

The All-Year Resort
Altitude 4053 Feet

SANTA CRUZ PATAGONIAN

Climate Is Best In The United States

VOL. XVI

($2.00 a Year in Advance)

PATAGONIA, ARIZONA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 10, 1928

(Single Copy 5 Cents)

NO. 36

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

DANCE AT SONOITA

There will be a dance at Floral Hall, Sonoita, Saturday evening, August 18. Music by "The Collegians," one of Tucson's best orchestras. Meet your friends there! 2t

Celora M. Stoddard, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Arizona, was a Patagonia visitor today, getting acquainted with the voters.

Colonel Jacob Zinsmeister, who has been seriously sick for several weeks, has returned to the Circle Z guest ranch, slightly improved. His daughters, Mrs. E. G. Kuenzler of New Orleans and Mrs. Antone H. Embs of Oak Park, Chicago, will arrive within a day or two for a visit with their father and brothers, Carl and Lee Zinsmeister.

Lee Zinsmeister and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zinsmeister will leave Monday afternoon for Los Angeles, where the former's wedding will be solemnized the following Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blaben, who have been visiting their sons, R. C. and Bert, for several weeks, left yesterday morning for San Diego, Calif.

Ed Hainline was a county seat visitor Thursday.

Mrs. Roy Murrell and children and Mrs. Marvin Astor and son were Nogales visitors Wednesday.

W. H. Anderson of Vaughn is having extensive improvements made at his ranch.

A meteorite, which seemed to land at the northern end of San Rafael valley, fell Thursday night about 9:30 o'clock. The illumination made in its descent was very bright and spectacular.

Jack Camba of Harshaw was a Nogales visitor Monday.

Bird Yoas of Amado was a visitor Monday in the county seat.

E. F. Bohlinger was a Nogales business visitor Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Klaus and sons left Monday by auto for Illinois for a few weeks' visit with relatives.

L. A. Bechtel of Tucson was in Nogales Monday on business. He was accompanied by his uncle, who came from Michigan with Mr. Bechtel upon the latter's return from a visit to that state.

Mrs. S. A. Haynie of San Rafael valley left Monday for Texas to visit relatives. She was accompanied as far as Fairbank by her daughters, Mrs. Roy Murrell and Mrs. Marvin Astor.

Hugo Hjert, a guest at the San Rafael ranch of Miss Grace Van Osdale, was a Nogales visitor Monday.

The dance held at the San Rafael school house Saturday night was well attended.

MICKIE SAYS—

WELL, HERE I AM AGAIN WITH THE SAME OLD TUNE, "IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE." GOLLY, IF OUR BUSINESS MEN'D ALL GET BIZZY AND DO SOME REGULAR ADVERTISING IN THIS GREAT PUBLICITY MEDIUM, WED ALL GET RICH TOGETHER.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Roberson and children of Mowry left Sunday by automobile for a vacation with relatives in Texas.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS MEETING

The W. C. T. U. met Thursday afternoon, August 9, at the home of Mrs. Cera Everhart. Thirty members and visitors listened with interest to the address conducted by Mrs. Mattie Johnson. A violin solo by the popular young niece of Mrs. W. F. Neil, Miss Gladys Clopton, gave pleasure to all. Mrs. L. W. Klene complimented the valley on its homes, which, while lacking in fine architecture, show individuality and charm comparable only to the machine-made and hand-wrought articles.

Another point of interest was discussed: "How can we, as mothers and members of the W. C. T. U., better the entertainment now open to the youth of this valley?"

A luncheon of cake and punch was served just before the close of the meeting.

JULY 4TH RODEO NETS $339.03

Complete returns for the Fourth of July Rodeo, held at the Circle Z ranch have been made to the Patagonia Volunteer Fire Department, under whose auspices the show was held. E. H. Evans of the Evans Mercantile Co. was chairman of the finance committee. The report shows total receipts of $1954.35, with total expenditures of $1615.29, leaving a total net profit of $339.06.

JIM FRAIZER INJURED IN WRECK

James Fraizer of Vaughn was badly injured Wednesday night while on his way from Nogales to Fort Huachuca in company with several army officers and soldiers. According to report, Mr. Fraizer was driving the car, which turned over at the "S" curve about seven miles south of Patagonia on the Patagonia-Nogales highway. Fraizer received a broken jaw bone and one of the other passengers was badly injured; the others escaped with but slight injuries. Fraizer's condition is so serious that he will be taken to El Paso for an operation. It is said.

PATAGONIA STREET SURVEYED

State highway engineers are surveying the main street through town, preparatory to construction of the stretch of road passed up when the state took it over from the county.

This piece of road passes through town and has been hard to maintain owing to the flood waters from the Patagonia mountains, which course down the street following every heavy rain in the hills. The flood waters should, and probably will, be taken care of before the work can be properly safeguarded.

OWL DRUG CO. OPENS STORE

A branch of the Owl Drug Company of Tombstone has been opened here, which will be known as the Patagonia Drug Company. R. F. Marr is manager. The store was opened Sunday, August 5 with an incomplete stock, owing to the fact that plans had been made to open for business about September 1. The stock will be augmented by additions immediately and a complete line of drugs, soft drinks, magazines, cigars, etc. will be kept on hand.

Patagonia welcomes the new drug store, as it will fill a long-felt want here.

LEE ZINSMEISTER TO WED NEXT WEDNESDAY IN BEVERLY HILLS

The marriage of Miss Helen Keller of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mr. Lee O. Zinsmeister of Patagonia, Ariz., will be solemnized at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, August 15, at 713 Maple Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Miss Keller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Keller of 1310 South Van Ness avenue, Los Angeles, is a graduate of the Ohio State University, and a member of the Alpha Phi Sorority.

Mr. Zinsmeister and his brother are owners of the Circle Z ranch, near Patagonia. His former home was in Louisville, Ky. He is a graduate of Purdue University and is a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. Before coming to Arizona, Mr. Zinsmeister was active in Masonic work and was the potentate of the Konair Shrine Temple of Louisville.

Miss Keller will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Roland Seigie, and Mr. Carl F. Zinsmeister will be his brother's best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, which will be held in the parlors of the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Campbell, in Beverly Hills, a wedding breakfast will be served and at noon the bride and bridegroom will leave Los Angeles by airplane and fly directly to the Circle Z ranch, where a wedding supper will be served at 7:30 p. m. The happy couple will leave immediately to spend their honeymoon at the Circle Z hunting lodge in the Santa Rita mountains.

HICKMAN RESENTENCED

Los Angeles, Aug. 9.—William Edward Hickman was resentenced to die on the gallows October 19 for the murder last December of 12-year-old Marion Parker. The proceedings were shorn of all the drama of the first sentence since Hickman has been held in a death cell at San Quintin and none of the members of his family were present this time. The second sentence was passed following a denial by the appellate court of Hickman's request for a rehearing. Hickman's attorneys said the case will be carried to the United States supreme court.

HURRICANE STRIKES FLORIDA

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 9.—A hurricane that spread destruction across the Florida peninsula was today rapidly hurrying its full force into the Gulf of Mexico north of Tampa. It is hoped that the worst of the tropical disturbance is over.

Tampa and St. Petersburg on the west coast are completely isolated today, while the state suffered property and crop damage estimated in millions. A loss of life is reported.

His shoes, fully laced, were found 100 feet from the body of Charles Place of Racine, Wis., recently killed last train.

Miss Nellie Rice of St. Louis, who has undergone 27 operations in six years, was recently fined for altering a morphine prescription to get more of the drug to ease her pain.

F. J. Owen, 51-year-old merchant of Hammond, Ind., was debarred for life from holding a license because he drove his car while intoxicated.

Eighteen children of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Smith of Burnham, Ill., returned home to celebrate their parents' golden wedding anniversary.

Mrs. G. C. Varden of Kansas City, aged 65 and wealthy, disinherited her husband in her will.

Sonia Prademie of Moscow has been granted her 17th divorce in four years.

Musical Comedy Offers Chance to Home Girls

MARIE VERO

Marie Vero Prefers it to Operatic Possibility

New York City.—Until we have American opera in which American singers can use their own language, musical comedy will offer greater opportunity for the native-born girl than opera.

Marie Vero, who was recently picked by vaudeville scouts at a public school entertainment in New York and hailed as the typical "sweet girl graduate," backs up this statement by her experiences.

LEAGUE OF WESTERN WRITERS

The cause of better literature and higher standards in the writing art is being promoted by a convention of the League of Western Writers at Portland, Ore., August 9-11.

All newspaper workers, and men and women who have followed the writing or literary profession or teaching the same in any form, or the drama and musical composition, are eligible.

Mrs. Arthur Robinson of Oyster Bay, N. Y., only 37 years old, has had 20 children, including five sets of twins.

More to read in The Patagonian-San found in most weeklies

SMITH TO ANSWER CHARGES

New York, Aug. 9.—Through his forthcoming debate with Dr. John R. Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York, Governor Alfred E. Smith plans to answer fully, once and for all, the charges brought against his legislative record on marital grounds.

The debate, which he plans to hold in advance of his regular campaign, will be—if he can make it so—a grand, dramatic affair which will draw the attention of the world to his defense of the charges that he has been connected with the liquor and vice elements.

Smith intends to go into detail in the debate, scheduled here, then dismiss the subject, turning his attention in the regular campaign to national issues.

FOR SALE

For the sake of quick realization, I will sell a group of five claims located on strong veins carrying mixed ores of copper, lead, silver and gold. Several small shipments have been made from these, and a good deposit of mill ore is assured. There are also streaks of finest shipping ore, if a quick shipment is desired. The probable tonnage that can be developed is tremendous. A tunnel from water's edge has been started and has shown 54 inches of shipping ore. This tunnel is now in about 200 feet, and if produced will eventually have a bank of 1200 feet. Insuring cheap mining costs. There are two other short tunnels, a few shafts and various cuts and pits. Water runs across this property at the mouth of the tunnel continuously in good years and 11 months in the worst years. A road extends on to the group, and all conditions are good for a shipper or for a mill. The ore runs high in lead in some shoots and in copper in others. An examination by an engineer disclosed considerable ore in sight, amounting to over $50,000. A list of assays from this group gives surprisingly good values, and a mill is unquestionably warranted by the showing. Much of the ore will stand shipment, and further development would be partly paid for by shipments.

I will make a reasonable price on this group, with liberal terms; I will take part of my price in stock in the operating company, and will make it easy for a live number to make the mine pay for itself. The tunnel site is unequalled in this state, and the showing of ore is unusual, to say the least.

Parties wanting to get a going mine with little work are invited to come and see this, and I will take pains to meet the wishes and the means of a buyer meaning business.

Take the Patagonia-Alto road to my house.

About three billions of pounds of copper are now being used in the United States for generation and consumption of electricity, and every additional horsepower of energy requires about 100 pounds of copper, and four billions will be required for projects now under consideration. Many other uses of copper indicate a demand for the red metal that will surely boost the price to the miner. A good time to get your copper mine is NOW. Moreover, the above mine is remarkable in that it does not require you put all your eggs in one basket, and if one metal slumps a little, the profit will come from the others. They have never gone down together.

JOSIAH BOND, Alto, Arizona.

Miss Annie Mills of Chicago, who waited 31 years to marry Frank Joseph, sued him for breach of promise and was awarded $5000 to solve her wounded heart.

JOSEPH C. HALDEMAN FINANCIAL DIRECTOR FOR DEMOCRATS

Joseph C. Haldeman of Phoenix has been appointed financial director of the Democratic party in Arizona and Arthur Currie, of the same city, secretary and general manager of the Smith-Robinson Democratic Club in Arizona. The appointments meet with general approval of party leaders.

Mr. Haldeman will have complete charge of the collections and disbursements of Democratic party funds in the state.

Messrs. Haldeman and Currie were Nogales visitors Monday and opposite Leslie C. Hardy chairman, O. Herold treasurer, and Mrs. Tom Bird, member of the Santa Cruz county finance committee. The duties of the committee will be to raise campaign funds and work in conjunction with the national committee. Similar organizations will be formed in every county in the state. As soon as the county organizations are perfected state headquarters will be established in Phoenix.

KELLEY SAYS ANOTHER GUILTY

Los Angeles, Aug. 9.—Leo P. Kelley said he could name the man who killed his married sweetheart, Mrs. Myrtle Melus, and thus clear himself of murder charges, he declared in an interview last night.

The accused man spoke of a definite "he," but refused to mention a name.

"I could walk out of here in five minutes," Kelley, a youthful butcher, said in his cell, "but I am waiting for him to talk. He will put the noose around his own neck."

CAMERON TO RUN FOR SENATOR

Phoenix, Aug. 9.—Ralph H. Cameron, former United States senator from Arizona, filed nomination papers with the secretary of state yesterday, and simultaneously tested a formal announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

The former senator said he was confident of winning back his seat in the upper house of congress and he just made a statewide trip in his forests. He plans to make his campaign headquarters in Phoenix.

REGISTER: TOMORROW LAST DAY

Attention of voters is called to the fact that tomorrow, August 11, is the last day they can register to be eligible to vote at the primary election September 11, 1928. While more voters have registered this year than formerly, there are still many eligible to vote who have failed to get the names on the register.

During the Spanish-American War every soldier was a volunteer. In the Civil War, volunteers numbered 60 per cent, while in the World War the percentage was 36.

Mrs. Belle T. Erlon of Memphis, Tenn., had her husband for divorce, claiming he made her wash his home brooms.

Mrs. William Cain of Bayonne, N. J., complained to the police that her husband never took her anywhere and he was sentenced to take her to Corsey Island for a holiday.

Because he did his morning exercises unclothed at an unbecoming window, Arthur L. Roper of Chicago was fined $100.

Made in the form of flashlight cartridges to be loaded into fireworks, the shoot beams of light at targets have been invented in England.

DAD AND I

Common Skunk

Wed better not get too close. Even animals have learned to give the skunk the right of way.

Little Spotted Skunk

In some places this skunk is called civet cat; in others, hydrophobia skunk, the latter name being given to it for causing some who have been bitten by it to go mad.

Hog-Nosed Skunk

The hair of this skunk is short and coarse.

Bobcat (Boy Lynx)

I'd like you better with your tail bobbed.

After you, my dear Alphonse.

I fail to see anything pretty about your Bos.

By Stafford

SANTA CRUZ PATAGONIAN

HOWARD KEENER
Publisher and Owner

Subscription Rates, In Advance:
One Year $2.00
Six Months 1.50
Three Months 1.00

Entered at the Postoffice at Pajagonia, Arizona, as second-class mail matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY AT PATAGONIA, ARIZONA

Advertising Rates on Application

WASTE IN ADVERTISING

This is an age of advertising. Business could not get along without it. Yet many merchants waste a large share of the money they think they are spending for advertising and wonder why they do not get better results.

Women do most of the buying for the home. Now, did you ever see a woman go looking over the billboards, or reading the movie screen advertisements in order to make up her mind what or where to buy?

Outside of the store itself, the best and almost the only way to attract a prospective customer's attention to what you have to sell is through the newspaper that goes into the home.

PRISON CONTESTS

Sponsored by the American War Mothers, contests among the prisons of the country have been conducted for some time, with the laudable purpose of leading prisoners to a more social outlook upon life.

Among the activities for which prizes are given are athletics, the growing of prison flower gardens, the building up of prison libraries, the best prison magazine, excellence of prison band musicians, training of practical nurses among inmates, and suggesting plans for placing prisoners in suitable employment after their release.

Prizes are given for each of these activities, while the Bennett cup, donated by Mrs. Mary Bennett Little of Wadesboro, N. C., in memory of her father, is awarded to the prison making the highest average score in all seven contests.

While some believe that there is at present a tendency to coddle prisoners too much, there is no doubt that such competitions as those promoted by the War Mothers are of value in retorting to many convicts a sense of pride and a renewal of self-respect.

CRIME IS WELL ORGANIZED

From investigations by the National Crime Commission, it has been disclosed that a highly organized system of "fences" as receivers and disposers of stolen goods are called handle more than $500,000,000 worth of loot each year.

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, who is chairman of the commission, declares that the lone burglar is now a rarity, and that well organized gangs are plying their thieving trade along efficient business lines.

In order to do this they must have definite outlets for the property stolen. If these could be eliminated, Mr. Baker believes that the total thefts would be largely reduced. While police and other officers of the law are aware of this condition, and generally do what they can to break up these "fences," there is need for greater cooperation on the part of the public in keeping a lookout for places of this character and promptly reporting them to the authorities.

Losses suffered by the public from thefts, burglary and robbery almost equal the destruction by fire. If these losses are to be lessened there must be increased vigilance on the part of all citizens and a greater determination to aid in putting criminal gangs out of business.

Candidate Hoover held in his arms but refused to kiss a Nevada baby, saying, "I will kiss no babies for publication." Candidate Smith refused to be photographed laying brick, saying, "I can't lay bricks, and any bricklayer who saw it would know I couldn't. That's a bologna picture, and I'm not going to stand for any bologna pictures in this campaign."

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children
In Use For Over 30 Years
Always bears the Signature of J. C. Watson

ANDY BETTWEY TO SEEK NOMINATION FOR RE-ELECTION

Andrew Bettwey announces his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for State Senator in the political announcement columns of today's Patagonian.

Mr. Bettwey is the incumbent member of the State Senate from Santa Cruz county, and is now waiving his first term. In becoming a candidate for re-election he feels that he is entitled to a second term on the record of his achievements in the last sessions of the legislature.

Mr. Bettwey states that if re-elected he will use every endeavor to have a paved road constructed from the Utah state line to Nogales. The state has a number of good east and west roads and now needs one running north and south, is his contention.

Senator Bettwey feels certain that Governor Hunt will be re-elected this fall, and desires to be returned to the legislature as an aid to the governor in carrying out his policy regarding the Colorado river development. During the last session of the legislature Senator Bettwey was one of the staunchest supporters of Governor Hunt in all legislation for the betterment of the state.

It is a well-known fact, states Senator Bettwey, that a legislator's value to his constituents increases with service, and feels that he would be of much more benefit to Santa Cruz county and the state, if re-elected, owing to his having served during the last, and one of the most important sessions of the state law-making body.

Sidelights

Anyway, Tunney has a more active conscience than some of our other great and near-great. He does not smoke, but was offered $10,000 by a manufacturer to sign an advertisement saying: "This must be a good cigarette because all my friends use it." The champion refused to allow his name to be used.

Monkeys figured in two recent court cases. In New York former governor Miller secured acquittal of a client who shot a monkey. In Colorado Springs a jury awarded Malcolm McConnell $10,000 damages against a hotel man, whose monkey had bitten McConnell's nose.

The story is told of a recent graduate, highly impressed with his own importance, who asked his prospective employer, "Will you pay me what I am worth?" The boss generously replied, "I'd better than that; I'll give you a small salary to start with."

O. O. McIntyre, who records interesting bits of Broadway gossip, believes he has found New York's best sport. A fellow who must pay $400 a week alimony sends the check each Saturday in a box of roses.

Owners of small cars will rejoice that an airplane smashed a truck the other day.

Tunney's retirement leaves a fine opening for an ambitious Shakespeare scholar.

If the opposition is to be believed, no candidate is fit to hold the office to which he aspires.

There are unlimited opportunities for plain and fancy lars this summer—with fishing, golf, and politics.

An exchange declares that women's bare knees are a crime. And there are a good many accessories after the fact.

The fact that the Tunney-Heene prizefight lost money indicates that the American standard of intelligence is improving slightly.

Boys shouldn't smoke before they are 21, says Babe Ruth. In the meantime the ymay get some pointers on how to do it gracefully by watching mother and little sister.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENT

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION

Department of the Interior, General Land Office at Phoenix, Arizona, July 13, 1928.

NOTICE is hereby given that Santiago Rodriguez, of Tubac, Arizona, who, on January 15, 1919, made Homestead Entry (Sec. 2289, R. S.), No. 033670, for Lots 2 and 3, Section 25, Township 20 S., Range 12 E., and Lots 3 and 4, Section 30, Township 20 S., Range 12 E., G. & S. R. Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make final Three-Year Proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before W. A. O'Connor, United States Commissioner, at Nogales, Arizona, on the 7th day of September, 1928.

Claimant names as witnesses: Raymond Burruel, William Lowe, Manuel Guaydecán, Jose Guaydecán, all of Tubac, Arizona. HENRY A. MORGAN, Register. Publish July 20, 27; Aug. 3, 10, 17, '28.

Buddhist priests of Tibet who make paintings of Buddha usually draw the face on the 15th day of the month and color it on the 13th, these being sacred dates.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA STATE OF NEW YORK

BY ROBERT MOSES, Secretary of State and Custodian of the Great Seal Thereof

IT IS HEREBY CERTIFIED that Frank S. Sharp was, on the day of the date of the annexed Certificate and Attestation, Deputy Secretary of State of the State of New York, and duly authorized by the laws of said State to make such Attestation and Certificate and to perform the duties belonging to the Secretary of State in making such Attestation and Certificate, in like manner as said Secretary of State; that said certificate and attestation are in due form and executed by the proper officer; that the seal affixed to said Certificate and Attestation is the official seal of the Department of State of the State of New York; that the signature thereto of the said Deputy Secretary of State is in his own proper handwriting and is genuine; and that full faith and credit may and ought to be given to his official acts; and, further, that the Secretary of State is the Custodian of the original Certificate of Increase of Number of Directors so certified and attested and Custodian of the Great Seal of said State, hereunto affixed.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, the Great Seal of the State is hereunto affixed.

WITNESS my hand at the city of Albany, the twenty-sixth day of June, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight.

ROBERT MOSES, Secretary of State.

CERTIFICATE OF INCREASE OF NUMBER OF DIRECTORS OF S. H. KRESS AND COMPANY

Pursuant to Section Thirty-five of the Stock Corporation Law.

We, the undersigned, Paul B. Scarff, a Vice-President, and Frank E. Palmer, an Assistant Secretary, respectively, of S. H. Kress and Company, do hereby certify and state, as follows:

1. The name of the corporation is S. H. KRESS AND COMPANY, and such name has not been changed.

2. The date of filing of the certificate of incorporation in each state office where filed is:

June 21, 1916, in the office of the Secretary of State of New York.

June 21, 1916, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster.

The date of filing of the certificate of (1) Increase of number of shares; (2) Change of previously authorized shares with par value into shares without par value; and (3) Re-classification of shares; pursuant to Section Thirty-six of the Stock Corporation Law, in each state office where filed is:

January 12, 1927, in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of New York.

January 12, 1927, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster.

The date of filing of the certificate of elimination of provisions classifying directors, pursuant to Section Thirty-six of the Stock Corporation Law, in each state office where filed is:

May 8, 1928, in the Department of State of the State of New York.

May 8, 1928, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster.

3. The number of directors previously authorized is nine:

4. The number of directors so authorized is increased by two, so that hereafter the number of directors, as hereby increased, shall be eleven.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we have subscribed and acknowledged this Certificate in duplicate this 8th day of May, 1928.

PAUL B. SCARFF, Vice-President.

FRANK E. PALMER, Assistant Secretary.

(SEAL) STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

On this 8th day of May, 1928, before me personally came Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer, to me known and known to me to be the persons described in and who executed the foregoing Certificate and severally duly acknowledged to me that they executed the same.

HAROLD F. CUNNINGHAM, Notary Public Kings County.

(NOTARIAL No. 469, Reg. No. 9075, New York Co. Clerk's No. 95, Reg. No. 9086, Certificate filed in Ulster County, Commission expires March 30, 1929.)

(SEAL)

STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer, being severally duly sworn, each for himself deposes and says that he, Paul B. Scarff is a Vice-President of S. H. Kress and Company, a stock corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York, and that he, Frank E. Palmer, is an Assistant Secretary thereof; that said Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer have been authorized to execute and file the foregoing Certificate by the votes, cast in person or by proxy, of the holders of record of a majority of the outstanding shares of the corporation entitled to vote thereon; to-wit, by the votes of 887,744 shares of the common stock out of 972,514 shares of such common stock issued and outstanding; and that such votes were cast at a stockholders' meeting held on the 7th day of May, 1928, upon notice, pursuant to Section Forty-five of the Stock Corporation Law.

PAUL B. SCARFF, FRANK E. PALMER.

Sworn to before me this 8th day of May, 1928.

HAROLD F. CUNNINGHAM, Notary Public Kings County.

(NOTARIAL No. 469, Reg. No. 9075, New York Co. Clerk's No. 95, Reg. No. 9086, Certificate filed in Ulster County, Commission expires March 30, 1929.)

(SEAL)

STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

I CERTIFY that I have compared the preceding copy with the original Certificate to Increase the Number of Directors of S. H. KRESS AND COMPANY filed in this department on the 9th day of May, 1928, and that such copy is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of such original.

WITNESS my hand and the official seal of the Department of State at the City of Albany, this twenty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight.

FRANK S. SHARP, (SEAL) Deputy Secretary of State.

(ENDORSED) CERTIFICATE OF S. H. KRESS AND COMPANY Pursuant to Section Thirty-five of the Stock Corporation Law.

STATE OF NEW YORK, DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

Filed May 9, 1928. Tax, none. Filing fee, $20.00.

ROBERT MOSES, Secretary of State.

By H. J. FISHER, Cashier.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA - STATE OF NEW YORK

BY ROBERT MOSES, Secretary of State and Custodian of the Great Seal Thereof.

IT IS HEREBY CERTIFIED that Frank S. Sharp was, on the day of the date of the annexed Certificate and Attestation, Deputy Secretary of State of the State of New York, and duly authorized by the laws of said State to make such Attestation and Certificate and to perform the duties belonging to the Secretary of State in making such Attestation and Certificate, in like manner as said Secretary of State; that said certificate and attestation are in due form and executed by the proper officer; that the seal affixed to said Certificate and Attestation is the official seal of the Department of State of the State of New York; that the signature thereto of the said deputy Secretary of State is in his own proper handwriting and is genuine; and that full faith and credit may and ought to be given to his official acts; and, further, that the Secretary of State is the Custodian of the original Certificate of Amendment of Certificate of Incorporation so certified and attested and Custodian of the Great Seal of said State, hereunto affixed.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, the Great Seal of the State is hereunto affixed.

WITNESS my hand at the City of Albany, the twenty-sixth day of June, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight.

ROBERT MOSES, Secretary of State.

(SEAL) CERTIFICATE OF INCREASE OF NUMBER OF DIRECTORS OF S. H. KRESS AND COMPANY Pursuant to Section Thirty-five of the Stock Corporation Law.

We, the undersigned, Paul B. Scarff, a Vice-President, and Frank E. Palmer, an Assistant Secretary, respectively, of S. H. Kress and Company, do hereby certify and state, as follows:

1. The name of the corporation is S. H. KRESS AND COMPANY, and such name has not been changed.

2. The date of filing of the certificate of incorporation in each state office where filed is:

June 21, 1916, in the office of the Secretary of State of New York.

June 21, 1916, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster.

The date of filing of the certificate of (1) Increase of number of shares; (2) Change of previously authorized shares with par value into shares without par value; and (3) Re-classification of shares; pursuant to Section Thirty-six of the Stock Corporation Law, in each state office where filed is:

January 12, 1927, in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of New York.

January 12, 1927, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster.

The date of filing of the certificate of elimination of provisions classifying directors, pursuant to Section Thirty-six of the Stock Corporation Law, in each state office where filed is:

May 8, 1928, in the Department of State of the State of New York.

May 8, 1928, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster.

3. The number of directors previously authorized is nine:

4. The number of directors so authorized is increased by two, so that hereafter the number of directors, as hereby increased, shall be eleven.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we have subscribed and acknowledged this Certificate in duplicate this 8th day of May, 1928.

PAUL B. SCARFF, Vice-President.

FRANK E. PALMER, Assistant Secretary.

(SEAL) STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

On this 8th day of May, 1928, before me personally came Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer, to me known and known to me to be the persons described in and who executed the foregoing Certificate and severally duly acknowledged to me that they executed the same.

HAROLD F. CUNNINGHAM, Notary Public Kings County.

(NOTARIAL No. 469, Reg. No. 9075, New York Co. Clerk's No. 95, Reg. No. 9086, Certificate filed in Ulster County, Commission expires March 30, 1929.)

(SEAL)

STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer, being severally duly sworn, each for himself deposes and says that he, Paul B. Scarff is a Vice-President of S. H. Kress and Company, a stock corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York, and that he, Frank E. Palmer, is an Assistant Secretary thereof; that said Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer have been authorized to execute and file the foregoing Certificate by the votes, cast in person or by proxy, of the holders of record of a majority of the outstanding shares of the corporation entitled to vote thereon; to-wit, by the votes of 887,744 shares of the common stock out of 972,514 shares of such common stock issued and outstanding; and that such votes were cast at a stockholders' meeting held on the 7th day of May, 1928, upon notice, pursuant to Section Forty-five of the Stock Corporation Law.

PAUL B. SCARFF, FRANK E. PALMER.

Sworn to before me this 8th day of May, 1928.

HAROLD F. CUNNINGHAM, Notary Public Kings County.

(NOTARIAL No. 469, Reg. No. 9075, New York Co. Clerk's No. 95, Reg. No. 9086, Certificate filed in Ulster County, Commission expires March 30, 1929.)

(SEAL)

STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

On this 7th day of May, 1928, before me personally came Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer, to me known and known to me to be the persons described in and who executed the foregoing Certificate and severally duly acknowledged to me that they executed the same.

HAROLD F. CUNNINGHAM, Notary Public Kings County.

(NOTARIAL No. 469, Reg. No. 9075, New York Co. Clerk's No. 95, Reg. No. 9086, Certificate filed in Ulster County, Commission expires March 30, 1929.)

(SEAL)

STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer, being severally duly sworn, each for himself deposes and says that he, Paul B. Scarff, is a Vice-President of S. H. Kress and Company, a stock corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York, and that he, Frank E. Palmer, is an Assistant Secretary thereof; that said Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer have been authorized to execute and file the foregoing certificate by the votes, cast in person or by proxy, of the holders of record of more than two-thirds of the outstanding shares of the Corporation entitled to vote thereon; to-wit, by the votes of 887,744 shares of the common stock out of 972,514 shares of such common stock issued and outstanding; and that such votes were cast at a stockholders' meeting held on the 7th day of May, 1928, upon notice pursuant to Section Forty-five of the Stock Corporation Law.

PAUL B. SCARFF, FRANK E. PALMER.

Sworn to before me the 7th day of May, 1928.

HAROLD F. CUNNINGHAM, Notary Public Kings County.

(NOTARIAL No. 469, Reg. No. 9075, New York Co. Clerk's No. 95, Reg. No. 9086, Certificate filed in Ulster County, Commission expires March 30, 1929.)

(SEAL)

STATE OF NEW YORK, DEPARTMENT OF STATE

I CERTIFY that I have compared the preceding copy with the original Certificate of Amendment of Certificate of Incorporation of S. H. KRESS AND COMPANY filed in this department on the 8th day of May, 1928, and that such copy is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of such original.

WITNESS my hand and the official seal of the Department of State, at the City of Albany, this twenty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight.

FRANK S. SHARP, (SEAL) Deputy Secretary of State.

(ENDORSED) CERTIFICATE OF ELIMINATION OF PROVISIONS CLASSIFYING DIRECTORS OF S. H. KRESS AND COMPANY Pursuant to Section Thirty-five of the Stock Corporation Law.

We, the undersigned, Paul B. Scarff, a Vice-President, and Frank E. Palmer, an Assistant Secretary, respectively, of S. H. Kress and Company, do hereby certify and state as follows:

1. The name of the corporation is S. H. KRESS AND COMPANY, and such name has not been changed.

2. The date of filing of the certificate of incorporation in each state office where filed is:

June 21, 1916, in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of New York.

June 21, 1916, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster.

The date of filing of the certificate of (1) Increase of Number of Shares; (2) Change of previously authorized shares with par value into shares without par value; and (3) Re-classification of shares; pursuant to Section Thirty-six of the Stock Corporation Law, in each state office where filed is:

January 12, 1927, in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of New York.

January 12, 1927, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster.

The date of filing of the certificate of elimination of provisions classifying directors, pursuant to Section Thirty-six of the Stock Corporation Law, in each state office where filed is:

May 8, 1928, in the Department of State of the State of New York.

May 8, 1928, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster.

3. The number of directors previously authorized is nine:

4. The number of directors so authorized is increased by two, so that hereafter the number of directors, as hereby increased, shall be eleven.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we have subscribed and acknowledged this Certificate in duplicate this 8th day of May, 1928.

PAUL B. SCARFF, Vice-President.

FRANK E. PALMER, Assistant Secretary.

(SEAL) STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

On this 8th day of May, 1928, before me personally came Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer, to me known and known to me to be the persons described in and who executed the foregoing Certificate and severally duly acknowledged to me that they executed the same.

HAROLD F. CUNNINGHAM, Notary Public Kings County.

(NOTARIAL No. 469, Reg. No. 9075, New York Co. Clerk's No. 95, Reg. No. 9086, Certificate filed in Ulster County, Commission expires March 30, 1929.)

(SEAL)

STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer, being severally duly sworn, each for himself deposes and says that he, Paul B. Scarff is a Vice-President of S. H. Kress and Company, a stock corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York, and that he, Frank E. Palmer, is an Assistant Secretary thereof; that said Paul B. Scarff and Frank E. Palmer have been authorized to execute and file the foregoing Certificate by the votes, cast in person or by proxy, of the holders of record of a majority of the outstanding shares of the corporation entitled to vote thereon; to-wit, by the votes of 887,744 shares of the common stock out of 972,514 shares of such common stock issued and outstanding; and that such votes were cast at a stockholders' meeting held on the 7th day of May, 1928, upon notice, pursuant to Section Forty-five of the Stock Corporation Law.

PAUL B. SCARFF, FRANK E. PALMER.

Sworn to before me this 8th day of May, 1928.

HAROLD F. CUNNINGHAM, Notary Public Kings County.

(NOTARIAL No. 469, Reg. No. 9075, New York Co. Clerk's No. 95, Reg. No. 9086, Certificate filed in Ulster County, Commission expires March 30, 1929.)

(SEAL)

STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF ULSTER

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of County Attorney of Santa Cruz County, subject to the will of the Democratic voters at the primary, to be held Sept. 11, 1928.

E. R. THURMAN.

FOR COUNTY RECORDER I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of County Recorder of Santa Cruz County, subject to the will of the Democratic voters at the primary election, to be held Sept. 11, 1928.

ANNA B. ACKLEY.

FOR SUPERVISOR, DISTRICT NO. 2 I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of County Supervisor of Santa Cruz County, in District No. 2, subject to the will of the Democratic voters at the primary election, to be held Sept. 11, 1928.

VICTOR J. WAGER.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for County Supervisor from District No. 3, subject to the will of the voters at the primary election, Sept. 11, 1928.

R. A. CAMPBELL.

C. L. NORTHCRAFT FOR STATE SENATOR I hereby announce my candidacy for State Senator from Santa Cruz County, subject to the will of the

AUTOAIDE

SERVICE STATION
(Formerly Standard Oil Co.'s)
Roy Hicks, Proprietor

SAMSON

TIRES AND TUBES
GUARANTEED TIRE REPAIRING
Call Us and We Call for Your Tires
WE HAVE THE LATEST GREASING EQUIPMENT MADE
Free Crankcase Service

PHONE 555 PHONE 555

General Merchandise And Miners' Supplies

Fruits and Vegetables

SEE US FIRST

THE CORNER STORE
Patagonia, Ariz.

Checks Are Receipts

Checks are the best receipts in the world for paid bills. Our record of the canceled check as it is paid and passes through our books forms a chain of evidence that cannot be surpassed or disputed. Starting a Checking Account with us is a simple matter. Let us tell you how.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF NOGALES
NOGALES, ARIZONA
Assets Over $3,000,000

TRADE AT HOME!

Arizona Packing Company's meats are from cattle raised in Arizona. Cactus brand Bacon and Ham is as good as can be procured anywhere, and we cure them from the meat of Arizona-raised swine. Patronize Arizona industries whenever possible and help your state grow. The money you send away stays away.

ARIZONA PACKING COMPANY
NOGALES, ARIZONA

WE HAVE A STOCK OF
Kelly-Springfield Tires
AND TUBES

We Also Carry
AUTO ACCESSORIES, GAS, OILS, AND GREASES

We deal in Wood, Hay, Grain, and Poultry Feed, and do Hauling, both light and heavy. See us FIRST.

PATAGONIA ICE & LIGHT PLANT

The most important battle plane developed since the war has been built in France, being a huge 1,000-horsepower craft armed with six machine guns.

Miss Emma Carson of Hammond, Ind., was fined 25 for saying to the judge who tried to stop her talking, "Just listen in, judge."

Charged with being drunk, Robert Milward of St. Louis claimed to have been overcome by his auto's fumes, but the plea failed.

Mrs. Frances Anne Ripley of Chicago testified in her divorce suit that her husband frequently stuck pins in her.

Mrs. Katherine Gibbons of Kansas City recently found a human finger in a loaf of bread she bought from a baker.

Two daughters of the late R. C. Phillips of Middletown, Ohio, will share his 950,000 estate if they remain unmarried, according to the terms of his will.

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

Night and Morning to keep them Clean, Clear and Healthy
Write for Free "Eye Care" or "Eye Beauty" Book
Murine Co., Dept. H. S., 9 E. Ohio St., Chicago

E. L. SPRIGGS
Attorney-at-Law

Practice in State and Federal Courts
Nogales National Bank Bldg.
NOGALES, ARIZONA

BEFORE IMPROVING PROPERTY be sure your title is clear. Title to much land in Nogales, Patagonia and other parts of this county is cloudy.

SANTA CRUZ COUNTY ABSTRACT AND TITLE COMPANY
F. A. French, Mgr
Nogales Patagonia

DR. BAYARD FITTS
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat
Specialist
NOGALES, ARIZONA

ASSAYING
PRICE LIST

Gold and Silver in 1 sample $1.00
Gold, Silver, Lead and Copper in 1 sample $2.50
Lead, Copper, Zinc, Manganese, Iron, Lime, Graphite, Sulfur, Insolubles (gold or silver alone) each $1.00

Discounts on large amounts.
ORES BOUGHT (l.o.b. Nogales, Ariz., at 90% of smelter value less $5.00 per lot sampling and assay charge.

Accuracy and Promptness My Aim
12 Years in Present Business.
Hugo W. Miller
NOGALES, Box 257 ARIZONA

HOTEL BOWMAN
Nogales, Arizona

TUCSONIA HOTEL
Tucson, Arizona

"LA PERLA"
Jewelry Store
F. A. Sarabia, Prop.
107 Morley Ave.
NOGALES, ARIZONA

Elgin and Waltham Watches
Expert Watch and Jewelry Repairing. All work guaranteed.
Reparacion Perfecta, de Alhas y Relojes. Trabajo garantizado.

DR. M. A. WUERSCHMIDT
Optical Specialist

Arizona Optical Company
313 Morley Avenue
NOGALES, ARIZONA

KEY CITY TAILORS
H. T. CONNER
138 Grand Ave. Phone 212
Nogales, Ariz.

Up-to-Date Cleaning and Pressing
Hats Cleaned and Blocked
Suits Made to Order
All Dye Work Guaranteed
Mail your clothes to us. We will deliver them on time.
Our Work, Our Prices, Our Service
Will Please You

What's New?

An improved stop watch has been designed for athletic events which will time contests to one-twenty-fifth of a second.

A Japanese scientist has developed electrical apparatus to warn of earthquakes by translating their preliminary tremors into sounds.

A new electric lamp with very slender filaments of aluminum has a highly destructive action on cultures of micro-organisms.

A new apparatus for telephoning and telegraphing by wireless to an airplane in flight has been tested in France.

A Baltimore signal engineer has devised a control for traffic lights that can be operated by an automobile horn's sound waves.

A Swedish engineer has invented a device that records incoming telephone calls, repeating them later for the person for whom they are intended.

The Portuguese have a superstitious fear of the mistletoe and never use it for decorative purposes.

Interesting News Notes

The oldest Jewish ritual object known is reported to have been unearthed at Shechem, and is said to be the one which Jacob erected as an altar 34 centuries ago.

A house at Rio Vista, Nev., is built entirely of beer bottles. The structure is 20 feet long and 16 feet wide and has two rooms. It took 10,000 bottles to build the house.

Twenty cans of trout shipped by airplane from Michigan to Ohio hold the record for being the first fish to be transported by air.

More than 467,000 tons of water pass over Niagara Falls every minute.

Two warden police officers control the traffic at the busiest spots in Constantinople, as the authorities of that city consider women better fitted to handle traffic jams.

A printer in New York City has produced a miniature telephone directory that fits the vest pocket, but to read the 888,500 names it contains the user must carry a specially designed magnifying glass.

Forence Cox, 16, of Chicago, was sentenced to go to bed at 10 p. m. for 12 months for stealing a coat.

James Kely of Baltimore was sentenced to five years in prison for stealing a shirt from a laundry.

Children Cry for

Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER! Fletcher's Castoria is a harmless Substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups, prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of

Constipation	Wind Colic
Flatulency	To Sweeten Stomach
Diarrhea	Regulate Bowels

Aids in the assimilation of Food, promoting Cheerfulness, Rest, and Natural Sleep without Opiates

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher
Beware directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

For The Men Who Are Fighting YOUR Campaign of Courage!

Alfred E. Smith—"the man who has once more put a premium on courage in American public life". Courage! Ability! Honesty! A man whose word means achievement. And with him a man of the same fibre and equal courage, Joe T. Robinson. Help us spread their words everywhere. It is your campaign. Yes—everybody's.

Your Dollars Will Help Broadcast the Honesty, the Splendid Ability and the Fearless Leadership of the Most Talked-of Men in America

ALFRED E. SMITH
JOE T. ROBINSON

Send Your Contributions NOW—Small or Large to Your State Finance Director (see name and address below) or to the Treasurer

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE
1775 Broadway, New York City
Make all checks payable to, The Treasurer, Democratic National Committee

Joseph C. Haldeman, Phoenix, Arizona

International Casino

Alex Rossi, Mgr.

At the Plaza, Sonora, Mexico
(Just across the border)

THE ONLY FIRST-CLASS PLACE TO EAT AND DRINK

For the Best in Nogales, Sonora

VISIT THE FAMOUS

Cave Cafe

CUT IN SOLID ROCK

We specialize in Sea Foods and Game in Season. All kinds of Chinese dishes to your order.

Where the Tourists eat their meals in the cool recesses of dining-rooms cut into the rock hill-side.

HANK'S GARAGE

Hank Myers, Prop.

AUTO REPAIRING
STUDEBAKER SERVICE
CARS GREASED AND OILED

340 Grand Avenue, Nogales, Arizona

FOR DEVELOPMENT WORK, FOR SMALL HIGH GRADE VEINS,

Here Is the Mill

Efficient, Economical, Easily Handled, Simple

Price $3200

10-15 TON FLOTATION MILL

[Extra Cost for Boiler and Engine, or Gasoline Engine, From $1200.00 to $1600.00]

Roy & Titcomb

Incorporated
NOGALES, ARIZONA

People who wouldn't think of going to any but a good, reputable dealer for food, clothing, or furniture, patronize the worst kind of "dumps" when it comes time to buy a tire.

They do this thinking it is necessary in order to get a tire bargain.

We'll sell you the best tire made—a Goodyear—at a price as low as you can get anywhere.

EAST SIDE GARAGE
R. C. Blabon, Proprietor
PATAGONIA ARIZONA

SUBSCRIPTION COUPON

192

Santa Cruz Patagonian,
Patagonia, Arizona.

Gentlemen: Enclosed find $_____ for _____ year subscription, at $2.00 per year.

Name _____
St. and No. _____
City and State _____

NOGALES-TOMBSTONE STAGE

Bob Laney, Prop.

Nogales-Bisbee Stage's new time table, effective August 1, 1927. Though stage to Bisbee, making connections for Douglas, Lordsburg, Deming and El Paso. Train connections made at Fairbank or Douglas for all points east on No. 2.

NORTHBOUND		SOUTHBOUND
Nogales, Leave	11:30 a.m.	Douglas, Leave	2:15 p.m.
Patagonia, Leave	12:30 a.m.	Bisbee, Leave	3:30 p.m.
Fairbank, Leave	1:40 p.m.	Tombstone, Leave	4:45 p.m.
Tombstone, Leave	2:05 p.m.	Fairbank, Leave	5:00 p.m.
Bisbee, Arrive	3:15 p.m.	Patagonia, Leave	6:00 p.m.
Douglas, Arrive	4:15 p.m.	Nogales, Arrive	7:15 p.m.

Expert Electrical Work

BATTERY RECHARGING AND REPAIRING
(Any make)

BORDER BATTERY & ELECTRIC CO.

In the White Front Garage

NOGALES

ARIZONA

PIGGLY WIGGLY
All Over the World

Our Prices for Wise Buyers

FLOUR

98-Pound Sacks, each	$3.90
48-Pound Sacks, each	$2.00
24-Pound Sacks, each	$1.10

QUALITY HEN SCRATCH

100-Pound Sacks, each	$3.25
-----------------------	--------

QUALITY HEN MASH

100-Pound Sacks, each	$3.40
-----------------------	--------

We guarantee Quality Hen Scratch and Mash to be made of the very highest materials and to produce the very best results.

POTATOES

10 Pounds for	24c
---------------	-----

DEL MONTE COFFEE

1-Pound Cans, each	53c
2-Pound Cans, each	$1.04

We guarantee Del Monte Coffee to be of the very highest quality. Buy it and try it. If you do not think it is the very best coffee you ever used, tell us and we will gladly refund the full purchase price without question.

RALSTON ROLLED OATS

20-Ounce Package	10c
5-Ounce Package	25c

Regular or Quick-Cooking kind. The finest in the land. Why pay more?

CORN FLAKES

2 Packages for	15c
----------------	-----

CIGARETTES

Carton of 10 Packages	$1.25
-----------------------	--------

MATCHES

6 Large Boxes for	24c
-------------------	-----

MAKE PIGGLY WIGGLY YOUR HEAD-QUARTERS WHILE IN NOGALES

PIGGLY WIGGLY
NOGALES, ARIZONA

The Manhattan Club

FRANK JOHNSON, Proprietor

—XXX—

The Manhattan Club caters to the public and will make you feel "at home." This is the place to meet your friends, form new friendships, renew old acquaintances and forget the ordinary business worries of life, surrounded by those who are looking on the joyful side of life.

We welcome the Business Man, the Cattleman, the Rancher, and the Miner. You will be more than welcome here at any time.

—XXX—

Nogales, Sonora

Just a few steps across the border

LUMBER

Wholesale and Retail

Hardware, Roofing, Mill Work,
Lime, Cement, Glass, Etc.

Mine Timbers Our Specialty

PATAGONIA LUMBER CO.

J. C. Reyes, Manager

PATAGONIA, ARIZONA

ARMY STORE'S GIGANTIC
AUGUST
SALE STILL ON

New Clothing has arrived since starting our Sale. However, we placed it with the remainder of our merchandise, and it, too, goes on sale—Same Reduction, 25 Per Cent Off.

NOTHING RESERVED
WE NEED THE MONEY!

THE
ARMY STORE

205 MORLEY AVE.

NOGALES,

ARIZONA

The Livestock Situation.

Los Angeles, Aug. 9.—(Special to producer, and the only thing that

The Patagonian.)—A rather unusual situation has developed in connection with beef cattle, so far as the Pacific coast and Los Angeles supply is concerned. During the average year, the territory including several of the western states, but during the summer months, California herds are relied upon for a substantial part of the supply.

At this time it is indicated that we are encountering an exception to the rule and there is a possibility of a gap in supplies between the time the California supply quit coming and the northern cattle start. To a large extent this may be attributed to the scant grass crop in many sections of California, and for this reason many cattle failed to fatten. Another reason for this situation appears to be that cattle feeders have been faced with an apparent high cost of replacements and have been inclined to carry over for another season much of their younger stock. This has been true to some extent in Imperial valley, which has been depended upon to a great extent to fill the gap, but due to the cattle being late in getting in condition for market and to the tendency to hold back anything not entirely fat on account of replacement costs, it is unlikely that Imperial valley will have any appreciable number of cattle for the early fall market.

Ordinarily intermountain cattle feeders begin shipping fat cattle to the coast markets early in September. However, feed conditions are unusually good in that section, and there seems to be no tendency on the part of feeders to market their stock early, most of them evidently preferring to hold for greater gains at comparative little cost, in the face of what appears to be a strong market during the next few months. This naturally may result in receipts from the intermountain section not reaching their volume until late in the fall.

Feed lot supplies adjacent to Los Angeles are somewhat larger than usual and this will be an important factor in the supply during the time immediately following the grass cattle shipping season. There is some difference of opinion as to the number of cattle in the smaller feed lots, but some venture the opinion that there is a smaller number than a year ago, due to high prices for cottonseed products. Cottonseed cake quotations at this writing are fully $10 per ton higher than a year ago.

A great deal of interest is being evidenced in the Missouri river markets, as the belief prevails that there will be active competition between the coast and the middle west for cattle from the intermountain states. This situation has been evident in the last five years, when at certain seasons the Los Angeles demand has had to reach as far east as Colorado for cattle supplies, but it is likely to be particularly noticeable this season.

It would appear that those who have fat cattle on hand are in a strong position. Supply and demand, of course, will establish values, and these values should be most satisfactory to the might upset the healthy condition of the market might be selling ahead or contracting ahead of cattle supplies, which creates the "invariable supply" which in the past at different times has proven demoralizing to the markets, both from the standpoint of the producer on the one hand and the packing, wholesale and retail trade on the other.

J.C. PENNEY CO.
A NATION-WIDE INSTITUTION
"where savings are greatest"

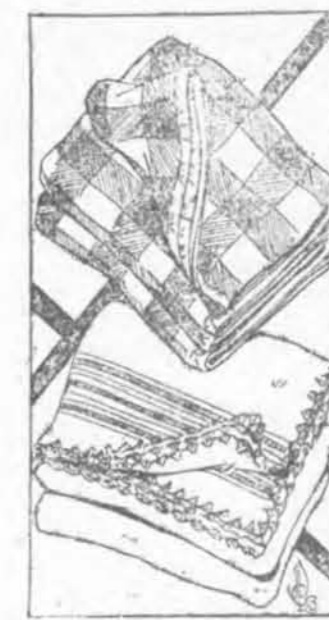

MORLEY AVENUE, NOGALES, ARIZONA

Quality

At Low Prices to You

Is the Dominant Consideration in Every Item Presented Below

August Is the Traditional Month to Buy
Blankets

No matter how high the mercury climbs, the housewife who anticipates her needs buys blankets in August. She finds her selection from fresh stocks especially satisfactory—and our values in accord with the savings that are our daily policy.

Single plaid cotton 98c blankets, Size 66x80.

Double cotton blankets finished with a shell-stitched edge. Sizes 70 x 80 and 68 x 80. $1.98 and $2.98

Part-wool plaid blankets finished with a plain color bound edge. Size 70 x 80. Pair $3.98

Soft, all-wool blankets in handsome plaid patterns. Size 66 x 80. Pair $7.90

Turkish Towels
At Surprisingly Low Prices

Splendid medium size towels in plain white and white with a colored stripe border. Buy them now, each

10c and 15c

Snowy Towels
At Attractive Savings

These are truly towel days—when it is wise to put in a supply of this splendid absorbent towel—bath size!

25c

Don't Be A Mother Hubbard

The modern homemaker knows that it is quite as important to keep the linen cupboard well filled, as to have an assortment of nice fresh bones in the kitchen one. Sheets, pillow cases and towels are mundane things, but a plentiful supply are essential to your peace of mind when the unexpected guest arrives, or illness in the family depletes your reserve stock.

Why not check over your cupboard right now, while the thought occurs to you. Make a list of what you need, and the next time you are shopping drop in and examine our stocks. If you will check our prices against those you had expected to pay, you will be pleasantly surprised.

J.C. Penney Co.

"Penco"—Our Own Brand

Better Than Ever!

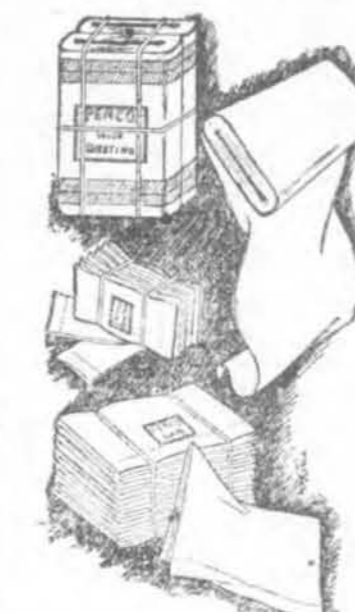

An improved quality! Rigid tests have proven that this new quality Penco is better than others in its class—firmer, of a more even weave.

Sheets and Sheeting

Here are sheets that you will be proud to use—and bleached and unbleached sheeting at our always famous savings!

Penco Sheets
$1.29 and $1.39

Penco Sheeting, Yd.,
49c and 53c

81x90 Sheets
"Nation-Wide"
A trademarked brand of standard high quality. Each $1.10

Pillow Cases
"Nation-Wide"
42 x 36 inch cases at a very moderate price. Each 27c

Coming
444
Watch!

25¢ —is the right price to pay for a good tooth paste—
LISTERINE
TOOTH PASTE
Large Tube
25¢

We Are Always Ready to serve you with good printing. No matter what the nature of the job may be we are ready to do it at a price that will be Satisfactory

Hog House With a Saw-Tooth Roof Gives Full Benefit of Sunlight

By W. A. RADFORD

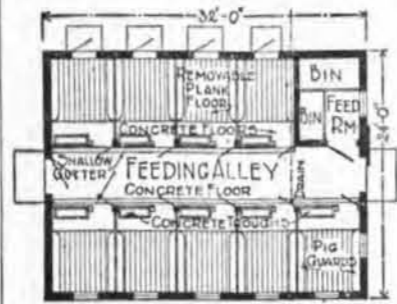

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all problems pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on the subject. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

The saw-tooth colony hog house was originated in Iowa where hog raising has become a pretty exact science among the farmers of that state. It is so designed that when the building is placed on the site facing the south direct sunshine is admitted through the windows on the low part to the pens on the near side and through the windows in the monitor house and prevent the small pigs from becoming chilled. Sunlight also helps in their growth and prevents leg weakness and other troubles.

This house is 32 feet long and 24 feet wide. This size permits the installation of nine pens all facing a feeding alley which runs through the center of the building. In one corner there is a feed room.

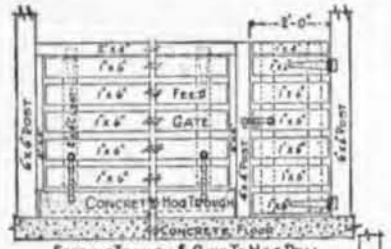

The house is set on a concrete foundation with a concrete floor so that the troughs may be built at the same time the floor is laid. Removable partitions separate the pens, and the floor is covered with an open plank platform raised slightly so as to prevent the pigs from being chilled by the concrete floor. Guard rails run on three sides of each pen so that the mother sow will not crush or smother the young ones.

Small Sanitary Hog House.

The building is of frame construction and is designed to get the most from the least expenditure for material and labor. Accompanying the floor plan is a cross-section of the building giving some details of construction and showing the dimensions of the materials used. Also there is a plan of the front of the pen partitions.

Cross Section of Small Hog House.

section to the pens on the far side. The value of sunlight in a hog house at farrowing time cannot be overestimated. The warm rays of the late winter and early spring sun warm the

Insulation Will Save Much on the Fuel Bill

Home owners often overlook some things about insulation. They may insulate their houses to reduce their winter bills without realizing that they also get another benefit—greater comfort in the summer time.

Insulating materials of the proper kind prevent the passage of heat through the walls, roof, ceilings and other parts of the home. They prevent it from passing out of warm rooms in the winter and from entering cool rooms in the summer, when the mercury crawls to the top of the glass tube. So insulation is a hot-weather proposition, too.

Secondly many owners think that a home can be insulated only when it is first built. They do not realize that a simple job will lay a cooling blanket over rooms that tend to get warm in summer.

The whole roof is exposed to the sun; so the attic becomes as hot as an oven and this heats up the living quarters below.

One way to improve this condition is to finish the attic, if it is large and roomy, into a number of rooms. If this is done, an insulating quilt of fiber-substance can be nailed to the rafters before lath and plaster are put on.

Or an insulating rock lath as a base for plaster may be used in place of wood as a false base for plaster, or an insulating mineral wallboard can be used to provide walls and ceilings for the attic rooms.

These means of insulating comfort in the rooms below are all right if the owner wishes to make new rooms in the attic. But how can the home be insulated when this rather extensive improvement is not desired.

It can be done by putting the insulating material directly on the upper side of the lath and plaster which forms the lower-story ceiling. In houses with unfinished attics the lath and plaster are exposed through the ceiling rafters. The work of installing the insulation is so simple that it can be done by the householder himself in a short time.

There are several types of insulators that may be used in this way. One should be chosen which is so light that it will not make the lath and plaster sag, which is dry so it will not stain the plaster, which is fire-resistant and has high insulation value. Such a material is granulated cork, but while it is of excellent insulation value, it is the most costly of insulators.

Another is a powdered gypsum filler intended especially for thermal insulation. This is cheap.

Decorative Plaster

Ornamental plaster work, which the wide introduction of lime plaster and metal lath has revived to great extent in this country, offers an inexpensive means whereby the home builder or home owner may achieve any interior effect desired.

Jockeys Fail to Keep Up Pace

THE young jockey stars, who, by their brilliant performances at the southern tracks last winter, gave promise of being able to push Sande, Fator, Lang, Pool and other veterans into the background, have failed to do the job up in first-class shape.

Not one, from the leader, C. Meyer, down through Luther, Robertson, Leonard, Inzelone, Rennie and Woolf, have been able to show anything like their last winter's skill when tossed into competition against the leaders on the major tracks.

The one lad in the outfit with a legitimate excuse to offer is C. Meyer. Early in the Kentucky spring season he was injured in a spill and was unable to ride for a month and a half. And it was during that month and a half that his youthful rivals of last winter all failed one after another to jump ahead of the veterans of other seasons.

Luther, who had won the Cof-froth handicap and other stakes at Tia Juana, chose to make his bid for additional fame in Kentucky. So far he hasn't won a stake there but has been fairly successful in getting winners home in the cheaper events.

Robertson moved from Cuba to New York. There are so many great saddle experts on the metropolitan circuit that few opportunities come to a youngster of Robertson's experience. This may have had something to do with his failure to keep up the fast pace he made at the Oriental park. But at that he has been about the most successful youngster around the New York and Canadian tracks.

Inzelone has been shifting around on the smaller western tracks. He wins many races and has pulled up within striking distance of the lead which C. Meyer still holds.

Woolf and Rennie have been doing fairly well on the Chicago tracks, but they have found in J. R. Kelly and R. Duggett, a pair of youngsters that frequently give them a riding lesson and are hanging up just as many victories as the two lads who were the idols of the Tia Juana patrons last winter.

Among the older riders, H. Elston, E. Pool and W. Garner on the Chicago circuit, L. Shaefer, who has spent most of the season in Canada, George Fields, E. Ambrose and Laverne Fator with eastern stables have made the best showing. Earl Sande has not been able to reach the spectacular form that he has shown in other seasons.

Laverne Fator.

Marjorie Morrill Will Stick to Buttermilk

Miss Marjorie Morrill, Boston's twenty-year-old tennis ace, attributes much of her success on the courts to a diet of buttermilk and string beans.

One of her latest victories occurred in the eastern association tournament when Boston won the Sears cup for the second time, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Prior to that she had beaten Miss Mary Dixon Thayer, Philadelphia's star, and had beaten Miss Betty Nuthall of England on the Riviera. "Yes, it's true," Miss Morrill said, "that I about live on buttermilk and beans. Not Boston baked beans, but string beans. I have been eating them and drinking buttermilk for years. It gives me energy and isn't fattening."

"Sunny Jim" Stars

Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals is one of the stars of the National league. He is a fine fielder and hard hitter. His team mates call him "Sunny Jim."

Sporting Squibs

Prize fighters get a million dollars a bout—and not maybe.

Dora has gone along for several years now imagining that "racketeers" are tennis champions.

Frank Lockhart's number, "2," representing his point standing among auto races, was not assigned to any one for the Indianapolis speedway race.

Boots Fairbrother, a leading jockey several years ago, recently turned in his riding license. He applied for and was given a license as a trainer in New York.

Rival football teams representing the fire departments of Los Angeles and San Francisco will meet next fall in October on neutral grounds at Sacramento.

The Colorado state boxing commission has ruled that no more flashlight pictures may be taken during the course of a bout, as a result of fighters' and fans' protests.

Paolino Uzcudim, Basque heavyweight, knocked out Ludwig Haymann, German champion, in the eleventh round of their match for the European heavyweight title.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

A pedestrian was "beamed" by a budding Oriental Babe Ruth in Tokyo, causing a ban on street ball games.

Ray Gardner, shortstop with New Orleans, is being hailed as one of the best young shortstops in the minor leagues.

Billy Jurgas, shortstop of the Manchester baseball club of the New England league, has been sold to the Chicago Cubs.

Larry Benton is termed by many baseball experts as the "best and smartest" pitcher McGraw has had since the "days of Matty."

Tom Nash, Georgia's great athlete was farmed out to the Buffalo Internationals for seasoning as soon as he reported to the New York Giants.

Eddie Taylor, former Buffalo International league infielder, but this year reserve player with the Boston Braves, has been signed by the Toledo Mud Hens.

In view of an old American league tradition that the leader on July 4 will win the pennant, several critics are now said to favor the chances of the Yankees.

Another rather ingenious suggestion has been advanced in the matter of cutting down Mr. Ruth's many home runs; to wit: Make him stand behind the catcher.

Ernest Evans, aged nineteen years, is the youngest player with the Giants. He plays shortstop and was acquired from the Portsmouth club of the Virginia league.

Raymond "Ducky" Pond, famous Yale baseball pitcher and star half-back a few years back, has been signed by the Lynn club of the New England league.

Cap Anson, old-time baseball star, once said after he had taken up golf that he would rather see baseball than golf, but would prefer to play golf to seeing baseball.

A writer who has studied them extensively says even in victory the New York Yanks don't seem to try particularly. Maybe they are just playing from memory.

A Philadelphia scribe comments with fine sarcasm that Eddie Rommel is called a relief pitcher because the opposing team always feels relief when it sees him enter the box.

Ernest Orsanti, fleet-footed outfielder, who was sent to the Minneapolis club of the American association on a ten-day option after he helped the Cardinals in the 1927 drive, has been recalled.

Raymond F. Coombs, nephew of Jack Coombs, former Philadelphia Athletic pitching star, has been elected captain of the Phillips-Exeter academy; nine for the third consecutive year. He is captain also of the football squad.

"Baby Doll" Jacobson, Toledo outfielder, has been released to the Chattanooga club of the Southern association. Glenn Messner, the young shortstop who has been with Toledo since early spring, has been sent to the Providence club of the Eastern league.

The Lincoln-Douglas Debates

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

BECAUSE of the radio, it will be possible for millions of Americans during the next two and one-half months to listen to Herbert C. Hoover and Alfred E. Smith discuss the issues in the 1928 Presidential campaign. But it is doubtful if the contest this year, for all the millions who will hear its various issues debated, will excite the intense interest and have the far-reaching results in our history that a senatorial campaign in Illinois did just 70 years ago this summer. For it was during that campaign that there took place the now-famous series of "Lincoln-Douglas Debates," held in seven Illinois cities in August, September and October, 1858, one of the most picturesque and important incidents in all American political history.

The opponents for the office of United States senator from Illinois were Stephen A. Douglas and Abraham Lincoln. Douglas was the democratic incumbent, seeking re-election. At the age of forty-five he was a national figure, having served three terms in the house of representatives and 12 years in the senate. Only five feet, two inches tall, he was known as the "Little Giant," a man of great personal charm, with his clarion voice, his dominating way of tossing his mane of curly black hair, his Napoleonic frown and his gift of oratory, inherited from the school of Daniel Webster and Henry Clay. He had been a poor boy on a New England farm, working his way up by his own indomitable effort to a position of wealth and great influence. He was the author of the Kansas-Nebraska bill which had reopened the old slavery dispute after it had apparently been settled by the Compromise of 1820 and 1850, and this measure, which had an appeal to both northern and southern Democrats, he fondly hoped would make him the Democrats' next candidate for the Presidency.

His Republican opponent, Abraham Lincoln, apparently lacked everything which Douglas had to make him a popular and appealing public figure. At the age of forty-nine, he was a tall, gaunt, awkward-looking country lawyer, who had been a popular enough political speaker to have served in the Illinois legislature and one term in congress. But he was virtually unknown outside the borders of his own state and even two years later a New York paper was referring to him as "a third-rate western lawyer who cannot speak good grammar." Against the advice of Seward and Greeley, the sages in the newly-formed Republican party, the Illinois Republicans had nominated him for senator against Douglas.

When he accepted the nomination in a speech at Springfield, he threw something of a bombshell into his own political camp when, against the advice of his conservative friends, he declared:

"A house divided against itself cannot stand. I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free. I do not expect the house to fall, but I do expect it will cease to be divided. It will be all one thing or all the other. Either the opponents of slavery will arrest the further spread of it, and place it where the public mind shall rest in the belief that it is the course of ultimate extinction, or its advocates will push it forward till it shall become lawful alike in all the states, old as well as new, North as well as South."

THE MEETING AT GALESBURG (from Ida Tarbell's 'Life of Lincoln')

As the campaign progressed Lincoln began to trail Douglas, whose supporters with their bands and torchlight processions in the leading cities of the state were making a powerful impression upon the electorate. Incidentally, Douglas had another powerful ally in his beautiful young wife, a grandniece of Dolly Madison, whose "mere presence gained votes for her husband." Sometimes at the end of a Douglas meeting Lincoln would rise and announce when and where he would make his reply. Sometimes dodgers of the Lincoln meeting would be handed out to the Douglas crowd as it dispersed.

Finally Lincoln decided to challenge Douglas to a joint debate and on July 24, 1858, he wrote a note from Chicago to Douglas suggesting that they divide the time and address the same audiences during the campaign. Douglas did not want to debate with Lincoln, for, from the speeches Lincoln had already made in reply to his, he realized the strength of "Honest Abe's" logic. But to refuse might lose the election, so he agreed. Nor did Lincoln's friends view the idea with any particular enthusiasm. True, Lincoln had met and skillfully refuted all of Douglas' arguments, but they were fearful that in a joint debate in which the voters would have a chance to see the two men side by side their candidate would show by bad poor advantage when compared to the brilliant Douglas.

However, the arrangements were made, according to Douglas' terms, for seven debates, one in each of the seven congressional districts. Douglas was to speak one hour at the first, Lincoln to reply for an hour and a half and Douglas to close with a half-hour rebuttal. At the second Lincoln was to have the opening and closing speeches and so on alternately and although this arrangement gave Douglas the advantage of four openings and closings to Lincoln's three, Lincoln agreed to the terms, for as he said humorously, "My consenting to it was not wholly unselfish, for I suspected, if it were understood that the judge was entirely done, you Democrats would leave and not hear me; but by giving him the close, I felt confident you would stay for the fun of hearing him skin me."

The debates were held as follows: Ottawa, LaSalle county, August 21, 1858; Freeport, Stephenson county, August 27; Jonesboro, Union county, September 15; Charleston, Coles county, September 18; Galesburg, Knox county, October 7; Quincy, Adams county, October 13, and Alton, Madison county, October 15.

As the debates progressed it soon became apparent how groundless were the fears of Lincoln's friends that he could not hold his own with the "Little Giant." The humor which had made "Honest Abe" such a favorite when he was riding the circuit was used time and again with telling effect against his opponent. On one occasion, after Douglas had thrilled and swayed his audience with his oratory and sat down amid a storm of applause, Lincoln rose, and drawing himself to his full height, slowly took off his coat, a gesture which in the pioneer settlements meant business. Handling it to some of his friends, he said, "Here, boys! Hold my garment while I go in and stone Stephen!" Amid a gale of laughter from those people who knew their Bible, he did "stone Stephen"—with facts!

Long before the debates were over it was apparent to all who heard them that for once Douglas had met his match. Through all the windings and turnings of the debates, there shone forth the fundamental fact that Douglas was the disciple of expediency and of "trimming" and that Lincoln was the exponent of protest against wrong and the proponent of the right. At the second debate, the one at Freeport, Douglas sealed his political fate. Lincoln forced Douglas to quibble on the effect of the Dred Scott decision and the South implied him a "double-dealer" whom it could not trust. Although Douglas eventually won the election to the senate, he had killed his chances for the Presidency in 1860. Lincoln had lost the lesser prize in 1858, but he won the greater one two years later. One of the things which helped him do it was his part in the historic Lincoln-Douglas debates, which led some to prophesy even then that they had "sounded the death knell of slavery and paved the way for the election of Lincoln to the Presidency of the United States."

Singers and Their Tonsils

Removal of the tonsils rarely affects the singing voice, if the operation is performed by an experienced surgeon, says Hygeia Magazine. In many cases improvement has resulted. If frequent attacks of tonsillitis occur, the tonsils should be removed, even in a professional singer. Specialists in diseases of the nose and throat who have had a large experience and have removed tonsils from many professional singers state that they have never had anything but favorable results.

Named by Eskimo

According to the geographic board of Canada, Panglirtung, the name of the ford and police post on Baffin Island in the Canadian Arctic archipelago, is of Eskimo origin and means "where buck deer are plentiful." The police post at Panglirtung was established during the 1923 annual Canadian government expedition to the northern islands.

Arabic Salutations

Dr. George Duncan says: "Salem aleikum" means Peace be unto you. This word 'salem' has a very comprehensive meaning and signifies all kinds of blessings, material, mental and spiritual. It is a very common greeting among Arabic-speaking people. Another expression, 'May your day be white,' 'Jum aljad alikum'—literally is 'May a white day be to you.' The term 'white day'—sunny day—a day full of good cheer with all matters prospering."

The Colfax Bookplate

By Agnes Miller

W.W.W. SERVICE

CHAPTER IX—Continued

At last Julia spoke, in a tone of fresh alarm: "Charles, what are you going to do now?"

"I'm going to keep right after it; get that, will you?" snapped her cousin, defiantly. "And I'll see Ballard if I get a chance, too! Watch out! Maybe you can make yourself useful, after all."

Julia stared. "I haven't an idea what you're talking about."

Conciliation and expectancy forsook MacIvor's face.

"See here, are you trying to double cross me?" he demanded threateningly. "Do you realize what can happen to you if you don't explain this, and whatever else I ask you to explain?"

The girl was frightened beyond the power of speech, so bravely did MacIvor address her, but his menaces had the exact opposite effect on her.

"See here," I intervened crossly. "stop that!"

"I beg your pardon?" demanded Charles MacIvor, white with fury.

"What I mean is," I explained carefully, "that you are to stop frightening Miss Grosvenor. Do you see?"

"Who are you? What are you doing here?" he burst out. "No, don't wait to explain! I order you out of this house!"

"I know it's yours," I assured him pleasantly; "you said so, you know. But as your cousin has asked me not to leave her, I shall take her with me, and go, as you request. Miss Grosvenor, I hope you will refuse to transact any more business tonight, and come with me to Miss Burton's apartment."

I took her arm, and she let me, but MacIvor seized her by the other arm, and stopped our progress toward the door. He looked at me, however, first sharply, then fiercely. Then he flung her arm violently from him, and set me free.

"You're that red-headed clerk at Darrow's!" he gasped hoarsely. "You're in this, too, are you? We'll see about that!"

It is the regret of my life that I do not know what might have happened next. What did happen next was a knock, a gentle one, fell on the hall door. We were all startled; MacIvor rushed to the lamp and extinguished it. In the darkness we heard the French window open. But the next second he was back from the balcony. A second knock fell on the door, and a woman's voice whispered clearly: "Signorina! Signorina!"

"It's only Ernesto's wife," breathed Julia, relieved. "Si, si subito, signorina! Turn the light on, Charles."

He did so, snatched his cap from the table, and withdrew into the rear room, closing the door. I stood in the back of the room, Julia went forward and opened the door, and in walked—I heard his voice in utter amazement—Mr. Almy!

"Sorry to disturb you at this hour Miss Grosvenor," he said; "but your cousin is here, and he must come with us. Don't make any trouble, please. Where is he?"

But although resistance was plainly quite useless, Julia declined to betray her cousin in any way. She snatched her teeth shut, glaring defiantly at Mr. Almy without a word. He dashed straight at the door in the rear of the long room. At the instant he reached it at full impetus, it burst open so suddenly that he nearly lost his balance as Charles MacIvor stepped out on the threshold of the adjoining kitchen quite cheerfully.

"You're Charles MacIvor," said Mr. Almy, "and I have a warrant for your arrest."

"I was expecting you," said MacIvor, impudently. "I passed your new down in the street, you know. Well, what's the charge? Murder, or course?"

"Unfortunately," returned Mr. Almy curtly, "it's larceny. What do you do with those bonds?"

MacIvor's eyes opened wide, his face turned scarlet with rage. He hurried himself toward Julia and shouted: "So you're double-crossed me twice. Don't expect me to save you again!"

There was a brief moment of confusion: Julia gave a choked scream and sank into a chair, hiding her face; two policemen rushed in and MacIvor vanished with them. Mr. Almy went up to Julia and spoke soothingly to her; she did not answer him, or move. Next moment I found myself out in the hall with him.

I explained in a sentence how I came to be there. Then he murmured: "I'll see you tomorrow; Miss Grosvenor needn't be disturbed further to-night," and hurried downstairs. So I turned upstairs, since there was nothing more I could do for Julia just then, and my mind reverted to Nancy.

Why and where had she disappeared so suddenly?

Having no key, I knocked on the Burton door several times. There was no response. As forlorn hope, I tried the handle, and it turned. Some one had slipped the catch. I entered the living room, the lamp on the table was lighted. Both bedroom doors were shut. On Nancy's, I knocked, once, twice, three times. Again there was no response. In considerable alarm, I made bold to try that handle, too, and it also turned. And there, in her little room, in her little bed, lay Nancy in the first correct sleeping position, a charming picture from the Land of Dreams.

But her unconscious mind functioned well; next instant an arm shot out, and on went the electric lamp beside her.

"That you, Constance?" she inquired calmly. "I know it's not manners, to go to bed before the company does, but the poor working girl needs her sleep. What kept you?"

"Don't you remember that man that came into Miss Grosvenor's apartment from the balcony?" I gasped.

Nancy sat up in bed, blinked, and appeared to reflect.

"Oh, yes, I remember him," she observed finally. "When I saw Julia knew him, I knew there was no danger. Yes, I heard the revolver. No, Constance, he did not have it. He put up one hand to take off his cap, and the other was empty. I saw as much as that before I cleared out because I wasn't wanted. Whoever had it, he didn't, so there was no danger for you or Julia. Do tell me what happened."

"That man was Charles MacIvor, Miss Grosvenor's cousin," I said. "I stayed because she asked me to; she was evidently afraid of him. They talked at some length, regarding something he wanted to get that was not here. What finally happened was that the police, who had traced Charles MacIvor here, arrived and arrested him. He is charged with theft."

"Of what?" "Securities."

"Well, if that's all, it's not important."

"What are you talking about?" I demanded, agape.

"A poor fish," replied Nancy sweetly, "named, as you prefer, Charles MacIvor or Brandon Tower. And now I will show you what he wanted."

With one bound she was on the floor, with one swoop she had turned back blankets, sheets, mattress. On the spring lay a small flat object neatly wrapped in an embroidered hand towel. She unwrapped the hand towel, and presented me with a worn brown calfskin volume, entitled "Notes on Medical Statistics in the Virginia Code."

"Take care of it next time, Constance dear," she warned me; "somebody might steal it."

"But, Nancy! But how . . . where, why . . .?" I stammered, gazing wild-eyed at the returned wanderer. But the bound and the swoop had occurred in reverse order, as Nancy's red, red mouth slowly expanded to its full vertical measurement. The arm shot out again, the light was snuffed off.

"I'll call you tomorrow after I make the coffee," said Nancy. "Cheer up, tomorrow will be another day. If you sleep in that faith you will prevail. I always do, Good night."

The coffee was not made until a quarter past eight. The ensuing scramble to get off to Darrow's gave no time for inquiries until we were en route up Normandy terrace. Then I demanded information instantly about the flitting of the law book.

I learned that Nancy had taken it from my lowest left-hand drawer the sole time during the previous morning that my back had been turned on my desk; namely, just before she went out to luncheon with Mr. Dibdin.

"But, Nancy, what right had you to steal it?"

"No right—nobody ever has a right to steal, don't you know that?—but a duty. Wilkey wanted it. It was my duty to keep her from getting it, because I wanted it for Peter, and she wanted it only for a distant relative, her cousin."

"You are sure of that, are you?"

"Surely. I told her you kept it in your lowest left-hand drawer; and then I nabbed it myself."

"But, Nancy, why?"

"Well, Constance, I'll tell you why," announced Nancy, suddenly serious as an instant. "You know I told you how that moron of a Brandon Tower—I mean Charles MacIvor, of course; why he worked as a shorthand teacher in a business college, and changed his proud name, is still hidden from me, though I'm going to find it out yet—I told you how he changed the suitcases that time we went to Philadelphia?"

"I thought and thought about how he tried to get rid of me, until I began to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

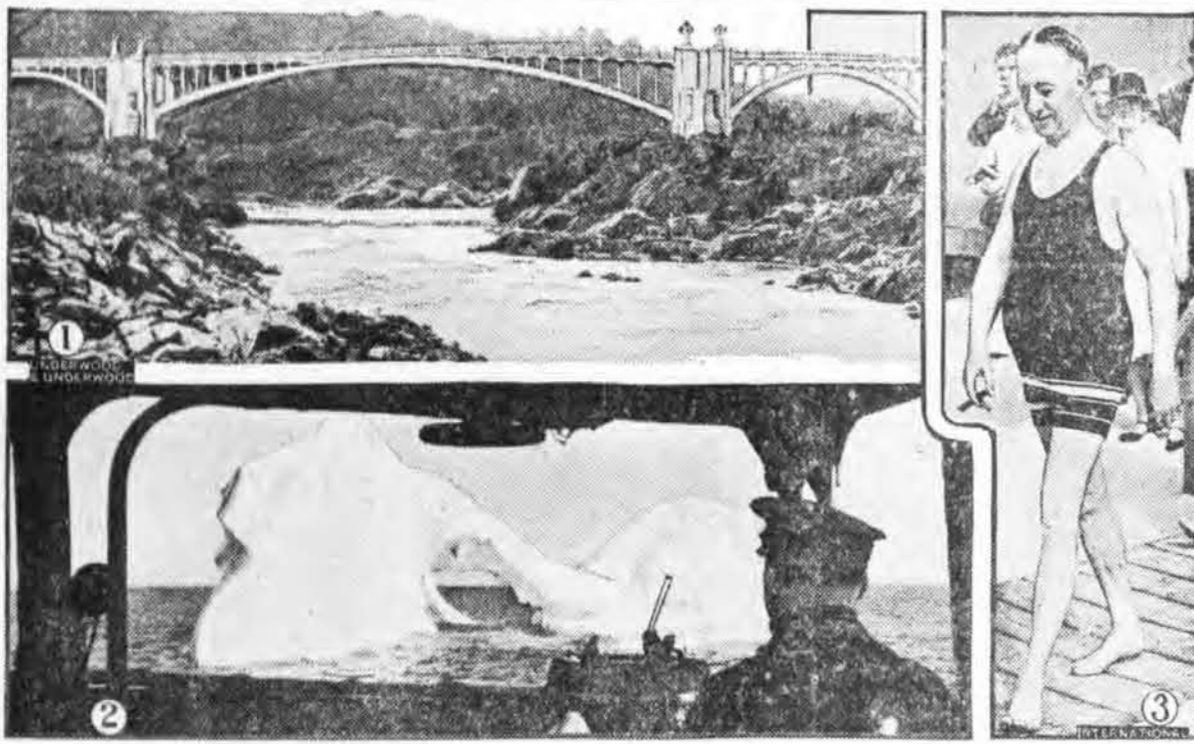

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So I hopped upstairs and took care of it. Now, do you see why, as you say?"

Even Nancy finally paused, breathless. I said: "I don't see why you took the book out of my desk. You didn't know at noon yesterday that Charles MacIvor was Brandon Tower, or that he wanted the book at all—"

"I knew Brandon Tower would be liable to come after that book any time, though," interrupted Nancy, implacably. "Before Peter went to

gan to wonder why he did it. Then I remembered that every time he did it, he grabbed that suitcase. Before we left the house, you know, he changed mine for Peter's, evidently. I came downstairs too fast for him to get out of the door with it. He was going to try to leave the train at Trenton, I believe; if I hadn't come back from the full dinner, he'd have succeeded. And he tried to clear out of the Board Street station. He even waited there until I was going, you know, not aware that Peter had come for me, and doubtless hoping for some last chance to grab the suitcase again; I wasn't the attraction, I'm convinced now."

"Then I wondered what there was in that bag he wanted. Not Peter's clothes, Brandon . . . or Charles . . . or what have you? . . . has stacks of awful ones, himself. But, knowing him, I knew his purpose in wanting it must be bad. And when he popped in through that window last night, and Julia addressed him as 'Charles'—and he saw me, dear one, he saw me, if I did do a disappearing act—I knew he was her cousin, who had been after Peter's book, and had tricked me, and gone around under an assumed name. And I felt sure he was after it then and there. So 1—Architect's drawing of the new toll bridge over the Potomac at Great Falls, Md., on which work will soon begin under authorization of congress. 2—Huge icebergs in northern Atlantic photographed from bridge of the U. S. C. G. Modoc which is out destroying these menaces to navigation. 3—Gov. Al Smith about to take a swim while on a brief vacation at Pocomoke beach, Long Island.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Europe Worried by Prospect of War Between Poland and Lithuania.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WAR drums were beating again in Europe and there was "alarm in the chancelleries" last week. Marshal Pilsudski, dictator of Poland, displayed renewed intention of attacking Lithuania, and the Lithuanian troops were being concentrated at strategic points along the Polish frontier. Germany especially was worried and the Berlin foreign office offered to mediate and warned the Polish minister to Germany.

Pilsudski was quoted as saying: "I'll march into Lithuania's capital of Kovno in September at the latest. If the Lithuanians then form a government prepared solemnly to give up all claim to Vilna, I might be induced, perhaps, to withdraw my troops." The marshal already had ordered his military organizations to meet in Vilna on August 12 and quarters were being prepared there for 40,000 men. The German official fear was that this army, fully equipped, would be used by Pilsudski to carry out his threat and that if the Poles once got a foothold in Kovno their next step would be the invasion of East Prussia, which is separated from the fatherland by the Danzig corridor. Berlin sent a note of warning to Warsaw and also asked France to help preserve peace, but meanwhile the Poles were serving out ammunition to the troops along the Lithuanian border and the police partly closed the frontier. Lithuania is frankly counting on the support of Soviet Russia if open warfare results, and France is tied up with Poland to a considerable extent.

FOR three months Sir Austen Chamberlain and M. Briand, foreign ministers respectively of Great Britain and France, have been working on an agreement to end naval construction rivalry between the two nations, and last week it was formally announced that this had been accomplished. Each government is to communicate to the other at least a year in advance its naval building program and desires, and the fleets of the two countries are to be complementary and not antagonistic. England and France have taken this action as founder members of the League of Nations.

The agreement apparently has to do largely with the size of cruisers and the question of submarine construction, matters on which the United States did not agree with England and France at the naval conference in Geneva. It was said both sides tried to avoid anything that might annoy the American government, but that some objection was expected from Washington on the clause relating to the size of cruisers. A compromise was reached on the question of limitation by the total tonnage or the category system.

It was said in Paris that proposal for another naval conference would be discussed when Secretary of State Kellogg, Sir Austen Chamberlain, M. Briand and delegates from Italy and Japan meet there to sign the Kellogg treaty outlawing war. The British wish such a parity to be called by the United States.

AMERICA'S independent action in granting tariff autonomy to China is having the expected effect in bringing other powers around to the same position. Shanghai reported that France had notified the Nationalist government of its willingness to make a new treaty, that Great Britain was soon to open negotiations to the same end and that the Japanese government had decided to modify its position. Finance Minister Song believed all the powers soon would be in line with the United States and that China would enjoy tariff autonomy by next January.

The fifth plenary session of the Kuomintang or Nationalists' party opened in Nanking. It is considered the most important in the history of the Nationalist movement, and will consider questions of financial reorganization, troop disbandment, and reconstruction, as well as the questions of national defense, the development of a standing army of 500,000 men, compulsory military training in the schools, and the question of foreign policy.

Japan denied that it had forbidden Manchuria to unite with Nationalist China, merely asking it to defer a decision. But whatever it was, the Manchurians decided to ignore it, for they made an agreement by which the three eastern Manchurian provinces will co-operate with the Nationalists with a view to complete union later.

GENERAL NOBLE is still a hero among his countrymen, even if he has lost some prestige with the rest of the world. The unfortunate commander of the Itala and his rescued comrades reached Rome last week and were welcomed by cheering thousands that could not be restrained by the police cordons. There and at all points in Italy on the way to the capital the explorers were warmly greeted and showered with gifts of flowers and wine. Government officials were equally cordial toward them.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, after delivering an excellent address at the unveiling of the monument to Col. William Colville, hero of the battle of Gettysburg, at Cannon Falls, Minn., made another excursion from the summer White House later in the week. Accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, the President visited the iron range of northern Minnesota under the escort of W. A. McGonagie, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway. They saw the big mines at Hibbing, Virginia and other places, the huge Virginia Rainey Lake lumber mill, and other sights of the region and then returned to Cedar Island lodge.

HERBERT HOOVER and Governor Smith both returned from their vacations, the one in northern California, where he found the fishing indifferent, and the other on Long Island, where he had good swimming. While Mr. Hoover put the finishing touches to his notification address his campaign managers carried forward their plans to try to break the solid South. They professed to have real hopes of accomplishing this but were held back somewhat by the question of funds. They feel that about all the money they can raise will be needed in the East and Middle West.

Democratic campaign managers are concentrating to a considerable extent on capturing the farm vote, and George N. Peek, farm leader of the McNary-Haugen persuasion, visited Governor Smith and Chairman Ruskob and told them how, in his opinion, some of the Middle Western states might be wrested from the Republican column. The Presidential candidate has not indicated how far he will go in satisfying the disaffected farm leaders, and the chairman was still studying the equalization fee.

Defections from parties by individuals continue about equal, apparently. Last week Vance C. McCormick of Harrisburg, Pa., former Democratic national chairman, announced he would support Hoover because of the prohibition issue; and Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, retired, declared himself for Smith, saying the Republicans had been dishonest, selfish, inefficient and hypocritical and deserved to be turned out.

William Allen White of Emporia, Kan., who dug up Al Smith's record as a member of the New York legislature and speaker of the house and based a lot of accusations thereon, drew from Smith a spirited rejoinder concerning Smith's record "in so far as they affect his vote on gambling and prostitution, but not his position as the saloon."

CONSTERNATION prevailed in the swift sets of New York when a federal grand jury returned indictments against 138 persons connected with the night clubs of the city for violation of the dry laws. Among the proprietors indicted were Texas Guinan and Helen Morgan. It was disclosed that prohibition agents, working unknown to Administrator Campbell of that area, obtained the evidence by the expenditure of something like $80,000 for liquor and set-ups. Federal Judges Atwell of Texas and Meekings of North Carolina were in New York handling the booze cases with uncompromising rigor. The national capital also had a dose of this law enforcement when Judge Hatfield granted a permanent injunction against Le Paradis, a fashionable oasis, and ordered the premises padlocked for one year.

REDUCED air-mail postage rates went into effect on August 1, the new rate being 5 cents for one ounce or fraction thereof and 10 cents for each additional ounce. The result was an immediate and large increase in the air-mail business that gratified the post-office officials. Plans to handle a much larger volume of business have been made by air-mail contractors, of whom there are 17 operating 25 air-mail routes in the United States at present, who have been transporting more than a quarter of a million letters a day.

JOSE DE LEON TORAL, slayer of General Oregon, testified at his preliminary hearing in Mexico City that Manuel Treje, who gave him the gun used, did not know he was going to kill Oregon, and then went on to accuse Mother Superior Concepcion Acebedo de la Lata of having indirectly influenced him to commit the crime. He said she told him the troubles of Catholics in Mexico would never be over until Oregon and President Calles were dead. The nut took the stand and denied that she had ever influenced Toral to kill anyone.

American Ambassador Morrow speaking before the American Chamber of Commerce in Mexico City praised highly the calmness with which President Calles and the Mexican people have met the crisis in the country's affairs.

CAPT. CHARLES T. COURTNEY, British aviator, and three companions, flying from the Azores to Newfoundland on a world circling tour, were forced down in midocean. Their radio called for help and gave their position and within a few hours they were picked up by the steamer Minnewaska.

WILLIAM S. TAYLOR, central figure in the notorious feud over the governorship of Kentucky 28 years ago, and indicted for connection with the murder of his successful rival for the office, William S. Gobel, died last week in Indianapolis. He fled to the Indiana city when indicted and had resided there ever since, the Hoosier governor not honoring requisition papers for his extradition.

Delphin M. Delmas, who was attorney for Harry Thaw in the latter's murder trial more than twenty years ago, passed away at his home in San Clemente, Calif. Other deaths included those of T. B. Walker, multi-millionaire lumberman and art patron of Minneapolis, and Federal Judge D. C. Westenhaver of Cleveland, Ohio.

BOWLING dam project is now being investigated by the new board of engineers and geologists appointed for the purpose, and Secretary of the Interior Roy O. West told the board members he wished them to inquire into the matter thoroughly and impartially so the administration may determine its policy. He emphasized the fact that they are to regard themselves as entirely independent from the domination of himself or other officials of the interior department and that they are to report with complete disregard to the effect upon the department's policies. The board elected Gen. William L. Sibert chairman and Prof. Charles P. Berkey secretary and agreed to meet again in Denver, where much of the needed data is available in the offices of the reclamation service.

THE Seaman medal for the best record in the saving of life in the field of sanitation and accidents has been awarded by the American Museum of Safety to Herbert Hoover for his "great public service from the standpoint of human values, and particularly for his conspicuous work in the Mississippi flood relief."

Timothy Acreage Much Too Large

Some of Old Meadows Best Abandoned Because of Lack of Demand.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Declaring the hay acreage of the United States is overexpanded at the present time, Edward C. Parker, hay marketing specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, told the twentieth annual convention of the Farm Seed Association of North America, at Chicago, recently, that timothy and timothy mixed hay acreage may be expected to decrease during the next decade.

The least needed and least productive meadows in our overexpanded acreage, he said, are the old timothy meadows in the East North Central and North Atlantic states, and the prairie meadows in the North Central and South Central states. Some of these old timothy meadows, he predicted, will be abandoned or converted into permanent pastures because the demand for timothy in the cities and southern markets is insufficient to absorb all the surplus hay possible of production on these lands.

No Logical Facts for Forecast. "Looking further," Mr. Parker declared, "to that time when the present downward trend of live stock population ceases and an upward trend begins, we have no logical facts on which to base a forecast that timothy acreage will increase and return to its former extent. The hay habits and requirements of the country have changed materially in the past twenty years and when the need for a greater hay acreage does arise we may expect that the increase will be largely of alfalfa, clover, soy beans and other annual legumes."

It should be remembered, however, the speaker pointed out, that there are extensive areas in that part of the United States between the Atlantic seaboard and the Missouri river and north of latitude 36 degrees that are naturally adapted to the growth of timothy and in which the soil areas suitable for alfalfa, clover and other legumes are limited, so that the present timothy acreage will not be supplanted wholly by other hay crops. A material substitution of timothy-and-clover-mixed acreage for pure timothy acreage is highly probable in the years to come, and a substitution of alfalfa acreage for timothy acreage may be anticipated in this area.

New Use for Timothy. "In all areas where soil or climate or both, are unfavorable to legume hay crops, but are favorable for timothy," Mr. Parker concluded, "timothy will persist as an important forage for farm horses, and in a somewhat restricted degree, as compared with former times, for cattle. A new use for timothy as a soil binder and green manure crop may develop also in the Southern states that will augment the demand for timothy seed."

Mr. Parker furnished statistics showing that although timothy hay acreage has decreased in the last few years, the decrease has not been equal to the decreased demand for timothy. Motorization of industries in cities has reduced the demand, and increased production of annual legumes and Johnson grass in the South has curtailed the demand for northern-grown timothy.

Control Bean Beetle by Calcium Arsenate Dusts

The Mexican beetle which attacks beans is a leaf-eating insect and can be controlled with calcium arsenate dusts. Either of the following mixtures is effective:

Calcium arsenate 1 pound
Sulphur (fine dusting grade) 1 pound
Hydrated lime 4 pounds

(or)

Calcium arsenate 1 pound
Hydrated lime 7 pounds

The first application should be made when eggs are found on the leaves, and several successive dustings may be necessary to secure proper control. Use at the rate of 15 to 20 pounds per acre. Take care to dust the plants evenly and thoroughly and to cover the under surfaces of the leaves. A dust gun with an L-nozzle is most efficient in reaching the undersides of the leaves.

Water and Land

In the larger part of the irrigated sections of the United States, according to the specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, "the water has a greater value than the land, there being plenty of land and a very limited water supply. The values of water and land are hard to determine separately. Improved land, and especially land devoted to more valuable crops, often is regarded as having high value; yet were this land deprived of its water it might be valueless."

Cooling Milk and Cream

A simple method of cooling milk and cream on the farm comprises setting the can into which the milk or cream is strained, in a tank of cold water. The contents of the can should be stirred frequently until a temperature of 50 degrees F. or lower is reached. This method, although not as rapid as a surface cooler, does away with the expense of buying a cooler, requires less labor in washing, and the chances for recontamination are reduced.

Beef Producers Can Make Steaks Tender

Pure-Bred Sires Will Solve Problem of Juicy Meat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"Our task is to produce by wise selection, proper feeding, and intelligent management a beef animal, every cut of which will yield a tender, juicy dish," said E. W. Sheets, chief of the animal husbandry division, bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in an address June 23 before a meeting of live stock specialists at Grain Valley, Mo. In his opinion this goal can be attained.

In discussing the results of skillful cattle breeding, Mr. Sheets said: "We have animals today whose chuck cuts will produce a more toothsome steak or roast than a loin or rib cut from cattle less prideful of ancestry and less favored in the feed lot."

Using "The Beefsteak Sire" as the topic for his address, Mr. Sheets explained the difficulty growers have in determining the value of bulls of the beef breeds, and especially in knowing what characteristics a beef sire will transmit to his offspring. The present public demand for beef, he explained, is principally for a few choice cuts representing about 18 per cent of the entire carcass.

"The best results for the least expenditure of money in the improvement of beef cattle," he said, "are obtained by the use of carefully selected, pure-bred bulls. The problem, moreover, is not so much that of obtaining animals superior to any which we have today as of learning to appraise accurately the most valuable among those we already have."

"To learn how to produce and recognize beef sires whose offspring will yield uniformly high-quality steaks and roasts is a task for the government, co-operating with state experiment stations and forward-looking institutions like Sul-Bar farms."

Mr. Sheets' address was supplemented by a new motion picture film, "The Beefsteak Request," made by the United States Department of Agriculture, which shows some of the principal results of the Sul-Bar farms demonstration.

Roster of Grape Lists Hundreds of Varieties

To most of us a grape is just a grape. We know two kinds—sweet and sour. But to the expert in grape culture there are more distinct kinds than there are divisions of the human race. Worden, Concord, Hicks, Herbert, Isabella, Ontario, Ripley, Bronson, Caco, Dunkirk, Martha—the list runs into hundreds of names and varieties, divided broadly into three groups, red, white and blue.

What's more, the Burbanks of the grape arbors are constantly evolving new varieties and just now are enthusiastic over a blue grape, the Sheridan, evolved by the Geneva (N. Y.) state experiment station, which, according to The Farm Journal, is likely to prove a serious rival to the Concord, which until now has been king of grapes.

Incidentally, it is interesting to note how the many varieties grown today have come into being, all evolved from the wild grapes of our primeval forests. The Concord, for example, was brought into the world 78 years ago by one Ephraim Bull who crossed a wild fox-grape with his cultivated Catawba variety.

Seeds of Common Weeds Germinate After Years

Seeds of plants which belong to the same family as the pea have been proved to germinate after 43 years of dry storage. Those members of the family to which the common wild morning glory belongs lived 15 years; seeds of burdock, broad-leaved plantain, wild carrot and common vetch lived eight years, and water hemlock five years. Most of the common weed seeds, however, did not live longer than three years when kept in full contact with the air in a dry place out of the soil.

Agricultural Notes

Trees and plant are living things and must be handled as such.

Alfalfa hay is the key to success with pigs. It may be fed whole in racks with good results.

In the United States there are 81,000,000 acres of idle land fit only for growing trees, that must be put to work.

Soy bean plants are somewhat more tolerant of frost than corn, but otherwise the temperature relations of the two crops are very similar.

It is a mistake to fall to give plenty of attention to the dry cows. A cow when dry does not require as much feed as when milking and yet the character of her feed during the period and the condition in which she is kept has a very important bearing on her milk production during the following lactation.

The Easiest Way is the FAULTLESS way

Nothing to add except boiling water

Every laundress knows that "SOMETHING" must be added to lump starch to make a perfect boiled starch.

The United States Department of Agriculture in Farmers Bulletin 1099, "Home Laundering," says—"The following is a good general receipt for making Cooked Starch:

1 to 4 tablespoons starch, according to stiffness desired
1 cup (1/2 pint) cold water
1 teaspoon borax
1 teaspoon paraffin or white fat
1 quart boiling water

Make a paste of the starch and the cold water; add the borax, the paraffin or fat, and the boiling water. Boil the mixture, stirring it thoroughly, until it is clear, or for about 20 minutes. Remove any scum that forms and strain the starch while hot."

But who wants to go to all that trouble? FAULTLESS STARCH is already prepared. Our formula, we believe, will produce better results than the above. We know the materials we use are the purest we can buy. They are carefully blended to bring out the best results in starching. That is why FAULTLESS STARCH is used in more than a million homes across that "East West" is the FAULTLESS way. One trial will prove it.

FAULTLESS STARCH COMPANY
Kansas City, Missouri.

Faultless Starch is Sold Everywhere

A New Opportunity in Denver

Combine Employment With Study

Earn a living in Denver; spend your evenings earning college credits recognized by Colorado University and state colleges. Courses at the YMCA in pre-law, pre-medical, arts, technical and high-school subjects. Make your home at the "Y." Dormitories, cafeteria, pool. Write for descriptive booklet.

The Director, Denver Junior College
YMCA, SIXTEENTH at LINCOLN

Ultra-Violet Light Not Good for Plants

Extra doses of ultra-violet light are not so good for plants as for animals. It appears from experiments carried on in London by E. M. Delf, K. Ritton and A. Westbrook, working at Kew gardens and Bedford college, England. The experiments were undertaken with the idea of finding the possible effect of the light on plants brought from the South to northern countries where there is much less sunshine. To seedlings and older plants treatments were given with quartz mercury vapor lamps, similar to those given human beings. Germination and growth were retarded and in older plants leaf formation was partly inhibited and flower formation and budding were held back.

Big Moth

"I seen that they now call the midge airplanes moths."

"Then they should name the giant seaplanes behemoths."—Vancouver Province.

A pawnbroker's shop is always a place of interest.

Undress

Maurice Ravel, the French composer, when asked by a New York reporter whether French women or American women dressed the more audaciously, replied:

"It seems to me that women all over the world are equally audacious as regards dress. But we are quite resigned now to the extravagances of post-war fashions. We refuse any longer to be shocked.

"A beautiful girl pruned into her uncle's library. She was going to a masquerade ball, and she wanted him to see her costume.

"How do you like me? she said, continuing to prouette. 'I'm a salad.'"

"A salad," he said. "Splendid. A salad without the dressing!"

Happy Home!

"Haven't you finished mending my sock yet?"

"Give me a minute more, John, I'm doing my darndest!"—Toronto Telegram.

Should Say So

"Have you a thorough education?"

"Have I? Why, I've worn out three postmen already."

BARE TO HAIR

If you want to grow hair on your bald head, save the hair you have, stop falling hair, dandruff, etc., write for literature and information.

W. H. FORST, Mfg. - Scottsdale, Penna.

Shampoo Yourself With Cuticura Soap

Anoint the scalp, especially spots of dandruff and itching, if any, with Cuticura Ointment. Then shampoo with a suds of Cuticura Soap and warm water. Rinse thoroughly. A healthy scalp usually means good hair.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c. and 50c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 33, Malden, Mass."

Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

You mean to say a half-pint of Black Flag Liquid—the deadliest insect-killer made—only costs 25c

"Why, I've been paying 50 cents for other kinds!"

BLACK FLAG

(Money-back if not entirely satisfied)

Black Flag comes in two forms—Liquid and Powder. Both are sure death to flies, mosquitoes, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, fleas, etc.

© 1920, R. F. Co.

Cotton Fabrics for Hot Weather Wear

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Any of the firmly woven printed cotton fabrics might be used for this attractive dress for a hot day, designed by the bureau of home economics. The material used was a soft English print, but zephyr, percale, lawn, or broadcloth, all of which are made in delightful printed patterns, would give good results. The collar line is round and Simple, Easily Made Print Dress.

low enough for warm weather. It is finished with a binding of the same plain material as the tie, and matching one of the colors in the prints. The set-in sleeves are short for comfort, but not extreme. The cuffs and belt are also bound like the neck. Front fullness in the waist is made by a yoke of little tucks. Below the low waistline four plaits give ample width to the skirt. The long flat tie and large pearl belt buttons give a touch of tailored trimness.

Fled From Painted Baboon

A blue baboon has stopped the raids of wild animals in Kenya South Africa, according to latest reports. Elephants, hippopotami, bushpigs and baboons that have done much damage in villages have been completely routed by the "strange creature," which consisted of a baboon that was captured, skinned and painted a bright blue before he was released to try to join his fellows, who fled at his appearance.

Broiled Liver

Liver need not always be fried. One of the best ways of cooking any kind of liver—beef, calf, lamb, or hog liver—according to the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture—is to broil it under the flame of a gas oven. For a family of six, buy about a pound and a half of liver, cut in slices a quarter of an inch thick. Wipe the slices with a damp cloth. Place them on a greased baking sheet and put it under the flame of the broiling oven. Cook from eight to ten minutes, turning frequently. When done, sprinkle with salt and pepper, pour over it some melted butter, and serve at once. Good vegetables to serve with broiled liver are: Baked onions, baked tomatoes, green peppers stuffed with an onion, tomato and bread crumb mixture, spinach, kale, or cabbage.

Knitted Apparel Is Chic

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

THERE'S always something new and fascinating being exploited in the realm of knitted apparel. This time it is the two-piece ensemble of sweater and cardigan. For these to match is a sure sign of chic. The skirt may be of fabric, preferably silk crepe and usually plaited, or it may be knitted. If the latter, it is usually a solid tint, topped with the matching sweater and blouse. The picture conveys the idea.

Striped effects are outstanding in knitted sports clothes this summer. Not only candy stripes as shown here but startling broad two-color stripes. Ombre effects both in stripes and modern patterns are repeatedly shown. In fact, the whole trend in things knitted is to employ striking modernistic treatment both as to color and design. Larger patterns than have heretofore appeared in knitted ensembles are promised for this fall.

A new note is sounded in the ensemble here pictured in that it is trimmed with crepe de chine in solid tint. The idea of combining fabric with knitted is being developed in unusual ways. Note how cleverly the crepe is applied on the front of the cardigan in the illustration, suggesting a diagonal fastening with a tie effect. Not only are fabric trappings employed, but quite a few knitted costumes are embellished with fancy braid bandings. Which goes to show the wide diversity expressed in the knitted realm.

Among charming knitted themes for fall is that of knitted velours. Many a handsome two-piece frock will grace the autumn scene, their skirts of plain knitted velours, topped with knitted velours jumpers, showing an elaborate patterning.

Color effects that will be highlighted include blues, such as middy blue, also light powder and intermediate shades. English violet, gray tones like pigeon and silver-wing, also rose-glow, a beige shade, are also registered among coming important colors.

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

NUT BISCUITS FOR LUNCHEON, SUPPER

An easily made treat for luncheon or supper, in combination with preserves or cream cheese or both, is nut biscuits. These are ideal if served hot, but you will find that any left-over biscuits will not go begging. If your household includes one or two active boys who come around in the middle of the afternoon or at the end of a game of tennis or baseball, looking for a little extra snack to restore the energy they have given out. Make some, too, for the picnic lunch. The directions are from the bureau of home economics.

2 cups sifted soft-wheat flour 1/2 cup ground nuts 4 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 cup milk, or enough for soft dough 3/4 teaspoon salt

Sift the dry ingredients and put in the fat and nuts. Add the milk and stir from the center with a fork, until a soft dough is formed. Toss the dough on a lightly floured board, and press into a sheet about one-fourth inch thick with the palm of the hand. Cut in small rounds, brush the top with butter, and place one round over the other. Bake in a quick oven until lightly brown. Serve hot with marmalade or cheese and jelly.

Soup Without Meat Stock

Soup without meat stock can be made from vegetables and rice water, with meat flavor supplied by salt pork. Those who cook rice frequently will often have on hand a sufficient amount of the water that has been drained from it to make this good soup. The bureau of home economics describes the method of making it:

1 pint rice water 1/2 cup finely chopped celery 1 cup milk 1 cup chopped onion 2 carrots, medium size, grated 1 rounded salt pork, diced 2 lbs. butter 1 onion, chopped fine

Cook the salt pork in a skillet until very crisp and then remove it. Add the butter to the pork fat and then the onions, celery tops, and carrots and cook for 5 minutes, stirring to keep them from becoming too brown. Heat the rice water and milk in a saucepan and stir in the cooked vegetables. Season with salt and a small amount of pepper. Allow the soup to stand for an hour or more to blend. Reheat and, just before serving, add the crisped pork.

AROUND THE HOUSE

An egg, or at least an egg yolk, should be part of the child's daily diet.

For every-day dresses, soft tints are most serviceable; bright colors soon grow tiresome.

Kitchen equipment for the right-handed person should be arranged so that the work proceeds from right to left.

Remove tarnish on brass or copper by applying a mixture of vinegar and salt and washing it off with soap and water.

Some Recipes That Will Be Liked

By NELLIE MAXWELL

This true that when the dust of death has choked a great man's voice, the common words he said turn oracles, the common thoughts he yoked like horses, draw the griffin—this is true and acceptable.

—E. B. Browning.

Sometimes, when tired of meat dishes, here is a good one you will like:

Pea Roast.—Mix three-fourths of a cupful of stale bread crumbs with one-half cupful of cooked pea pulp (cooked peas passed through a sieve), one tablespoonful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of walnut meats finely chopped, one egg slightly beaten, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt, pepper to season, one-fourth cupful of melted butter and three-fourths of a cupful of milk. Turn into a small pan lined with waxed paper. Cover and bake in a slow oven forty minutes.

Baked Halibut.—Arrange six slices of fat salt pork in a dripping pan. Cover with one sliced onion and add a bit of bay leaf. Wipe two pounds of fresh halibut and place over the pork and onion. Mix three tablespoonfuls of flour with the same of butter and spread over the fish. Cover with buttered crumbs and strips of salt pork. Bake fifty minutes. Serve with gravy made from the pan, adding one cupful of milk. Season with salt and pepper.

Fruit Punch.—Pour one cupful of hot tea infusion over one cupful of sugar and as soon as dissolved add three-fourths of a cupful of orange juice and one-third of a cupful of lemon juice. Strain into a punch bowl over a large piece of ice and just before serving add one pint of litchia, a pint of ginger ale and a few slices of orange with one dozen maraschino cherries.

Chocolate Souffle.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and when well blended add three-fourths of a cupful of milk. Bring to the boiling point. Melt one and one-half squares of chocolate, add one-third of a cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of hot water and stir until smooth. Combine mixtures and add the yolks of three beaten eggs, then add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and the whites of three eggs beaten stiff. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes.

Serving Swiss Cheese

These suggestions for using cheese will add variety as well as piquancy to the summer meals, while even increasing the food values:

Devised Cheese Sandwiches.—Cut thin slices of whole wheat bread into two-inch rounds, spread with butter and arrange wafer-like slices of Switzerland cheese on each. Add mustard, paprika, and saute them in a little butter. Serve garnished with water cress or serve with water cress and French dressing as a salad.

Cheese and Grapefruit Salad.—Peel and remove the pulp from a grapefruit, using care not to break the sections, arrange them on very thin slices of Switzerland cheese, petal fashion, border with cress or lettuce. Garnish with a cube of currant jelly or a ripe dressing made with fruit juices.

Cheese which is our most concentrated food has been called hard of digestion; the reason for this is that it is not well masticated or is eaten after the stomach has been well filled with food. Cheese is a food and should be treated as such. It contains no waste, is highly nutritive and will take the place in the diet of all meats. Being compact, it is harder of digestion unless it is eaten with coarser food like crackers which need to be well chewed.

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Homemade Ice Cream

Time to Take the Dasher Out.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Time to take the dasher out of the ice cream freezer—and be rewarded by a first taste of the product you have helped to churn! Evidently these children, like all others, believe there never was a more blissful moment in the summer time than this. What extraordinary sharp ears the neighborhood youngsters develop when there's ice cream being made on anybody's back porch! They look around so hopefully, all eager to help, on the chance of even a small sample of the delectable contents of the freezer.

Here's a recipe from the bureau of home economics for that most popular of all homemade ice creams—fresh peach. In some parts of the country you can make it as early as July and in others as late as October, depending on the state of the peach crop:

Peach Ice Cream.

2 cups soft cream 1/4 teaspoon salt 2 cups single cut peaches 1/2 to 1 tablespoon lemon juice, depending on acidity of peaches 1 cup sugar

Wash and pare the peaches, cut them in small pieces, cover with the sugar and let them stand for a short while. Press the fruit through a colander, so that a pulp is formed. Add the salt, cream, and the lemon juice if needed. Use a freezing mixture of one part salt and four to six parts of ice. Turn the crank of the freezer slowly. After freezing remove the dasher, pack the freezer with more ice and salt and let the cream stand for an hour or more to ripen.

Fairy Tale for Children

By Mary Graham Bonner

"It seems," said the Dream fairies, "that there have been many children lately who have been telling each other unkind things they have heard."

"For instance one little girl said to another: 'Oh, Sally, I heard Mamie say she thought you were awfully mean and selfish. I told her I didn't think so. I stood up for you. I was your friend.'"

"Well, the Fairy Queen heard this, too, and she said it made her very angry and unhappy."

"She said it was far worse of the little girl who came and told such a horrid thing than it was of the little girl who had said it."

"She said that people who handed on mean speeches, and repeated them were about as mean as people could be."

"So we must do something about it. And there have been grown-ups lately who have been saying unkind things to children. We must get to work at once."

So the Dreamland King helped the Dream fairies and they tied up dreams to the grownups which let them see how mean they had been and how they had hurt children's feelings, and they tied up dreams for the children who had repeated mean speeches.

And oh, what a lot of good these dreams did,

Every one in Fairyland and Dreamland was delighted about it. For above everything else in this world the Fairy Queen hates unkind speeches and unkind actions.

They took dreams to grownups who had been saying how much children annoyed them and how restless children were.

And they took them dreams showing

The Dreamland King Was Quite Tired.

how they were as children and how much more restless they used to be than these children of whom they complained.

But mostly they took dream packages to all, young and old, who had been saying mean things about people.

They took dreams which showed a trip taken by a mean speech—how it got in this way and that and caused trouble wherever it went.

The Dreamland King was quite tired out after he had finished his work and so were the Dream fairies.

But they were glad of the work they had been doing and they knew it would do good.

They got Habit to help them, too. Habit had two sides to his nature—one was Bad Habit and the Good Habit.

When he turned one way he was Good Habit and when he turned the other side he was Bad Habit.

Sometimes he turned the Bad Habit side and people got into the way of thinking about each other—really got the bad habit of doing this.

But now he kept his mind on what he was doing and he kept the side of Good Habit turned right.

And the Dreamland King knew he would help so much, too. As the Dreamland King rested upon his Sleepy Cloud Mountain he said to himself: "I think we have had a successful evening."

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

The Slippers of Destiny

By JUNE WATSON

(Copyright.)

RAYMOND found the package on his table when he went up to dress for the Flemings' dance. He had thought that he would give up dancing, but this was a particular occasion, Billy Flemming having a birthday and his wife insisting on a real old-time party.

So Raymond had tied himself to his favorite shoe shop and been fitted to dancing pumps, and the oblong box testified to their arrival at the last minute. Raymond dressed leisurely, and when he had finished he unlocked the oblong box and opened it.

There he stopped aghast. Instead of a pair of shiny patent leather pumps, he found nestled in the white tissue paper a tin, pair of high-heeled slippers, frivolous cloth of gold trilles that glistened in the light.

"Hang it all—of course, I can't wear these," he told the world in a complaining tone. "Of all the absurd mistakes—well, Mrs. Billy, you can count one dancing man out." He put the little slippers away in his chiffonier, smiling indulgently at them as he did so. Some little fluffy thing might be signaling for those very slippers, but she could not help smiling at the sight of his new and shining pumps when they reached her!

"Not dancing?" asked Mrs. Billy, frowning at him.

He told her that, lacking dancing shoes, he had ordered them and had been disappointed in their delivery.

"You are like poor Nellie Warren—she says she received an enormous pair of men's shoes instead of her own—she is wearing an old pair and is as cross as can be. Go and find her and dance with her—fellow sufferers should console each other."

Raymond skirted the dancers and found a comfortable place for wait-flowers. He wondered which girl would prove to be Nellie Warren. He rather liked her name, simple and unassuming, but she would have been splendid in gold slippers if—

He fell to watching the dancing feet of the girls, noting the dainty footgear until his eyes were dazzled with the procession of silver slippers and gold slippers and colored ones. Then he started, for tripping along in perfect time to Bill Flemming's ponderous feet, were a tiny pair of shabby gray slippers—they were emergency shoes, he knew, for they were worn with golden lined silk hose and a golden tissue frock.

The girl herself—he caught a glimpse of a dark, bewitching face, golden lined eyes, a flush of rose color in cheeks and lips, and she was gone. She might not be his Cinderella of the slippers, but she was undoubtedly a wonder-girl.

"Hello!" bellowed Flemming's voice beside him. "Do take care of Miss Warren—Raymond, Arch Raymond—you've heard of him Nellie; can't dance tonight because he hasn't any shoes. I am called to the phone—" He drifted away into the crowd and Raymond smiled down at the wonder-girl whom Fate had sent to him.

"Aren't you going to dance?" she asked as her little feet kept time to the alluring music.

He glanced down at his feet. "I might try—I'm a clumsy beggar at my best," he apologized.

"Such a pity," she said teasingly after a while as they paused for breath; "if you only had the stunning pair of patent leather pumps that came to me instead of my own darling golden shoes—you couldn't dance a bit better than you do."

"Is that a compliment or otherwise?"

"It isn't otherwise!" she laughed. Later in the evening they had danced together so often that people were smiling indulgently at Arch Raymond. His appearance at a dance was a mark of signal triumph for his hostess, and that he should be worshipping at the shrine of penniless Nellie Warren was a social triumph for the girl.

They had supper together, and when the huge birthday cake was cut, it was Nellie Warren who found a ring in her slice. "I've had the most delightful time," she sighed as they said good-night.

"I shall never forget it," he said gravely, "and perhaps, tomorrow you will let me come and bring Cinderella's slippers."

"You had them?" she gasped.

He nodded. "Mine went to you, and yours to me. If I had not seen you—she dropped, for he was saying too much for a short acquaintance.

"I may come?" he asked instead. "Of course—I am staying with the Flemings."

So he went home—back to his rooms where the golden slippers were locked in his chiffonier. Suppose he did take them out of their wrappings and reverently kiss each bit of glistening gold—were they not the shoes of destiny—had not their owner danced her way into his heart? And she—had not their eyes met?

He put the shoes away, his young eyes dreaming.

He knew that love had come at last.

Today's First Duty

The future has the right to some of our thought, but not to all of it. The present should engage our principal attention. The duty of the day, performed to the best of our ability, is the real preparation for the task of tomorrow.—GRIT.

GREAT RESULTS FROM COMPOUND

Read How This Medicine Helped This Woman

Brainerd, Minn.—"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in a newspaper and I have got great results from its tonic action at the Change of Life. Before I took it I was nervous and at times I was too weak to do my housework. I was this way about a year. But now I do all my housework and do chores outside also. I must say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for me and no woman should be without it. I sure can speak a good word for it."—Mrs. JIM SMITH, R. R. 7, Brainerd, Minnesota.

Man's Dignity Dented

When Beard Went Out

Possibly the first big mistake that our generation of men made was to discard whiskers. We committed social suicide with the razor.

Consider the flowing beard as the breastworks of authority. How often it concealed the weakness of mobility of the face, gave poise, steadiness and distinction. A child could not have a beard, neither could a woman. Not even a sultrigette could have a luxuriant one. Every utterance emerging from a beard had oracular weight, mystery, and an Olympian quality making for command.

The naked face was the beginning of our dishonor. The ancients knew better. Dowie knew better, the late King Ben knew better, and the Bible, too, is against it.

Why should a man make himself appear childish and effeminate and hope to maintain status? Can you blame the women and children for concluding that we are all idle, irresponsible of sex or age?—Allan Hoben in the Atlantic Monthly.

INDIGESTION RELIEVED

QUICKLY

Carter's Little Liver Pills

Purely Vegetable Laxative

These little pills taken after meals or at bedtime will do wonders, especially when you have overeaten or are troubled with constipation. Remember they are a doctor's prescription and can be taken by the entire family. All Druggists 25c and 75c Packages.

CARTER'S LIVER PILLS

Radio Foiled Burglar

Between numbers of a radio program the wife of a Lexington (N. C.) physician at her home stepped into another room. There a burglar confronted her. The woman shrieked and the intruder clapped a hand over her mouth. Just then the voice of the announcer boomed out of the radio loudspeaker in the next room. Without stopping to investigate its source, the burglar jumped out a window and was gone.

New Holdup Wrinkle

A brand-new type of holdup man appeared recently near Woodland, Calif. Martin Besefer, rancher, was chugging peacefully through the night in his small automobile when a car containing three men drew alongside. One of them deftly twirled a lasso over Besefer's car and it was dragged into a ditch. The victim's automobile was damaged, stripped of accessories and Besefer was robbed of $10 in cash.

Baby Got Free Ride

E. J. Therrien of Sanford, Maine, was much surprised when a policeman stopped him and called his attention to a smiling two-year-old baby boy on the running board of his car. Mr. Therrien was able to identify the baby. He placed him on a safer seat within his car and took the child home.

Present Handicap

Our memory goes back to the time when a girl might have had the fanciful looking legs in the world and still won a beauty contest.—Ohio State Journal.

Tender, Aching Swollen Feet

In Just Five Minutes Those Sore Tender, Aching Feet Get Amazing Relief.

You probably feel like a lot of other people that about all you can do is just some powder in your shoes or give your feet a special foot bath and let it go at that, but don't be foolish. Make up your mind today that you are going to give your feet a real chance to get well.

Go to any good drugist today and get an original bottle of Moore's Eminent Ointment. The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your foot troubles will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered the way to solid foot comfort.

Remember that Moore's Eminent Ointment is a clean, non-fat, penetrating Anti-septic Ointment that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it is completely satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.