Earl Yearly has been on the sick list for some time.

The board of trustees of the Vaughn district have erected a windmill on the school grounds for use of the school students.

50% COPPER ORE AT BISBEE

Bisbee, Ariz., Aug. 16.—A body of copper ore running 50 per cent has been uncovered in the Shattuck mine of the Shattuck-Denn Corporation. It was officially announced today by President Lem L. Shattuck. The new body is four feet wide, but the length and depth have not been determined. It was discovered in a drift between the 300 and 400 foot levels in ground which only recently has been under exploration.

Nine nails were removed from the stomach of J. C. Christens, a carpenter of St. Paul.

GOV. HUNT UNFAVORABLE TO A STATE PRINTING PLANT

Replying to a letter from a Mississippi commission seeking information on state printing plants, the governor wrote:

"I have your letter of August 7, 1928, advising me that the legislature of Mississippi has appointed a committee to investigate the subject of state printing, including general state printing and the printing of textbooks for public schools. Your letter also asks for information concerning Arizona's experience along these lines and information concerning any legislation that may have been introduced or enacted on the subject.

"Taking your questions in order: Arizona has had but two governors and neither has ever recommended a state printing plant.

"No special committee has been appointed by any legislature or chief executive to investigate the subject, insofar as my knowledge extends.

"Arizona buys text books for the grammar grades of our public schools, which are furnished free to the pupils of the grammar grades, by bid. We have found this method very satisfactory and economical.

"The state of Arizona is not committed to public ownership of industries which can be efficiently and satisfactorily conducted by private capital and enterprise.

"We have plenty of real competition for the state printing in all departments and I am sure that the state of Arizona has received and is receiving fair treatment and good service from the printing industries of the state.

"I am not at all in favor of establishing a state printing plant. This industry is a large taxpayer in Arizona, is treating the state fairly, and I do not think should be subject to state competition in any form, any more than any other industry."

Phoenix, Aug. 16.—The International Investment and Industrial Corporation of London, Eng., filed articles of incorporation with the Arizona Corporation Commission today. The company has a capital stock of $25,000,000 and was incorporated by M. S. Walton and Raymond Allee of Phoenix.

BATHING BEAUTY REVUE SEPT. 3 IN PHOENIX BY JAYCEES

Phoenix, Aug. 15.—A movie contract with the Universal Film Corporation, cash prizes totaling 250, a half dozen trophies, and at least 50 merchandise prizes will be awarded the girls competing in the second annual Arizona Bathing Beauty Revue to be held at Riverside Park here on Labor Day, September 3.

The list of prizes, the greatest ever offered for any feminine beauty show in Arizona, was announced last night by the Phoenix Junior Chamber of Commerce, the organization presenting the revue.

With girls already writing in from every section of the state, and with a pretentious program arranged for the night of September 3, the Jaycees feel confident that at least 75 beauties will compete in the revue.

Samuel E. Calvin, 76-year-old lawyer of Philadelphia, has started on a 1500-mile hike.

U. S. INTERIOR DEPT. MAKING GEOLOGICAL SURVEYS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—Field administrative work of the department of the interior is this summer wrestling with problems that mean millions to the public. Scattered through the public-land states are some 20 stations from which petroleum and mining engineers of the geological survey supervise the development of lands of the United States and of its wards, the Indians. Conservation of mineral resources, wise development and use of nature's heritage, maximum ultimate recovery of mineral deposits under safe mining and producing conditions, are the goal for which these servants of the nation are striving, saving values many times the amount of the cost of their work.

Each monthly report of supervisory operation tells some story of essential values saved and demonstrates conservation in actual operation. While the number of men engaged in supervisory activities is small, their task is stupendous. During the current year minerals recovered from the earth under supervision of the department's engineers will be valued at upwards of $150,000,000, and the returns in rental and royalty will amount to between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

COMMISSION RETURNS $75,000 TO STATE TREASURY

Phoenix, Aug. 11.—In reply to a letter from Gov. G. W. P. Hunt requesting that the Industrial Commission of Arizona return, if possible, a portion of the money advanced by the state to that department, a check for $75,000 was received and credited to the $50,000 advanced for use of the commission fund.

INSURANCE AGAINST AIRCRAFT DAMAGE IS NEW THING

Cwing to the many accidents and attendant damage caused by the fall of airplanes and the dropping of things therefrom, insurance companies are now issuing insurance against damage from that source. The new policies are called Aircraft Damage policies.

The Livestock Situation

Los Angeles, Aug. 15.—(Special to The Patagonian.)—There is no disputing the fact that aged, heavy steers, which made up the majority of the cattle supply a decade ago, are relatively scarce in all sections of the country. This condition is particularly true in the west, where the cattle business is more than ever before on a cow-and-calf basis. It is doubtful if this condition is brought about entirely by the fact that cattle supplies of all kinds are less than normal.

There has been an decided tendency the last 25 years to market beef cattle at younger ages. Old timers will remember that the markets were supplied throughout the year with aged cattle and in sections where a great deal of pen lot feeding was done, it was not uncommon to see steers on the market which weighed in excess of 2000 pounds. Nowadays, the heavy steer, according to official United States government quotations, is an animal weighing from 1300 to 1500 pounds. Many of the western markets receive so few steers in this classification that no quotations are made on such weights.

It was the general practice in the range country, only a few years ago, for the range cowman to carry his steers until they were from 3 to 5 years of age. It was always possible for the buyer to locate large numbers of steers 5 years old and over. Now it is a problem for the feeder who insists on aged steers to locate any large strings of cattle past 3 years of age.

Undoubtedly this is an economic trend in the cattle industry which has been brought about by the demand on the part of the public for relatively small cuts of beef. From the standpoint of the cattlemen, this development is all in his favor. It has been demonstrated that the most economical time to market cattle in the breeding districts is from the calf to the 2-year-old stage. Cattle do not make sufficient gains after that period to pay the range cowman's interest, taxes and other carrying charges.

Moreover, cattle feeders have found that the actual feed costs of fattening an aged, heavy steer are about 25 per cent greater than the costs of fattening the yearling or 2-year-old, while the younger animal will gain practically as much as the older steer. Moreover, the investment on which taxes and interests must be paid is at least 50 per cent greater at the end of the feeding period. At the central markets it is estimated that fully 90 per cent of the demand is for animals weighing from 1200 pounds down to the baby beef classes, which weigh generally from 700 to 1000 pounds. There is still a limited demand for the heavy, aged steers, largely from hotel and steamship companies. However, the latter demand is turning towards the lighter animals, and the heavy steer is actually in the "specialty" class, which for the cattle feeder may well mean the "dangerous" class, from a financial standpoint.

With the present scarcity of heavy steers it seems probable that prices for such stock will be relatively favorable at the markets, but it must be borne in mind that the demand is very limited and even a few extra lots of heavy cattle may prove to be very difficult to cash at a favorable price, with a strong chance of reducing prices on all classes.

The consumer prefers the cuts from the lighter animals, because of less waste, maller bone, more tender meat and the fact that in the majority of city apartment the housewife's cooking facilities do not enable her to utilize heavy cuts.

So, all in all, the trend towards the younger, more quickly developing beef animals, seems to be sound economically. The same condition is true of the pork and mutton trade. Most of our demand now is for lamb. Where there was a good outlet for aged wethers some years ago, the demand for mutton can be taken care of by aged ewes. The popular weight of hogs is around 170 to 200 pounds, whereas a few years ago before the days of lard substitutes, the market topping hog weighed from 300 to 400 pounds, so our meat food industry is in a state of evolution requiring more than ordinary thought and action.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Governor Alfred E. Smith has decided to reply to William Allen White's charges that as an assemblyman he favored the saloon and allied interests.

Fortified by an exhaustive review of his own legislative record, the Democratic nominee for president is preparing an answer, but does not know just when he will make it public.

A denial cabled from Europe by the Kansas editor, that he had "retracted" any of his accusations, put a new light on the situation. In Governor Smith's opinion, and has served to hold up his rejoinder.

In announcing this plan of action the governor, at a conference with newspaper men, mentioned the Republican national committee as having made public White's cablegram. It was designed to correct what the editor regarded as an erroneous impression that he had retracted charges relating to Smith's stand on gambling and commercialized vice.

FOR SALE

For the sake of quick realization, I will sell a group of five claims located on strong veins carrying mixed ores of copper, lead, silver and gold. Several small shipments have been made from these, and a good deposit of mill ore is assured. There are also streaks of finest shipping ore, if a quick shipper is desired. The probable tonnage that can be developed is tremendous. A tunnel from water's edge has been started and has shown 54 inches of shipping ore. This tunnel is now in about 200 feet, and if produced will eventually have a back of 1200 feet, ensuring cheap mining costs. There are two other short tunnels, a few shafts and various cuts and pits. Water runs across this property at the mouth of the tunnel continuously in good years and 11 months in the worst years. A road extends on to the group, and all conditions are good for a shipper or for a mill. The ore runs high in lead in some shoots and in copper in others. An examination by an engineer disclosed considerable ore in sight, amounting to over $50,000. A list of assays from this group gives surprisingly good values, and a mill is unquestionably warranted by the showing. Much of the ore will stand shipment, and further development would be partly paid for by shipment.

I will make a reasonable price on this group, with liberal terms; I will take part of my price in stock in the operating company, and will make it easy for a live number to make the mine pay for itself. The tunnel site is unequalled in this state, and the showing of ore is unusual, to say the least.

Parties wanting to get a going mine with little work are invited to come and see this, and I will take pains to meet the wishes and the means of a buyer meaning business.

Take the Patagonia-Alto road to my house.

About three billions of pounds of copper are now being used in the United States for generation and consumption of electricity, and every additional horsepower of energy requires about 100 pounds of copper, and four billions will be required for projects now under consideration. Many other uses of copper indicate a demand for the red metal that will surely boost the price to the miner. A good time to get your copper mine is NOW. Moreover, the above mine is remarkable in that it does not make you put all your eggs in one basket, and if one metal slumps a little, the profit will come from the others. They have never gone down together.

LIVES LOST IN THREE STATES IN FLOODS

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 16.—After wreaking destruction in the foothills, floods from the latest tropical storm swirled toward the sea tonight in swollen rivers of Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina, and added hourly to the huge damage toll. A dozen cities and towns still were virtually isolated and unofficial estimates of the damage to property and crops, highways and railroads, ran into the millions. Ten deaths have resulted and a score have been injured.

The most acute situation appeared tonight near Lake Lure, N. C., where a dam across the lake of that name was reported leaking badly from the pressure of flood waters behind it. The dam is 10 feet high and backs up millions of gallons of water which would be loosed into the Broad river should the structure give way. A crew of men was laboring feverishly to save it.

Lightning struck her vanity case while Miss Geneva Mayer, 17, of Newport, Ky., was powdering her nose, but she was not injured.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Smith, Resenting Preacher's Attack, Challenges Him to Public Meeting.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
GOV. AL SMITH, Democratic nominee for the Presidency, does not propose to be hit in public without defending himself, and his capacity for self-defense is considerable. Rev. John Roach Straton, militant and fundamentalist pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of New York city, saw fit to declare from his pulpit that Governor Smith was "the deadliest foe in America of the forces of moral progress and true wisdom." The governor promptly challenged the preacher to repeat the statement in his presence in the church during the week of September 2 and give such proof as he might be able to advance, and permit Smith to reply in full. He suggested that the meeting might be conducted by question and answer if the pastor wished. In his letter to Doctor Straton the governor said:

"I do not know why you should make a statement of that kind, but I do know that I will never permit it to go unchallenged. I have spent 25 years in the service of the state in elective office, and the record of that service is open to the public. I do not feel that I should charge you with making this statement for any political purpose, as it was made in a church devoted to the teachings of Christ, one of which was 'Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.'"

Doctor Straton said he would give Governor Smith the satisfaction he sought, and suggested the meeting be held in some auditorium larger than that of his church. He also proposed that he and Smith should tour the South in a series of debates.

After reviewing two New York National Guard regiments in camp at Peekskill, Governor Smith devoted most of the week to his executive duties. Among other things he ordered the officials of Saratoga county to clamp the lid tight on gambling and other forms of vice prevalent at Saratoga Springs. Then he journeyed to Chicago for the Brennan funeral.

IN THE death of George E. Brennan of Chicago the Democratic party, both of the nation and of the state of Illinois, suffered a great loss. Mr. Brennan was national committeeman and, since the death of Roger Sullivan, had been the undisputed leader of the Democracy of Illinois; and for years he was high in the councils of the party. Always frankly a "wet," he was one of Al Smith's strongest friends and most valued advisers. He worked for the nomination of Smith in 1924 and largely brought about the selection of Davis when it was seen that Smith could not win. This year he was among the most determined advocates of the nomination of the New York governor. Mr. Brennan was an example of the best type of practical politician, the kind that makes innumerable friends within and without his party and that plays the game hard but cleanly, keeping his own reputation for honesty unimpaired. He sought office but once. In 1920 he ran for the United States senate and came not very far from defeating Frank L. Smith, Republican, whom the senate refused to seat.

SATURDAY was the big day for Herbert Hoover and the Republicans. The candidate received the formal notification of his nomination in the great stadium of Stanford university at Palo Alto, Calif., and delivered his eagerly awaited speech of acceptance. The ceremony was preceded by a concert and stunts by the students. Mr. Hoover's speech was heard by many thousands who were present, and by yet more millions all over the country who were served by the hookup of 100 radio stations. Party leaders from practically every state went to Palo Alto and for several days before and after the notification the candidate was busy discussing with them details of campaign work. Friday was the fifty-fourth anniversary of his birth and he was the guest of newspaper correspondents who accompanied him across the continent at a birthday dinner at a Palo Alto hotel.

REPRESENTATIVES of 31 dry organizations who attended the Kansas City and Houston conventions as observers made public a report in which they denounce Governor Smith for his attitude on the liquor question and call on prohibitionists to disregard their political or religious affiliations and join in defeating Smith by supporting Hoover.

Drys gained a victory in Missouri in both the Republican and the Democratic primaries. The Republicans nominated Roscoe C. Patterson of Springfield for United States senator and Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis for governor. The Democrats put up Charles M. Hay of St. Louis for the senate and Francis M. Wilson of Platte City for the governorship. Hay's opponent, James A. Collet, is a wet and a protege of Senator Reed.

In the Kansas Republican primaries the farmers scored by nominating Clyde M. Reed for governor over five other aspirants. The Democrats nominated Chauncey B. Little, former congressman.

ONE more attempt to fly the Atlantic ocean from Europe to America failed when Majors Izdrowski and Kubala, Polish aviators, were forced to come down in the water because of a faulty gas feed pipe. Fortunately the German steamer Santos was near by and picked them up. The aviators had started from Paris for New York and reached the vicinity of the Azores before they were compelled to turn back. Their plane was wrecked when it struck the surface of the ocean 60 miles off Cape Finisterre.

POOR Florida was struck by another fierce tropical storm during the week. The central east coast towns received the first blows, and then the storm swept across the state to the gulf, doing vast damage in the south central portion. Houses were unroofed, orchards ravaged and roads made impassable, but strangely there was no loss of life.

Belated reports from Java tell of the destruction of the island of Paloeven, Dutch East Indies, by the eruption of the Rokotindo volcano and resulting earthquake and tidal wave. Six villages were wiped out and the death loss was believed to be about one thousand.

SUBMARINE F1-4 of the Italian navy was sunk by collision with another vessel during maneuvers in the Adriatic and for 34 hours rescue crews labored heroically to raise the craft and save the crew of two officers and twenty-five men. Most of this time the imprisoned men were in communication with the salvagers by telephone, but their messages ceased suddenly and when the submarine was finally hoisted to the surface it was found the entire crew had been killed by chlorine gas liberated when salt water flooded the storage batteries.

IN ONE respect the future of Gene Tunney is now settled. The following announcement was given to the press last week:

"Mrs. George Lauder, Jr., of Greenwich and New York wishes to announce the engagement of her daughter, Mary Josephine Lauder, to Mr. Gene Tunney of New York. No date has been set for the wedding, which will likely take place in New York in the late autumn or winter."

Miss Lauder is listed in the social register and is heiress to a large fortune. She is twenty-one years old and was educated in fashionable schools in this country and France. She is an Episcopalian, while Tunney is a Catholic. The retired champion already has purchased a residence in Greenwich, Conn. His departure for Europe for a walking tour with Thornton Wilder was set for August 16.

CHINESE Nationalists were called to time sharply in a note from American Minister John Van A. MacMurray concerning the continued occupation of American mission property by Nationalist troops. The note said that China has not heeded repeated past protests and declared that "the American mission property in China is treated as though it belonged to an enemy warring with China rather than as the private property of a friendly nation." Mr. MacMurray cited specific instances and declared that this action by the Nationalists had caused an unfavorable impression throughout the world and was painfully disappointing to the American government.

STEFAN RADITCH, leader of the Croatian peasants, who was shot in the Belgrade chamber of deputies some time ago, is dead of his wounds, and observers in central Europe believe there is a chance of civil war in Yugoslavia unless outside influences are exerted strongly. The Croats bitterly resent the Serbian domination over the government of the kingdom and recently set up a separate parliament in Zagreb, their own capital.

THOUSANDS of British men and women made a peace pilgrimage to the battlefields of France and Belgium to mark the fourteenth anniversary of the beginning of the World War. They were led by the prince of Wales, Lord Jellicoe, Lady Haig, widow of the British commander, and other notables.

SIR AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN, British foreign secretary, who has been quite ill for some time, will not be able to go to Paris for the signing on August 27 of the Kellogg anti-war treaty. His place will be taken by Lord Cushendun, appointed acting secretary by the king. Germany is perturbed by Chamberlain's prolonged illness for it had been hoped the question of the early evacuation of the Rhineland could be brought up by Foreign Minister Stresemann at the Paris meeting and settled at Geneva in September. The German press does not like the appointment of Cushendun.

THE Obregon party of Mexico, finding no capable leader in its ranks, has practically disbanded, and its general secretary has announced that he is squarely behind President Calles. This gives Calles a free hand in carrying out his reconstruction program, which includes agrarian laws, rehabilitation of haciendas, recreation of agrarian credit and agrarian banks and the encouragement of foreign capital and immigration. Congress, which is 85 per cent Obregonist, is supporting Calles. It is still considered likely that Aaron Saenz, governor of Nueva Leon, will seek the Presidency in succession to Calles.

Bishop Miguel de la Mora of Mexico City issued a signed statement repudiating the charge that the clergy was responsible for the murder of General Obregon. He said the fact that one Catholic priest and one nun were involved in the crime did not mean that the clergy as a body was responsible. The statement asserted that it was publicly known that the Mother Superior Concepcion Aceveda de la Plata was mentally deranged and that several cases of insanity have been reported in her family.

ONE of President Coolidge's callers at Cedar Lodge on the Brule was Gen. Herbert Lord, director of the budget, who conferred with the Chief Executive on government department estimates. They discussed especially the anticipated Post Office department deficit, which was predicted by Postmaster General New when the interstate commerce commission ordered increased payments to railroads carrying department mail. In the President's opinion this deficit comes because of postal laws enacted by the last congress over his vetoes.

IN THE Olympic track and field games at Amsterdam the United States won first place with a total of 173 points. Finland was second with 102 points, and Great Britain third with 46. In women's competitions Canada stood first with 34 points and the United States second with 28. The Marathon race of 26 miles was won by El Ouafi, a young Algerian metal worker from Paris. Manuel Plaza, a newsboy from Santiago, Chile, finished second. Jole Ray, the veteran American runner, could do no better than fifth.

The Mysterious One

By DUFORD JENNE
(Copyright.)

"BETTY, you must go to the dance—just think—at the Green Lane Inn, with our employers paying the bill!" one of the girls in the room urged.

Betty's dark eyes were wistful, but she shook her brown head. "I'm short a man," she said mournfully. Her eyes brightened. "I might ask the Hermit. He's handsome even if odd."

The girls laughed, and one went on to say: "Why, do it, Betty! There's some dark mystery in his life, and perhaps you could find out what it is and tell us."

"Well, there is," another girl volunteered. "Mrs. McCarty said he has hardly stepped out of his room except in the evening, and then he comes back with about every newspaper published in the city. Go ahead, Betty, ask him. He's sweet on you."

"I happen to be late in getting to my meals and so is he; that's the reason why we meet so often—"

"But not the reason why you sit and chat so long," one of the girls objected. "Ask him, Betty. It's a girl's party, you know."

Deane Norton certainly was something of a mystery, but he was an attractive one. Betty often longed as she chatted with him to tease him out of his solemn self. And she knew, on her part, what his glance at her meant—a glance half tender, half wistful.

According to his usual custom, the "Hermit" was about the last to appear at Mrs. McCarty's dining-room table; and Betty was waiting for him.

His pleasant face brightened as he saw her. "Good evening, Little Brown Girl. I am glad you are as lazy as I am, and always late for dinner."

"So your trouble is laziness—like mine?" she questioned.

He looked at her sharply, as if seeking some purpose she might have in asking such a question. She in turn was a bit startled at the sudden sternness in his face.

"There is something wrong about this man of mystery," Betty told herself. "And I must find out what it is."

So she told him about the dance. His first interest was keen, she could see, then he seemed to remember something.

"I should like to go—I certainly should—but—" He hesitated.

She prodded him. "You are a regular hermit, Mr. Norton. Do come out of your cell and be human—with me for one evening."

"Be human for one evening," he muttered doubtfully. "I'd like to. Yes, I'll go."

She made her preparations for the dance happily. She liked to think of being with him—and the thought gave her independent soul a start. Was she falling in love with her man of mystery?

"This will never do, my dear, this will never do," she warned herself as she dressed.

He was chatty and amusing and interesting on the way to the dance until they reached the main subway downtown; then he seemed to grow silent and uneasy. She was puzzled. When they reached the inn, however, he melted again; and soon she was having one of the happiest times of her life. The girls plainly admired him.

Then came the scene of disaster. He and she were busily chatting at one of the tables when Betty discovered that three men had grouped themselves about them. One flashed a silver badge, and said quietly to Norton: "Eller, we have you. Advise you to come quietly."

Norton started. His face wore a look of infinite disgust, and he said with deep despair: "Oh, d—," then he turned to her. "Betty, I'm due for the police station. Have one of the girls take you home."

Betty's heart was pounding. "What does this mean?"

"This friend of yours is Eller, young lady, a murderer. We have been hunting him for a month, one of the detectives said."

"A murderer? I don't believe it. I'm going with you," Betty said.

"We intend to take you," the officer said curtly. "You may know something."

Norton remonstrated, but out they went through a staring crowd. An automobile whirled then rapidly to the police station, and Betty found herself beside Norton facing a color-eyed officer at the desk. The moment the officer saw Norton he stared and said with some disgust:

"You here again?"

"Don't blame me. Because I happen to look something like that confounded Eller your dumb city cops have arrested me four times. I hid up in a boarding house in hopes that they would nab this Eller, and then I could come out and live like a big man being. I was at a dance tonight, and these chaps spotted me."

The officer at the desk grinned. "Young man, I'll have the commissioner make out a letter for you, so if you are nabbed again you'll be safe. Now, look"—he turned to the detective—"I've had him in here before, and I don't want to see him again. Take them back—and see if you can't learn the difference between a thug and a gentleman."

Betty slipped her hand into Norton's, and she felt his strong hand press hers. Her man of mystery was not much of a mystery after all, but he was her man just the same.

American Demand for Reindeer Meat Grows

Sale of Alaskan reindeer meat to American meat-eaters in increasing quantities is reported by the Interior department. Several thousand carcasses are brought into the country every year, and the meat may be bought almost anywhere in the Northwest, and occasionally is found on eastern bills of fare. One Nome (Alaska) company, recently reorganized with a $3,000,000 capital, owns 50,000 head, and devotes all its attention to exporting meat. There are about 500,000 reindeer in Alaska, of which the Eskimos own about two-thirds. The reindeer industry is one of Alaska's greatest.

Signs in the Sky

A glorified "magic lantern," said to be capable of projecting photographs and signs on to the clouds, is the latest contribution to the science of meteorology.

The device, still in its laboratory form, consists of a powerful searchlight mounted behind a series of lenses and a slide holder. The whole apparatus resembles a cannon and is able to project images for a distance of five miles on a cloud bank.

The image is visible for miles around, while a revolving screen in front of the muzzle of the projector can be used to produce color-changing effects.

Inks in Bookkeeping

The use of red ink by many banks, particularly savings banks, to note interest is simply a matter of convenience, the interest being more easily distinguished from the principal sums by being written in colored ink. Any other color preferred may be used or it is not necessary to use a different color.
