping fields subject to erosion, unwise cultivation of soils that erode easily, and failure to terrace lands that could be saved by intelligent management.

Oats and Barley Will Thrive on Sandy Soil

Oats and barley can be grown on sandy land if it is properly handled. It is important that they be sown early and it would be advisable to use the early maturing variety of oats if oats are grown. Some strains of the 60-day oats would be best.

As soon as you can make the change, you probably will get better results from sandy land by growing fall rye on at least a part of it. It would be advisable also to sow sweet clover or some other legume with the crop and plow it under for green manure. If you can get around to the point where you are doing considerable dairying, fall rye followed by sweet clover pasture, and this in turn by corn or some other cultivated crop, would give you a rotation which would keep the land in good condition and which would at the same time give you satisfactory returns.

Important to Keep Up Fertility of Orchard

Besides pruning and spraying, it is important to keep up the fertility of the orchard in proportion to what is taken out. Here again, in many likent orchards, the manure or fertilizer has been piled closely around the trunk of the tree, often causing tree rot and preventing the roots from getting access to the food material. When fertilizer is applied it should be distributed on a larger area. If the grower could see the arrangement of the roots on the tree he could easily grasp the idea of distributing the fertilizer on a larger area for better results. The roots and root hairs are distributed in a large space around the tree and it is evident that the fertilizer must be placed similarly.

Chestnut Tree Blight

To show the enormous damage done by the chestnut tree blight, which was introduced into America only about 30 years ago, quite a stir was created recently when a chestnut tree was discovered in New England that had survived the blight. This tree may be the source of blight-resistant chestnuts. It is to prevent the introduction and spread of scourge such as this that quarantines are maintained against plants from other countries.

Best Pig Pasture

Alfalfa pasture is the best that can be furnished for grazing young pigs. An acre of alfalfa pasture will save over 1,000 pounds of corn and nearly 500 pounds of rangeland. An acre of pasture will reduce the feed bill by $25 or more for 15 or 20 pigs and the pigs harvest the crop for nothing. Plan now to have a few acres of alfalfa on your farm if for nothing more than hog pasture.

Agricultural Squibs

Plant more carrots, beets and swiss chard for greens.

Save the pen vines this year to turn under as fertilizer this fall.

Try a new sweet corn this year. There is a long list from which to choose.

Tadpoles and lettuce may be planted the first warm days of spring; peas and onions may do better to wait until the weather is more settled.

Don't plant all your carrots or beets at one time, but make several sowings of each, a couple weeks apart. They're so much nicer when young and tender.

Soy beans are now grown in a wide variety and a seed house of recognized standing should be consulted as to the adaptability of any variety for the section where it is desired to grow this legume.

GREATNESS THROUGH SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:33-37; 10: 23-42.

GOLDEN TEXT—For even the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Doing as Jesus Did. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Way to Be Great.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Be Truly Great. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus' Standard of Greatness.

Jesus with His disciples was on His way to Capernaum for the last time. He was soon to leave for Jerusalem where He was to die on the cruel cross for the sins of the world.

1. The Disciples Disputing as to Who Should Be the Greatest (Mark 9:33-37).

1. Jesus' searching question (v. 33). His omniscience enabled Him to discern their secret thoughts.

2. The silent disciples (v. 34). The revelation of the selfishness of their hearts made them ashamed in His presence.

3. The stinging rebuke (v. 35-37). "If any man desire to be first the same shall be last of all and servant of all."

(1) "If any man desire to be first the same shall be last of all and servant of all." True greatness expresses itself in being willing to take the last and least place and to be a servant of others.

(2) His teaching illustrated (v. 35, 37). This He did by an acted parable of placing a little child in their midst.

Loughran Ever Ready to Fight

IN THESE drab days of safety-first boxing champions, it is rather refreshing to find one title-holder ready and willing to fight at the slightest provocation.

Gene Tunney, the heavyweight champion, has defended his title only once during the past year.

There has been no recognized champion in the flyweight class since Fidel La Barba retired with the title intact.

Tommy Loughran, never regarded as a great fighter before he won his title, has proved that he possesses the most important asset that goes into the make-up of a champion—gammess—in his bout with Leo Louski.

Collett Stands High. Glenn Collett stands head and shoulders above the feminine coiffers of the Metropolitan district.

Baseball Notes. Throughout the United States there are about 10,000 men playing in baseball clubs for money.

Jim Wilson, a semi-pro catcher of Boston, has signed with Des Moines of the Western league for this season.

Adolfo Laque, the Cuban hurler, is the oldest pitcher with the Cincinnati Reds. He is thirty-seven years old.

Roy Sherid, Albright college athletic star, will report to the New York Yankees in June, following the close of the school term.

One of the most promising youngsters uncovered by Pittsburgh this year is Fred Fussell, pitcher with Wichita Falls in the Texas league last year.

The Yanks bare their teeth when they've got a chance at world series meat. These spring scores might look good in the paper but there is no gravy in them.

Elmer Gray, an infielder-outfielder who tried to make it with the Springfield Midgets of the Western association last season but failed, has signed for another trial.
