North Africa is New Mecca For Tin Pan Alleyites

Song Writers Get Material from Natives of Morocco

New York City.—Tin Pan Alley has invaded North Africa. You can hear the humming and the strumming of jazz experiments in the remotest stretches of the Moroccan desert. To get novel rhythms and tempos, the songsmiths of America are studying the drum beats which form the basis of the native Moroccan music, studying them in their local habitat.

Since the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique has made Morocco safe and comfortable, musicians have swarmed in by the scores to attend the native dance and music festivals.

"Just what effect this will have on modern music will be interesting to watch," declares Felix Lachezner Heude, official of the French Line.

"The Moroccan is most hospitable and does everything possible to please the foreigners, repeating native dances over and over for the onlooker.

"There is something about the rhythm of these dances that is most gripping, and while I do not think it is exactly the same as the music of the Southern United States, there is a striking similarity. Perhaps at one time all of Africa had the same kind of syncopation. At any rate, Africa is the cradle of modern American music.

"Too Busy" has something of this rhythm. It was the rhythm which the natives oddly enough used both in warfare and in lullabies. And while there are more notes in the scale of African music than there are in our own, their melodies are as easily learned."

ANNUAL EDITION OF ARIZONA REPUBLICAN BOOSTS STATE

The 1929 Midwinter Resource edition of the Arizona Republican has just reached us. It is a wonderfully well illustrated and resourceful newspaper and boosts the state from one end to the other.

This edition, more pretentious than ever before, was published by the Republican Sunday, December 30. It consists of 228 pages, in 22 sections, covering every resource of the state, both in picture and story.

The industries of the state, including mining, agriculture, horticulture, lumbering, cattle and stock raising and the large number of allied pursuits, are described in vivid detail. The attractiveness of Arizona, from climatic, scenic and cultural standpoints, is well told in a manner to engage the attention of prospective visitors and those who may become permanent residents.

The material prosperity and growth and the social and spiritual development of every community in the state is laid before the eyes of Arizonans and the nation by means of this edition. ### MORNING GLORY MINE RECEIVING BIDS FOR MILL MACHINERY

The Morning Glory mine, near Harshaw, which has been steadily developing ore for a long time, has reached the point where a mill can be put on the job of making concentrates and which will be kept busy for an indefinite period on the large ore body developed, which is the largest in the district.

Mr. J. A. Hamilton, general manager of the mine, has followed a program of development which, if adopted by other operators here, would undoubtedly have brought more of our mines into production. His plan was to develop enough ore to insure continued operation of a mill for a long time, thus avoiding the mistake of having expended large sums of money for mill equipment before there was sufficient ore in sight to warrant it.

Recent mill tests of the Morning Glory ore, at the University of Arizona Bureau of Mines have demonstrated emphatically that the ore can be treated and a high-grade of concentrates made.

The mine recently encountered considerable water during progress of the development work, but a three-inch pipe and pump are handling the surplus, which is run into a large dam in the canyon near the property.

The Morning Glory management deserves much credit for the rapid and efficient development of their property. Mining men here are looking forward eagerly to the time when concentrates will begin to find their way through Patagonia to the smelter.

General Manager Hamilton is in Tucson at present suffering from an attack of influenza, but is expected to return to Patagonia soon.

GRAY BROS.' MINE UNDER BOND AND LEASE FOR $100,000

W. D. Gray of Gray Brothers' mine, which adjoins the Three-R copper property, was in town Wednesday, and reported that leasers there had opened up some very rich ore, which is said to run 150 ounces in silver, 50 per cent copper and about $40 gold per ton. The extent of the new discovery is not known, but about 600 pounds of the high grade ore was shot down with one round of holes.

The mine has been sold on a bond-and-lease. It is said, for $100,000.

Besides William D. Gray, O. K. Franklin and Dr. V. A. Smelter of Nogales are owners of the mine.

SELF-DEFENSE, SAYS CORNER'S JURY IN MORROW CASE

Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 4.—A coroner's jury in Judge Charles E. Hardy's court yesterday morning found that the shooting by Border Patrolman Carson Morrow of Damian Marquez was done in self-defense.

The shooting occurred when Morrow discovered Marquez and another Mexican were being placed under arrest as liquor smugglers Tuesday evening. Damian, testimony showed, stabbed Morrow over the heart with a knife and the officer was forced to shoot to save his life. A notebook in Morrow's breast pocket probably saved him from death, as the knife passed through it before entering his body.

CORNSTALK NEWSPAPER

What is said to have been the first edition of any newspaper in the world to be printed on paper made from cornstalks was issued by the Commercial-News of Danville, Ill., one day last month. And it was an edition of 116 pages at that, using 25 tons of newsprint.

The paper was produced in Danville by the Corn Products Company, which has expended $750,000 in the erection of a plant and research laboratory. The process employed is based on that originated by Dr. Bela Dornor, a Hungarian, with suitable modifications resulting from the labors of J. E. Jackson, an American industrial chemist.

While further research and experiments will be necessary to bring production of cornstalk paper to the level of that from wood pulp in cost, the technical problems have been practically solved and fear of a future paper famine through depletion of forests has been eliminated.

How this new industry will benefit farmers of the corn belt is forecast by one of the men interested in the new process, who said:

"We can visualize in the years to come innumerable comparatively small pulp mills scattered throughout the corn belt, making pulp from cornstalks grown on millions of acres now non-producing."

Commenting on the matter, Secretary Jardine declared that with the rapid progress being made in technical and commercial procedures a new day is at hand when many agricultural wastes will become sources of profit, not only to the farmer but to the country at large.

TO INVITE INDUSTRIES

Like many other states, Arkansas has suffered in the past from the enactment of laws which have tended to keep capital out of the state, owing to restrictions and taxation measures which are considered burdensome by industrial leaders seeking new fields of activity.

As a consequence, a special commission on business laws and taxation was appointed to study the whole question, with the result that a report has been prepared for submission to the governor and legislature. This report recommends nearly a score of changes in existing laws with a view to unshackling business and industry in that state.

The result to be sought is to assure capital that it may find in Arkansas a favorable field for investment. In other words industry would be invited to the state instead of being kept out by unfavorable legislation.

Many states are slowly learning the lesson that if they desire to attract new industries they must grant reasonable treatment to those they already have and make it possible for new ones to develop under favorable conditions. A few radicals in a state legislature can do more to drive industries away than all the chambers of commerce can do towards attracting them.

This does not mean that regulatory laws are not needed. The public must be given proper protection and all business institutions should bear a fair share of the public tax burden. But regulations and tax measures should be imposed in a spirit of friendliness and fairness and not as some would have it, in a spirit of hostility toward those who employ their talents and their money in building up the commercial and industrial fabric of the state and nation.

WOULD BAR MR. HOOVER

Herber Hoover will not take his seat as President of the United States if Gustave F. Ebbing of Cleveland has his way. Ebbing has filed a suit with a view to barring Hoover from the office on the ground that he had not resided in the United States for the required length of time before his election.

It appears that Mr. Ebbing has some other ideas not shared by people generally. For example, he has written extensively in an effort to prove that the world is flat.

Probably Mr. Hoover is worrying because Ebbing's contention has been about how to satisfy deserving Republicans who will shortly line up at the political pie counter.

A statesman is a politician who can keep a majority of the voters fooled.

Composer of "Ramona" Collecting Unwritten Melodies of Spain

Mabel Wayne Suggests Change in American Orchestra

New York City.—Mabel Wayne, most famous woman songwriter, is going to Spain to study, at its source, the great wealth of unwritten Spanish music, in the way of folk-lore melodies that have never been scored, but have been handed down from musician to musician for centuries. The musical world is wondering just what effect authentic local color will have on Miss Wayne's future compositions.

In three successful hits, "Ramona," "In a Little Spanish Town" and "Chiquita," Miss Wayne has recorded an American's idea of Spanish music. In "Ramona" she invented the jazz waltz, the popularity of which has caused it to be copied by many other songwriters. In "Chiquita" she caught the romantic notes of the easy rummuring his guitar. This has also started a new waltz vogue.

Whether her accurate ear and inquisitive imagination will be satisfied that she has truly caught the spirit of Spanish music, or whether this visit to many little Spanish towns will provide her with a new interpretation for future compositions remains to be seen.

"Spain is so wealthy in its own music, that unlike other foreign countries, it has taken very little from modern American music," Miss Wayne points out. "On the other hand, we have taken much from the Spaniards. As most Spanish music has been composed for the lute, I am especially interested in hearing it played by native musicians. Perhaps the Spanish vogue will necessitate more strings in American orchestras."

TAKE GOOD CARE OF THE HEN

Whether laying hens are profitable or not depends largely on the care given them, although breeding is a fundamental requirement of good layers. But even the ordinary hen will show her gratitude for good treatment by a greatly increased yield of eggs, according to a poultry expert, who says:

"Take the average farm hen, feed and house her poorly and she will lay only about 70 eggs a year. Give her a chance on good feed in a good house and she will produce 140 or more. But take the same hen and breed her to a pedigreed egg-bred male and the pullet resulting will produce from 150 to 200 eggs a year if properly cared for."

Under ordinary conditions it is not advisable that the average farmer try to raise his own males for breeding purposes because of the great amount of trouble involved, as well as skill required in breeding. It is less expensive and far more satisfactory to buy high-class cockerels from professional breeders.

FOLLOWING LINDY'S EXAMPLE

Add to the aviators' roll of fame the name of Richard E. James. Not that he has done anything that had not already been done, but that he did it so early in life.

Young James is a high school boy of Flushing, Long Island, and is only 17 years old, but he recently completed a solo flight from the Pacific to the Atlantic, thereby winning the $1,000 prize offered by the American Society for the Promotion of Aviation to the first boy under 18 years of age to complete a solo transcontinental flight.

When one considers the hazards of traversing the Rocky mountains and other formidable terrain which stretches across the continent, the feat must be recognized as one to test the nerve

It May Be Urgent

When Your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops bring contentment. No harm done for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell first Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.
 He treated constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach, and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of senna and other mild herbs, with pepsin.
 The simpler the remedy for constipation, sour stomach, and other indispositions, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?
 A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. B. B., Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

PARKING

Placing a limit of time on the parking of cars in business districts is a recognized means of keeping traffic moving and at the same time giving the merchant a fair show with his prospective purchaser.

Parking regulations are designed to help clear the streets and make traffic move. Streets are much more than mere traffic ways.

There is food for thought on the intricate variations of traffic demands, contained in a statement made in a recently published volume of traffic conditions. Your errand is only one of, perhaps, hundreds in the same area.

"In addition to the functions it performs as a highway in accommodating the movement of vehicles from place to place, the street is the right of way that affords access to and from all abutting buildings for the purposes of business, residential use, policing, scavenging, and fire protection; it is also the public reservation within which are placed the services of water, gas, electricity and drainage that buildings require for the purposes of use, health and safety; and it is the space that insures, or should insure, to abutting buildings their principal and certain means of obtaining light and air."

The habit of slipping out at the expiration of the time limit, and technically meeting the requirements of the law by moving your car a car's length, or running it around the block, is a childish and selfish method of dodging the law.

Only by cooperating with your community can you keep any parking privileges on busy business streets.

SILVER-LEAD-COPPER MINE FOR SALE

The Pittsburgh mine, located on Bond Canyon, two miles from the Alto Postoffice, at an elevation of 5500 feet. The group consists of 16 claims, (surrounded by a number of veins, carrying valuable ore deposits, many of which have been worked in the past. The main lode at least has been known since the days of the early Spanish miners. The following description is to be found in the U. S. Geological Survey bulletin on the Santa Rita range:

The topography is rough; the country rock is diorite, and the deposits are found in a 9-foot quartz vein which dips 87 deg. N. The quartz in general is stained with iron and manganese and a little azurite and malachite; the ore minerals it contains are galenite, pyrite and chalcocite. Some galenite occurs in the surface ore, but sulphides are not abundant above the 70-foot level. From that level down the ore consists largely of galenite in a siliceous brecciated gangue, and there is a marked increase in chalcocite in the lower part of the mine, where the ore contains also some tetrahedrite.

The ore lodes are found in the Santa Cruz Batholith, and conditions are ideal for a great mine. There are places on the surface where the main lode is over 25 feet wide. This group has a mile and a quarter of this big lode.

The conditions as set forth by the Survey are changed somewhat to the better by the development I have made since I bought the nucleus of the present group. The shaft, equipped with a steam hoist, is now down 300 feet, with a drift on the 125-foot level; a tunnel about 250 feet long, showing a good class of silver ore, making a little water. The upper tunnel shows a 20-foot lode of shipping grade of ore. A lower tunnel, now about 500 feet long on the lode, has passed through several feet of quartzite ore, which is now making late gray copper carrying high silver values in addition to the lead and copper. The gold content is increasing in this work, and the width of the work is all ore, of a mill grade with bands of high grade. The various works put in sight about 20,000 tons of ore that is estimated to run rather high for mill ore, an excellent grade for a home smelter. Being silicious, it would stand water concentration, and the recent broadening of flotation would take care of the carbonates, which are an important asset. A little work would make this mine a splendid producer, and with proper equipment a lucrative investment.

Good road runs onto the ground, and a truck can approach the main works. Good water, an denough in the canyon for a mill.

For a noperator who wants a mine that can be put in production in short order and at lowest possible cost, here is your restin place. I would much prefer to take a partner in making this a great mine, and a moderate sum will do it; but as I have not seen any disposition on the part of any one to make me rich, I have reconciled myself to sell at a low price and the easiest possible terms. Any operator will realize that 20,000 tons of ore is a win sight is worth far more than my price, which, in fact, will be ridiculously low, even on the present showing.

Come up and see it, and bring your bank references so that we can conclude a sale without delay. Take the Patagonia-Alto road right through. JOSIAH BOND, Alto, Arizona.
